I'm thinking of the depressed people ... not because of some event of circumstance of life but who live not really knowing what it is to have any joy in life ... who are really just existing ... not living. What terrible waste!

I'm thinking of the alcoholics ... nearly 10,000,000 of our people ... sick and not even acknowledging their sickness ... not really functioning themselves and adversely affecting the lives of the other 300,000,000 people they live with. What terrible waste!

I'm thinking of lonely people ... people wishing ... regretting ... holding onto dreams that have crashed ... what a terrible waste!

Some personal analysis of our own lives can lead to new determination ... new uses of ourselves. Food waste is bad enough. The waste of human personality is infinitely worse.

WJDA Looks Ahead To Night-Time Broadcasting

By MARY ANN DUGGAN

On the eve of its 28th anniversary, radio station WJDA is looking ahead to further growth and possible night-time broadcasting.

Launched Sept. 13, 1947 as a sunrise to sunset station, WJDA must sign off the air when the sun sinks below the horizon.

During summer months, that means as late as 7:30 p.m. but during long-night, short-day winter, that means as early as 4:15 p.m.

Young James D. [Jay] Asher Jr., son of the late founder James Dudley Asher [JDA, hence, WJDA] admits it is "not conceivable" the station could expand to round-the-clock coverage. Asher, major stockholder, president, treasurer and manager of the station since his father's death in 1973, told The Quincy Sun:

"We'd like to be a full-time station. It would give us a chance to provide local basketball and hockey coverage, for instance. We want listeners and we have to give them a reason to tune in...Yes, it's not inconceivable."

Expansion to evening broadcasting would require an engineering study and an application to the Federal Communications Commission [FCC], Asher said.

"There have been recent relaxations in FCC rules and we're always looking into the possibility of expansion."

Projecting other feasible expansion plans, Asher, 28, envisions the some-day addition of sister station number three. WJDA already has a twin in Salem - station WESX which young Asher used to man.

While concentrating on the present, Asher said he is at the same time wedded to a proud and successful past, perpetuating broadcasting traditions and standards established by his father.

Some of those standards and traditions honored still at the station today includes a ban - now mandated by law - on cigarette commercials, a self-imposed prohibition on beer commercials [allowed by law], and a tacit avoidance of what used to be "rock 'n' roll" in the days of Jim Asher and what has now evolved into the psychedelic rock of recent years.

"We try to be a family station," Jay Asher explained. "We are going into people's homes where there will be children. Cigarettes are not a healthy influence. As far as music goes, we play a lot of lively, contemporary music. We try to keep it light and lively and in good taste without the real rock 'n' roll."

Asher also noted adults are often more receptive and tolerant of the jazzier, modern music hummed by the teenagers than the teenagers seem to be of the more mellow and melodic favorites of their elders.

The appeal and success of WJDA - a station the ill-named "experts" predicted would fail within six months of its birth - is a credit to those manning the microphones, Asher says. In words hinting not of boastfulness nor conceit but of studied and objective pride, Asher said:

"The single most important facet of WJDA is our local news and information. Music - we have the same as the other stations. Our announcers are just as qualified as you'll find anywhere. All of them - almost without exception - are involved in the community...When it comes to the South Shore, our people know what's going on - from lost dogs to birthdays to city politics."

One of the most popular segments on the station is "Party Line" hosted by Program Director Win Bettinson who will mark his 23rd year with WJDA this month. For callers, "Party Line" is a welcome half-hour when all can air views on a limitless array of topics. But for the announcer - and many at WJDA have had a turn hosting the show - it's a grueling 30 minutes. With a smile, Asher said:

"'Party Line' is probably the most unique of our programs. It's a fun half-hour for everybody but the moderator."

Chief Engineer Fred Lane greets early risers with his 6:15 a.m. wake-up show followed by Bettinson and "Breakfast With JDA" at 6:30 a.m.

During the morning hours until 12 noon News Director Herb Fontaine, a 20-year WJDA veteran, mans the news microphone with Commercial Manager Ken Fallon - a familiar WJDA voice for 20 years - reporting the latest sports scores.

After waking up and breakfasting with JDA, listeners can enjoy a "First Cup Of Coffee" with Jerry Howard, voice of the well-known "Slim Pickens" character and moderator of the afternoon South Shore Hour spotlighting up-coming area events.

During the afternoon broadcasting hours, Joe Kenney and Roy Lind share news announcing honors. Kenney - another veteran totalling 20 years of service to the station - delivers daily commentaries including "Today In Business", and Lind moderates "Voices In The News".

Other afternoon highlights include "Stork Club" and "Tonight on the South Shore" with Mary Johnson and "Community Spotlight" with Win Bettinson which ranges wide over the news spectrum, touching upon civic and service events as well as interviews with visitors to the City of Presidents.

Weekend news woman newly joining the WJDA staff is Mary Murray. Another newcomer, Gene Dubrow, has moderated a gamut of WJDA programs while Charlie Ross, grandson of late Quincy Mayor Charles A. Ross, broadcasts many play-by-play accounts of local football games.

Not manning microphones yet nonetheless an integral part of WJDA are Account Executive Earl Hannafin - marking 20 years with the company in 1976 - and Technician Bill Malcolm, part of the WJDA staff since 1968.

Young Jay Asher himself began his career at WJDA around the age of 14, when he emptied wastebaskets, painted and did "all those things 13 and 14 year-olds do."

But Asher's memories of the station - and of his father - stretch back even farther. An early-established tradition meant rising before the dawning of Christmas morning to accompany Dad and sister to the station to wish listeners a happy Christmas. Asher recalled:

"When I was old enough to read, my father would let me do Christmas commercials. And once I remember my sister sang 'Jingle Bells'."

Since those days, Asher worked as a control room technician throughout his college years and later returned to the area to man WESX in Salem after a career in insurance. He began to largely handle the management of WJDA early in 1972 when his father's health started to fail.

Now, as WJDA enters its 29th year, the station's young manager wants to combine continued pursuit of broadcasting excellence with a never-waning respect for his father's philosophies and ideals which gave birth to WJDA. Asher said:

"We try to become more efficient every year and stay current with the industry...My father was an extremely ethical businessman with a moral approach to things - I hope we're not slipping."

PROGRAM DIRECTOR Win Bettinson ponders a caller's opinion as he hosts the morning "Party Line" program, a unique half-hour devoted to fielding viewpoints of listeners.

JERRY HOWARD, voice of "Slim Pickens", checks wind, barometer and temperature readings which he translates into his country-style "fog on the bog" forecasts.

MARY JOHNSON calls births at Quincy, Milton and South Shore Hospitals for her "Stork Club" broadcast.

NEWS DIRECTOR Herb Fontaine, a familiar WJDA voice, looks over the Associated Press teletype for news of the nation and the world. United Press International service also augments the station's news coverage.

Quincy 'Y' Indian Guide Program Enrollment Starts Sept. 15

The Quincy YMCA's Indian Guide Program will hold an enrollment campaign Sept. 15, 17, 18, at the "Y" at 7 p.m.

"Y" Indian Guides is a program for fathers and sons (ages 6-8 years). Together they participate as big and little braves in small units consisting of 4-7 fathers and sons known as tribes. Its purpose is to multiply the number of things that fathers and sons can do together.

As the name indicates, the program of "Y" Indian Guides is based upon the lore of the American Indians. Tribal meetings are held bimonthly in rotation in the homes of the braves. The tribes are given maximum freedom giving boys full opportunity to develop their initiative under the guidance of their dads.

Some of the activities included in the program are trips, handicrafts, story-telling, study of Indian culture, songs, games, picnics and camping.

After the meeting both fathers and sons are invited to attend the tribal meeting nearest them. This enables new enrollees to view an individual tribe in action.

Nation officers of the Massachusetts nation include: Robert Pitts, Nation Chief; Paul Fahel, Nation Medicine Man; Al Julian, Public Relations Man; Gerry Mullin, Wampum Bearer; Ken Boyce, Fox Clan Chief; Edward O'Leary, Fox Clan Medicine Man; Fred Spring, Bear Clan Chief; and James Molloy, Bear Clan Medicine Man.

We've been telling you about some of the cost saving research and development projects we've been doing. Beginning next month we'll pick 100 families to participate in the nation's first major residential experiment of its kind. An experiment that will use the sun to help heat the water in your home.

Research has already shown that solar energy to heat water is a proven reality. What we hope to learn is how efficient it really is. How much energy will it conserve? Will it allow us to keep costly construction down? How much money will you save in hot water costs? And will the savings offset the cost of the equipment?

The experiment will last one to two years. The money you save in the long run could be significant. The energy we all save could be substantial.

Next month we'll be telling you more about this major experiment and how 100 families can join us to make it work.

Rev. Daniel Allen Preaches First Sermon At Adams Shore Church

Rev. Daniel D. Allen preached his first sermon Sunday as minister of Adams Shore Community Church, 175 Albatross Rd.

Rev. Allen succeeds Rev. Kenneth Miner and interim pastor Dr. Robert Brightman.

Rev. Allen and his wife, Betty, served as missionaries in Northern India 20 years, from 1949-1969. Before his assignment in Quincy, Rev. Allen headed the Wesley United Methodist Church in Warehouse Point, Conn., a community north of Hartford.

Calling Adams Shore "a unique community", Rev. Allen said he and his wife are both pleased to be living in a seaside community. He said:

"We like being near the sea. I'm a sailboater myself. I don't know if the bishop knew when he assigned us, but..."

Encouraged by the kind welcome of Quincy residents, Rev. Allen said:

"We're both very impressed by the warmth and friendliness of the people."

Rev. and Mrs. Allen have four children, Janet, 24, a graduate student at Brigham Young University in Utah, Mrs. Martha Krautter of Galveston, Tex., Kenneth, 20, a junior at Yale University, and Eugene, 16, a

REV. DANIEL D. ALLEN sophomore at Quincy High School.

Both Rev. and Mrs. Allen want to become as involved as possible in the Adams Shore community and Quincy at large. Mrs. Allen, who grew up in India as the daughter of missionaries, said:

"We'd like to become active and involved in the community. Wherever we're needed we'll go."

Speaking of his new 180-strong parish, Rev. Allen said:

"It's a small church and that's the way we like it. We can get to know everyone."

Bethany Choirs Record Album

Four choirs of the Bethany Congregational Church have recorded an album, "Bethany Sings".

The album was produced under the direction of Lambert W. Brandes, organist and choir director at the church.

The four choirs performing are the Chancel Choir under the direction of Brandes, the Cherub and Junior Choirs directed by Lois Brandes, and the Youth Choir directed by Edward A. Bohlken.

Included on the record are two solos by Jean Bettinson a duet with Jean and Winslow Bettinson, and a Bach prelude for organ performed by Brandes on the church's four-manual organ.

SPECIAL NEEDS

OHS Bus Ed.—1st Floor—M-T-W-Th—6:30-9:30 PM
The Adult Special Needs Center is unique in every way. It involves many kinds of life and educational experiences, such as: Reading for everyday living, Survival Math, Using a Calculator, How to Choose a Candidate in an Election (National, State, City, or Town), Preparation for Driver's License, Cooking, Sewing, etc. These experiences will be organized for each student so that when he leaves the program he will take with him something he did not have when he started.

The Center will service adults from the South Shore area. The majority of students will be those who have attended special education classes, either in public or private sector, but many of the students will be those who have dropped out of school because of learning difficulties caused by perceptual dysfunctions. Some of these students may have received a high school diploma, but experienced extreme difficulty with learning and are having problems coping with life and furthering their education.

The goals of the program are in three areas:

- (A) Development of a positive self-image for each student:
 1. Each student must experience success in some area or activity.
 2. Build on skills that already exist.
 3. Create a positive learning atmosphere.
 4. Provide opportunities for group and/or individual counseling.
 5. Provide opportunities for development.
 - (B) Improve Occupational Skills:
 1. If student is not working, develop skills that could lead to employment.
 2. If student is employed, improve skills that could lead to up-grading of job.
 3. Initiate contact with employer or counselor.
 4. Develop skills in food service preparation for employment.
 - (C) Provide alternative approaches to development of functional skills:
 1. Identify learning style and build a program around it.
 2. Proceed from what the student knows to what he needs to know.
 3. Use appropriate materials that fit the student's style and needs.
 4. Use community resources as learning stations.
- FREE OF CHARGE

3 Share $1,500 In Mayor's Scholarships

The Mayor's Scholarship Committee announces the recipients of $1,500 in scholarships for graduate study in the arts and sciences.

They are:

Anne Marie Arey, 15 Minihan's Lane, West Quincy, at the University of Massachusetts Medical School, $500; Eric Johnson, 137 Sea Ave., Houghs Neck, at the University of Massachusetts Medical School, $500; and John Munson, 54 Andrews Rd, Wollaston at Faculte Libre De Medecin Du Lille, France, $500.

The $1,000 Mayor's Scholarship is given annually to Quincy residents who are entering or presently in graduate work in the arts and sciences.

Funding for the scholarship, first established in 1973, is made available by the Sons of Italy, Quincy Lodge 1295.

"Because of the number of qualified applicants this year," said Mayor Walter J. Hannon, "the Sons of Italy generously agreed to provide an additional $500 so that the committee could select one more recipient."

"As a result, we were able to award scholarships of $500 to each of three medical students, who grew up in Quincy and are now pursuing a profession which can make positive contributions to a community.

"The Sons of Italy should be commended for their generosity in making this scholarship possible, and for providing the financial assistance needed so that Quincy students can continue to pursue higher education and definite goals in life."

Members of the selection committee were: in addition to Mayor Hannon, Ward 4 Councillor James Sheets, Richard Haines of the Guidance Department of the Quincy Public Schools, Venerable John Fantucchio of the Sons of Italy and Gordon MacPhee of Quincy Heritage.

A BLESSING IN DISGUISE?

To The Citizens of Quincy:

While it was disappointing to lose the last election by only 324 votes, maybe it was a blessing in disguise because since then I have knocked on 2,500 doors to discuss your feelings about the Quincy School System. I'll be a better school committeeman because I've heard what's on your mind.

WHO CARES FOR OUR YOUTH?

HANNON...

The youth of Quincy are the citizen leaders of the future. That's how Mayor Walter Hannon feels about the young people of our city. Through his leadership, the Quincy Youth Commission was established. Now, there are delinquency prevention programs, special homes for girls who need guidance, and jobs for teenagers.

Walter Hannon is a mayor who cares for our children and youth. What we do for kids today will benefit our city tomorrow.

The youth of Quincy believe Mayor Hannon. You can believe him, too. Primary election day is September 23rd. Be sure to vote! It's your right — and obligation!

You Can Believe Him!

Brownell Criticizes Loss Of Funds For Area Seniors

Rep. Thomas F. Brownell has requested a meeting with State House officials to halt what he calls "blatant discrimination" against the senior citizens of our area.

In a letter to Alan D. Johnson, State House legislative secretary, Brownell said he was "deeply disturbed" at "the rumor" Quincy and other Norfolk County communities will not receive Title VII funds for a nutritional program for the elderly.

Brownell said the Brockton area "is targeted to receive the funds that Quincy and other Norfolk County municipalities should be receiving." He noted, too, the Brockton area has already received "substantial and significant funding" under Title III.

Requesting to meet with Johnson and Secretary of Elder Affairs Rose Claffey, Brownell said:

"When you consider that neither Quincy nor any other Norfolk County communities have been allocated any federal funds under Title III or Title VII, one can only conclude that our area is the victim of political power plays."

Rep. William Delahunt joined Brownell in urging a meeting of officials and suggested Gov. Michael S. Dukakis attend any scheduled conference.

In a letter to the Governor, Delahunt said:

"It is important to note that the Council on Aging has a proven record of success in operating a prepared and served on-site meal program...The continuation and expansion of this program would be a great benefit to both the elderly and the taxpayers of the city of Quincy, as it will remove the present cost of the meal program from municipal expense."

Citing Quincy's loss of over $2 million in cherry sheet funds this year, Brownell said without the federal funding, the city will not be able to subsidize the nutritional program for the elderly from local tax dollars.

Representatives of Quincy's Council on Aging as well as Norfolk County senators and representatives are expected to attend the meeting called by Brownell.

THE CAMPAIGN TRAIL

Harold Proposes 'Complaint Time' At Council Meetings

Paul D. Harold, candidate for City Councillor at-Large, has proposed time be set aside once a month at City Council meetings to hear citizen complaints.

Speaking at a recent poolside gathering at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Papile of Harkins St., Quincy Point, Harold said:

"Such a 'gripe night' would allow the average citizen to confront councillors and city officials and to get some straight answers. Too many times citizen complaints are brushed aside. From my experience, these people are not looking for anything special or extra, but rather what they are paying their tax dollars for."

By allowing such confrontation before the public and the press, Harold said the average citizen's voice would be greatly amplified. He said:

"When city services break down, citizens are sometimes at wits end. The red tape involved in straightening out the problem can only be cut through by elected officials. But, unfortunately, some officials rate constituent service as of secondary importance.

"If a councillor has been conscientious, he will have nothing to hide. He will have a chance to explain what follow-through he had done."

School Committee Must Help Children Find Place, Says MacIntyre

Marie MacIntyre, School Committee candidate, says the School Committee must help children find their place within the community.

Addressing a group of supporters at a recent luncheon held at Walsh's Restaurant, Miss MacIntyre said:

"We must utilize the resources we have in our communities and have the children explore their neighborhoods. Children must learn who they are and where their place is in the community, as well as what opportunities are available to them. That's one job for the School Committee. It is an important one."

City Government Costs Up 42% Since 1972 Says LaRaia

Mayorality candidate Joseph J. LaRaia told residents in Wollaston and South Quincy the cost of government in the city has increased 42 per cent since 1972.

"This percentage represents a $21 million increase in the city's budget, Councillor LaRaia said.

LaRaia addressed neighborhood residents recently at the home of Claire Bartkus, 64 Summit Ave., Wollaston. Later in the day, he repeated his comments to about 125 persons at the home of Peter Cedrone, 62 Cedrone St., South Quincy.

"Since December of 1972, the city has received over $7 million from the federal government which represents about $9 on the tax rate for each of the past three years," LaRaia said.

"Without these revenue sharing funds," he said, "the tax rate for each of the three years would have been in double figures."

"Proof of the effect revenue sharing has on the tax rate was in 1972 before revenue sharing was implemented in the city," he said.

"It was in 1972 during the mayor's first year in office that the tax rate rose $13 and only after one third of the city received increased assessments on their homes."

Good Study Health Habits Needed In Kindergarten Says Toland

Mrs. Patricia Toland, candidate for School Committee, believe good work and study habits should be established in kindergarten.

Speaking at a coffee hour held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Lenahan of 56 Monroe Rd, she said:

"Efficient use of time and a desire for quality work can be instilled in the primary child. Considering the fact that each child may learn new material at his own rate, I do feel some objective standards are still useful. Young children should be taught to manage their time so that they learn efficiently.

"Also, they must be aware that the quality of their work is important. It is better to take the time to ask questions and correct errors than turn in hurried work.

"The media centers can be fertile ground for training our upper elementary children in good study habits. Here, they learn books can be a source of knowledge as well as pleasure. Reference skills are an invaluable tool and the sooner a child becomes competent in the use of the media center, the faster he can progress in his learning.

"The media specialist can serve as a resource person who guides the youngsters in their search for knowledge. Then the student should progress to seeking out and using new material independently.

"If the primary child is taught good work habits and the upper elementary child learns good study patterns, then the student entering junior high should be better equipped to deal with this new environment."

Operach Urges Halt On Hiring Unneeded Educational Consultants

School Committee candidate Paul Operach has urged a halt on hiring unneeded educational consultants who he says duplicate the role of teachers and parents.

Speaking at a recent cookout held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Operach, he said:

Louis Mastroianni of 33 Trask Ave., West Quincy, Operach decried the "spending approach" to educational issues in Quincy, saying this approach "solves nothing." He said:

"What is necessary in Quincy is an accounting of all programs and services. The hiring of educational consultants, studies or private learning groups has taken money and educational rights away from teachers and parents. There is no need to hire such groups when parents and teachers can readily identify problems and make positive recommendations.

"This positive approach must consist of a parent and teacher effort rather than a 'grand educational design' that is costly educationally and financially. Money for needed programs and services could be better spent in the community by those who deal with the educational problems at the student level than a highly paid, private consultant or group.

MacCauley Cites Harmonious Labor Relations In Quincy Schools

The Quincy School System has been spared the labor unrest which has resulted in strikes or threatened walkouts in many Massachusetts school systems, according to Quincy School Committeeman, Francis X. McCauley, candidate for re-election.

The Quincy School Committee and the Quincy

Education Association [QEA] signed a two-year agreement last spring, well in advance of the Sept. 1 contract deadline, McCauley said.

For the past several years, the Quincy School Department and the various bargaining units representing the school system's employees have been negotiating two year agreements instead of the usual one year pact. This method, along with a reasonable approach in collective bargaining by the school administration, the school committee and the employees' associations has resulted in harmonious labor relations, McCauley concluded.

McCauley delivered his remarks at a house party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Casey, 63 Phillips St., Wollaston.

Discipline Should Have High Priority Says Mullaney

At a house party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William O'Connor of 146 Stoughton St., Houghs Neck, Thomas Mullaney, a candidate for the Quincy School Committee told the 30 in attendance.

"I have always been a strong believer in discipline. In my opinion a school that does not have its discipline problems under control is a poor school. The principal and teachers must be able to command and hold the respect of the students. In situations where this does not occur the learning environment is poor and every student in the school suffers.

"While I agree that discipline must start at home I will not accept the theory that there is nothing the teacher or administration can do with students who are unruly and disrupting classes.

"As the elected body that sets policy I feel the School Committee must make it very clear to the administration that discipline has a very high priority."

WHO

ON CRIME?

HANNON...

Don't be fooled! Cracking down on crime takes a strong Mayor. And that's what Mayor Walter Hannon has done for Quincy.

Mayor Hannon won't tolerate a climbing crime rate. He wants the streets safe for you and your children. That's why there are more policemen patrolling our streets and taking care of our city.

When you go to the polls on Primary Day, September 23, remember that it takes a strong Mayor to cut-down on crime.

And, that's Walter Hannon.

You Can Believe Him!

MR. ROBERT CHIMINELLO 389 Quincy Shore Drive, N. Quincy

Work Planned At Moswetuset Hummock

A $968,000 revitalization project now underway at Quincy Shore Drive, Quincy, will be expanded to include work at historic Moswetuset Hummock, Senator Arthur H. Tobin announces.

Senator Tobin said the Moswetuset Hummock reconstruction project was awarded to Domenic M. Bernardi, Inc. of Shewborn, with a low bid of $39,998.

The major features of the Moswetuset Hummock project will include the restoration and improvement of a trail, construction of a wooden bridge, planting of trees and shrubs, and the construction of a parking facility for about ten cars.

The original project, which got underway last month, will include the installation of a 12-foot median strip and the reconstruction of two traffic lanes in each direction on Quincy Shore Drive.

A new pedestrian walkway will be installed along the shore side and a partial sea wall will be constructed to protect the road from heavy storms. On the island side a bicycle path, with adjoining benches, will be constructed.

At Caddy Park, new play equipment will be installed as well as picnic tables and benches. The parking area will be improved and the park will be regraded and seeded.

Traffic control signals will be placed at the Fenno Street intersection and pedestrian signals will be located between the beach and Black's Creek. In addition, many seaside trees and shrubs will be planted in the area. The work is expected to be completed by winter of next year.

Sacred Heart Parish Opens School Of Religious Education Office

Sacred Heart Parish, North Quincy announces it now has an office, Sacred Heart School of Religious Education to handle all affairs pertinent to the religious education of public school students in the parish.

The office is located on the first floor of Sacred Heart School, Room 6, and will be opened as follows:

Monday, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., Wednesday, Thursday and Friday 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Mrs. Marie Barry is the secretary and she may be contacted by telephone 328-0014 or during office hours on any questions concerning the parish's Fraternity of Christian Doctrine Classes.

Parents who have not as yet registered their first graders are urged to do so immediately. Any families who have recently moved into the parish should register their children also. This may be done in person or over the telephone.

Present plans are for boys and girls in grades 1, 3, 4, and 5 to be taught in home classes. Grades 2 and 6 will be held at the Sacred Heart School on Monday afternoons. Boys in grade 7 will have their classes in the Sacred Heart School after the 9:15 Mass on Sunday and girls in the 7th grade will have their classes at the Sacred Heart School on Thursday afternoons at 3 p.m.

Teachers are needed for all grades and anyone interested is asked to call the office. To give confidence and skills to new teachers, a Teacher Training Program will be conducted by Rev. James Hawker in the Sacred Heart School Hall beginning Thursday, Sept. 11 at 7:30. This will consist of three weeks of basic concepts as well as three nights of grade level instructions.

Michael Lawrence Enlists In A.F. Delayed Enlistment

Michael S. Lawrence, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Lawrence of 29 Walnut St., North Quincy, has entered the U.S. Air Force Delayed Enlistment Program.

Under this program he has been guaranteed an assignment in the Air Force, but does not leave to attend the Airman's School of Military Science at Lackland Air Force Base, Texas, until Jan. 15, 1976.

Lawrence, who graduated from North Quincy High School in June, 1975, will receive training as a radio relay repairman and will receive his training at Keesler AFB.

Set For Sept. 28

Koch Club To Sponsor Bike-A-Thon To Aid Kidney Foundation

The Koch Club of Quincy will sponsor a Bike-A-Thon: Sunday, Sept. 28, with all proceeds to benefit the Kidney Foundation.

Although sponsored by the Koch Club of Quincy, all wishing to participate are invited to join in the event to raise funds for the Kidney Foundation. The Koch Club Girls Senior Bowling League of Junior and Senior High School age will lead the drive under the direction of Mrs. Marilyn Nestor, league founder and director.

The Bike-A-Thon will leave Faxon Park at 12:30 P.M. and follow a 17-mile route to Chickatabot Rd in the Blue Hills and back to Faxon Park where light refreshments will be served to the participants.

Edward F. Gentile is general chairman of the event. A member of the Quincy Police Department Detective Bureau, Gentile has had a successful kidney transplant two years ago through the Kidney Foundation.

Other committee members are Mr. and Mrs. Richard J. Koch, Mr. and Mrs. Anthony T. Delmonico, Mr. and Mrs. Howard F. Crowley, Mr. and Mrs. David J. Donaghue, Mr. and Mrs. Gary DeMole, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond C. Cattaneo and Mr. and Mrs. Paul P. Nestor.

Each cyclist participating has a number of sponsors pledging a certain amount for each mile that their favorite cyclist will cover in the 17-mile event. The total amount received will go to the Kidney Foundation, a Health Agency that has provided assistance and care to a large number of Quincy residents.

Applications for participation may be obtained from Gentile at the Quincy Police Station, 1 Sea St., Mrs. Nestor, 98 Glover Ave., North Quincy or Koch, 241 Newbury Ave., North Quincy.

Louise Forsyth Nominated ASCA President-Elect

Miss Forsyth is currently serving as the national coordinator of public relations for ASCA and has been involved in speaking and conducting workshops in a number of states.

In 1973, she was the recipient of ASCA's three awards for Counselor of the Year, Guidance Administrator, and for Professional writing.

Miss Forsyth is a past president and former executive secretary of the Massachusetts School Counselors Association and a recipient of the MSCA award for distinguished leadership.

The other candidates for the office of President-elect are Helen Washburn of Idaho and Helen Jones of Virginia.

Richard Marini Promoted

Richard Marini of Quincy has recently been promoted to groundskeeper in maintenance at Beth Israel Hospital.

A major teaching hospital affiliated with Harvard Medical School, Beth Israel annually handles more than 165,000 patient visits through its inpatient services, outpatient department, emergency unit, home care program and community health activities.

St. John's CYO Opens Season Sunday With Memorial Mass

St. John's CYO will open its 1975-76 season Sunday with a 6:30 p.m. Mass in memory of Kenneth Battista.

Rev. Joseph M. Connelly, CYO spiritual director, will celebrate the Mass in St. John's School Hall.

Mary Davidson, John O'Brien and Ruthann O'Shea will plan the liturgy and St. John's Folk Group, under the direction of Robert Deehan, will provide the music.

During the Mass, Louise Sordillo will be inducted as CYO president, Marie Stewart vice-president, Susan Buttomer, secretary, Anthony Priscella, treasurer, and Robert Nord, vicariate delegate.

A brief meeting will follow Mass. St. John's participation in the Sept. 21 Quincy Vicariate CYO Field Day at Faxon Park, will be discussed and finalized.

Mr. and Mrs. John Daley will serve as adult advisors.

The following have been named committee co-chairmen.

Athletics: David DiGiusto of 47 Viden Rd, Kathleen O'Toole of 146 Kendrick Ave., and Margaret Thorley of 54 Union St.

Christian Service: Mary Davidson of 41 Grossman St., John O'Brien of 101 Glendale Rd, and Ruthann O'Shea of 105 Nightingale Ave.

Any member of the St. John's Parish in grades 9 through 12 may become a CYO member by attending meetings. There is no dues.

Vapor Lighting System Completed In Lakin Square

A modern, high-intensity mercury vapor lighting system has replaced an old incandescent system in the Lakin Square area of Ward 3.

Ward 3 Councillor John J. Lydon Jr., said he had been petitioned by area merchants requesting better lighting to curtail a recent rise in crime and to provide for the safety of pedestrians and motorists.

In announcing the completion of the lighting project, Lydon said:

"Although austerity should be our primary objective, we cannot sacrifice the safety of our citizens for mere dollars and cents."

Timothy Hanlon Holds Leukemia Fair

Eight-year-old Timothy Hanlon of 87 South St., Quincy Point, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul J. Hanlon, held a Leukemia fair at his home last week, raising $50.

Timothy was assisted by Joseph Colerton, Robert Breen, Julie Breen, Catherine Breen, Lorna Jeli and Renee Jeli.

Gifts for the fair were donated by Santa's Village of Jefferson, N.H., and proceeds will go to the Leukemia Society of America to aid in research and health projects.

Richard Morrissey Receives $100 FFA Award

Richard F. Morrissey Jr., of Quincy, has won a $100 check for winning the State Future Farmers of America Forest Management Proficiency Award.

Morrissey received the award at the State FFA Convention and was one of 19 to receive a FFA proficiency award.

By winning the Forest Management Award, sponsored by Weyerhaeuser Co., he is eligible for the regional competition, where he will compete with 15 other state winners for the FFA's Eastern Region Award.

Rich Would Try To Maintain Present School Salary Level

School Committee candidate Jan A. Rich has pledged to try to maintain current salary levels within the Quincy Public School System.

Speaking to a group of supporters gathered at 112 Lincoln Ave., Wollaston, Rich said:

"Our teachers and administrators are among the highest paid in the state. When contract negotiations begin, I will try to maintain the present salary levels."

Rich also reiterated his commitment to vote the sentiments of his constituents, disregarding his own personal views if necessary.

Labelling lack of discipline in schools as "intolerable", Rich suggested teachers be hired to develop "the whole child". He said:

"Discipline is not an easy subject to discuss. However, one suggestion I have is to hire teachers who believe in teaching the whole child, not just teaching the academic subject."

He continued: "This is not to say that the school is moving into the business of moral teaching. That subject should be accomplished in the home. The school should bolster the home."

Rich also urged an increase in vocational training programs and said pressure on students to attend college should be reduced.

Kitchen Renovation To Be Discussed At Union Congregational

A meeting for members of Union Congregational Church, Wollaston, has been called by Norman Goodwin, moderator, for Sunday, Sept. 21, immediately following the morning service.

Subject of the meeting will be the proposed plans for the church kitchen renovation, presented by the kitchen committee.

Members of the kitchen committee are: William Baker, chairperson and trustee; and trustees William Roberts, George Gardner, Jeanne Benson, Edie Costa, Karen Menz and Lev Lombard.

Previous approval of the renovation plans are being secured from the Board of Trustees and the Church Council.

Protestant Social Service Opens Thrift, Shop Gift

A thrift and gift shop, The Bureau Drawer, operated by volunteers on behalf of The Protestant Social Service Bureau, at 776 Hancock St., Wollaston, opened Monday.

This new fund raising effort has become necessary because the United Way no longer contributes to the agency.

The new shop is located in the remodeled basement of the agency's office. It will be open from 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. on Mondays and Wednesdays and on Tuesdays from 1 p.m. to 8 p.m.

The shop will sell women and children's clothing, crafts, sports equipment, jewelry, bric-a-brac, housewares and antiques.

The Protestant Social Service Bureau provides family counseling and adoption services to 9 south shore communities.

Thomas Mullin Selected 'Outstanding Young Man'

Thomas R. Mullen of 43 Lincoln Ave., Wollaston, has been selected an Outstanding Young Man of America and will be included in the 1975 edition of "Outstanding Young Men of America".

The criteria for selection include a man's voluntary service to community, professional leadership, academic achievement, business advancement, cultural accomplishments and civic and political participation.

The Outstanding Young Men of America Program is sponsored by leading men's civic and service organizations throughout the nation and chairman of the 12-man advisory board is Doug Blankenship, U.S. Jaycee past president.

St. Ann's Seniors To Meet Sept. 15

St. Ann's Senior Citizens will meet Monday Sept. 15 at 1 p.m. in St. Ann's Youth Center, St. Ann's Rd, Wollaston.

Plans will be made for a Fall Foliage trip and luncheon. Reservations can be made ONLY at this meeting.

The Mini-Bazaar Committee will make a progress report. Flu shots will be given to Senior Citizens before and during the meeting. Refreshments will be served.

U. S. Marshall's 'Riot' Training Done Here Without Permission stipulation that the premises be used forever as a public pleasure ground to all inhabitants of Quincy.

The Marshalls reportedly were trained here in case needed during the opening of Boston schools.

City Natural Resources Commissioner Richard J. Koch said park officials had no knowledge of the park use until the general foreman, on a routine check of Merrymount Park late Friday afternoon, found the Marshalls conducting a training session.

Section 8, Chapter 48 of the General Laws of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts entitled Public Parks, Playgrounds and Public Domain states that "without consent of such board [in this case the Park and Recreation Board] no military organization shall camp, parade, review or perform any military evolution or exercise in, or enter, any park laid out as aforesaid, except in case of riot, insurrection, rebellion or war."

It is possible that an interpretation of the above by those officials using the site was sufficient to warrant its use by them, Koch noted.

All permits for exclusive use of any park, playground or beach area within the confines of the city and under Park Department jurisdiction are issued by the Park and Recreation Board. All residents may use the Park and Recreation Facilities at any time in compliance with the board's rules and regulations, Koch said.

The 73 acres of land known as Merrymount Park and containing Pageant Field was deeded to the city by Charles Francis Adams Oct. 31, 1885, for one dollar, with the

HN Council Candidates Night

The Houghs Neck Community Council will sponsor a public Candidates Night for the offices of Ward 1 City Councillor and School Committee Tuesday, Sept. 16, at 8 p.m. at St. Thomas Aquinas Hall, Darrow St.

A second candidates night will be held at a later date for those seeking the office of mayor and councillor at-large, announces President William Nugent.

Quincy's co-captains are Scott Simpson and Peter Keenan and Simpson is the third member of his family to lead the Presidents. Brothers Dave and Craig are former Quincy captains.

Martin has a fine goalie in Mickey Kennedy, last year's starter, and he is backed up by Joe McCarthy, who saw some varsity action a year ago.

The fullbacks are Emedio Michaelangelo, a standout the last two years; and two promising sophomores, Steve Ayer and Pete DiCenzo.

The backs are Simpson, veterans Bruce Patten and Mike Curran, Jon Golub, up from the junior varsity, and sophomore Bill Norton.

The forwards include veterans Keenan, Ken Donovan, Joe McEachern, Glen Schlager, Al Gacia and Larry O'Toole.

Charlie McLaughlin is back as the assistant and junior varsity coach.

At QuincyFor Hank Conroy, Reorganization Time

Hank Conroy is starting his 12th season as Quincy football coach and, with two new assistant coaches and a lot of new players, the Presidents are undergoing extensive reorganization.

Hank, who had only a 3-7 record last year but ended with a cherished win over North Quincy, his sixth over the Raiders, lost assistant Dave Burke to North Quincy, where he is now head coach, and Bud Mosher resigned. Both had been Conroy's aides for 11 years.

"Not only do we have two new coaches, but most of our players are up from the junior varsity and sophomore teams," Conroy said. "We have only a few players with much varsity experience and it will be up to those from the jayvees and sophomores to come through for us."

Conroy's new assistants are Peter Chella, a Quincy tackle in 1961 and '62 who played at the U. of New Hampshire, and Skladany, who played at Southern Connecticut and played with North Quincy assistant Ken McPhee with the N.E. Colonials.

Offensively, Conroy has only one returning backfield starter, Paul Vespaziani, among his 90 candidates, but he has some experience in the line.

Backs Paul Ramponi and Jim Rose were junior varsity players with a little varsity service, Pat Gibbons was a defensive starter as a sophomore, and other backfield hopefuls are Mike Dunlea, Sal Coscia, Eric Bergstrom, John Ferris, Mark Buchanan, John Milani and Tom McMahon.

Frank Guest, a defensive starter last year who saw some action on offense as backup quarterback, has the inside track on the quarterback berth with Steve Palumbo and Dennis Walter, who excelled on the sophomore team, battling him for the job.

John Riggs, a three-year veteran, heads the end aspirants and he is joined by Russ Affsa, Paul Coletti, Wayne French, Steve Infascelli and Frank McNeil.

Two veterans and two who played a lot on defense top the list of tackles. Steve Coleman, who weighs 220, and Bob Varrasso played regularly a year ago and Rich Hockings and Pat Foley saw action on defense.

Other tackle hopefuls are John and Mike Carloni, Bill Popsie, Jim Dixon and Dave Gallagher.

At guard Conroy has one returning starter, Steve Sylva; Bob Nolan, who starred on the jayvees; Tony Spadorcia, Charlie Gaziano and Bill French.

At center there are Paul Ferris, who played a good deal on defense, Bill Jennings and Jim Constas.

Defensively Conroy has a little more experience, but with 29 players having graduated, he has some big holes to fill here as well.

For ends he has Riggs, Sylva, Coletti, Infascelli and McNeill, who played some on defense last year. At tackle there are veterans Varrasso [230] and Coleman, 210-pound Popsie, Dixon and Foley.

At middle guard Conroy has Hockings, who would have played regularly a year ago only for an injury, and Paul Ferris, who played regularly in 1974.

Linebackers are Mike Carloni [220], Larry Calley, Mickey Thorley and Dunlea, and the halfbacks are Tony DiRocco, Gibbons, a regular on defense last year, Bob Derbes and Affsa. The Safety men are Guest, a starter on defense last year, and Bergstrom.

"The defense performed well in our first scrimmage against

At North QuincyFor Dave Burke, It's Being 'Back Home'

By TOM SULLIVAN

Dave Burke is "back home." The former North Quincy quarterback, who led the Raiders to wins over Quincy in 1945 and 1946, has taken over as North's head coach after 11 years as an assistant at Quincy.

Burke, who greeted a squad of 85 last week and expected more candidates when school opened Wednesday, is still getting acquainted with his players but when things get organized and he gets the kinks out, he feels he will have a team which will give a good account of itself.

"It is tough starting in at a new school and the boys have to forget the former numbering system and learn our system," Burke said. "I am very fortunate in having all of the North assistants back and they have been just great and are making it much easier for me, as they know the players."

Returning are Tom Fitzgerald, who played with Burke for a year at North; Dick Meyer, Ken McPhee and veteran Ted Sadowski, now in his 18th year as a North coach. He will again coach the sophomores and junior varsity and will scout.

"I also want to pay tribute to our four captains, Brian Doherty, Jack Hatfield, Frank Strazzulla and Matty Constantine, who have been great and have helped me a lot," Burke added.

Although North lost a lot of good players through graduation, Burke has some experienced returnees and some outstanding graduates of last year's undefeated sophomore powerhouse.

As far as the Raiders' offense is concerned, Burke appears to be particularly well off in the backfield.

Heading the backs are Brian Doherty, who last year led the Raiders in scoring; Hatfield and Constantino, all starters a year ago. Hatfield was outstanding both on offense and defense.

NORTH QUINCY'S new football coach, Dave Burke, who as a player led the Raiders to wins over Quincy in 1945 and 1946, apparently likes what he sees as he puts North through its paces for the Sept. 20 opener against Milton.

Mike Holleran, backup to Mike Meehan a year ago, and Brian Donaghey, last year's sophomore quarterback who nearly gave the varsity a win over Quincy with a spectacular touchdown pass to Doherty which covered 63 yards in the final minute of play, are the top contenders for the quarterback spot with Dennis Doherty also trying for the job. Burke rates Holleran and Donaghey as about even.

Mike Adams and George Wallace, who were standouts for the sophomores, Bill McIntyre, another fine 1974 soph, and Paul McGuigan, who saw some varsity service, are other backfield hopefuls.

At end are Cooper Jordan, a starter last year and an excellent punter; Mike Kelly, Jim Frye, Jerry McKenzie, Joe McGurl and Mark Wentzell. Frye, McKenzie and Wentzell are also up from Sadowski's strong sophomore team.

The tackle aspirants include Mike Nee, a returning starter;

Paul Santoro, Jim Marinelli, John Ryan, Alf McHugh, who played regularly on defense last year; Harry Knudsen, Paul Ahern and Keith Lindberg. Knudsen and Lindberg are other sophomore graduates.

Burke has a fine guard nucleus with Struzzula, a defensive starter last year; Steve Bonoli, up from the sophs; Rich Manné, Dan Noonan, who played a good deal at end last fall; and two other 1974 sophs, Dan Butts and Steve Bell.

For centers Dave has Bruce Hall, who saw a lot of service last year; Marty Mulvey, Dave Wassaf and another '74 soph star, Tom Nee.

Burke has a good nucleus on defense with a half dozen lettermen and several other players who saw some varsity action last year.

At defensive end are lettermen Pete Hemphill and Noonan, Jim Cooney with some experience and Mark Wentzell, up from the sophomore team.

For defensive tackles there are McHugh and Hall, both lettermen; veteran Paul Santoro, Ryan, Mark Nagle and Knudsen. Strazzulla was a defensive starter at linebacker and he is joined by Steve Moran, Frank McGuinness, John McKinnon, John Desmond, Paul Petrillo, Bell, Bonoli, Dick Kennedy and McGurl.

McGuigan, Brian McMahon, Kevin Doyle, Billy White and Ed McElene are halfbacks and the safeties are Hatfield and Steve Sheehan.

"We did well in two outside scrimmages and I think we will be respectable," Burke said. "I like the looks of the team and the spirit is excellent."

Burke also singles out his manager, Wayne Lawrence, and his assistant, Alf Bruan, who was on the squad but was shelved for the season with an injury and volunteered to manage, for their help.

year and try to be a ball control team.

"I am extremely pleased with the condition of the players, they reported in great shape."

School Athletic Season In Olympic Style Opener Sept. 16

The Quincy Public Schools will open the fall athletic season in Olympic fashion Tuesday, Sept. 16 at 6 p.m. at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

Although the program was originally scheduled for 6:30, it is hoped to get started as near 6 as possible.

All senior and junior high school students who are in any way associated with the fall program will march into the stadium and participate in brief ceremonies to inaugurate the season.

Both high school bands will take part and brief words of encouragement will be shared by graduates of the school system who have gone on to success in the world of athletics at the college or professional level. An invitation is extended to all parents and friends of the public schools to attend.

The sports night is dedicated to the late William F. Ryan, recreation director for Quincy for the past 20 years, who died last month. His widow, Barbara, will be a special guest.

Bob Gallagher will be the master of ceremonies and will introduce speakers who will include Jim Colclough, Quincy High and B.C.; Rich Giachetti, North Quincy and Tufts; John Provost, Quincy and Holy Cross; John Mahoney, North Quincy and AIC, and Robert [Scotty] Whitelaw, North Quincy and Springfield, among others.

A stanza will be recited in Greek and French, then translated into English to commemorate the Olympics in general and the next Olympics to be held in Montreal.

This will be followed by a salute to the flag, the National Anthem played by the combined bands, a moment of silence in memory of Ryan, introduction of school committee members, School Supt. Dr. Lawrence Creedon, Athletic Coordinator Carl Leone and the speakers mentioned above.

One of the outstanding characteristics of Ryan was that although he was interested in recreational opportunities for everyone, he had a special interest in and concern for the forgotten, neglected and heretofore shunned. He pioneered in life-renewing occasions for senior citizens, in self-worth building opportunities for the physically and mentally handicapped, and in skill-development programs for those who had a deep interest in a particular activity.

He also believed that positions of responsibility in community recreation activities gave young people an unequalled opportunity to demonstrate their qualities of leadership. Mayor Walter J. Hannon, in ordering flags lowered to half-staff out of respect to Ryan, said:

"Here was a man who, although he had no children of his own, was like a father to thousands of children over the years. He took more than a passing interest in children and was dedicated to each and every young person in the city."

ACTION NOT PROMISES ..

Dear Mr. Davis:

I'm writing to thank you for being instrumental in my being employed after being out of work for 9 months.

Because of your efforts in having a "Job Fair" in Quincy this past March 9, I'm beginning a job with GTE Sylvania in Needham on April 22, 1974.

Many thanks again for making it possible for me to be in the working class again!

Sincerely yours,

Michael J. Danesco

Delahunt, Burke In Tribute To One Another

by Gov. Michael S. Dukakis, announced he will relinquish his private law practice to devote himself fully to his new office. He also said he will make "full disclosure" of his income and assets in the near future and pledged to continue to make such information "readily available."

Calling his predecessor "a man of high integrity," Delahunt said Burke had always been "fair and direct in his dealings with me."

Burke, ending a 16-year career in public office, extended his successor best wishes and offered to assist Delahunt in any way possible. He said:

"Bill Delahunt is a very fine gentleman. He is an outstanding attorney and I wish him the very, very best in the job as district attorney of Norfolk County because it is a difficult one with the burden of the prisons and the increase in crime in our cities.

"I want to offer him any assistance I can give to guide him or help him with any problem that might arise."

Burke said he is not only looking forward to a return to the private practice of law but to "some peace and quiet in my life - the first, really, since I got out of law school."

A former Ward 5 Councillor and former legal counsel to the Quincy Police Department, Delahunt served three years as a representative in the Massachusetts legislature. An announced candidate for councillor at-large this year, Delahunt said he will withdraw from the final November race although his name will appear on the Sept. 23 preliminary ballot.

"Although I am not required to withdraw from the [councillor at-large] race, I shall withdraw. And I will ask the people who would have voted for me to support other candidates."

Delahunt, citing the newly-launched court and business community joint-effort to curb crime in Quincy, said he hopes to establish similar rapport between the district attorney's office and courts county-wide.

"Both the safety of the people and the rights of the individual demand swift and able public prosecution. That will be our standard of performance.

"But I foresee also a new concept for the office. The functions of law enforcement should be more understandable, accessible, visible and active within our community. The law and its enforcement - as an instrument of social control - must also have a social conscience.

"Our responsibility does not stop at the courtroom door."

Calling his years as a State Representative "the most exciting years of my life," Delahunt praised his legislative colleagues as "the finest in the Commonwealth."

"People can be proud of the men and women who serve them...They have the toughest decisions to make and are on the firing line every day. That's what makes democracy click...I leave very sadly and with a lot of affection."

Among those attending Monday's swearing-in ceremonies were Atty. General Francis X. Bellotti, Mayor Walter J. Hannon, Senator-City Council President Arthur H. Tobin, Senate Counsel and former Quincy Mayor James R. McIntyre, Reps. Joseph E. Brett, Thomas F. Brownell [a law partner of Delahunt's] and Robert Cerasoli, Police Chief Francis X. Finn, Planning Director Geoffrey Davidson, Quincy Bar Association President Joseph S. Killian, Atty. Robert Fleming and Robert Langlois, Delahunt's law partners, Judge Lewis Whitman, Quincy Court special justice, Frank Moran representing Albert Kramer, presiding justice of the Quincy Court, Clerk of Courts Dennis Ryan, John Fagerlund, Atty. Martin Cosgrove, Sabina Stenberg, secretary of the Cerebral Palsy South Shore Area, Inc., and Ann Gaffey and Nicholas Barbadoro, personal friends of Delahunt.

Delahunt will serve as D.A. for the next 10 months and said he plans to be a candidate in a 1976 special election for a two-year term as D.A. Another election will be held in 1978 for a four-year term.

Mayorality, School Committee Races Hold Spotlight

Only 35% Expected To Vote Tuesday

LEANING TOWER of Quincy? No, the South Shore National Bank tower in Quincy Sq. is as straight and sturdy as ever. It was just Sun photographer Steve Liss having a little fun with a wide angle lens.

First Official Candidate

Sheets Announces Candidacy For Delahunt's Representative Seat

Ward 4 Councillor James A. Sheets announces his candidacy for the Fourth Norfolk District representative's seat, becoming the first to officially enter the race.

The seat was recently vacated by the appointment of William D. Delahunt as Norfolk County District Attorney.

House Speaker Thomas McGee is expected to set Nov. 18 as the date for the preliminary election and Dec. 16 for the final.

In announcing his candidacy, Sheets - unopposed in the upcoming city election - said he will retain his seat on the City Council and his position as chairman of the history and government at Quincy Junior College.

Throughout his term as Ward 4 Councillor, Sheets said the problems of the people have become "very clear and real" but added that solutions to those problems often come only at the state level.

Citing the problems of crime, 100 per cent valuation, speeding on roadways, the effects of the 18-year-old drinking law in Quincy and the state's fiscal condition as major concerns of Quincy citizens, Sheets said:

"There is no elected official closer to the people than the ward councillor... It has been frustrating for me to be close to the people, watching these and other problems grow bigger and bigger and not be in a position to work constructively for their resolution with other members of Quincy's representative delegation.

"I am seeking an office from which to serve the people more effectively and completely and in the process, make Quincy a better place in which to live."

Other potential candidates for the vacated seat are Ward 3 Councillor John Lydon, Ward 5 Councillor Warren Powers, Mrs. Joyce Baker, Herbert Reppucci, John Slomkowski, Atty. Joseph Killion and Santino Farara.

Despite a four-candidate race for mayor, one of the smallest voter turnouts in recent years is forecast for Quincy's preliminary election next Tuesday.

Lack of city council contests is expected to keep most of the city's 46,560 registered voters home until the Nov. 4 final election. There are only two Ward Council races.

City Clerk John M. Gillis sees only 35 per cent showing up to mark their ballots.

"Without city council contests, I don't think there is too much interest," says Gillis. "The mayorality campaign really hasn't been a hot one, as far as interest goes."

Most of the action outside of the mayorality contest is in the school committee field with 9 candidates, after the six nominations for three seats.

Mayor Walter J. Hannon, seeking a third term, is challenged by Councillor Joseph J. LaRaia, Mrs. Grace E. Saphir of 921 East Squantum St., North Quincy and Michael Jovanovic of 62 Town Hill St., West Quincy.

La Raia is considered Hannon's most serious threat but some observers think Mrs. Saphir could be a surprise as she was two years ago when she polled 10,416 votes to Hannon's 15,492. Jovanovic, is making his first bid for public office.

The city council at-large contest really isn't one anymore.

Rep. William D. Delahunt, appointed Norfolk County district attorney last week, has dropped out of the council at-large race leaving only six actual candidates for six nominations.

But although he is not a candidate, his name is still on [Cont'd on Page 11]

Campaign Heating Up

Hannon Challenges Saphir, Takes Blasts At LaRaia

By MARY ANN DUGGAN

Mayor Walter J. Hannon has issued a challenge to mayorality contender Mrs. Grace Saphir, saying he will resign as mayor if she can substantiate her repeated claim the city is shouldering a bonded indebtedness of some $56 million.

Guest speaker Tuesday at a 12 noon meeting of the Quincy Rotary Club, Hannon also blasted mayorality challenger Joseph LaRaia for what he called "false advertising" in campaign material distributed over the weekend.

Pacing back and forth in his City Hall office following the meeting, Hannon said:

"I've had it! We need a bit of honesty in campaigning. If we are going to deal with each other over this next month, we ought to start telling the truth to each other."

Refuting Mrs. Saphir's

estimate of the city's bonded indebtedness, Hannon said figures show the city's bonded indebtedness at $23,855,000 as of Sept. 1, 1975, a total he said was down from $26 million in January 1975.

"And it will continue to go down to $22 million as of December of this year, but that's not the point. If Mrs. Saphir can prove that as of Sept. 16, at 12 noon, the city's bonded indebtedness was $56 million, if she can show that as a fact, I will resign as mayor."

Speaking to the Rotarians gathered at the Neighborhood Club, Hannon also labelled as "false advertising" a photograph in LaRaia's recently distributed campaign literature. The photo shows LaRaia and Roger Krahl of the Urban Mass Transit Administration looking at documents held by LaRaia who travelled to Washington, D.C. as

Dukakis To Meet With Quincy Residents Sept. 22

Gov. Michael S. Dukakis will hold a "town meeting" with Quincy residents Monday, Sept. 22 at Broad Meadows Junior High School, 50 Calvin Rd., Merrymount.

The meeting, 16th in a state-wide series started in January - will begin at 7:30 p.m.

Dukakis will discuss local and state issues with Quincy residents.

These 90-minute sessions, conducted every two weeks by Dukakis - aim at increasing the Governor's understanding of popular concerns and reducing the people's sense of isolation from elected officials.

Houghs Neck Fire Alarm System To Be Modernized

The Houghs Neck fire alarm system will be replaced and modernized with the installation of a new cable system.

Mayor Walter J. Hannon made this disclosure at the opening Monday of the Houghs Neck Community Development Project Office at 1086 Sea St.

"Some of the old equipment dates back as far as the 1890's," Hannon said. "You deserve the best possible protection and we're going to see that you have it."

Praising the capabilities of Norman Lundine as project director, Hannon also expressed gratitude to Senator-City Council President Arthur H. Tobin and Ward 1 Councillor Leo J. Kelly for their assistance and leadership with the Houghs Neck project.

Hannon noted the Houghs Neck project will not only mean an improved city but employment for its people. He said:

"For the most part, the men working here will be from Quincy. We're not just spending money. We're putting people to work."

"City Hall isn't telling you what to do or how to do it. You are doing it yourselves. Because of the changes in the federal guidelines, this is the first time the citizens themselves have had control of the program. From what I can see this is certainly a step in the right direction."

Ward 3, Precinct 1 Votes At Cranch School

Voters in Ward 3, Precinct 1 will cast their preliminary city election ballots at the Cranch School, 270 Whitwell St., Quincy.

Residents in this ward - designated as Ward 1 Precinct 1 in the state elections - voted at the Woodward School for Girls in last September's state primaries.

Reduced MBTA Fares For Handicapped Starts Oct. 1

Applicant screening is now underway for an off-peak MBTA fare program for handicapped people.

The program, to be conducted in conjunction with the Massachusetts Rehabilitation Commission, will become effective Wednesday, Oct. 1.

To be eligible for the reduced fare, individuals must have a handicap which prevents them from:

- Negotiating a flight of stairs, an escalator or ramp.

- Entering or leaving a standard transit vehicle.

- Standing in a moving vehicle.

- Reading information signs.

- Hearing announcements.

- Walking more than 200 feet.

Handicapped persons meeting eligibility requirements will be provided a photo identification card for a fee of 50 cents. This card will enable holders to ride all MBTA lines, including the Penn Central and Boston and Maine Commuter railroad lines as well as the subsidized bus line in Winthrop, during normal off-peak hours, Monday through Friday. Those hours are before 7 a.m., from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. and after 6 p.m.

The reduced fare card will be honored all day Saturdays, Sundays and holidays.

To make an appointment to apply for the reduced fare, contact Thomas O'Brien, project manager of special need services, Monday through Friday at 722-5123.

Janis Hellew Named Crisis Line Coordinator

Janis Hellew of Lowell has been named coordinator of Crisis Line, a 24-hour counselling service offered by Survival, Inc., the multi-faceted drug and youth-oriented program based in Quincy.

Miss Hellew succeeds Willis Elliott, crisis line director for the past two years, who is returning to graduate school.

A 1973 graduate of Roger Williams College, Miss Hellew has had crisis intervention experience as a director in Providence and Lowell over the past three years.

Crisis Line is manned by over 40 trained South Shore volunteers and provides counselling, information and referrals for such problems as drug abuse, medical needs and suicide.

Over the past two years, nearly 600 people hailing from throughout the South Shore have used this service Wrap hot foods in aluminum foil to keep warm instead of using the oven. Foil will hold heat up to one-half hour.

Keep the rubber seal (gasket) on the refrigerator/freezer door soft by washing occasionally with a good detergent.

Reflect heat by placing a piece of aluminum foil under the top cover of your ironing board.

'813,575 Contract

Work To Start On Ward 1, 2 Road, Traffic Improvements

Work is expected to start this week or by the beginning of next on an $813,575 DPW contract award for traffic control signals and road improvements in Wards 1 and 2.

Ward 1 Councillor Leo J. Kelly, chairman of the City Council public works committee, said co-ordination of four traffic signals on Sea St., and Southern Artery will enforce a 30-mile-per hour flow of traffic through the area.

Included in the contract - awarded to Charles Capone Construction Co., Inc., in Dedham - is the installation of a pedestrian-actuated traffic signal on Washington St. near St. Joseph's Church. Parishioners had petitioned for installation of a signal system near the church.

Contract plans show signals will be upgraded at the following locations: Sea St. and Quincy Shore Drive; Southern Artery, Sea St. and Coddington St.; Southern Artery, McGrath Highway and Field St.; Southern Artery and Washington St.; and Washington St. and Chubbuck St.

New signal systems will be installed at Southern Artery, Field St. and Brackett St.; Southern Artery and Edison Park; and Washington St., South St. and Baker Ave.

A flashing beacon will be installed at Southern Artery and Pond St.

In all, 10 signal systems will be newly installed or upgraded.

The project - scheduled for completion May 29, 1976 - also includes plans for road resurfacing and widening as well as construction of new channelizing islands. Old granite curbing will be removed, re-set and newly installed and sidewalk and driveways will be constructed and renovated.

'500,000 Low Bid For Sea St. Work

Ward 1 Councillor Leo J. Kelly announces Sylvester Ray Construction Co. of Marshfield is the apparent low bidder for the Department of Public Works reconstruction project on Sea St.

Bids were opened at 2 p.m. Tuesday, Kelly said, with the Marshfield Co. bidding $500,000 for the project. Reconstruction will cover the Sea St. area from Palmer St. to the intersection of Rockland and Winter Sts.

The councillor hailed the contract award as "a long awaited announcement" for the people utilizing this portion of Sea St.

Landscaping will also be performed.

Speaking of the total project, Kelly said:

"The council's public works committee worked long and hard for this project. We met several times with business people in the area and obliged them wherever possible in the interests of their business and always in the interests of safety."

Senator Arthur H. Tobin and Rep. Robert Cerasoli teamed in the successful effort to include the installation of the St. Joseph traffic system in this contract award. Although DPW officials had questioned the need for a signal system at the church intersection, both Tobin and Cerasoli continued to meet with DPW officials, urging installation of the system. Pleased with the inclusion of the pedestrian signal in the contract award, Tobin said:

"I'm very happy to see the project become a reality. People will be able to see the results of our staying on top of the project...We wouldn't back off and insisted it be included."

LIGHTS, CAMERAS, ACTION! - Surrounded by hot filming lights, tape recorders, cameras and cue cards, Mayor Walter J. Hannon films a two-minute local introduction to promotional movie "Gifts To The Nation". The introduction explains the contributions of Quincy companies and organizations in making the film. Cameramen are from The Film Group, Inc. of Cambridge, producers of the movie. Holding cue card at left of cameramen is John R. Graham, executive director of Quincy Heritage.

Brett Bill Would Uniform MBTA Fares

Rep. Joseph E. Brett has filed legislation which would require the MBTA to establish uniform fares on all of its rapid transit lines.

At the present time, MBTA fares on the Red Line to Quincy, Wollaston and North Quincy stations are set at 50 cents per passenger while those on all other rapid transit lines are only 25 cents per passenger.

QUINCY SAVINGS BANK INTRODUCES
THE DIRECT-DEPOSIT PLAN FOR YOUR SOCIAL SECURITY CHECK.

IMPORTANT NEW BENEFITS FOR PEOPLE ON SOCIAL SECURITY.

1. SAFE.

Now, instead of being mailed to your home your social security check can be deposited directly to your account at any Quincy Savings Bank. So there's no risk of it being lost or stolen.

2. DEPENDABLE.

Once you take advantage of the Direct-Deposit Plan you know your money will be available in your account on the day you expect it. And when you need it most.

3. CONVENIENT.

With the Direct-Deposit Plan you never have to worry about getting to the bank on time. And if illness, bad weather or any other reason should prevent you from visiting the bank you know your money is waiting for you to draw on as you need it.

4. INTEREST BEARING.

Your social security check just like any money you deposit in a savings account can earn you interest. And by using the Direct-Deposit Plan your check gets to the bank and starts earning interest as soon as possible.

5. EASY.

The people at Quincy Savings will make it easy for you to start a Direct-Deposit Plan by providing the necessary forms, and they'll even help you fill them out. You can have your check deposited in a NOW account, a regular savings account, or split between the two. Our NOW account gives you free checking and pays 5% interest.

For more information call 472-0025. Or stop by any of our five offices.

Skirts Stretch Fall Wardrobes

Skirts in fresh, new shapes are stretching fall wardrobes and influencing dresses, too. Shape is the key whether the look is big but under control or lean with pleats for moving ease.

For instance, Cat Bird takes an eased skirt, slits it at the front, and buttons it for a fresh new look. It is teamed with a top that is skinny but definitely not clingy.

Dresses have taken to skirts, too. Susan Thomas develops a wardrobe stretcher with a dress that looks like a suit. The panel skirt is combined with a blouse-like top that can be worn with or without the jacket. It has a hidden asset, too. The suit is Wear-Dated, a warranty which assures one year's normal wear, refund or replacement when returned with tag and sales slip to Monsanto.

Woman gymnast tells file gumbo recipe

By SUSAN DELIGHT
Copley News Service

When Cathy Rigby, formerly an Olympic gymnast, married Tommy Mason, former All-Pro National Football Star, two and a half years ago she admits she knew very little about cooking.

"My career allowed me very little time for cooking," she said. "I started my gymnastic career when I was 10."

"After Tommy and I were married, I was determined to learn to make some of the Southern dishes he liked. He said he had not been able to find Southern dishes like his mother made since leaving his home in Lake Charles, La."

"While visiting in Louisiana, I persuaded his mother to teach me how to make some of his favorite dishes."

Though her career has left her little time for cooking, Cathy says she has made an extensive study of nutrition.

"Nutrition is very important for athletes. Tommy and I both realize that, she says."

Though retired from gymnastics, Mrs. Mason says that her many-faceted career keeps her traveling much of the time. Her most recent commitment is serving as spokeswoman for the frozen food industry.

She has served as TV commentator for network national and international gymnastic events. She also has had an acting and singing career, and runs her own summer gymnastics camp.

LAKE CHARLES FILE GUMBO

5½ pounds chicken, cut up
½ cup flour
4 tablespoons butter and 4 tablespoons oil
2 (12 ounce) packages frozen sliced okra
1 cup frozen chopped onion
1 cup frozen chopped green pepper
2 garlic cloves, chopped
1 bay leaf
1 teaspoon chili powder
1 teaspoon garlic powder
Salt, pepper
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
Gumbo File (Note)
Boiled rice

Boil chicken pieces in two quarts water until cooked. In separate pan make a roux, by blending the flour with butter and oil over moderate heat.

Cook until mixture is brown in color. Add okra, onion, green pepper and seasonings. Blend. Combine chicken, chicken stock with vegetable roux mixture. Correct the seasonings and simmer for one hour. Sprinkle with gumbo file and serve in soup plates with rice. Serves 10.

Note: A seasoning and thickening agent made from dried and powdered young leaves of the sassafras tree. After file is added, food should never be boiled.

Dear Mrs. Kinser:

In a recent column, Mrs. R. C. Winder asked about elastic thread. May I add this little tip: When you have completed stitching with elastic thread, heat a tea-kettle of water. Bunch the gathers up in your fingers and CAREFULLY (steam will burn!) hold it over the spout, or take off the lid and hold it over the center of kettle. The stitching will tighten and you will have a much better gather. — Elizabeth Robertson, Weslaco, Tex.

Elizabeth, thank you so much! It is a super idea and one I'm sure will help many. Do watch the steam ... it burns like crazy.

ARIES: (March 21 to April 19 — Also Aries Ascendant) — Nostalgia dominates your thoughts, leading to feelings of lethargy and dissatisfaction. Accept mature responsibility for best progress toward promotion in career. Be cooperative with associates.

TAURUS: (April 20 to May 20 — Also Taurus Ascendant) — Concentrate on efficiency in your craft or skill — a management position may be offered. Enjoy your working environment with good-humored associates. Make goal outlines and plans to follow.

GEMINI: (May 21 to June 20 — Also Gemini Ascendant) — Recognize that someone who advises you has your best interests at heart and is not trying to run your life. Strive for efficiency in all your tasks — aim for the top. You could meet a romantic partner now.

CANCER: (June 21 to July 22 — Also Cancer Ascendant) — Compromise a difference of interests with one important in your life. Take a philosophical view if someone you trust proves unworthy of your confidence. Possibility of a financial downfall you didn't expect.

LEO: (July 23 to August 22 — Also Leo Ascendant) — Don't get upset over someone who breaks a promise — maintain your own integrity. Don't allow a visitor to upset your work schedule or strain your budget. Those planning a wedding should shop for clothing now.

VIRGO: (August 23 to Sept. 22 — Also Virgo Ascendant) — Someone met now could change your life. Curb discontent with possessions showing signs of wear. Hold one you love with an open palm. Possessiveness or jealousy cause problems in relationships.

LIBRA: (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22 — Also Libra Ascendant) — Investigate your basic beliefs and material holdings for possible weaknesses. Start now to repair what you find to be faulty. Rely on past experience to guide you. Seek rest and let others take the lead.

SCORPIO: (Oct. 23 to Nov.

21 — Also Scorpio Ascendant) — Be patient in a depressing situation. Resist temptation to throw over the traces and run. Seek the answers inside yourself. Resist impulse and impatience. Stay with routine matters. Good news arrives.

SAGITTARIUS: (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21 — Also Sagittarius Ascendant) — Travel could be troublesome. Double check arrangements and condition of equipment. Those seeking employment find this a good time for resumes, answering ads, sharpening skills.

CAPRICORN: (Dec. 22 to Jan. 19 — Also Capricorn Ascendant) — Call on your experience to separate the true from the false. An association could be drifting toward separation or conclusion. Someone from the past may reenter your life. Separate the grain from the chaff.

AQUARIUS: (Jan. 20 to Feb. 18 — Also Aquarius Ascendant) — High accomplishment marks your efforts now. Double check on financial drain — stop up the gaps. Unexpected repair bills are a problem. Handle matters yourself without complaint.

PISCES: (Feb. 19 to March 20 — Also Pisces Ascendant) — You are working at a steady pace with no unusual problems. Social life is pleasant, but you must guard against weight gain. Take special care to maintain harmonious relationships with neighbors.

THE VISIBLE WOMAN

Today's girls have more choices open

By JANET LOWE
Copley News Service

I gave my favorite female athlete a lift to the municipal plunge yesterday. Our 12-year-old neighbor Diane was one of the first girls to play Little League baseball in our city, and she and her brother turned out to be the two most valuable players on the team which placed first.

It was spring when Diane told us she was trying out. "How do the boys feel about that?" I asked, probing for tales of discrimination. Instead, I got a questioning gaze from large, long-lashed, innocent gray eyes. "They know I play good baseball," was all she said. The words came without bragging, without defenses, a simple statement of fact.

The team practices across the street from my house, so I watched from my porch as Diane won her reputation as a slugger and a fast base runner. She's skinny, she's shorter than most of the kids in her class, and she doesn't even know it. She just loves to play baseball.

While we drove to the pool, Diane and my 12-year-old daughter chattered about their plans for the coming school year. "I'm trying out for junior varsity cheerleader," said my own girl.

"Traditional," I thought, "but she's learning to make her own choices. At least she knows she can do something else if she wants to."

"I'm practicing all the sports so I can be ready for the majors next spring," explained Diane.

"Cheerleading will be good for me," replied the other. "It will give me a chance to practice acrobatics. I've got to keep in shape if I expect to go the Naval Academy."

They don't even know how impossible that all sounds to me, though I'm hopeful for their dreams. Haven't I been telling them for years, "It's up to you to make your own dreams come true."

But as they draw near to womanhood, all my words seem to sound like bravado. The silent, invisible barriers which surrounded me and my mother and my grandmother are still there. Is the glass a little thinner? The silence sometimes broken?

I hope so. I pray so. The radio blares out the news. "Yvonne Goolagong tells her manager where to go. She'll get married and have a tennis career too." Hooley Yvonne.

I signal for a left turn into the park, and notice a young woman striding across the grass wearing cut-off Levi's, a denim shirt, and heavy shoes. Her skin is tan and healthy, her muscles firm and strong, her long blonde hair bunched into a braid at the back. She carries a rake and drags a giant hose over to the flowers. A city gardener. Does she look masculine? Not at all, if the near collision of the two male drivers in front of me means anything, and I think it did.

Maybe slugger Diane will enjoy a life full of athletic accomplishment after all. Maybe her accomplishment will go to the Naval Academy.

Ah, but that was yesterday. Today both girls have their heads buried in a science book. They've decided to become doctors.

Americans are using more spices than ever before in their cooking. U.S. imports of spices in 1974 set an all-time record of 306,570,000 pounds and total consumption was 408.5 million pounds.

POISON PRECAUTIONS

Each year about 700,000 accidental poisonings occur in the United States; 2,500 of them result in death and nearly 250,000 in disabling injuries. Even more frightening are the facts that 80% of these poisonings happen in the home and the largest percentage of victims are children under the age of five.

Fortunately, many of the products most frequently ingested by curious toddlers [soaps, detergents, toilet water, fingernail polish, cold and cough remedies] are not harmful unless taken in massive doses and rarely cause more than a few tears and an upset stomach.

Nevertheless, whenever a potentially hazardous product is involved always proceed as if it is indeed poisonous. Call your doctor, hospital, or nearest poison-control center immediately. [Time is by far the most important factor in any poison situation]. Keep these numbers by the phone along with those of the police and fire dept. Note: Most potentially harmful products list the proper antidotes on the label.

S.S. Community Concerts Assn. Membership Drive Underway

The South Shore Community Concerts Association, an organization presenting live, professional concerts in the local area, is holding its annual membership drive.

From now until Sept. 20, former members have the opportunity to renew and new members are encouraged to join. Three musical events will be presented throughout the coming year, all in the auditorium of Weymouth North High School. Admission to the three will be by membership subscription only.

Volunteers are at campaign headquarters in Remick's of Quincy, this week to enroll members.

The first presentation will be Oct. 24, and will feature Veri and Jamanis, duo-pianists. This young husband and wife team has already established a strong reputation in the fields of recording, television, and concert. Their musical interests range from the traditional through Gershwin to the Joplin rags and their talents have been enjoyed through the offerings of the Book-of-the-Month Club and public television.

The second program of the series will be that of the Texas Boys Choir, Feb. 27. An internationally known group, they perform in costume and use staging and choreography to produce professional results.

Third in the season's list of attractions will be the appearance of the New York Brass Quintet April 23. All of these musicians are on the faculty of the Hartt College of Music at the University of Hartford and are known world wide for their unique blend of two trumpets, French horn, trombone, and tuba.

Further information is available at campaign headquarters at Remick's. Memberships may also be obtained by calling Mrs. Robert Golder, 96 Conrad St., Braintree, or Mrs. John Hodges, 117 Chard St., Weymouth. Subscriptions are available for individual adults and students, and for families.

3-Day Heritage Celebration Starts Friday

Ship Massachusetts Park To Be Dedicated Sunday In Germantown

By HAROLD CROWLEY

On Sept. 21, 1789, hundreds of people lined the banks of the Town River to cheer the launching of this nation's largest merchant ship as it departed from her blockings and ways on the Germantown shore.

Amid the congratulations of the assembled multitude the bottle smasher christened her "Massachusetts".

The 186th anniversary of this historic occasion, which also marked the beginning of the building of large ships in Quincy, will be commemorated Sunday afternoon, beginning at 2:30 p.m., with the dedication of the Ship Massachusetts Park.

This is the site where the launching is believed to have taken place and which has served for many years as an unnamed recreational area on Taffrail Road in Germantown. The recently refurbished park will be dedicated in ceremonies conducted by the Germantown Heritage Society and the Quincy Park and Recreation Board.

During the ceremonies, Hobart Holly, president of the Quincy Historical Society, will outline the historical significance of the occasion. Mayor Walter J. Hannon will speak briefly. The Quincy High School Band will provide the music.

The dedication of the park will climax a weekend of celebration by the Germantown community beginning Friday. Germantown Heritage Days will commemorate the nation's bicentennial and the community's pride in the contributions that this small peninsula of land made to the city of which it is a part.

On Friday evening a

Germantown Heritage Dance will be held at St. Boniface Church hall from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. Dancing will be to the music of the Basin Street Boys. Rev. Gerald Osterman, chairman of the event, announces that a limited number of tickets are still available and may be purchased by contacting the St. Boniface Rectory.

On Saturday there will be an old-fashioned "Beanpot Supper" at 6:30 p.m. in St. Boniface Church Hall. The supper will be followed by a sing-along with Mrs. Gay Sullivan and Mr. Frank Myett providing the accompaniment. Mrs. Bernard MacAuley and Mr. Gerard O'Rourke, co-chairpersons for the supper, announce that the supper is already a sell-out.

On Sunday beginning at 1:30 p.m. from the corner of Sea and Palmer Sts., there will be a Germantown Heritage Parade with over 30 units participating.

Quincy High School Band and the Renegades will provide the music. The Bay State Antique Auto Club plans to have a number of vintage automobiles in the parade and the Milton Militia will help to set a bicentennial atmosphere.

Also providing a marching unit or float in the parade will be Snug Harbor Court, Oceanview, the Broad Meadows Baton Twirlers, the Sea Cadets, Cub Scouts, Gull Point Yacht Club, the Baker Beach Association, the 4-H Club, the Germantown Fire Station and Historical Replicas by Broad Meadows students. Several classes from the Snug Harbor School will have floats or marching units in the parade commemorating historical events of Germantown. They include:

Mrs. Persis Gallion's kindergarten with "Early Settlers of Germantown", Mrs. Marie McDevitt's second graders with the "Crane Schoolhouse", Diana Weiner's second graders with "Germantown Bus", Kathleen Lamping's third graders featuring "The Shed Family", Carole Fucillo's, Mary Sullivan's, and Patricia Lynch's classes portraying the "Hodgkinson Farm", Eleanor Callahan's third graders with "Germantown Indians", Frances Methelis' fourth graders, "Germantown Whalers", Kathleen Newman's fifth graders, "Germantown Fights Pollution", Mary Nolan's fifth graders, "Germantown Pottery Workers", Harold Crowley's fifth graders, "The Launching of the Massachusetts", Paul Maloney's sixth graders, "Old Sailors Snug Harbor".

Local officials and candidates for political office have been invited to march in the parade. The parade will be under the direction of co-chairman Paul Harold and Harold Crowley.

Joseph Kennedy Meets With Area Businessmen

Joseph Kennedy, former executive at Fore River shipyard and former ambassador to Great Britain was in Quincy this week to discuss the future of Massachusetts with business and labor leaders. The luncheon meeting at the Cliveden Building attracted 150 people.

Kennedy, chairman of the state's commerce commission, was travelling throughout the state for the purpose of awakening the citizens of Massachusetts as to the necessity of preserving the state as a major business and industrial center.

C.I.O. ELECTIONS AT FORE RIVER

13,000 workers at the Fore River shipyard were qualified to vote for 102 candidates for 19 positions in the first election held at the yard by the Industrial Union of Marine and Shipbuilding Workers of America, C.I.O.

Eight automatic voting machines were located at Winter St., at the corner of South and East Howard Streets.

BURGLARS STEAL MARKET'S RED COUPONS

Burglars broke into the Stop and Shop market, Southern Artery and Canal St., and rifled the safe containing the store's food coupons.

The only cash they found was a $1 bill. Framed and hanging on the wall, the dollar was the first received when the market opened for business.

FOUR BUILDING PROJECTS URGED

Mayor Charles Ross advocated four building projects for the city in 1946. These included a new fire station in Houghs Neck, new operating room and new service building at the city hospital and a new garage at the police station. The new fire station was number one on the mayor's post-war planning board.

Mayor Ross pointed out that it was advantageous for the city to have plans drawn up for these in anticipation of Washington granting federal monies.

"The history of such appropriations, was first come first serve," the mayor pointed out.

WASHINGTON STREET WINDOWS BROKEN

Police searched for two sailors who went on a window breaking spree on Washington St. By noon Thursday, 14 broken windows were reported. Windows were smashed at Firestone's, Bethlehem Steel's warehouse, Settle's Glass, Quincy Sheet Metal, Washington St. Cleaners, Cooper's Garage, Nemrow's and Granite Chevrolet.

BUILDING A REGIONAL ECONOMY

Government By The People

By ERIC SWIDER

Why do we elect people to public office? Is it to vote on issues the way they perceive the sentiment of their constituency to be running, to vote their own personal biases, or to study issues and do what they believe correct, and along the way educating us by sharing information they've acquired.

During the past few months, my cynicism has been nurtured by being exposed to too many elected officials who will in private conversation agree with our point of view on a controversial issue and then vote just the opposite. Later, they blame it on the "voice of the people."

We now possess the technology in this nation to eliminate the various legislative bodies and to conduct daily votes among the citizenry on legislative proposals. That, in effect, is what the populists are suggesting they advocate. If that's how they think big decisions should be made — on citizen opinions, inner feelings, suspicions and likes and dislikes rather than on evaluation of facts — then maybe they would be willing to seek a system that eliminates them as the middleman.

Through the use of television, telephone lines and a simple box that is activated by our own personal credit card type device, the last thing we could do each night before retiring is to vote as a community, state or nation on these proposals, and read about our decisions the next morning in the newspaper.

Instead of having harried politicians subject to the pressures of special interest groups we could ask the networks to prepare television specials on the issues and newspapers to do feature stories — pointing out the good points of the proposal, and another featuring the negative aspects — and then we all vote — and presto — instant legislation. Rather than going through the costly and time consuming process of doing an economic and environmental impact study on some big public works proposal, which as we all know is a stall on the part of government to postpone a decision, we could let our instincts rule the day.

I have lots of faith in people and believe that if this system of decision making were used, in most cases the well reasoned positions that our organization develops on issues would obtain popular support. The goal of business and the rest of the community, if there is such a thing, I feel is very much the same. Who's against more jobs, better transportation, and clean air and water.

The system seems to have lots of side benefits also. It would eliminate electioneering, and the potential for all of the scandals to which we are constantly exposed. It would finally identify the true source of power and give to them the ultimate right to expedite the decisions they feel appropriate. [I'm talking about the media of course]. And more importantly, it would allow us to have government by the people, a concept which is as American as baseball, apple pie and Chevrolet.

Under this proposal, only administrators would be elected [Presidents, Governors, Mayors, etc.] but here too we would wield instant justice. If the rascal has a bad day and makes a bad decision, Walter Cronkite or Jack Hynes could tell us about it on the six o'clock news and by 6:45 we could have a new president or governor.

This process could also be extended to the courts and rather than leave it to twelve people to hassle with a tough case, we could insure blind justice by letting us all take a crack at it.

For years in one television commentary after another we have been hearing of the great crisis our Nation faces due to lack of leadership. I think that the best part of this idea is that it solves that problem once and for all. Our leaders could be Eric Severide, Dick Flavin and Tony Pepper. The editorial boards of the Boston Globe, Patriot Ledger and Quincy Sun would and could help us all to get things accomplished the right way — their way.

While this proposal may sound a little bit far fetched, I think it should receive serious consideration.

We created our current form of government — representative democracy when there were no televisions, telephones, and it took two days by horse to get to Beacon Hill. Today we possess a sophistication that has produced organizations that suggest they represent the interests of a constituency — but do they really? Our deposed President Richard Nixon first surfaced the concern that the Silent Majority be heard. I say give us all a black box with a Yes or No button on it and let democracy flourish.

LIVING TODAY

Betty Ford Was Honest

By DR. WILLIAM F. KNOX

The biggest story out of Washington in August was Betty Ford's interview on CBS-TV "60 Minutes" when correspondent Morely Safer asked... "What if Susan [her daughter] came to her and said, "Mother, I'm having an affair?" Mrs. Ford responded... "Well, I wouldn't be surprised. I think she's a perfectly normal human being... like all young girls, if she wanted to continue I would certainly counsel her and advise her on the subject." Later in the interview when Safer asked about her husband and other attractions, Mrs. Ford replied... "I have perfect faith in my husband. But I'm glad to see him enjoy a pretty girl. And when he stops looking, then I'm going to begin to worry."

"Poor taste" ... some shouted. Others said "immoral". I thought it was beautiful to hear someone speak honestly from Washington without having to ask after he/she finished "What did she say?" ... "What does that mean?" I wonder if we'd get an honest answer if we asked, "what's going on between the White House and the Oil companies?" Honesty and politics don't always get along well together. So answers are often given in such a manner that they can be taken either way ... or say nothing at all.

Open truth ... genuine honesty with one's feelings hasn't been the rule. We often play deceptive games with each other. I believe in honesty in Washington ... Boston ... in the courts ... in the home ... by presidents' wives ... by public officials whether good politics or not.

I believe in husband-and-wife family honesty. Many husbands and wives are not honest with each other ... because they won't reveal their honest feelings. Many go along for years hiding what they really feel about themselves ... about each other ... about events and issues. For example ... here's the wife who says... "Dr. Knox, I can hardly stand my husband's crude habits ... like his coming to the table in his underwear ... putting his arm around my daughter's girl friends ... picking his nose." I asked "how long these habits had annoyed her." "Throughout our 20 years marriage" ... she said. "Have you talked with him about these?" "No" ... I'd be afraid to." That's dishonest. This woman has gone along for 20 years being dishonest to herself and with her husband. Communication between them was at a low ebb. She feared his disapproval ... feared his stormy outbursts ... feared most the unknown results. So fear created a dishonest relationship.

Betty Ford seems to have a good relationship with her children ... partly because she's honest with the kids. Many parents aren't. Many parents are afraid of their children's disapproval. So they play dishonest games with them ... either with evasions of truth or silence. The result is that the children grow up believing untruths ... adopting the same dishonest pattern in their own relationships.

The worst result of this dishonesty is what it does to oneself. One gets to feeling used ... phony ... a victim ... boxed in ... just doing the bidding of others. Usually, this creates a state of anger, which is marked with unpredictable violent outbursts ... or by depression. One reaches a point where one doesn't even know who one really is.

Stop saying you like something if you don't ... stop hiding your feelings from your husband/wife ... stop saying to the children ... don't tell your father/mother ... stop this old dishonest pattern of life. It's never poor taste ... or immoral to be honest.

Elections, Names And Luck

By HENRY BOSWORTH

Some people have all the luck.

Imagine running for office in Quincy and having the name Bellotti, Kennedy or MacIntyre?

And then, in a drawing, win one of the three top spots on the ballot.

Such is the good fortune of Francis X. Bellotti, Jr., Christopher F. Kennedy and Marie E. MacIntyre—three of the nine candidates for school committee.

In the drawing at City Hall to determine the position of candidates on next Tuesday's preliminary election ballot, the names of Bellotti, Kennedy and MacIntyre were pulled in 1, 2, 3 order.

Young Bellotti, of course, is the son of the Attorney General. Kennedy is no relation to THE Kennedy's and Marie MacIntyre has nothing in common with former Senator-Mayor James McIntyre including the spelling of their last names.

They are names that certainly aren't going to hurt in the vote-getting department.

In fairness to the other candidates, with just plain names, we'll note that they appear on the ballot, after the above three, in the following order:

Patricia M. Toland, Francis X. McCauley [incumbent]; Jan A. Rich, J. Thomas Mullaney, Paul M. Operach and Kenneth J. Runge.

Six are to be nominated [for three seats] on the Nov. 4 ballot. Look them over.

MEANWHILE, the Speculation Corps is busy warming up prospective candidates for the state representative seat vacated by William Delahunt to become Norfolk County district attorney. Latest being mentioned as a possibility is Atty. Joseph Killian.

WONDER IF THAT'S a political house divided on Franklin St., at Payne St., South Quincy. On the front lawn were campaign signs for both Mayor Walter Hannon and challenger Joseph LaRaia—for a few days at least. Now the Hannon sign is there all alone.

SPEAKING of LaRaia, he's now got a new gimmick—campaign ties to go along with his campaign T-shirts. [It's a wonder someone hasn't come up with campaign earrings, for the ladies].

SUPPORTERS OF Christopher Kennedy, the school committee candidate, have the fullest confidence in their candidate. The city's preliminary election is next Tuesday. His supporters already have a reception scheduled for him Oct. 2 at the North Quincy Knights of Columbus Hall. Dancing from 8 p.m. to midnight.

ONE OF QUINCY'S real "Mr. Nice Guys" was honored by more than 200 friends Saturday night at the Lantana, Randolph. Joseph Gildea of North Quincy, is retiring after 20 years as president of the Beverage Workers Union Local 513.

Joe, of course, is founder and the driving force behind the successful Little Loop Bowling program, now starting its 22nd year, past president Montclair Men's Club and former member of the Quincy Park-Recreation board. He's now assistant to New England Patriots publicity director Pat Horne.

Joe has done a lot for Quincy down through the years. And there have been a lot of kids who have kept out of mischief because of his interest in them. It was a nice tribute to him—but not really big enough.

ANOTHER QUINCY BOY is doing well for himself in the television-stage field. Lee [Chuck] Stetson made his third appearance in Hawaii Five-O Friday night in the "Murder: Eyes Only" episode.

A 1959 graduate of Quincy High School he is the stepson of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Famigletti of Sumner St.

He received an A.B. degree from Quincy Junior College in 1961 and a B.A. in history from Eastern Nazarene College in 1964. He was in the Peace Corps in Thailand from 1964 to 1966, received a master's degree in American Studies at the University of Hawaii and now lives in Honolulu.

Stetson has 24 stage credits to his name including the role of Sir Thomas More in "A Man For All Seasons". He has directed seven plays and written several. He's also the artistic director of the Parks and Recreation Department of Honolulu. All that and he's only 35.

SMILE DEPT: Jack Silverstein, the North Quincy druggist notes: "When a woman meets a man who looks her straight in the eye, she'd better do something about her figure."

Nature types abhor middle class artificiality, but some things are artificially good and others naturally rotten.

Most people we know would rather get high naturally than be slipped some LSD by a friendly government type.

Air travel may have its drawbacks but at least you don't get cinders in your eye.

Reports of busing turmoil in Boston shouldn't make other Massachusetts communities too smug. They may be next!

Only 35% Expected To Vote

The remaining six candidates thus will be nominated. They are: incumbents John J. Quinn and Arthur H. Tobin, Sabina Kavanagh Stenberg of 141 South Central Ave., Wollaston; Helen M. McDonnell of 86 Granger St., Wollaston; School Committeeman Harold Davis of 658 Furnace Brook Parkway, and Paul D. Harold of 31 Riverside Ave., Adams Shore.

The at-large race, incidentally, will test voters knowledge of local current events. The question: how many votes will Delahunt pull although he has withdrawn as a candidate?

There are only two ward council contests — Wards 1 and 2 — with no ward races in Wards 3, 4, 5, and 6.

Seeking the two nominations in Ward 1 are incumbent Leo J. Kelly, James L. McDonough, 115 Babcock St., John B.

Whalen, 144 Spring St., and Edward W. Meade, 19 Crosby St. It is an all-Houghs Neck slate.

The Ward 2 seat is open with incumbent Clifford H. Marshall vacating it to devote full time to his new duties as Norfolk County Sheriff.

Three candidates seek the two nominations: School Committeeman Daniel G. Raymondi, John S. Isaac of 22 Shaw St., Quincy Point and Robert H. Martinson of 60 Hughes St., South Quincy.

Nine candidates are after the six nominations for School Committee with two of the three seats empty. They are:

Incumbent Francis X. McCauley, Francis X. Bellotti Jr., of 120 Hillside Ave., Wollaston; Christopher F. Kennedy, 27 Barham Ave., North Quincy; Miss Marie E. MacIntyre of 118 Standish Rd., Wollaston; Mrs. Patricia M. Toland, 82 Cedar St., Wollaston; Jan A. Rich, 112 Lincoln Ave., Wollaston; J. Thomas Mullaney, 115 Standish Ave., Wollaston; Paul M. Operach, 25 Trask Ave., West Quincy and Kenneth J. Runge, 87 Willet St., Wollaston.

Squaring off in the Nov. 4 final election will be two candidates for mayor, six for three council at-large seats, two contenders for each of the six council ward seats and six for three school committee posts.

Ward 4 Councillor James A. Sheets has no opposition and is virtually already re-elected to a second term unless a write-in candidate crops up Nov. 4.

Also on Nov. 4 Ward 3 incumbent John J. Lydon Sr. will face Emery C. Fontaine Jr., of 68 Churchill Rd., Quincy Center, Ward 5 incumbent Warren Powers will meet Marilyn D. Hanabury of 2 Old Colony Ave., Wollaston and Ward 6 incumbent Dennis E. Harrington will square off against Walter J. Hickey of 155 Huckins Ave., Squantum. All are already automatically nominated.

The polls next Tuesday will be open from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Quincy Receives $434,948 In U.S. Revenue Funds

The city of Quincy recently received $434,948 in federal revenue sharing funds, representing the second largest portion in the 11th Congressional District.

Only Brockton received a larger chunk of the funds than Quincy with a $610,226 appropriation.

A total of $2.3 billion in revenue sharing funds were distributed among the 12 cities and towns in the district.

These checks are the local share of some $1.5 billion in revenue sharing funds in the eleven nationwide distribution of such funds since the program began in December, 1972.

Boston will receive a total of $5.3 million as its portion of the money returned to state and local governments as authorized by the Fiscal Assistance Act of 1972.

4th Annual Festival Of Choirs Planned At Bethany Church Nov. 23

A Community Festival of Choirs will be held, for the fourth consecutive year, Thanksgiving Sunday, Nov. 23, in Bethany Church, Quincy Sq. Choirs and musical groups from all churches of Quincy and the surrounding towns are invited to participate.

In this year of Bicentennial celebration, accent will be on American music with the combined choirs singing the Fred Waring arrangement of "Battle Hymn of the Republic" and The Ralph Vaughn Williams arrangement of "Psalm 100". Other selections by the combined groups will be the familiar "Thanks Be To God" by G. F. Handel and "God So Loved the World" by John Stainer.

An addition to this year's festival is the recently formed High Schoolers Youth Choir directed at Bethany Church by Edward Bohlen. Other youth choirs in the area or members of Youth fellowships are encouraged to join with Bethany's young people in preparing for this day of fellowship and music.

As the various choirs respond to this invitation, programming will be done by the music committee of Bethany Church with the assistance of the organist and choir director Lambert Brandes. Choirs are welcome to perform individually as well as to prepare themselves to sing as a massed group.

The rehearsal of the tour group selections will begin at 4 p.m. Refreshments will be served following the rehearsal. The concert, to which the public is invited will begin at 7 p.m. An offering will be received by the South Shore Council of Churches.

Operation LIFT Starts Sept. 28 At St. John's Church

Operation LIFT - Live In Faith Together - will be the theme for St. John's parishioners throughout the week of Sept. 28.

The week will be devoted to renewal and spiritual enrichment in keeping with the observance of the Holy Year proclaimed by Pope Paul VI for the entire Catholic Church.

Young people of the Parish may attend special services to be held each day at 3:30 p.m. in St. John's School. The services will consist of liturgies and discussions.

In the evening, varied services will be conducted in St. John's upper church beginning at 7:30 p.m. for the adults of the parish. Services in the form of benediction, readings, concelebrated Mass, Holy Communion and appropriate homilies will be given by a distinguished list of visiting Catholic clergy.

Discussions centering around the role of active and non-active Catholics in the future of the Church will also be held.

'Home Coming Sunday' At Faith Lutheran Sept. 28

Faith Lutheran Church, 201 Granite St., is planning a "Home Coming Sunday" Sept. 28.

After the 9:00 a.m. worship service, there will be a pot-luck luncheon. Registration for church school will be held on that day, also.

On Oct. 5, Faith Lutheran will resume its regular fall schedule with worship services at 9 a.m. and 11 a.m. with Pastor James Kimmell officiating. Church School will begin their sessions that day.

Union Congregational Church School Opens Sept. 28

Registration and classes for the Union Congregational Church School will be held Sunday, Sept. 28.

All classes will meet at 10:15 a.m. Sundays.

Teachers and classes are: Susan Hall, kindergarten; Mary Kari and Gail Lombard, first and second grades; Mrs. Glenda Larson, third and fourth grades; Mrs. Dorothy McTiernan, fifth and sixth grades; and Mrs. Brevlee Landquist, seventh and eighth grades.

THE CAMPAIGN TRAIL

McCauley Urges Voters To Give Attention To School Committee Race

School Committeeman Francis X. McCauley, candidate for re-election, urges voters to give equal attention to the school committee preliminary election.

The mayoralty and city council contests tend to overshadow the equally important school committee contest, McCauley said.

With a large number of candidates seeking school committee nomination in the Sept. 23 primary, McCauley urged voters to be sure to support the candidates of their choice by going to the polls. He also noted that the primary is non-partisan and that voters do not have to declare their party affiliation in order to vote.

McCauley spoke at a coffee hour at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Craig of 17 Ratchford St., Houghs Neck.

Tax Rate Does Not Accurately Reflect Cost Of Government Says LaRaia

Mayoralty candidate Joseph J. LaRaia says the city's tax rate does not accurately reflect the cost of government this year because of excessive borrowing.

Mayor Walter J. Hannon announced last week that there will be no increase in the 1976 real estate tax rate. It will remain at the present $159.90.

"There are two methods by which the administration arrived at the tax rate," LaRaia said during a coffee hour recently at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Williams, 435 Washington St., Quincy Point.

"The first was the mayor's slight of hand meaning the borrowing the city has entered into," he said. "And the second method is the use of over $2 million in revenue sharing funds from the federal government. This alone represents $9 on the tax rate."

One of the borrowing measures, LaRaia said, was the $1.5 million bond issue for Quincy City Hospital.

"A large portion of this bond went to the operating costs of the hospital despite the fact the hospital showed a $1.5 million profit this year," LaRaia said.

"The purpose of this borrowing is to stall the cost of government until after the election."

LaRaia also said the city's crime rate rose 20 per cent in the first six months of 1975 over that of the same period last year.

"Compare that with New Bedford, a city with a new population and a lower income," he said. "New Bedford's crime rate dropped 20 per cent during that same period."

"The mayor's crackdown on crime was nothing but a major theatrical display of machineguns which was obviously just a grandstand play. "It is time for a more serious approach to a very serious problem."

Program To Help New Teachers Suggested By Toland

School Committee candidate Mrs. Patricia Toland suggests a "master teacher program" to help new and less experienced teachers develop classroom management skills.

Speaking at a morning coffee hour at the home of Mrs. Paul Kelly of Ames St., West Quincy, Mrs. Toland said:

"Exceptionally good teachers who have the benefit of several years' experience should be made available to the beginning teacher who could benefit from concrete suggestions relating to classroom management from one of his or her peers."

Citing research findings, Mrs. Toland said development of such a supportive network for the beginning teacher results in "marked reduction" of both teacher discontent and teacher turnover. She said:

"Of course, it is the children who ultimately benefit from teachers who are confident in their ability and secure in the knowledge of a supportive school system."

Nutrition, More Medical Services For Elderly Urged By Stenberg

Councillor-at-large candidate Sabina Stenberg urges the city begin "meals-on-wheels" programs to provide basic nutrition to the handicapped and the elderly.

She said the elderly - often living alone - and the handicapped - unable to care for themselves - cannot prepare meals for themselves and thereby deprive themselves of nutritional necessities, becoming prone to illness.

She also stressed the need for added medical services for the aged and handicapped through home health agencies.

Mrs. Stenberg, who has pledged to donate her councillor-at-large salary to Cerebral Palsy of the South Shore Area, Inc., expressed concern for the unemployed in Quincy. She said:

"I will try to bring businesses into the area to provide additional employment opportunities for the unemployed."

She said the elderly are "relegated to second class citizenship" after the age of 65 and said she would work to provide added transportation, recreation and social activities for them.

Runge Criticizes

School committee candidate Kenneth J. Runge said Quincy Youth Hockey Association deserves "a long-overdue standing ovation" rather than what he called "cheap shots" levelled by School Committeeman Daniel Raymondi.

Runge claimed statements made by Raymondi were "misleading, incorrect, irresponsible and grossly unfair." Raymondi, reacting to a newly-announced ice rental increase from $50 to $60 per hour, was quoted as saying:

"It's beyond me why we can't put some pressure on this organization [Quincy Youth Hockey Association], to give us a break. We're getting absolutely no cooperation from these people and the rink costs have gone up $10 an hour for any kind of ice time. I'm shocked that the community gives this land away for one dollar to a private organization and that the same group gives the school department no consideration."

Raymondi On Hockey Statement

Runge said the Quincy Youth Hockey Association - composed entirely of volunteers - has built, operated and maintained a $750,000 facility at no cost to the city. He said:

"Any organization which keeps 1,200 boys and girls of all ages off the streets and engaged in healthy recreation can hardly be the same one quoted as 'giving absolutely no cooperation and no consideration to the school department.'"

Runge noted game practice schedules of the high schools have "first priority at the rink."

School committee candidate Paul Operach recently told a group of supporters discipline in schools must be enforced consistently and fairly.

Speaking at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Walsh of 144 Taffrail Rd, Operach said:

"Students respect the teacher and others who enforce rules and regulations as long as they are enforced fairly and consistently...Control of classroom settings must be maintained if educational growth is to occur. But control becomes difficult if the punishment really ceases to exist."

Jovanovic Says City Has

No Comprehensive Plan

To Ease Unemployment

Professor Michael Jovanovic, candidate for mayor, says the city has "no comprehensive plan" to ease unemployment.

In a recent address, Jovanovic said:

"There are 15,000 unemployed people in Quincy alone and yet we have no comprehensive plan to solve the problem...Unemployment is the number one problem in our nation, in our state and in our city."

Reiterating his pledge to donate half his mayor's salary to an unemployment fund, if elected, Jovanovic said he has "high hopes" other Quincy citizens would contribute their share to such a fund. He said:

"In unity, we can achieve what seems impossible in disunity. Late President John F. Kennedy gave us good advice when he said: 'My fellow Americans, ask not what your country can do for you; ask what you can do for your country.' It started here once; it may start here again."

Mullaney Suggests 'Coffee Hour'

Communication Technique

For School Officials

School committee candidate J. Thomas Mullaney suggests the school committee and school officials use the "coffee hour" technique of communication throughout the year to discuss school policies and answer questions.

Speaking at a campaign coffee hour held at the home of Dorothy Blyth of 117 Standish Ave., Wollaston, Mullaney said: "I believe coffee hours are a very effective way to communicate with small groups of people. The atmosphere is informal and a two-way discussion is easily established.

"I think everyone would benefit from these sessions. Parents or interested citizens would have an opportunity to ask questions and to learn more about their schools. The school administration or school committee would be provided a forum to discuss items they feel are important."

"I have tried hard to meet people in all sections of the city to bring my ideas about the schools to the public," she said. "I repeat that the education of our children is the most important business any community has, now and in the future."

"We must utilize our neighborhoods and use its resources to teach and develop opportunities for all students."

"I have also listed my qualifications. I think we should all know the background and qualifications of every person seeking public office. As an experienced teacher and curriculum developer, I'm well-versed in current and classical methods of teaching."

"As a hospital administrator, I have not only supervised, numbers of people, but I am also in charge of a budget, a budget I take pride in saying that I have always been able to work within. For two successive years I have been successful in turning back monies. For this reason, I feel qualified in working with the budgetary system within the School department of Quincy."

"I have tried to present ideas not politics. We don't need more politicians on the school committee. We need people who know about schools and children, people who are interested in quality education."

Kennedy Sees Resurgence Of Parent Involvement

At a recent coffee hour at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Francis J. Costa of 166 Belmont St., Wollaston, Christopher Kennedy, candidate for school committee, said "there appears to be the beginning of a resurgence of parent interest and involvement in the Quincy Schools."

Concerns over curriculum, special needs programs, homework and other general considerations have combined with specific local problems to bring together significant numbers of mothers and fathers to discuss them and to seek solutions.

"This interest is most welcome because PTA's, PTO's [or by whatever designation they are known,] provide forums for discussions of these and other matters."

"In fact, in order for parents and others to understand and appreciate the types and extent of the programs and methods currently in use, it is necessary for spokesmen for the School Department and School Committee to talk with interested groups in all sections of the city.

"Only in this way can information be spread effectively and meaningfully. At the same time much needed feedback from the community can find its way to school authorities."

"So whatever title it may carry, there has to be an association of parents, teachers and others which will provide the vehicle for the communication which is so vital. In addition, if it is to succeed, it must have the active cooperation of school officials."

Bellotti Says He Will Demand 'Wise Spending'

School committee candidate Francis X. Bellotti Jr., has pledged to demand "wise spending" within the Quincy School System while working to ensure quality education for the city's students.

Speaking of the goals of education, Bellotti said:

"Quincy education should lead to success-oriented individuals who possess common sense, basic learning skills, healthy habits and respect for themselves and their fellow human beings."

"Education must inspire young people to analyze, evaluate and improve both themselves and their environment. Our schools now possess the resources to do this without increasing cost. As your School Committeeman, I will demand wise spending while striving to insure that our students receive the best preparation possible for their future."

nuclear-powered task group.

The aircraft carrier Nimitz is the world's largest warship with a crew of more than 5,000 officers and men.

The task group is scheduled to arrive in Edinburgh, Scotland, for a three-day visit in early September.

Host Homes Program Receives $15,000 Grant

The Host Homes Program, offering alternative short-term housing to youths aged 13-18, recently received a $15,000 grant from the South Shore Council for Children.

Formed last year by the South Shore Self-Help Coalition with Survival, Inc. as fiscal agent, the Host Homes Program has developed a network of host families, which provide foster care to young people needing a home from one to 30 days. Host families undergo a period of training.

While youths are living with these host families, staff members counsel the individuals, assess the family or crisis situation and decide future plans for the youth.

Program coordinator Sheila Rega said the $15,000 grant represents 60 per cent of the program's total budget. Additional funds will be forthcoming from other state agencies, she said, and other fund-raising plans will be organized.

CETA EMPLOYEES begin painting the home of Mrs. Florence Halpin, 52 Faxon Rd., North Quincy, as part of the Atlantic Self-Help Home Improvement Program. Inspecting the project are from right: Mayor Walter J. Hannon; Geoffrey A. Davidson, Director of the Department of Planning and Community Development; Joanne Condon, president, Atlantic Neighborhood Association; Mrs. Halpin; and on the porch steps, James Pinkham, project coordinator. The program is a cooperative effort between the City of Quincy and the Atlantic Neighborhood Association.

Sept. 30 Deadline For Others

Elderly North Quincy Woman Gets Home Painted Under Self Help Program

At 84, and partially blind, Mrs. Florence Halpin had little expectations of providing a sorely needed paint job to her home at 52 Faxon Rd., North Quincy.

But, upon learning about the Atlantic Self-Help Home Improvement Program whereby low and moderate income homeowners might obtain a paint job and minor repairs at little, or no charge, she applied for assistance and, to her delight, was the first homeowner chosen.

The Atlantic Self-Help Home Improvement Plan was initiated by the Atlantic Civic Association in cooperation with the mayor's office, the city's planning and community development department and Ward 6 Councilor Dennis Harrington.

"Where one or more houses on a street are in poor and deteriorating condition, our objective is to paint the house and do necessary minor repairs which hopefully will encourage nearby homeowners to spruce up their property thereby improving the environment of the entire street," said Mayor Walter Hannon.

"This is a unique program applying only to the North Quincy-Atlantic area," noted Geoffrey Davidson, director of the city's planning and community development department. "The city is conducting the program with the assistance of the volunteer committee of the Atlantic Civic Association."

"We utilize CETA laborers loaned from the city and a relatively small amount of money for paint to make a major impact on a neighborhood while aiding those homeowners who don't possess the financial resources to keep their property up at the present time."

General income eligibility requirements for one and two family resident homeowners are a maximum income of $7,700 per year for one person, to $15,450 for a family of eight with deductions allowed from income for medical bills, health insurance, outstanding home improvement loans and second mortgage payments.

"The major factor, beyond meeting the income requirements, is the condition of the house," said Mrs. Joanne Condon, president of the Atlantic Civic Association. "The goal of the program is to effect a visual improvement in the entire Atlantic neighborhood."

"Although the painting will continue through mid-1976," said Mrs. Condon, "applications will be taken only through the end of September. We urge all interested homeowners to visit the Atlantic Methodist Church, 50 East Squantum St., on Thursday evening from 7 to 9 p.m. or Saturday morning from 10 a.m. to noon."

Give Us Some Of That Old Fashioned Discipline

By Philip J. Lawrence, President

Colonial Federal Savings

And Loan Association
of Quincy, Holbrook and Wareham

8 - 6 Weekdays

8 - 7:30 Thursdays

A clergyman, writing about the "thundering herd of autos and trucks" that streamed past him while he observed the 55-mile limit, decries the lack of discipline in today's society:

"The nation needs discipline; the whole world needs discipline. We cannot have a successful business, a viable political system, a stable economy, or decent family relationships without discipline." Amen, reverend!

In our business of thrift encouragement, we find that most people who associate themselves with us have discipline, which the dictionary defines as "training that develops self-control and character." The process of saving requires a self-denial which reflects discipline.

Yet in our business of home financing, we encounter many would-be borrowers who demonstrate characteristics which prevent us from accommodating them. It makes us wonder sometimes whether these symptoms in people should be treated, like alcoholism, as a disease.

A newspaper article about the sharp rise of bankruptcy filings in 1974 over the preceding year contains some illuminating insights into this condition. One couple, for example, who landed in Bankruptcy Court, has a combined income of $33,000 per year. They commonly ate lunch together in an expensive downtown restaurant where the bill for two was in excess of $10. When they found themselves short of cash, they increased their use of credit cards, which this restaurant accepted.

"It was a real downer," the wife said. "I once sent a check for $50 for our food bill - the amount was $120. The company credited us with paying only $18 on the total; the other $32 went for interest."

The director of a family financial counseling center cites the rising rate of bankruptcy as proof that many middle-income people do not know how to spend their money wisely. A Bankruptcy Court trustee agrees that most people he sees get into their difficulties because they are poor money managers.

He adds that many of them are slow learners. One gent who was under a Bankruptcy Act program of paying all his debts [at reduced rates] over a three-year period asked for permission to take out a new loan. When pressed as to whether it was necessary, he said indeed it was: He wanted the money to take his wife to Europe.

We agree with the clergyman that "in our era of permissiveness we have neglected the training that inspires self-control and character."

Quincy Junior College and Eastern Nazarene College have been awarded library grants totalling $34,242.

Congressman James A. Burke said the funds - awarded by the Office of Libraries and Learning Resources of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare - will be used to acquire instructional equipment and materials and to perform related minor remodeling.

Quincy Junior College received a $19,472 grant while Eastern Nazarene College received a grant totalling $14,770. Grants were made on a matching basis, Burke said.

Nancy Callahan Promoted At Howard Johnson's

Nancy A. Callahan of Quincy has been promoted to fleet administrator at Howard Johnson's and will be responsible for administering and maintaining records on the company's fleet of owned and leased vehicles.

Former property accounting supervisor, Miss Callahan joined Howard Johnson's in 1961 and has held various positions in restaurant accounting.

Quincy Bank Opens Branch At 1000 Southern Artery

The Quincy Bank, a co-operative bank announces the opening of a branch office at 1000 Southern Artery.

This full service bank will offer free 5% NOW checking accounts, a full line of savings accounts and other banking services including check cashing, travelers checks and registered checks.

President John A. Vivian said he believes the branch will serve a segment of the population with special needs, in an area previously not directly receiving any form of banking services.

The 500 square foot branch office is located in the East Wing, on the ground floor hallway, directly off the access corridor from the South Building.

Initially, banking hours will be from noon to 3 p.m. Monday through Friday. After a trial period, experience and requirements will establish permanent banking hours to accommodate customers' needs.

James Sheard, manager of the new branch, and two tellers will be on hand to assist in all phases of banking, including the new Direct Deposit Program for Federal Recurring Payments which allows a person receiving monthly payments from the Federal Government to have their payment sent directly to Quincy Bank.

Quincy Bank, in celebration of this opening extended 1,400 invitations to residents of 1000 Southern Artery, special guests and dignitaries to attend a lawn party outside the East Wing

Hospital Denies LaRaia Charge Of $1 Million Surplus

Charges of a $1 million surplus at Quincy City Hospital have been called erroneous by hospital director Harlan Paine and comptroller John Fantucchio.

Replying to statements by Councillor Joseph LaRaia that the hospital received a million dollars more than it spent, Fantucchio pointed out that the actual figure for 1974-75 is $61,653.40.

"The cash collected by the city in behalf of the hospital was $15,407,743.91. Expenditures came to $14,346,690.06 with an additional $65,103.49 still encumbered on June 30," said Fantucchio.

"The various departments of the city recovered some $934,296.96 which were expenses incurred by the departments for services rendered to the hospital, including Blue Cross and pensions for hospital employees."

Paine pointed out that "if the hospital had to go out and buy these services or provide them at the hospital itself, the $934,296.96 figure might be much higher."

"What actually happened in our 1974-75 budget is that we hit it right on the nose. We came within $61,000 of pinpointing income and expenses," said Paine.

Fantucchio added, "That's difficult to do because you can never be sure when third party payments are going to come in or how much money will remain uncollected from patients."

Paine also said that LaRaia's charge that some $600,000 of hospital operating funds were transferred to the $1.5 million bond issue, recently approved by the city council, was incorrect.

"It would be illegal for us to do that," he said. "The $600,000 was for capital expenditures. The bond issue will permit us to catch up in buying much needed equipment, particularly in the x-ray field."

Fantucchio indicated that an x-ray room now runs in excess of $200,000.

"With the bond issue," said Paine, "we can meet equipment needs which have been pending for some time. It will take at least six months for the equipment to be installed after it has been ordered. During that time the bond money is being invested and the funds earned will help pay the interest."

Fantucchio added that patient fees will also help cover the payments on the bond.

When asked about future equipment needs at Quincy City Hospital, Paine indicated that "the bond money means that we need to include only some $300,000 a year in our budget for capital expenditures."

The hospital is now in an excellent position both financially and in terms of equipment requirements.

20,000 Students

'We Must Work Together For Safety'

By JOHN BARTHOLOMEW
 Quincy Schools Safety Officer

The fading days of summer are with us again and students of all ages are back in school.

We, the citizens of Quincy, in order to have a safe and happy school year must work together - the school department, police, parents and children - to practice the basic rules of safety.

Here in Quincy we have almost 20,000 students ranging from pre-kindergarten to college age. Monitoring our main streets and intersections will be 45 women traffic supervisors and eight regular police officers. We are also assisted by an estimated 1,000 pupils serving on the school safety patrol.

Help to make the many travelled miles to and from schools a pleasure and not a chore. Encourage your children to follow these rules:

- Always walk on the sidewalk.
- Cross only at corners, look both ways before crossing.
- Use crosswalk whenever possible.
- Don't cross from behind parked cars.
- When crossing at a traffic light, wait for the light to change and for the traffic to stop before crossing.
- Obey your school traffic supervisor and patrol.
- Watch for turning cars.
- Never dart out onto the street.

● Walk defensively: be especially alert for careless drivers.

Additional safety rules for school bus riders are:

- Wait for the bus in an orderly line.
 - When boarding or leaving the bus, don't run.
 - Place books and bundles where they cannot slide or fall.
 - Keep arms and legs out of aisles.
 - Your head, arms and bundles are safest inside the bus.
 - Don't talk to the bus driver except in an emergency.
 - Don't open windows without permission.
- Remember that an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure.

Don't Forget The School Bus Law

School buses are rolling again in great numbers throughout Massachusetts.

Many of these buses will be in areas where motorists have not had to contend with them before. In these areas, drivers should allow themselves extra travel time to compensate for stopping for school buses as required by law.

It is imperative that drivers re-acquaint themselves with the "school bus" law so that we can continue to protect the students who use these buses.

Massachusetts law provides: "When approaching a vehicle which displays a sign bearing the words 'SCHOOL BUS' and is equipped with front and rear alternating flashing signal lamps which are flashing, as provided in section 7 B, and which has been stopped to allow passengers to alight from or board the same, a person operating a motor vehicle shall, except when approaching from the opposite direction on a divided highway, bring his vehicle to a full stop before reaching said school bus and shall not thereafter proceed until such school bus resumes motion or until such person is signaled by the driver of the school bus to proceed or the said signal lamps are no longer flashing."

New Faces, Old Memories

Presidents To Seek Revenge At Dedham

By TOM SULLIVAN
Quincy High's "reorganized" football team, with two new assistant coaches and several new faces, opens its season Saturday at Dedham in a non-league game and Coach Hank Conroy and his veteran players remember last year's game only too well.

In the start of a new rivalry made possible when high schools were allowed to return to 10-game schedules, Quincy was overrun by Dedham, 40-6, at Veterans Memorial Stadium, so the Presidents have a lot of incentive Saturday. That loss was the start of an unhappy season for Quincy, which salvaged a 3-7 record with a cherished win over North Quincy.

"We are coming along well," Conroy said. "We have had three scrimmages. In our first against Boston Tech, we started slowly, with new coaches and a lot of new varsity players, but we improved against Somerville and I was particularly pleased with our showing against Peabody, a strong team. Things are starting to come along and I am pleased with our progress."

Quincy, starting its second year in the Suburban League, will have a starting offensive team of three-year veteran John Riggs [200] and either Wayne French [145] or Russ Affsa [160], ends; a pair of

On defense Riggs and Paul Ferris will be at end, Varrasso and Popsie [220] at tackle, Rich Hockings [185] at middle guard, Larry Calley [160] and Mike Carloni [215] line backers, Tony DiRocco [165] and Gibbons [155] cornermen and Guest and Eric Bergstrom [180] safety men.

Others slated for defensive action include Colletti and Frank McNeill at end, Coleman at tackle, Foley at middle guard, Coscia and Dunlea at linebacker, Steve Ohlson and Bob Derbes cornermen, Buchanan and Tom Bamberg safeties.

Quincy Soccer Team Wins First Two Games

Quincy's soccer team, hoping to improve upon last year's 8-8-2 Suburban League record, is off and running with wins in its first two games.

Ron Martin's Presidents opened with a 7-1 breeze over Rindge Tech as Pete Kennan had two goals and Glenn Schlager, Ken Norton, Ken Dosovan, Mike Golub and Bob Barrus one apiece.

Quincy followed up with a 2-1 decision last Friday over Weymouth South.

Quincy played Cambridge Latin Tuesday, will host Brockton Friday and will be home to Weymouth North Tuesday.

Registration Underway For Little Loop

Registrations for the 22nd season of the Quincy Bowling Little Loop are now being accepted.

Boys 11 through 15 years [including former bowlers] must apply by postcard or letter to League President Joseph N. Gilder, 45 Division St., North Quincy 02171. Information must include: Full name, address, age, date of birth and telephone number.

Bowling will start Saturday, Oct. 11 at 9 a.m. at the Wollaston Boulevard Bowladrome.

After two weeks of competition in rollofs, teams will be selected for the 25 weeks regular season. Boys with religious classes on Saturday mornings or other activities which would preclude their attendance for the full schedule will not be accepted.

The league is open to all boys and is not restricted to Quincy residents only. The first 80 youngsters to send in applications will be accepted and the rest put on an alternate list.

Team sponsors are: Granite Lodge 1451, I.A.M. AFL-CIO (74-75, champs) Atty.

Burke in Coaching Debut

Raiders Host To Old Rival Milton Saturday

Dave Burke gave North Quincy football fans plenty to cheer about when he quarterbacked the Raiders back in the mid-40's, and he hopes to give the current band of fans something to cheer about this fall as he takes over as North's head coach.

Burke will lead his first team on to the Veterans Memorial Stadium turf Saturday as the Raiders host old rival Milton in a 1:30 p.m. non-league game.

North is starting its second season in the Suburban League and Burke hopes to lead the team to a winning season after a 4-6 mark last year. Ralph Frazier's first losing season in four years.

"We are coming along and the boys are getting acclimated to my system," Burke said. "My assistants, all returning from last year, have been a tremendous help to me, as they know all the players, and my four captains have also been just great. It would have been much harder for me taking over the team if my assistants were also new to the team."

Dave expects no easy time Saturday as he has been told of last year's game in which Milton surprised the favored Raiders, 8-6, in the rain.

Jack Bowes, a North Quincy assistant for several years before taking over as Milton's head coach two years ago, last fall led the Whiz Kids to their best season in several years and shocked Natick, which won the Division One Super Bowl.

Burke expects to open with an offensive lineup of Cooper Jordan [185], and Mike Kelley

Among others due to see action on offense are Jerry McKenzie and Jim Frye at end, John Desmond and Keith Lindberg at tackle, Dan Butts and John Collins at guard, Steve Bell at center and George Wallace, Jack Hatfield, Bill McIntyre and Paul McGuigan in the backfield.

The probable starters on defense are Pete Hemphill [175] and Noonan at end, McHugh and John Ryan [185] at tackle, Collins [160] and Steve Bonoli [160] at the corners, Desmond [165] and Frank Struzzula [175] linebackers, McGuigan [160] and Ed McEleney [180] halfbacks and Hatfield [160] safety.

There could be changes in this starting alignment and among others certain to play on defense are Mark Wentzell, Ed Hanrahan and Cooney at end, Hall and Mark Nagle at tackle, Noonan, Frank McGuinness and John McGur at the corners, Paul Petrillo, Bell and John McKinnon linebackers, Brian McMahon, Jordan and Billy White at halfback and Jordan will also see service as safety.

Jordan, Nee, Doherty and Constantino were starters '68 offense last year, with Doherty leading the team in scoring. Several of the others saw action on offense.

Among those who saw considerable service on defense were McHugh, Hall, Noonan, Struzzula and Hatfield.

The secondary has been especially outstanding in scrimmages, averaging three to four pass interceptions in each. The defense on the whole has been satisfying to Burke and his aides.

"The defense has done a fine job and the offense has been coming along all right," Burke said. "I've cut down on the number of plays after several scrimmages and the boys have moved the ball pretty well. A lot of our players are up from last year's undefeated sophomore team and they look good."

Palmer Pub Edges Lum's

An amazing performance by Tommy Garwood sparked Quincy's Palmer Pub Hotshots to a thrilling 101-99 triple overtime win over Lum's of Hingham to win the TARO Basketball League cup.

Garwood scored 20 points and had an incredible 31 rebounds. Other standouts were Gene Deloatch with 27 points and 13 assists, Rick Sprague with 20 points, Joe Bendix with 16 points and Buzz Connolly, who had 11 points and his two tip-ins in the third overtime made the difference.

The Hotshots now will enter the Quincy Industrial League before competing in the strong Cranberry League.

Quincy's O'Malley On Ali-Frazier Local Card

Quincy's undefeated heavyweight prospect, Danny Boy O'Malley, will be boxing at the Boston Garden Tuesday night, Sept. 30, on the live segment of the all-star boxing show featuring the closed-circuit telecast of the Muhammad Ali-Joe Frazier, 15-round world heavyweight title fight from Manila.

On Aug. 26, at New Bedford,

O'Malley made his professional debut by winning a one-sided 6-round decision over veteran New Bedford giant, Ed Casey, who weighed 235 to O'Malley's 190.

For his second pro fight, O'Malley will meet tough club fighter, Ron Gebere of Clinton, in a special 6-rounder. Gebere, with a 8-3-3 record, had turned pro in California after winning the All-Service heavyweight AAU title for the Navy.

In other live bouts, undefeated New England middleweight champion, Marvin Hagler of Brockton, will fight Lamont Lovelady of Des Moines, Iowa in a 10-rounder.

Norton's heavyweight Ricky Wynn will fight in a 6-rounder against Jay Harris of Philadelphia.

North Rebuilding Around Graduates

A year ago North Quincy High enjoyed one of its finest soccer seasons with a 14-2-2 record, a second place finish in its first Suburban League season and a berth in the state tournament.

This year Coach Lou Ioanilli is rebuilding around graduates of last season's junior varsity team. Lou has a half dozen returning varsity players but his hopes rest largely on the 1974 jayvees.

North is off to a fast start with a 4-1 win over Cambridge Latin and a 3-1 decision over Brockton last Friday.

In the Cambridge game Pete Donovan had two goals and Jim McGinley and Ed Coutts one each. Against Brockton Donovan had two more goals, one on a pass from John Lawson, the other a penalty shot. McGinley had the other with Jay Nelson assisting.

The Raiders played at Weymouth North Tuesday, will be at Brookline Friday and will go to Waltham Tuesday.

Ioanilli lost his two outstanding goalies from last year and this year three jayvee graduates, Tony Alessi, Rick Smith and Nick Anastos are battling for the job. All look about even, according to Ioanilli.

Varsity returnees are headed by Co-captains Pete Donovan and Kevin O'Neil, both forwards.

Others are halfback Dave Adams, halfback John Lawson, Halfback Jim McGinley, a junior who started last year as a sophomore and Jack Brown, currently sidelined with an injury.

Dolbec, fullback Ralph Frye, forward Ken Johnson, halfback Jim Maibach, halfback Tom McKillop, forward Bob Stack, forward Bill Wildes, fullback Jay Nelson, halfback Dan Setlin, halfback Chuck Donnelly and halfback Tom White.

Forward Jim Smith, forward Tom DeAngelo and Walter McGinley are playing for the first time.

Ioanilli was greeted by a fine turnout of 60 and the other candidates will be playing for Dick O'Brien's junior varsity team.

"We are not too experienced but we have some fine prospects," Ioanilli said. "Our three junior varsity goalies have looked good in three outside scrimmages and right now I rate them about even. Donovan is a three-year veteran and very strong, Jim McGinley played well as a sophomore and O'Neil is vastly improved. I think we will be stronger over the second half of the season when our players have gained experience. Several of our boys played in a spring league, our older boys finishing first and the younger boys third, but a lot of the older ones graduated last June."

Tozzi Hopes For Winning Season

North Quincy's cross country team had a 5-4 record in its first Suburban League season and an overall 8-5 mark last season and Coach Lou Tozzi hopes for another winning season this fall.

The Raiders opened their season Tuesday at Brockton and next Tuesday will run at Brookline.

North was third in the Suburban League championships and fourth in the state Class B championships a year ago.

"We are looking forward to continuing our overall improvement not only in cross country but in our entire track program here," Tozzi said. "We feel we are making rapid progress, we are getting the type of people we want, kids with a good attitude, plenty of desire and are willing to work hard."

Leading the Raiders is Co-Capt. Bart Petraccia, one of the best runners around. Petraccia set five course records last year, losing only one dual meet and breaking the Weymouth course record in that race. He was fourth in the state championships, then tore ligaments in his knee in an accident. He came back and ran a 4:15.9 mile in placing third in the New England last spring.

Co-Capt. Ken O'Brien, the fifth man last year, is respected around the league for his powerful finishing kick. He looks like the number two or three man. His twin brother, Kevin, a co-captain at Quincy.

Mike Morin, currently running as second man, is the most improved runner on the squad and went from a 5:45 to a sub-4:50 mile since last fall.

Tozzi has two sets of twins. One set, juniors Bob and Marty Levenson, are hard working and have fine attitudes.

The others are seniors Phil and Peter Maloney, good prospects.

Ed Caril and Andy Laskowski are other veterans and the most impressive newcomer is Jim Gavigan. Two sophomores with much promise are Mike Barrett, whose brother, Art, was co-captain last year, and Matt Breslin. Others on the squad are Joe Piazza, Jerry Keys and sophomores Dave Abbott, Mike Edwards, Jim Kelly and Tim McCormack.

Girls' cross country was introduced last fall with the Raiderettes finishing 3-3. Tozzi had 16 girls turn out but at this writing hadn't familiarized himself with most of them. They will run on the same days as the boys.

Catalano New Quincy Coach

Quincy has a new cross country coach this year and Joe Catalano, a former distance runner himself for the Presidents, is confident his team will improve greatly on last fall's 1-8 record.

With Tom Hall moving up into an administrative post, Catalano is acting as coach until his expected official appointment by the school committee.

The Presidents opened their second Suburban League season Tuesday at Weymouth North and next Tuesday will host Newton over the Quincy course which starts and ends outside Adams Field. The girls will run on the same days over the same courses.

Hall a year ago lost his top three runners before the season opened and, although getting some fine individual performances, especially from Bob Thorne, he lacked the depth to match his league foes.

"We have some excellent runners and not only do I feel sure we will have a winning record, I honestly think we can be a serious challenger for the title," Catalano said. "I had a cross country camp during the summer and several of our runners attended and worked hard. Others also ran a lot and all are in excellent condition."

Catalano has tri-captains, Thorne, Kevin O'Brien and Fran Yee, all experienced distance runners and among the Presidents' best.

Another outstanding runner is Sophomore John Saville, who last year won the junior high mile championship with a record-breaking performance.

Other experienced runners are Donald Johns, Dave Raftery, Dennis McCarthy and a transfer from East Windsor, Conn., Gene Allen.

Rounding out the squad are Paul Laddes, Harry Williams, Steve Kane, John Foley, Neil Rodberg and Sam Gravina.

Last fall girls' cross country was introduced and the Quincy girls were 3-3 in the league.

"I am not acquainted as yet with the girls, but I know what Dottie Irvine and Kelly Tobin, two outstanding runners, will be our top girls and some of the others also show promise," Catalano said.

Misses Irvine and Tobin were among the First Ladies' best last year, were outstanding in junior high and are members of the Quincy Track Club.

Executive Hockey Loop Back In Action

The Quincy Executive Hockey League has begun its third season with teams composed of fathers and Quincy Youth Hockey Association coaches.

The teams play each Sunday from 8:30 to 11 p.m. at the Youth Arena.

In Sunday's opening games the White, Blue and Red teams posted wins.

Dave Hussey, John McNeil and Frank McAuliffe scored for the Whites as they edged the Golds, 3-2. McNeil, Bob Kallastrom, Hussey and Bob Hayes had assists. Don Fawcett and Jack Powers scored for the Golds with Wayne Gauthier having an assist.

The Blues blanked the Orange team, 3-0, with Mac McCarthy outstanding in goal. Fran Whalen, Russ Erickson Jr., and Jack Hurley had the goals, while Art Boyle had two assists and Erickson one.

The Reds topped the Greens, 4-1, on goals by Smokey Adams, Joe Ryan, Dave McArthur and Ted Ahola. Ken Wright had two assists and Tom Connolly and Frank Moriarty one apiece. For the Greens Dave Hickey had the goal.

Hotshots Wind Up 5-2

The Palmer Pub Hotshots represented Quincy and the TARO League well in Weymouth's ASA Softball Tournament during the past two weekends.

The Hotshots finished seventh with a 5-2 record.

George Campbell was the big hitter with a .643 average and Tom Daley led the team in RBIs and slugging percentage. Roger Homan did all the pitching and was aided by outstanding defense by Bruce Forsythe, Dave Drew, Rocky Connolly and Paul Connolly.

The Hotshots will rest for two weeks before entering Melrose's one-pitch tournament the last weekend of this month.

a 3-4 record for the first half of the season.

Myers passed for 162 yards and one touchdown, while Carrera, one of Quincy's all-time running stars, ran for 142 yards and scored one TD. Myers, who also had a touchdown on a bootleg play, threw a 30-yard pass to John Moriarty to set up a touchdown, three another for 33 yards to another Quincy player, Pat Grimes, to set up another, and a 38-yard run by Carrera set up still another Randolph tally.

Courtney, Fleming Squantum Tennis Winners

The fourth annual Squantum Invitational Tennis Classic was held last Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday at Faxon

Park with more than 200 in attendance in good weather.

More than 50 singles players and 25 doubles teams competed in the event. Larry Courtney was the director, assisted by Dick Courtney and Bill McSweeney.

Robin Fleming won the men's singles with a 6-4, 6-4 win over Ed McKinnon in the finals. In the semifinals Fleming had defeated John Reznick, 6-1, 6-0, and McKinnon topped number one seed and defending champion Mike Ryan, 6-4, 6-3.

In men's doubles Larry Courtney and Fleming successfully defended their crown by defeating McKinnon and Ryan, 6-4, 6-3. It was the third year in a row Courtney had been on the winning doubles team.

In the semifinal Courtney and Fleming had defeated Reznick and Bob Tilley, 6-0, 6-1, and Ryan and McKinnon defeated Paul Raleigh and Bill McSweeney, who retired after trailing, 5-4.

QYHA Refutes Statements On School Ice Time And Costs

The Quincy Youth Hockey Association has refuted facts, figures and statements made regarding the newly-announced ice time rate hike at the Quincy Youth Hockey Rink.

In a formal statement approved by the association's Board of Directors and the Quincy Youth Arena, Inc., the Association said high schools in Quincy will rent 92 hours of practice time and play 20 games at the rink for a total of 132 hours of rental time, to cost an estimated $8,040.

An article in another newspaper reported varsity hockey teams at both high schools would practice 10 hours each for 12 weeks and would play 36 games this season, totalling 294 hours of rental time to cost an estimated $17,600.

The association statement also said its ice time fee has increased five dollars - not $10 - from $55 to $60.

The newspaper account had quoted Athletic Director Carl Leone as saying the rental fee will increase $10 this season, from $50 to $60.

The statement also cited City Council order No. 334, dated June 19, 1972, which reads in part: "All Quincy groups shall be charged the same rate per hour for ice rental."

School Committeeman Daniel Raymond had been quoted as saying, "It's beyond me why we can't put some pressure on this organization [The Quincy Youth Hockey Association] to give us a break."

The association statement went on to note the rink's electric bill - the "biggest monthly expense" - has almost tripled since the facility opened. The Association noted the Waltham rink charges a one dollar admission fee and stated:

"The rink [Quincy Youth Hockey Rink] does not cost the taxpayers one cent. The only paid jobs are for maintenance."

Responding to statements made by Raymond, the Association said:

"Instead of trying to put pressure on an organization that is trying to do something for the boys and girls in the city, it would seem that he should be trying to help a youth-oriented, non-profit organization."

VOTE FOR Robert H. Martinson Candidate for City Council Ward 2

I am seeking support from people other than those in the legal profession.

I believe that, as dedicated as these men and women in the legal profession may be, they practically have a monopoly on elective offices, not only in city governments but throughout the state and federal governments as well.

I also believe there are many capable people in other professions and occupations who would bring a new and refreshing dimension to city government if they were to choose to serve in this important capacity.

Campaign Financial Statements

Hannon Spends Most, LaRaia Raises Most

According to candidate reports listing campaign contributions and expenditures, for the Sept. 23 city preliminary election, mayoralty contender Joseph LaRaia has raised the greatest amount of contributions while incumbent Mayor Walter J. Hannon has spent the most.

A total of 21 candidates for mayor, city council and school committee met Monday's 4:30 p.m. deadline for filing reports on campaign contributions and expenditures dating since Jan. 1, 1975.

LaRaia reported a total of $25,243.95 in contributions and $22,228.09 in expenditures.

Hannon listed total contributions at $22,737 and expenditures at $26,490.18.

Mrs. Grace E. Saphir disclosed campaign contributions totalling $6,676.87 and expenditures of $6,162.12.

Professor Michael Jovanovic, a fourth mayoralty candidate, did not file by Monday's deadline.

According to state election laws, candidates must file a listing of all campaign contributions over $15 and all expenditures over $25, eight days before the preliminary election scheduled for Sept. 23 in Quincy.

Candidates must file a similar report eight days before the final election Nov. 4.

In the category of contributions under $15, Hannon reported a total of $5,587, LaRaia, $9,005.95, and Saphir, $295.

Candidates who did not file by Monday's deadline will be sent notices from the City Clerk's office. Assistant City Clerk Thomas Burke said the attorney general will be notified of the names of all candidates who do not file reports within 10 days of the original deadline day.

Burke noted all candidates, even those unopposed or those who have neither raised nor spent campaign funds, must nevertheless file the proper reports.

Other candidates filing reports were:

Ward 1 City Council incumbent Leo J. Kelly: $210 in contributions, $120 spent.

Ward 1 candidate Edward W. Meade: $818 received, $775.05 spent.

Ward 2 candidate John S. Isaac: zero raised, $66.95 spent.

Ward 4 candidate James A. Sheets: $606 raised, $709.12 spent.

Harrington: $200 raised, $192.15 spent.

Ward 6 council candidate Walter J. Hickey: zero raised, zero spent.

School committee candidate Francis X. Bellotti Jr.: $3,773 raised, $3,270.96 spent.

School committee candidate Francis X. McCauley: $585 raised, $672.71 spent.

School committee candidate Paul Operach: $1,000 raised, $367.59 spent.

School committee candidate Jan Rich: $765.44 raised, $751.73 spent.

School committee candidate Patricia Toland: $2,286.60 raised, $1,159.76 spent.

Councillor-at-large candidate John J. Quinn: $1,050 raised, $1,036.15 spent.

Councillor-at-large candidate Arthur H. Tobin: $2,050 raised, $1,144.30 spent.

Councillor-at-large candidate William Delahunt: $5,946 raised, $4,191.51 spent. [He has since withdrawn as a candidate.]

Councillor-at-large candidate Paul Harold: $4,250.14 raised, $3,808.35 spent.

Councillor-at-large candidate Sabina Stenberg: $165 raised, $1,781.27 spent.

Councillor-at-large candidate Harold Davis: $5,421 raised, $4,810.38 spent.

Sheets Protests MDC Police Cutback On Protection For West Quincy Pupils

Ward 4 Councillor James A. Sheets is protesting an MDC police protection cutback in West Quincy last week - a move he said jeopardized the safety of school children walking home.

Although Sheets said he has been informed MDC protection has now returned to normal, he said coverage was "stripped to a minimum last week" in West Quincy in order to provide extra MDC coverage in South Boston where students returned to school under Phase 2 of court-ordered desegregation.

Also expressing concern about the MDC cutback, Rep. Joseph E. Brett said he was informed by a spokesman for MDC Commissioner John Snedeker that police protection in West Quincy was scheduled to resume Tuesday.

Sheets said he was not informed of the planned cutback in MDC protection and said he plans to file a resolve at Monday's City Council meeting, urging that area officials be notified of any further planned reductions in protection, enabling the Quincy police department to provide needed safety protection in the city. He said:

"I had not been informed that the MDC would take this action and learned of it only when the MDC patrolman was not at the corner of Reardon St. and Furnace Brook Parkway to guide the children across that very dangerous intersection."

Urging a meeting between MDC and Quincy police to form a contingency plan in case of further MDC cutbacks, Sheets said:

"The safety of children in Quincy is as important as the safety of children in South Boston. It makes no sense to attempt to resolve one hazardous problem while creating another."

part of a 13-member delegation opposing construction of the South Quincy MBTA station. A paragraph below the picture reads:

"Last month, he [LaRaia] took the voice of Quincy to Washington, D.C. - at his own expense - in opposition to the station. Joe met with Roger Krahl of the Urban Mass Transit Administration who assured the city councillor that no definite plans had yet been made on the station."

Contacting Krahl in Washington, D.C. Tuesday, Hannon said Krahl had not given LaRaia permission to use any photo of himself in a political leaflet and said he [Krahl] had no knowledge a picture of himself was being used in LaRaia's campaign literature.

Hannon said Krahl told him

UMTA officials had listened courteously to the views of the Quincy-Braintree delegation but said the same courtesy would be accorded a contingent supporting construction of the station. Hannon also said Krahl told him there would be a rapid transit station built "in the vicinity of Rte. 128."

Hannon also criticized LaRaia for denying the $1.5 million bond issue passed by the City Council for capital outlay at Quincy City Hospital when, Hannon said, LaRaia in fact voted for that bond issue. Hannon said:

"He [LaRaia] is saying the $1.5 million bond issue was awful, just awful - as if he didn't vote for it. It's right on the record."

Hannon then read the list of councillors voting "yea" on the measure, with LaRaia's name one of the eight in the 8-0 vote. "It's time for a bit of honesty in campaigning," he concluded.

30 Unemployed May Be Hired For Flood Control Project

Approximately 30 of the city's unemployed will be hired to work on a major flood control program by January, if approval to a federal $293,000 public works grant is given.

Mayor Walter J. Hannon this week applied for the grant from the Economic Development Administration. Eighty-two per cent of the funds that would be received are slated to be used directly as wages for previously unemployed people.

The flood control and environmental improvements program will deal with clearing brooks of debris to lessen flooding and the cleaning and protection of marshes, important water storage and nesting areas. In addition, park land maintenance will be increased, beaches will be restored and sea walls repaired. "One of the most important priorities for the city is finding jobs for those who have lost their jobs because of the recession," said Hannon.

"We have succeeded in many areas in holding down unemployment with the CETA program and by attracting new businesses and industry to Quincy. Prime example of these include Kemper Insurance, Jordan Marsh and State Street South.

"Our policy is to seek out additional ways of reducing unemployment. The $293,000 grant application, another example of this policy, would bring substantial benefits to the people of our City," Hannon said.

Many residents of the City have been dealing with severe flooding problems for many years. Parts of Quincy recently became eligible for Federal Flood Insurance under the Flood Plane Zoning Act. Two factors which influence the severity of the problem are unrepaired sea walls and silt filled brooks and marshes.

"We understand the extreme problems that people who have dealt with flooding must live with," Hannon continued. "I believe it's extremely important to find permanent solutions to their problems. The Public Works program will work towards this solution through repairs and the clearing of brooks."

If approved, unemployed people, skilled in light machine operation, masons, supervisors and laborers, will be eligible to participate, according to the Department of Planning and Community Development, which wrote the application and also reviewed it with the Commissioners of Public Works and Natural Resources.

Tobin Asks Libraries Be Open On Sundays

A recommendation that the main branch of the Thomas Crane Public Library be opened seven days a week for the convenience of Quincy's residents, has been made by City Council President Arthur H. Tobin.

The request for the Sunday openings has been taken under advisement by Warren Watson, Director of the Quincy Library Department and The Library Trustees.

Watson is expected to bring the Tobin recommendation and a modified staff schedule for the proposed Sunday hours before the Board of Library Trustees for their approval.

The request for expanded library hours comes in response to requests from Quincy parents that their school aged children are forced to travel to Boston or other communities if they wish to use a library on Sunday.

"Sunday openings of the library would not only be of benefit to the school children and students of Quincy, but also every other resident who uses and enjoys the facilities and programs that the library offers," Tobin said.

Quincy Delegates To Meet

With Parents On Human Services

Parents of children who benefit from South Shore area human services programs will be able to meet Wednesday, Sept. 24 with members of the Quincy legislative delegation to discuss the effects of cuts in children's services projects.

Coordinated by the South Shore Council for Children, the meeting - one in an on-going series - will bring together parents and three Quincy State representatives - Joseph E. Brett, Thomas F. Brownell and Robert Cerasoli.

The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. at Quincy Point Congregational Church, 444 Washington St.

Survival, Inc., the multi-faceted drug and youth program serving the South Shore, recently hosted such an information-sharing night attended by 10 parents and two aides to Senator-City Council President Arthur H. Tobin.

Explaining the necessity of children's services offered throughout the South Shore, one mother told a Tobin aide she will have to return to the welfare rolls - costing the state an estimated $3,000 within three years - because Quincy II, a sliding day care fee scale for working parents, has been discontinued. She said the program had enabled her to get off welfare and return to the labor force, knowing her children would receive quality education in a proper social environment.

One father told of the success of Pilgrim Center, a counseling and family therapy program which helped ease family strain and spurred his son to finish high school and continue to college.

Another parent said his brain-injured daughter can now roll over and is beginning to feed herself through a home teaching infant stimulation program.

We Believe Him...

"I applaud Mayor Hannon's establishment of a Women's Commission to address itself to the needs of women so that they might participate more fully in the life of this city."

— Alicia Coletti, Merrymount —

"No Mayor has done more for Houghs Neck."

— John Southerland, Houghs Neck —

"Helpful with programs like Head Start. Good police patrolling in our area. You're never turned away from his office. Mayor is always available."

— Charlotte Jolie, Germantown —

"Never too busy to listen to people, to hear you out."

— Phyllis Bagen, Quincy Point —

"He tells it like it is at a time when people don't want to hear the truth."

— William Dwyer, Merrymount —

"Sympathetic to the needs of the people of Quincy. Doing a good job!"

— Dave Crowley, Houghs Neck —

"I look up to him as Mayor. He's an asset to the City. He's honest."

— Joseph Ahern, Quincy Center —

"The Mayor likes people."

— Mrs. Ahern, Quincy Center —

"He came to the hospital to make personal visits. Never lost the human touch. Lots of empathy."

— Clarence Edwards, Merrymount —

"He got the Community Development program for Houghs Neck. Fine job in the City."

— Lois Murphy, Houghs Neck —

"He has the ability to talk to young people. Went to the young people to ask for volunteers to clean up the city. That's great."

— Earl Eaves, Wollaston —

"Straight forward! Honest. Does a good job. With the way the economy is, he is doing a darn good job!"

— Si Tutunjian, Merrymount —

"Mayor Hannon was the moving force behind the acquisition of Squaw Rock for the residents of Quincy."

— Ann O'Leary, Squantum —

"Mayor Hannon understands our problems. He speaks up and serves all the people."

— Bernice Lydon, Squantum —

"Responsive to young and old, Mayor Hannon is interested in all segments of the community."

— Eleanor Ottina, South Quincy —

"What has Hannon done wrong? Nothing. Always ready to listen. He has improved the City of Quincy . . . State Street South, Jordan's and Kemper Insurance."

— Ray Dunn, Quincy Point —

"Fine young man! Progressive and dynamic! Helped the elderly more than any other Mayor."

— Mrs. Media Moakley, 1000 So. Artery —

"He's straight forward in making decisions. He's right for the City."

— Ernie Therrian, Wollaston —

"Very fine gentleman. Good family man. Helps our youth. He benefits the elderly."

— Thomas Blacklock, West Quincy —

"Mayor Hannon is doing an excellent job for the City of Quincy under difficult conditions. He has stabilized the tax rate."

— Tom O'Sullivan, Hospital Hill —

"Has done a good job. He's an honest man and a capable Mayor."

— Ed MacDonald, Quincy Point —

"He's honest. He's keeping taxes down."

— Audrey Hayes, Wollaston —

"Personally talks to you. Mayor Hannon is not like other politicians who look over your shoulder to wave to someone. He's always available to talk to an ordinary citizen."

— Betty Straughn, Quincy Point —

"Mayor Hannon's office has always maintained an open door policy, a policy which makes him accessible to the people and their needs."

— Pat Nevins, Germantown —

"Man of good ability and good businessman. High degree of moral fortitude. Works for the best interest of the city."

— George Riley, South Quincy —

"He's doing a good job for the elderly."

— Mildred Nogier, Montclair —

"Young, aggressive, and works hard at doing an impossible job."

— Gino Marini, North Quincy —

"Mayor Hannon has brought better police protection to the north end of the city."

— Peg Fasano, North Quincy —

"Walter Hannon has kept Quincy as a first-class place to live."

— Fred Aimola, West Quincy —

"Down to earth. You can believe him. He's a good Mayor."

— Aldo Bielli, South Quincy —

Leadership means making hard decisions which are often politically unpopular. It's tough saying "no" when it's so easy to use the taxpayer's money.

Mayor Hannon isn't afraid to say "no" when it means needless spending. He's serving the city of Quincy in a businesslike way. He knows that we can't go on spending and still keep the tax rate down.

Quincy needs a Mayor who takes strong stands, who isn't afraid of political pressure. Quincy needs a Mayor like Walter Hannon. He's his own man. And that's what counts.

Mayor Hannon believes in Quincy. And the citizens of Quincy believe him.

On Primary Day, September 23rd, vote for the man who's a real leader.

Vote Walter J. Hannon!

Hannon Tops LaRaia In Preliminary Election

By RON IACOBucci

Tuesday's preliminary election has set the stage for a Red Hot Mayoralty race in the Nov. 4 finale.

Incumbent Mayor Walter Hannon was nominated for a third term, topping the ballot with 10,403 votes. City Councillor Joseph LaRaia was a close second with 8,492 to nail down the other nomination. LaRaia was followed by Mrs. Grace Saphir with 2,710 votes. Michael Jovanovic was fourth with 170.

Despite a pelting rain, a surprising 46 per cent [21,986] of the city's 46,560 registered voters went to the polls. A 35 per cent turnout had been forecast.

LaRaia remains a tough opponent for incumbent Mayor Hannon. His total combined with that of the other two defeated candidates, Saphir and Jovanovic, topped Hannon's 11,372 to 10,403.

Incumbent Francis McCauley paced the school committee ticket with 8,542. Patricia Toland finished a strong second with 8,288 only 254 votes behind. Francis Bellotti Jr. was an impressive third only 534 votes off the pace. Christopher Kennedy was fourth with 7,176. J. Thomas Mullaney was fifth with 5,959 votes and Marie MacIntyre finished sixth with 5,444. Eliminated were Kenneth Runge finishing seventh with 3,860. Jan Rich eighth with 2,517 and Paul Operach ninth with 1,783.

It appears that the contest for Councillor at-Large is on once again. William Delahunt, appointed Norfolk County District Attorney two weeks ago and who had clearly withdrawn from the at-large race, was "nominated" Tuesday. And, according to John Gillis, Quincy City Clerk, "at this moment Delahunt's name is on the ballot to stay." It seems that Delahunt's name cannot simply be removed from the final ballot. Gillis said that "a clarification will be forthcoming from the Secretary of State's office and until that time Delahunt's name will remain on the ballot."

Council President-Senator Arthur Tobin topped the ballot in the at-large field with a commanding 12,554 votes. Incumbent John Quinn was second with 9,699. School Committeeman Harold Davis was third with 9,378 followed by Paul Harold with 9,139 only 239 votes behind Davis. In fact only 560 votes separate Quinn, Davis and Harold and that fight could prove to be a very close race in the final election.

Delahunt was fifth with 4,739, and it is interesting to consider where his votes may go if his name is removed from the ballot. Sabina Stenberg was sixth with 3,466 votes. Helen McDonnell finished seventh with 3,309 and at this point her nomination is cloudy depending on a decision on Delahunt. There were only two Ward council contests, in Ward One and Two, with no Ward races in Wards three, Four, Five and Six.

In Ward One, incumbent Leo Kelly breezed to a second term nomination with a strong 2,558. Edward Meade took the second nomination with 692 votes. Eliminated were James McDonough in third place with 400 votes and John Whalen fourth with 239 votes.

The Ward Two contest, open with incumbent Clifford Marshall vacating the spot to devote full time to his new duties as Norfolk County Sheriff, found School Committeeman Daniel Raymondi topping the ballot with an impressive 2,697 votes for one of the nominations. Robert Martinson finished second taking the other nomination with 739 votes. John Isaac was third with 569. There were no council contests in Wards Three, Four, Five and Six. However, these candidates will square off in the final election:

Ward 3 - incumbent John Lydon and Emery Fontaine.

Ward 4 - incumbent James Sheets has no opposition and is virtually re-elected to a second term unless a write-in candidate emerges by Nov. 4.

Ward 5 - incumbent Warren Powers and Marilyn Hanabury.

Ward 6 - incumbent Dennis Harrington and Walter Henrick.

Squaring off in the Nov. 4 final election will be two candidates for Mayor, six for three Council at-Large seats, two contenders for each of the six council ward seats and six for three school committee posts.

Nov. 18, Dec. 16 Official Dates For State Representative Elections

House Speaker Thomas McGee has officially set Nov. 18 as the primary election date to fill the House vacancy created by the recent appointment of former Rep. William Delahunt as Norfolk County District Attorney.

He also announced Dec. 16 as the final election date.

The State Election Department released the following calendar of deadline dates:

Oct. 7: Last day and hour [5 p.m.] to file nomination papers and certificates of nomination with local registrars for certification.

Oct. 14: Last day and hour [5 p.m.] to file all nomination papers and certificates of nomination with the Secretary of State.

Oct. 14: Last day and hour [5 p.m.] to file certificates of enrollment of candidates.

Oct. 17: Last day and hour [5 p.m.] to file withdrawal of or objections to nominations and certificates of nomination.

Oct. 21: Last day and hour [5 p.m.] to file vacancies created by withdrawals.

Oct. 29: Last day and hour to register voters in the primary.

Nov. 18: Primary Day.

Dec. 1: Last day and hour [5 p.m.] to file written acceptance of nominations when a candidate's name was not printed on the primary ballot.

Nov. 24: Last day and hour to file withdrawals of or objection to nominations.

Nov. 26: Last day and hour to register voters for the final election.

Nov. 28: Last day and hour to fill vacancies created by withdrawals.

Dec. 16: Final election.

Ward 4 Councillor James A. Sheets became the first-announced candidate for the office last week. Other potential contenders for the vacated seat are Ward 3 Councillor John Lydon, Ward 5 Councillor Warren Powers, Mrs. Joyce Baker, Herbert Reppucci, John Slomkowski, Atty. Joseph Killian and Santino Ferrara.

Students May Apply For Free, Reduced School Meals

Students attending all Quincy public schools may now apply for free or reduced-price school meals.

Application forms for this program have been sent home to parents of all school children in the city. These forms are also available at the South Shore Community Service Center, 25 School St.; Family Children Services of Greater Boston, Dimmock St.; Germantown Service Center, 9 Bicknell St.; Southwest Community Center and Southwest Nutrition Education Program, 372 Granite St.; and Veterans' Services, Cliveden St.

Survival Seeking Crisis Line Volunteers

Survival, Inc., the Quincy-based drug and youth program serving the entire South Shore, is seeking new volunteers to help man the agency's 24-hour crisis intervention line.

The program is open to area residents over 18.

A volunteer would take part in a three week, twice weekly training program, leading to active participation on the crisis line. The line averages 600 calls per month and deals with problems such as depression, drugs, suicide, loneliness, and the like and is an integral link to Survival's treatment programs and other helping resources.

Volunteers currently had from virtually all area communities. New volunteers seeking further information or an application are asked to call 471-7100. Persons are especially needed for daytime shifts.

Historical Society Curators Back Adams Birthplaces Improvements

The Board of Curators of the Quincy Historical Society has pledged support to the city regarding all planned improvements at the Adams Birthplaces.

Joyce I. Baker, chairman of the Society's House Committee, offered to assist in presenting to the City Council the proposed $15,000 preservation package to correct deficiencies in three areas in each of the historic houses.

John R. Graham, executive director of Quincy Heritage, said proposed improvements and repairs to the birthplaces will be presented to the city Council's Historical Places Committee and its chairman Warren Powers early in October.

Areas requiring immediate attention at the birthplaces are:

- Installation of a comprehensive fire alarm system approved by Underwriters Laboratories and connected to the central fire station.

- Installation of an electrical heating system and wiring to prevent freeze-thaw cycles.

- Repair of structural deficiencies causing cracking and settling of walls within the building framework.

Graham noted bids for the fire alarm system have been received and said deadline for bids on all proposed electrical work in Monday, Sept. 29.

The Historical Society's

Bethany's Bees To Be Seen On CBS-TV

After almost a year's delay, the CBS Morning News will devote a feature segment to Quincy's own "Bethany Bees" and their long-time keeper Rev. John D. Banks, minister of Bethany Congregational Church, Quincy.

Bethany parishioners know, but others perhaps do not, that the church rooftop houses some 250,000 honey-producing bees.

For the past 15 years, this Bethany-bee honey has been jarred and sold at the church's annual two-day fair, grossing a total of $2,500.

Rev. Banks and his bees were the subject of a Quincy Sun feature story published Nov. 14, 1974.

The interview with Rev. Banks and Channel 7's Charles Osgood will be seen on the CBS Morning News - when time permits - sometime between Sept. 24 and the first few days of October.

Rev. Banks said CBS-TV will contact him the morning the clip will be shown.

Board of Curators, anxious to see required repairs and improvements accomplished at the historic sites, issued a statement which said in part:

"On this, the eve of America's Bicentennial, the Quincy Historical Society looks forward to continued cooperation with the city to ensure the proper display of the homes of two great American Presidents."

The Board noted the Society has operated the John Quincy Adams birthplace since 1897 when the Adams family restored the site which was then opened to the public.

The Abigail Phillips Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution operated the John Adams Birthplace until 1950 when the Chapter disbanded. At that time, the Society said it assumed responsibility for both sites.

The Board of Curators also said it is important to note the city of Quincy has owned and maintained the properties since both were deeded to the city by the Adams family some 200 years ago.

Guests' choice of cafe costs $$

By RIV TOBIN
Copley News Service

Dear Mrs. Tobin:
Friends came to town and stayed at a hotel. We invited them out for dinner and asked them where they would like to dine. They suggested the most lavish and expensive restaurant for miles around. It cost my husband nearly $100 for the evening. We feel we were "taken" and wondered how it happened. Do you? How can we avoid a repeat with other out-of-town-ers?

Betty and Bill
Dear Betty and Bill:

You left the door wide open when you asked your friends to select the restaurant. You were the hosts and should have made reservations at the restaurant of YOUR choice. I don't want to believe you were "taken." I prefer to think your guests had heard of that particular restaurant and opted for that over any other. Even at the zero hour you could have steered them some place else by saying, "Restaurant X is always so crowded," or noisy or so far away or has difficult parking. Now you know.

Dear Mrs. Tobin:
Our daughter was five months pregnant when she was married. Her friends want to give her a baby shower. Is that proper, under the circumstances?

Dear Mary B.:

What circumstances? Your daughter's friends want to share in the happiness of the new arrival. That is what a baby shower is all about.

Dear Mrs. Tobin:

Should not a widow be addressed by correspondence and by her name as Mrs. George Smith? That would also include her stationery heading and her return address sticker. On business transactions I believe she would be Mrs. Evelyn Smith. Isn't it true that only a divorcee drops her husband's given and surname?

W. C. Cogger

Dear Mr. Cogger:

A widow is known by her husband's full name until she dies or remarries. A divorcee drops her husband's given name and uses her maiden (or given) name instead. Very young divorcees often ask the court to restore their maiden name. Obviously, if a divorcee kept her husband's full name and he remarried, there would be two Mrs. George Smiths. Can you imagine what the nation's computers would have to go through to straighten out that mess?

Dear Mrs. Tobin:

I made an awkward, but somewhat dramatic entrance, at a party. I missed the top step to a sunken living room. Men rushed to my assistance and all I could think to say was, "Well, THAT is what I call a grand entrance!" I have since been accused to being everything from an attention-getter to a man-hunter. Neither is true. What can I say?

STITCHING WITCHERY

S-s-steam sticks interfacing

By BETTY W. KINSER
Copley News Service

S-s-s-s-team! That's what it takes to get those wonderful fusible interfacings to stick where they belong.

Place interfacing on wrong side of fabric (coated or "sticky" side against fabric). Cover with a damp press cloth. Set your iron on "steam." Apply gentle pressure, but do not wiggle the iron back and forth (that scoots the interfacing). Leave iron in one spot at least 10 seconds. Move on to next area. If you have an iron that shoots steam, all the better. If you do not have a steam iron, use a WET press cloth.

After you have pressed interfacing to fabric, do not move it until it has cooled. Then, with a fingernail, try to lift an edge of the interfacing. If you can, then you need more s-s-s-team.

Dear Mrs. Kinser:

Please discuss collars and interfacing. Is the interfacing placed next to the under or upper piece? Is the interfacing on cuffs placed on the under or upper piece? Please discuss the various interfacings available and what types material they are used on. I enjoy your column. —
Marjorie Anderson

Thanks! I'm glad you like it.

On blouses, shirts, dresses, etc., the interfacing is attached to the UPPER collar section. In tailoring, the interfacing is attached to the UNDER collar section to create the "roll." For neater cuffs, attach the interfacing to the UPPER section.

Zip your zipper! When you hang your clothes in the closet or put them in the hamper, be sure the zippers are closed. This prolongs the life of the zipper and helps keep your garment in shape.

Wedding lace makes a scarf

By RIV TOBIN

Dear Mrs. Tobin:
I am making my own wedding dress. The fabric is of American-made lace. I have priced headpieces and they are out of range of my budget. Would it be proper to make a triangular scarf of the same dress fabric and wear it like a babushka? — Dallas Bride-to-be
Dear Bride-to-be:
It would not only be proper but I think it would be charming.

Dear Mrs. Tobin:
My ex-girlfriend is being married and has invited me to the wedding. I am a bachelor. I'd like to see the guy she's marrying. I have another girlfriend now so don't think I still want the old one. Just tell me if I should go to the wedding or not and also what do I say to the two of them when I meet? — Joe V.
Dear Joe:

Act as though you were the bride's distant cousin. Tell her you hope she'll be very happy and tell the bridegroom what a great gal he married. No smart remarks, please! You probably will know most of the other guests so mingle and smile a lot. There is no need for you to stay until the last grain of rice is swept up.

Dear Mrs. Tobin:
Our 7-year-old adopted daughter's mother was Vietnamese and her father was a Caucasian soldier. Lynn looks very western except for a slight cast to her eyes. What do we say when people comment about her "funny" eyes? — Distressed in California

Dear Distressed:
Are you keeping Lynn's adoption from your friends? Do you still remain friends with these boorish people? I hope your answer is "no" to both questions.

Dear Mrs. Tobin:
I think I read in my column that it is NOT necessary for the bridegroom's family to finance the wedding rehearsal dinner. If I'm right, please say it again. My fiancé's family really can't afford it but feel obligated. — Mary Lou B.

Dear Mary Lou:
You probably did read such a statement in my column. The rehearsal dinner is not de rigueur. If your fiancé's parents would like to do something for the wedding party, what's wrong with a simple supper in their home? This would make them happy and wouldn't cost them a bundle. Just make sure you don't bring in ALL the relatives and friends!

Elevators rated aids in disaster escapes

Many lives could be saved from fire or explosion in high-rise buildings if evacuees were allowed to use elevators, a University of California architecture research team says.

The researchers believe the use of elevators as escape routes will require "a change in basic thinking" and a revision of building codes.

EXERCISE AND A DOG'S LIFE

There are similarities between man and a dog that might add importance to the experiment being conducted at the University of Mississippi. Quite by accident, researchers there discovered that sedentary living caused fat buildup in dogs. The experiment was originally designed to evaluate the effects of exercise on the formation of atherosclerosis in animals fed a diet high in fats. Ten animals, matched in size, were fed a diet high in cholesterol and fat along with a balanced dog food. Five of them were exercised for an hour a day on a treadmill. Atherosclerosis never developed but fatty degeneration of the livers of the non-exercised dogs was discovered — three of the five sedentary dogs became jaundiced and died before the year of tests was completed. The livers of the exercised dogs were essentially normal. Investigators believe the findings may also apply to humans.

Jewish Community Center Plans Fall Activities

South Area Jewish Community Center of 10 Merrymount Rd is planning a series of fall activities and cultural events for children, teens and adults in the South Shore Area.

The Children's Department will form groups of children ranging in age from kindergartners to grade six youngsters.

Beginning Monday, Oct. 6, children will be able to study gymnastics, puppetry, drama, photography, environmental exploration, judo and self-defense during group meetings.

Jewish Culture Clubs for youngsters in kindergarten through grade six will also begin Oct. 6. Activities at weekly meetings will include arts and crafts, sports, Israeli music and folk dancing, cooking, nature trips and holiday celebrations.

The Jewish Culture Clubs seek to help the children develop a sense of Jewish identity, promote personal growth and enhance the children's sense of belonging to the Jewish community.

A Drop-In Lounge will open this year for senior high school teens. The basement of the Merrymount Rd Center will be converted into a "Teen House" for entertainment, plays, rap sessions and other activities. A Teen Board will set policies and develop programs.

Another newly-formed program for teens is "Israeli Contrasts", a small group experience designed to provide teens a weekly encounter with various aspects of Israeli life explored through music, theatre and the arts.

Plans for this program also include sending a group of teens to Israel during the summer of 1976.

Art Exhibit At S.S. National Bank

The South Shore National Bank in Quincy Square is exhibiting oil paintings by Quincy's Paul Alexis Arapoff now through Saturday, Oct. 4.

The paintings are studies for future icons - holy images painted on wood.

The "Israeli Contrasts" program will be based in the Randolph-Canton area and led by a staff member knowledgeable about life in Israel.

A "Trip of The Month" to the Heritage Plantation in Sandwich has been planned for senior adults Sunday, Oct. 5. Transportation will be provided from many South Shore area towns. A pine grove picnic is planned.

Other programs offered to senior adults this fall include a ceramics class, choral group, discussion group and drop-in-lounge.

For further information on any of these programs, contact the Center at 773-3000.

Art Exhibit At S.S. National Bank

A private art instructor holding an art education degree from Massachusetts College of Art, Arapoff is the son of Russian-born painter Alexis Paul Arapoff

Granite Railroad Closes After 114 Years

Some 114 years of rail service for West Quincy and Montclair residents ended Saturday night when the Granite branch of the Old Colony Railroad was shut down.

New Haven Railroad officials exercised power given them by the state public utilities commission to abandon all passenger service over the line.

The Granite branch was the oldest railroad in America, organized by Gridley Bryant to transport granite for the Bunker Hill Monument, from the West Quincy quarry to the Neponset River.

LEGIIONNAIRES HOST GIANT CLAM BAKE

Quincy's three Legion posts hosted a huge clambake at Pageant Field for delegates at the American Legion's National Convention in Boston. Arrangements to feed the 700 guests was directed by James Donovan of the Morrisette Post. Thirty Legionnaires and 45 members of the auxiliary served as waiters and waitresses. Over the weekend, more than 50,000 spectators jammed Quincy Square to view the Legion's drum and bugle competition parade.

GARBAGE COLLECTION DELAY EXPLAINED

Mr. Hultin, president of the Quincy Employees Relief Association addressed the City Council to explain that the delay in the collection of the city's garbage was caused by the lack of city equipment. He said that a few years ago there were 14 garbage trucks, and now there were only 11. It was thus impossible to make 2 collections throughout the city. He also noted that collection of ashes suffered because of the truck shortage.

DEMOCRATS PLAN FOR UPCOMING ELECTION

The Democratic City Committee met in the Shaw Building to plan for the upcoming election.

Mrs. Mary Shipsey, chairman of the registration committee reported good results in recent efforts to enroll Democratic voters. She said a city-wide canvass of voters would be made in co-operation with the Dever for Governor Committee. Timothy Daly, Robert Veronesse and Elizabeth McConarty were named to the publicity committee.

Thumbnail Thoughts

If you're filling in a dance card for a topless dancer or go-go girl, don't approach Congressman Wilbur Mills or that submarine skipper as signees.

There is no outright war on anywhere on the planet, which makes those neighborhood husband-wife spats much more interesting conversation pieces.

If New Hampshire can go Democratic and Dixie go Republican, maybe there's still hope the New England Patriots will make the next Super Bowl.

Smoking In The Office Becoming Big Problem

Many business firms and organizations that have a number of people working in the same office have a new problem on their hands.

According to the Norfolk County - Newton Lung Association, offices are saying that they think the smokers ought to stop polluting their air. More and more nonsmokers are becoming aware of the fact that "second-hand smoke" - from other people's cigarettes and cigars - is a danger to them and an imposition on their comfort.

So what do you do when some of the people in an office or factory smoke and others don't - and don't like breathing smoke second-hand?

Some people argue that you can't just prohibit smoking for everybody. That's making the smokers unhappy and uncomfortable and cutting down their efficiency, they say - granting that it could be enforced.

On the other hand, many nonsmokers ask why they should be asked to endure the damage and discomfort of other people's smoke. They argue that they have a right to expect their working conditions to be as safe and comfortable as possible - and that other people should not be permitted, because of a persistent personal habit, to impose on them.

Some places of employment are prohibiting smoking. Some are permitting smoking by employees hired in the past, but hiring only non-smokers as new employees. Some have designated special smoking and nonsmoking areas, and are running smoking withdrawal clinics. Still others have taken no action to date.

More and more probably will be heard about this problem as the general public becomes more aware of the dangers of second-hand smoke.

For more information about smoking and its dangers, including those of second-hand smoke, talk to the "Christmas Seal" people at your lung association. Call 326-4081 or write: 745 High St., Westwood, MA. 02090.

Letter Box

Urges Passage Of Consumer Bill

Editor, Quincy Sun:

Within the next few weeks, the United States House of Representatives will be called upon to decide an issue of profound importance to American consumers.

After five years of lobbying, negotiating and educating by Ralph Nader and other supporters, HR. 7575, a bill to establish a federal Agency for Consumer Advocacy (ACA) will come to a vote in early October.

In order for this historic bill to pass, and withstand the inevitable Ford Administration veto, consumers must write their Congressmen immediately to countervail the enormous pressure being brought to bear against the ACA by big business.

The need for this new agency is particularly apparent in these times of economic hardship. Each day, the papers bring more news of federal agency actions which abuse personal freedoms, violate the public's trust and contradict the consumers' interests.

The routine rubber stamping of air fare increases; the failure to enforce the Child Protection and Toy Safety Act, the Flammable Fabrics Act and food, drug and nursing homes standards; and such disastrously expensive economic decisions as the Russian wheat deal are but a few of the best publicized examples.

To halt these abuses, consumers need a tough advocate representing their interests within the federal bureaucracy, a "hair shirt" for the stagnant, industry dominated federal agencies. At an average yearly cost of only 25 cents per family, the proposed CPA constitutes a vital investment in the future effectiveness of federal government, an investment that will pay dividends through lower prices, higher quality services and safer products.

Most consumers are unaware of the unprecedented intensity of big business lobbying against this bill. Ironically, the very ferocity of this lobbying effort lends credence to the arguments of the ACA proponents; it provides a vivid demonstration of just how powerful and numerous are the advocates of the business interests, and how out-gunned and out-financed are the advocates of the consumer's interests.

Congressmen are literally being flooded with anti-CPA letters generated by this well-financed and well-orchestrated industry campaign. It is vital that they also hear from consumers. The Representatives must get the message that consumers want, need and will vote for effective consumer protection.

For more information on the ACA bill, or the names and addresses of Representatives in Congress, consumers can contact Mass PIRG at [617] 423-1796 or [413] 256-6434.

Question Of Week

What Is Difference Between Primary, Preliminary Election?

"What is the difference between a preliminary and a primary election?" a puzzled caller asked the League of Women Voters Voter Information Phone.

The volunteer staff member explained that primaries are party elections, held in communities with partisan local elections. The winners of the primaries run in the general election as their party's candidates for office.

Preliminary elections are held in cities and towns which hold non-partisan local elections. The purpose is to reduce the ballot so that there will usually be no more than two candidates for each vacancy.

Some cities and towns have neither a primary nor a preliminary election, and the voters choose from an unlimited field of candidates in the general election.

This question is one of many now being received by the League of Women Voters' Voter Information Phone. Individuals with any questions on government may call the VPhone Monday through Friday between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. The number in the Boston area is 357-5880. Outside the Boston metropolitan area, callers should dial the toll-free number, 1-800-882-1649.

Sunbeams

I Won't Surrender

By HENRY BOSWORTH

Sorry girls, I won't surrender.

A few columns back I wrote there are times when I hate myself, like when I sit in front of a typewriter and just can't resist teasing women.

I had earlier managed to get my typewriter in my mouth by innocently noting that although they still outnumber men, there are fewer women voters in Quincy today than a year ago "despite women's lib and all that kind of stuff."

Well, a former Quincy resident in California wrote and criticized me for that. And then I had to go and answer instead of strategically retreating.

Well, the girls are still after me.

Like Marcia Bailey of 23 Carruth St., Wollaston, who writes, in part:

"With reference to your answer to the letter of Char-Lou Fay Benedict in the Quincy Sun issue of Aug. 28, you goofed again.

"In the Sunbeams column headed, 'Sometimes I Hate Myself', sometimes I hate you, too, especially in the paragraph in which you question women getting married if they do not want the Mrs.

"You were Mr. Bosworth before your marriage and your parenthood. You are Mr. Bosworth after these events. What difference should it make in my title if I am married and a parent or not married? I am Ms. before the event and Ms. after, just as you are Mr. both before and after."

The only difference, I guess, is that I don't insist on people calling me Mr. you can call me by my first name or last name. I don't insist on Mr.

I just can't see why women insist on being called Ms. which, to me, is a homely looking word—if it is a word and sounds like a mosquito. Technically, it's not even pronounceable. I still think a married woman should be proud of the fact that she is married, and not mind being called Mrs. It almost sounds that by insisting on Ms., a married woman really doesn't want everyone to know she is married.

In that particular column I mentioned that whenever I hear women libbers talking, it's usually about equal pay, rights and benefits but they seldom mention equal responsibilities.

To which Marcia [I hope she doesn't mind me calling her by her first name instead of Ms. Bailey] replies:

"Secondly I brought in my paycheck to help pay for the groceries as have many other women. And when our apartment needed a new coat of paint, I used a paint brush along with my husband. I see my next door neighbor is out with her lawnmower and my friend across the street is clipping the bushes."

Marcia should be commended. I would say that deep down inside, she isn't what I would call a gun-ho or professional woman libber. She's not the type I've been needing.

She goes on:

"Thirdly, women's lib is for all people so that men need have no fear of being sneered at for doing their thing even if it is not masculine. Rosie Greer does needlepoint."

I don't sneer at men—certainly not at men like Rosie Greer whose first name, of course, is Roosevelt not Rosalie. Tiny Tim—yeah, I guess I sneered at him. And I guess I also can't stand guys [?] who wear shoulder length hair-dos, high heels and carry handbags.

Anyway, Marcia concludes:

"I think, Mr. Bosworth, that you owe us another apology and this time I would appreciate one that is sincere and not so cutesy."

Well, I don't intend to be cutesy because it really isn't my nature. And I still don't feel I owe an apology.

I believe that, as Marcia herself says, "women's lib is for all people." So, being a person I am as entitled to my own opinions—right or wrong—as any woman is.

And my opinion still is that the designation Ms does nothing for a woman. It's a homely word as I said before. Miss and Mrs. both have a nice feminine sound to them. Ms to me is like an it.

I have my opinions and a lot of people disagree with me. Like, for example, I can't stand Cher Bono—or whatever her last name is this week. Cher, to me is to paraphrase Winston Churchill: "Never has a woman with so little [physically] tried to show so much."

But, I'm getting carried away.

In that last column, incidentally, I chivalrously noted I don't hold a grudge. And that I was willing to meet with any woman for lunch to talk this over. If, of course, she would pick up the check or at least split it in the true sense of equality.

Well, I received three invitations from Pat Toland, Alicia Coletti and Kathy O'Donnell. Apparently they don't hate me and recognize me for what I am: a woman teaser.

No, I won't surrender girls. And I just can't help it for sincerely believing the designation Ms is for the birds-or mosquitos—not for women.

I'm truly sorry, Marcia and Char-Lou. But that's how I feel. Ms—never!

To save wear and tears, keep a large jar of chopped onions in your freezer. When you need some for a recipe, just scoop them out and put the rest back in the freezer.

BUILDING A REGIONAL ECONOMY

Work, Love and Hope

By ERIC SWIDER

John Marino, the new Commissioner of Commerce and Development and John Crosier, the Director of the Division of Employment Security, met last week with members of Executive Committees of local Chambers throughout the state to outline new approaches to the myriad of problems confronting the Bay State in its battle to recover its economic vitality.

For the first time in many a moon, I felt genuine enthusiasm at a meeting of statewide business leaders, and left the meeting with the very distinct impression that our state's Economic Development efforts are now tracking in the right direction.

Marino reported that his 22 member field staff is visiting each manufacturing employer of over 20 people and each non-manufacturing employer of over 50 people to discuss generalized statewide problems, determine their immediate needs, and to enlist their support for returning Massachusetts to a sound financial footing.

What pleases me about the process is that both Marino and Crosier are the type administrators who recognize that government is not going to solve the problem by itself, so they have enlisted the aid of organizations like the South Shore Chamber to bring its resources and programs to bear when they identify specific situations where our "Land, Labor and Money" program will assist in retaining and expanding the employment in a firm.

Marino stated that meetings to date indicate that the greatest concern being expressed by business people is a perception of state government's financial responsibility as it affects their operations. He reported that the concern is not necessarily the amount of money spent by state government but the way it is spent. He was quick to report, however, that when you combine the costs of state government with our overly burdensome and highest in the nation local property taxes, business has more than a perceptual problem.

The costs of unemployment compensation and workmen's compensation are two of the greatest problems that business people believe that state government must get a handle on. Crosier is looking for support for legislation which transfers the costs of unemployment compensation after 39 weeks to the State or Federal government and away from the employer. Currently the entire U. C. Fund is financed by employers with loans from government to the fund when it is out of money. Crosier makes the very valid observation that when a person is out of work 39 or more weeks, that is not the fault of employers but is the effects of the general economic conditions. If government therefore opts, as they have, to extend benefits to 65 weeks, then it should not be the funds of the employers exclusively which are used to finance this "social program".

Marino pointed out the severity of the Massachusetts problem in comparing an employer of 1,000 people in this state, depending on his "experience" rating, would have to pay $250,000 to $300,000 more in Unemployment Compensation tax than a similar firm in New Hampshire. That's right off the top, and that's what makes our State unattractive to business.

The high costs of energy are another business concern, and while most business people realize that state government can do little about it, Marino believes that the combined efforts of several secretariats in the Dukakis administration—Economic Development, Consumer Affairs, Environmental Affairs—will lead to a long-range solution. He stated that Massachusetts must accept its responsibility in an environmentally and socially responsible way to become a producer, distributor, and processor of energy rather than just a consumer.

Crosier outlined possible legislative solutions which would disqualify Unemployment Compensation beneficiaries who refuse work or quit voluntarily. Currently this State picks up a $90 million a year tab in these two areas alone.

Marino reported that the State Supreme Court has found the latest version of a State Mortgage Guarantee bill acceptable and legislative action on this bill and a Community Development Finance Corporation can now proceed. Both would go a long way to improve business investment in the Commonwealth by making loans to Massachusetts firms more attractive to lenders. This as a catch-up move, however, since virtually every State currently has this provision as part of its Economic Development inducements.

Crosier indicated that for the first time in his memory, business, labor and government were never more highly dependent on each other and that it was everyone's responsibility to work together, put aside their biases, and create an environment here where laborers can labor, government can govern, and business can invest with a reasonable assurance that they can make a fair profit.

Work, Love and Hope—the three ultimate needs to return Massachusetts to economic vitality. If business, labor and government can work together to get it done—it will be a first—Massachusetts is famous for firsts—so let's try.

LIVING TODAY

'Personal Benefits From Group Counseling'

By DR. WILLIAM F. KNOX

It's little wonder that people are depressed. Besides the personal problems which we all have, there exists a national condition of emotional depression which aggravates each individual's situation ... especially we in New England. The large unemployment figures affects everyone ... the news is negative ... prices are out of line with most people's incomes ... many people feel ripped off by the oil companies and that their government has not protected the people. Our people are angry ... and this anger is affecting individuals and our closest relationships.

It is estimated that there will be one million divorces in 1975. This fact, and the family and marital conflict among our friends and neighbors is threatening and frightening. Often I ask in counseling ... "What do you want?" The answer nearly always is peace ... I just want peace. Peace from the nagging of a dissatisfied wife ... peace from the drunkenness of a husband ... or whatever situation has created the individual unhappiness. People are asking for PEACE.

We begin the new Therapy Group on September 22, recognizing that we can do little about the national conditions which have caused so much emotional distress for so many ... we can do something about our individual situations. Group counseling has four objectives:

1. To help the individual or couple to see his/her problem clearly.
2. To help the individual expose and analyze his/her feelings ... and to own and be honest with those feelings.

3. To help the individual or couple to see what alternatives he/she has.

4. To give support to the individual or couple in the decision which he/she makes.

Indecision is depressing ... frustrating ... makes one feel weak and helpless. Personal Counseling and group counseling help people to make decisions ... and in those decisions find new life.

Joe and Nancy were in group therapy. Their problem was that Joe no longer gave Nancy attention and affection. She felt lonely ... rejected. She nagged him. He was angered. She was hurt. Night after night the group forthrightly helped them to see what had happened to what was a happy relationship ... now gone stale. They followed the four steps above. When they saw that their present course was leading to a split, they welcomed the other alternatives which the Group brought out. Their relationship was restored to the happiness they had known years before. Nothing should receive higher priority in people's lives than their marriage. When the marriage RELATIONSHIP IS GIVEN SECOND PLACE IT USUALLY ENDS UP LAST.

The Therapy Group beginning September 22 is limited to twelve persons, meeting in Norwell at 7 o'clock for twelve successive sessions. Group counseling is cheaper than personal counseling ... and much cheaper than divorce.

For Group Therapy: Call Dr. Knox at 659-7595 or 326-5990.

Thomas Dougherty Candidate For State Representative

Thomas J. Dougherty of 87 Shawmut St., West Quincy, announces his candidacy for state representative in Quincy's Fourth Norfolk District.

The seat was recently vacated by William D. Delahunt when he was appointed Norfolk County District Attorney. House Speaker Thomas McGee has set Nov. 18 as the date for the special primary election and Dec. 16 for the final.

Dougherty is a Quincy native who attended Boston College High School and Holy Cross where, as a student body president, his report "Education at Holy Cross" argued for a number of major curriculum reforms which the college adopted. Dougherty won three national scholarships for graduate study, and as Marshall Scholar, studied economics at Oxford, returning home afterward to attend Harvard Law School. He is managing editor of Harvard's Legislative Research Bureau, which designs legislation for Massachusetts and other states and for the U.S. Congress. It designed both No-Fault Automobile Insurance and Consumer Protection Acts.

Dougherty's Anti-Inflation Bill, which was published in the U.S. Congressional Record April 16, proposed a new way to fight the present inflation which results from price increases in particular sectors of the economy such as food and fuel and which exists at the same time as widespread unemployment. Dougherty's approach was advocated by Senator Edward Kennedy on the floor of the Senate May 6 in a speech drawn from Dougherty's research and writing.

Dougherty's latest legislative action is a bill he has filed on Beacon Hill that is endorsed by Ralph Nader. The bill would set up a new type of Citizens' Watchdog Group with strong powers to prevent unjustified increases in the price of electricity and natural gas.

Dougherty is working for the Massachusetts Educational Loan Commission on proposals to increase state and federal aid to students from middle income families. He recently began heading a team that is investigating abuses in nursing home financing. The study is for members of the Legislature's Joint Health Committee.

In announcing his candidacy, Dougherty said:

"We are confronted by economic problems that demand legislative initiatives. My training is that of an economist and a lawyer. My main interest has been and continues to be the creation of legislation to deal imaginatively with the state's economic ills. As state representative, I'll offer concrete proposals to fight inflation in food and fuel prices, in health care costs, and in auto insurance and public utility rates. I will work overtime to get those bills and other constructive legislation passed. State Rep. will be the only office I will hold.

"I want to work for immediate property tax reform that will ease Quincy's burden by making other areas pay a fairer share of educational costs, and that will ease the burden of property taxes on the elderly.

"As a last example of what I stand for, in this Bicentennial year, I want to see a state-bond financed summer-work project enabling Quincy students to help restore America's first railroad and first blast furnace [which are both in the Fourth Norfolk District]. That project would provide jobs for kids next summer and turn pockets of neglect into places of pride."

League Of Women Voters Orientation Meeting Oct. 1

The Quincy League of Women Voters will open the new season with an orientation meeting Wednesday Oct. 1, at 7:30 p.m. at First Parish Church, Quincy Sq.

Prospective and current members are invited.

League members will discuss future activities and the opportunity for new members to become involved in the development of national, state and local issues.

Programs scheduled for the coming year include study of the executive branch of the federal government, a new state study on education, and an update on the League's position concerning the United Nations. Continued action on local issues of land use, administration of justice, and human resources are also planned.

Anyone wishing to attend may contact the membership chairperson, Agnes Cooney, 40 Cushing St., Wollaston [773-5453], for further details.

Officers for the year are:

President, Janet Poole; first vice president, Christine Morrison; second vice president, Sheila deBettencourt; corresponding secretary, Grace Rutan; recording secretary, Janice O'Brien and treasurer, Kathye Foster.

Elected directors are Agnes Cooney, Sheila Ward, Mary Flavin, Luleen Anderson, Jane Croke, Jane Sullivan and Rosemary Wahlberg.

Appointed directors are Becky Crockner, Mary Gossard, Anne Kane, Marian Marsh, Sam Greenwald, Phyllis Rudnick and Elinor Thompson.

William Ridge Navy Recruit Grad

Restoration Uncovers First Railway Track Hidden For 70 Years

By MARY ANN DUGGAN

Jim Myette, 22-year-old co-ordinator of this summer's Granite Railway restoration project, is proud of his city.

A life-long Germantown resident, Myette - a one-time Quincy High School drop-out who later returned to complete his education with honors - headed a four-student team which spent six weeks de-weeding, de-rooting and restoring the unappetizing long-neglected West Quincy site of the nation's first commercial railway.

Re-thinking the hours of preliminary research on the site and recalling the first-hand discovery of railway sections long-hidden, Myette said:

"I've learned a lot about the city, I've lived in Quincy 22 years and a lot of what I learned I never knew...Quincy has as much history to offer its citizens as Boston has. And I think Quincy has a better chance of preserving it."

The Granite Railway Co. began in 1826 as the nation's first commercial railway, transporting to the Neponset River blocks of granite to be used to construct the Bunker Hill Monument in Charlestown. A four-wheel horse-drawn car in its first stage, the railway carried 20-ton loads of Quincy granite on a two and three-quarter mile trek from the Bunker Hill Quarry to a wharf on the Neponset River, ready for a trans-river trip to Charlestown.

To begin the summer project, Myette and his crew felled 50-75 trees near the site, cut away ferns, foliage and shrubs and then launched a test dig to uncover the right side of track hidden for 70 years. Myette said the track first appeared partially destroyed but learned upon close inspection the right side had been built in steps and up much higher than the incline. Myette said:

"We were the first to see that side of the track in 70 years...Everything we did, we did very carefully, so as not to destroy anything."

Funding for the project came from a $10,000 grant the city set aside several years ago for restoration at the railway site.

Although the project officially ended in August, Myette has volunteered his time to complete work at the site in preparation for the planned Oct. 7 celebration marking the 149th anniversary of the railway's opening. A chain-link fence will surround the site and interpretive signs stationed at the foot of the railway incline will explain to visitors the three successive stages of development in the railway's history.

In addition, Robert Faxon of Faxon Trust Co. in Quincy - whose family operated the railway many years before its closing in 1940 - has donated $500 for granite to be used to create replicas of two bronze plaques stolen 35 years ago from the obelisks flanking the foot of the incline.

And Paul Ricciardi of Quincy Memorial Co. has volunteered to provide labor totalling $1,155 to fashion the plaques and refurbish the obelisks.

Myette assumed the position of project co-ordinator and manager bolstered by a history of community involvement. A former member of the Harborview Residents Committee, Myette has worked as a teacher's aide at South Shore Day Care Center in Quincy and has been involved with Quincy's Headstart program. Through Quincy Community Action, he helped to landscape mini-parks throughout the city. He also assisted in both the Gen. Joseph Palmer dig in Germantown and the excavation for the historic Hancock well on the grounds of Adams Academy.

"It's the way I've grown up," Myette explains. "I like helping people, working with people and meeting new people. There's something fulfilling in that alone. It makes you become community oriented."

Pleased with the accomplishments of the summer, Myette praised his crew for a job well done.

"All credit should go to the crew," he said. "They did an excellent job."

Inspecting the railway site, Quincy Heritage Executive Director John Graham, called the work on the site "incredible...unbelievable." He said:

"What was accomplished is almost incredible in terms of both information on the railroad and the work that was performed. We were thrilled that the students and program manager were able to complete in six weeks what we first had hoped to do in one year."

"Jim Myette lived the railroad. And because of his dedication, the citizens of Quincy can now be proud of one of their most historic sites which for too-long had been left as a blight on the city. They did a fabulous job. I'm really proud of them."

Quincy Heritage is presently seeking added funds to continue excavation and restoration at the railway site. Myette himself envisions uncovering and rebuilding portions of the incline and foresees a landscaped and cobblestoned area to enhance the entrance to the site.

"I'm very, very happy with what was accomplished," Myette said. "It's all part of the city's history, and without history, there is no future."

MOTOR TRUCK travelling down track represents the final phase of development in the 114-year history of the Granite Railway. This reproduction and two others depicting the railway's stages of development will tell to visitors the story of the nation's first commercial railway. Sketches were created by Jean Cumiskey of Quincy Heritage.

Jason's To Mark 50th Anniversary With 10-Day Sale

Jason's Luggage and Music Shop will mark its 50th anniversary this week with a store-wide 10-day sale beginning today (Thursday).

Jason Feldman, president of the corporation, said the first 500 customers making a purchase during the sale will receive a special gift. And patrons will have a chance to win a Sterling guitar, a pair of tickets to a Rod Stewart concert, a beer stein, a fitted travel case, a set of luggage and six $25 Jason's gift certificates.

During sale days, guitars will sell at a 30 percent reduction and certain luggage will be cut by as much as 50 per cent. A total of 39 top records and tapes will also be on sale.

Launched in 1925 by Nathan Feldman, father of Jason, the store moved to its present location - 1514 Hancock St. - in 1930.

Retired from full-time involvement with the corporation, the elder Feldman - who turned 78 in April - still drops into the store to help from time to time and serves as treasurer of the corporation.

Jason, a graduate of Quincy High School and Bryant & Stratton Business School, foresees the possibility of opening a second store outside Quincy - especially if one of his three sons decides to enter business.

The store now stocks the largest record selection on the South Shore, boasting the long-time motto: "Instead of chasin', come to Jason".

Jason's also carries cassette tapes, sheet music, guitars and harmonicas, some radios and stereos, a wide selection of brand-name luggage, and specialized leather goods.

The store doubled its size five years ago, expanding from a 900-square-foot area to a nearly 2,000-square foot facility. Jason's employs 12 fulltime and part time people with Dan Harrington as store manager.

Store hours during sale days will be the same as usual: Monday, Thursday and Friday, 9 a.m. to 9 p.m.; and Tuesday, Wednesday and Saturday, 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.

QUINCY SAVINGS BANK INTRODUCES
THE DIRECT-DEPOSIT PLAN FOR YOUR SOCIAL SECURITY CHECK.

IMPORTANT NEW BENEFITS FOR PEOPLE ON SOCIAL SECURITY.

1. SAFE.

Now, instead of being mailed to your home your social security check can be deposited directly to your account at any Quincy Savings Bank. So there's no risk of it being lost or stolen.

2. DEPENDABLE.

Once you take advantage of the Direct-Deposit Plan you know your money will be available in your account on the day you expect it. And when you need it most.

3. CONVENIENT.

With the Direct-Deposit Plan you never have to worry about getting to the bank on time. And if illness, bad weather or any other reason should prevent you from visiting the bank you know your money is waiting for you to draw on as you need it.

4. INTEREST BEARING.

Your social security check just like any money you deposit in a savings account can earn you interest. And by using the Direct-Deposit Plan your check gets to the bank earlier - starts earning interest as soon as possible.

5. EASY.

The people at Quincy Savings will make it easy for you to start a Direct-Deposit Plan by providing the necessary forms; and they'll even help you fill them out. You can have your check deposited in a NOW account, a regular savings account, or split between the two. Our NOW account gives you free checking and pays 5% interest. For more information call 472-0025. Or stop by any of our five offices.

Comer Speaks At Legion Installation

American Legion State Commander John P. Comer, of Quincy, recently delivered an address at ceremonies installing a new District 7 commander in South Boston.

Serving as chief installing officer for the evening, Comer congratulated new commander Robert Gifford and other newly-elected County Council officers.

As part of the Legion's community and youth service programs, Comer said legion posts county-wide plan to participate in a National Guard-sponsored walkathon to benefit Horizons for Youth.

Comer also mentioned the Legion's current mail appeal conducted in cooperation with the American Cancer Society. Legionnaires throughout the nation are raising contributions to help "Wipe Out Cancer In Our Lifetime."

Comer said dedication of the State's National Cemetery, to be located at the former Otis Air Force Base on Cape Cod, should take place in late spring.

Quincy Savings Institutes Direct

Deposit For S.S. Disability Checks

Quincy Savings Bank has launched a direct deposit program for social security and disability checks.

A new service of the federal government, the program eliminates the inconvenience of standing in line for check-cashing and also guards against check loss or theft by depositing directly into a customer's checking or savings account.

A color film explaining the program will be shown Thursday, Sept. 25 from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. at the Bank's main office at 1200 Hancock St., Quincy Center. Reservations to see the film can be made by contacting Denise Cook.

The new direct deposit program will be officially announced in the Fall by the Social Security Administration. All federal checks mailed in October will contain a summary of the program. In addition, a free Bank brochure describes the program in clear, concise language.

Keohane Sponsoring Program To Enlighten Public On Funeral Costs

Edward J. Keohane of the Keohane Funeral Home has joined other members of National Selected Morticians [NSM], in sponsoring a nationwide public service program to enlighten consumers on the costs and procedures involved in funeral planning.

"No one likes to think about funerals" said Keohane, "but every family should have at least a general idea of what a funeral costs and entails. Such information, tucked away in a corner of the mind, could someday prove most helpful in easing the emotional and financial burden of arranging a funeral.

"Amid the confusion and controversy surrounding funeral practices, its encouraging to see an organization within the industry actively pursuing a realistic program of education in an area where the public is badly in need of information.

"There's a new attitude moving slowly across society. People are becoming more open in their views toward death and the funeral process. The cost of caskets, burial versus cremation, the necessity of the ceremony itself -- subjects that were once considered taboo -- are now being aired and discussed, freely. People are asking questions.

"In an effort to make the answers to many of these questions more readily available, participating NSM members, including Keohane Funeral Home, have adopted a broad policy of full disclosure regarding funeral costs and the range of services most funeral homes offer. Much of this information is being offered in a new NSM booklet entitled "A Helpful Guide to Funeral Planning".

The booklet does not recommend one funeral home over another. Nor does it list specific prices. But it does provide enough factual and unbiased information to help the reader become better prepared to handle his or her responsibilities when called upon to arrange a funeral.

"Once a person is made aware of the procedures and understands the full range of services available and the prices involved, it's surprising how his or her feeling of apprehension gives way to one of self assurance," said Keohane. "Knowing the facts beforehand doesn't alleviate the pain that comes when a death occurs in a family, but it will make a severe emotional experience a great deal less difficult."

"A Helpful Guide to Funeral Planning" is being offered, without cost, through advertisements appearing in TIME Magazine as well as various newspaper, radio and TV public announcements, including those in The Quincy Sun. A copy of this informative booklet can also be obtained by writing or visiting the KEOHANE FUNERAL HOME at 785 Hancock St., Quincy, Mass. 02170.

Program For Children With Asthma At YMCA

The Norfolk County-Newton Lung Association announces final plans for a physical conditioning program for children with asthma at the Quincy YMCA.

Open to all residents of the South Shore, the program will continue for 18 weeks until Jan. 28. Classes are open to children with asthma, ages six to 13, and will be held Wednesday afternoons, at the Quincy YMCA, from 3:30 until 4:30 p.m.

A chest physiotherapist will teach proper breathing methods and how to actually cope with asthma attacks. Co-directors of physical education at the 'Y', Paul Harvey and Mrs. Norma Finnegan, will supervise a recreational program for the children, including breathing exercises.

Pre-registration and physician's approval are required. Parents will also participate in an educational course as an important adjunct to the program.

Dr. Conrad Nobili, Quincy allergist and medical advisor to the program, emphasizes that there is a great need to provide asthmatic children with the training needed for proper breathing skills. According to

Dr. Nobili, the program will not cure asthma, but will lessen the effects of each asthmatic episode. He also points out the importance of the child's recognizing that he is not an "odd ball" because he has asthma; but should learn to drop out of physically exerting activities when a wheezing spell occurs.

For registration information parents should contact the Norfolk County-Newton Lung Association at 745 High St., Westwood, or call 326-4081.

Steven Martinelli At Cushing Academy

Steven Martinelli, son of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Martinelli of Quincy, is attending Cushing Academy in Ashburnham.

The academy is the states' oldest co-educational boarding school, starting its 101st year this fall.

Entering its fourth season of competition, the Renegades Drum and Bugle Corps will add new equipment in the drum and horn sections and enlarge its feeder unit, the Renegade "Drifters".

James O'Brien, assistant manager of the Corps, said the Renegades placed first, second or third in 22 of the 23 contests entered last season.

He said new members for both Corps will be accepted at practice sessions held Mondays at 6:30 p.m. at the Quincy Armory or at St. John's School Wednesdays at 6:30 p.m. Prospective members of the Junior Corps can join Fridays at 6:30 p.m. at the Quincy Armory.

MBTA Reviewing Brett

Request To Lower Student Fares

The MBTA's Fare Review Task Force is reviewing a request to lower round-trip rapid student fare from Quincy Center to the University of Massachusetts at Columbia Point.

Rep. Joseph E. Brett had requested MBTA Chairman Robert R. Kiley to consider a special fare for students, saying a daily round-trip fare of $1 from Quincy Center to Boston was "rather expensive for students."

Kiley, assuring Brett his request "will be given every consideration," said present MBTA rules require adult fare charge to all riders 12 and over unless the person is working towards a high school diploma.

Benjamin Rudner Elected

President Wollaston Park Association

Benjamin Rudner of 148 Elm Ave., Wollaston, has been elected 1975-76 president of the Wollaston Park Association.

Other officers elected at the recent 19th annual meeting of the organization are:

Thomas F. Dowd of 19 Vassall St., vice president; Anna E. Lucey of 39 Ridgeway St., treasurer and Dorothy Kelly of 108 Davis St., secretary.

The eight new directors of the organization are Alyce Crapanuk of 113 Franklin St.; Leonard C. Delaney of 116 Davis St.; Madeline Falchetta of 55 The Strand; Dominic Falchetta of 55 The Strand; Herman Gauger of 141 Bromfield St.; Anna E. Lucey; William M. Macdonald of 74 Copley St.; and Harold A. Nannis of 107 Elm St.

Stephen Campbell, assistant to MDC chief engineer, addressed the Association, informing members the Black's Creek dredging project will be complete by December and tidal waters will once again flow through the marsh.

Campbell said the MDC is in the process of acquiring the Kimberley's property on Quincy Shore Drive and noted citizen input is welcome on possible uses for the land.

Association members questioned the necessity of a proposed 12-foot median strip from Furnace Brook Parkway to Fenno St. and Rep. Joseph E. Brett said record show accidents are more frequent farther north on Quincy Shore Drive.

Residents also brought to Campbell's attention the need for a permanent police station, better lighting, signal synchronization and added comfort station facilities in the next phase of improvements along Quincy Shore Drive.

Ward 3 City Councillor John Lydon met Tuesday with John Browne, director of plant facilities for Quincy Public Schools, citing graffiti as a

"major and recurring problem" at the Montclair School. Lydon said:

"Although graffiti seems to be a sign of the times, it is an unsightly blemish on a public institution and its content is not conducive to building the type of environment we all wish for our children."

Lydon said Browne assured him the full cooperation of the school's maintenance department in conducting a clean-up campaign of the Montclair School facilities.

At Montclair School

Within two weeks, a sandblasting operation will begin at the Montclair School to clean the school facilities.

Ward 3 City Councillor John Lydon met Tuesday with John Browne, director of plant facilities for Quincy Public Schools, citing graffiti as a

"major and recurring problem" at the Montclair School. Lydon said:

"Although graffiti seems to be a sign of the times, it is an unsightly blemish on a public institution and its content is not conducive to building the type of environment we all wish for our children."

Lydon said Browne assured him the full cooperation of the school's maintenance department in conducting a clean-up campaign of the Montclair School facilities.

Bernice Mader Elected President Quincy Civic Association

Bernice Mader has been elected president of the South Quincy Civic Association for the 1975-76 year.

Other newly-elected officers are Ernest Aristide, vice president; Maria Coffin, corresponding secretary; Jennie Beatrice, recording secretary and Mildred Dahlby, treasurer.

Elected to serve on the Board of Directors are Margaret Aristide, Albert Conti, Evelyn Crews, Lawrence Curtain, Pasquale DiStefano, James Duggan and Walter Nisula.

All Quincy citizens are invited to join the organization.

Guest speaker at the Oct. 14 meeting will be Dr. William Perrault, executive director of the Massachusetts State Lottery Commission. The public is invited to attend the meeting which will begin at 7:30 p.m. at the Lincoln-Hancock Community School, 300 Granite St., South Quincy.

Ecology, Nature Film Series To Start At Library Oct. 7

Thomas Crane Public Library will present a series of ecology and nature films during the month of October.

The programs will be held Tuesday evenings at 7 p.m., and are free.

The series begins Oct. 7 with three Sierra Club films: "Glen Canyon", "Miner's Ridge", and "Grand Canyon". These three films depict some of the unparalleled beauty of the western United States, as well as pointing out some of the problems involved in maintaining these wilderness areas.

Oct. 14 will bring "No Room for Wilderness", which uses African examples to show the devastating influence of technology and the population explosion on natural ecology. The same night, "West Chicagooff!" will explore the Tongass National Forest of southeastern Alaska, the home of a wide variety of otherwise seldom seen animal life.

On Oct. 21 the pace of the series will change slightly to include a short film from the National Park Service, "Any Time, Any Place". Bruce McHenry, a member of the Park Service, will talk about the film, which challenges viewer's own perspective of the planet he lives on.

The final program in the series, Oct. 28, will include three more Sierra Club films. "Follow the Wind to Cousin" takes a look at the unusual bird population of one of the Seychelles Islands. "Two Yosemite" contrasts the beauty of the Yosemite Valley with the disaster its scenic twin Hetch Hetchy suffered as the result of man's thoughtlessness. And finally, "Wilderness Alps" is a view of the meadows, glaciers, lakes, waterfalls and virgin forests of the Northern Cascade Range in the state of Washington.

Anyone seeking more information may call Linda Beeler at the library, 471-2400.

Mrs. Pat Peers Service Center Director

Mrs. Pat Peers of 130 Taffrail Rd, Germantown, was recently appointed director of the Germantown Service Center.

Mrs. Peers is a nutrition assistant with the Norfolk County Extension Service and is a representative to the Parents' Advisory Committee of the Quincy School Lunch Program.

She is also an active member of the Health Safety and Environment Committee, a member of the Snug Harbor Modernization Committee, and is actively involved in programs at St. Boniface Church.

Wife of James Peers and mother of two, she is past chairman of the Personnel Policies of Quincy Community Action and of the Harborview Residents' Committee.

Quincy Defeats Weymouth N, North Bows To Brockton

Quincy's new cross country coach, Joe Catalano, got off on the right foot last week and Tuesday the Presidents sought their second straight Suburban League win against Newton.

Next Tuesday Quincy will run at Weymouth South.

Meanwhile, Lou Tozzi's North Quincy harriers, losers to powerhouse Brockton [24 straight wins] last week, sought its first win Tuesday at Brookline. Next Tuesday the Raiders will host Rindge Tech.

Quincy made Catalano's debut a successful one with a 22-33 win over Weymouth North as the Presidents finished 1-2-3. Sophomore John Saville, who won the city junior high mile championship last spring with a record performance, paced the field with a 13:57 timing over the 2.7-mile course at Weymouth. Kevin O'Brien was second and Bob Thorne third.

Quincy's Don Jones placed sixth and Dennis McCarthy 10th to round out the scoring.

Quincy last Friday defeated Browne & Nichols, 22-34, in a non-league meet over the Fresh Pond course.

Saville was the winner with Thorne second. O'Brien was fourth, Jones seventh and Gene Allen 10th.

Although North was Brockton's 23rd straight victim, 22-38, the Raiders' Bart Petracca started where he left off last year as he broke his own Quincy course record by four seconds in covering the 2.3-mile course in 12 minutes, six seconds.

North's next finisher was Mike Morin in fifth place. Bob Levenson placed ninth.

North's junior varsity lost, 17-44, despite a fine effort by Mike Barrett.

Quincy's girls lost, 21-35, with Lori Petterson placing third, Paula Conostas fourth, Ellen Caramanica fifth, Dottie Irvine sixth, Julie Derry ninth and Kelly Tobin 10th.

North's girls also bowed, 15-50, but Judy Malloy turned in an excellent performance.

Oilers Host Webster Colonials

Quincy football fans will get their last two chances to see former Quincy High players Steve Carrera, Ted Myers and Pat Grimes, plus other Quincy players, in action for the Randolph Oilers at Randolph when they host the Webster Colonials at 2 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 12, and the Plymouth Rocks, Saturday, Oct. 18, at 8 p.m. in Eastern League games.

These three have been among the Oilers' top players this fall. Randolph dropped a 9-3 decision last Saturday night to the league-leading Attleboro Tri-Kings, who ran their record to 8-0. Although the Oilers are only 3-5, they have given the Tri-Kings their toughest games, having lost the season's opener, 7-2, on a blocked punt.

Grimes just missed giving Randolph a big win last week when he ran a kickoff back 49 yards and nearly went all the way.

Randolph intercepted four passes by Mike Sabine, the league's top passer.

Carrera is the team's leading ground gainer and Myers has done some outstanding passing.

Quincy Booters Face Brookline Saturday

Quincy's soccer team tried to extend its unbeaten Suburban League record to five Tuesday when it hosted Weymouth North.

The Presidents will play at Brookline Saturday at 10 a.m. and next Tuesday will face North Quincy at Montclair Field.

Ron Martin's Quincy booters last Friday tied Brockton, 4-4, to make its record 3-0-1, after nipping Cambridge Latin earlier in the week, 3-2.

Lou Ioanilli's North Quincy team suffered its first loss in four games Friday when it bowed to undefeated Brookline, 3-1, after blanking Weymouth North, 3-0, earlier in the week.

The Raiders, who played at Waltham Tuesday, will be home to Newton Saturday at 10 and host Quincy Tuesday.

In the tie with Brockton, Ken Donovan scored three goals for Quincy and Joe McEachern had the other. Glenn Schlager had two assists and McEachern one. North's only tally against Brookline was scored by John Dolbec in the final period.

Against Weymouth North Jim McGinley scored twice and Pete Donovan once. Tom DeAngelo and Jay Nelson had assists.

Presidents Hope To Rebound Vs. Wey. S.

Quincy football coach Hank Conroy hopes the Presidents will start off Saturday where they left off last week when they host one of their jinx rivals, Weymouth South, in a 1:30 p.m. game at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

Although Quincy lost to tough Dedham, 22-14, in last week's opener, it dominated the second half but penalties ruined its hope of avenging last year's one-sided defeat.

"If we play like we did in that second half, we'll give anyone a battle," Conroy said. "Dedham jumped off to a quick 16-0 lead but we dominated the rest of the game, especially in the second half."

Weymouth South, the Presidents' second non-league game in a row, has given Quincy untold trouble in the past, but last year Quincy breezed, 32-8. Last week Joe Kelly's team displayed a potent offense in tying Hingham, 21-21.

Conroy hailed the running of fullback Paul Vespaziani, who would have had more than 100 yards except for penalties. He also had good words for his quarterback, Frank Guest and Mark Buchanan, the running of Tony Cedrone and the offensive play of lineman Paul Ferris, Steve Sylva and Bob Nolan.

"Guest passed well but our running game kept us in the game," Conroy said. "I was pleased with the way we moved the ball in the second half. We reached their five once but were set back by a penalty and another solid threat was nullified by another penalty."

The veteran coach, whose win over Weymouth South a year ago marked his 50th head coaching victory, was also pleased with his defense. He had praise for Guest, Pat Gibbons and Mike Carloni in the defensive backfield and Bob Varrasso, Frank McNeil and Tony Spadorcia in the line.

Dedham struck quickly and had a 16-0 lead after the opening period.

Quincy came back with a touchdown in the second period when Guest hit veteran end John Riggs with a scoring pass covering 13 yards.

The Presidents cut the lead to 16-14 in the third period on a pass from Buchanan to end Russ Affa covering 14 yards. Buchanan rushed for the extra points.

However, Dedham came back in the final period with a three-yard run by Tom Robertson, who scored twice, which put the game out of reach.

Enrollment Clinic Saturday For 'Y' Men's Fitness Program

The Quincy YMCA will hold an enrollment clinic for its Physical Fitness Program for men Saturday, Sept. 27, at 1 p.m. in the "Y" Auditorium.

Any man 18 and over who wishes to enter the 15-week fitness program must attend the enrollment clinic and have his physician sign a medical clinic form to be turned in at the clinic or before they attend the first class. A fee of $10 is required upon enrollment. The medical clearance forms are available at the main desk. A full-privileged YMCA Membership is also required.

The clinic includes: an E.K.G., blood pressure, three-minute cardiovascular step test, body composition [percentage of body fat], trunk flexion. At the end of the 15 weeks a retest is given each enrollee in effort to determine progress.

The Fitness Program will begin Monday, Sept. 29. There are six classes at various times in the week. Each class is identical in content with progressive build up of each person's exercises and jogging capacity. A trained professional staff member provides the leadership for each class.

Classes will be held Monday, Wednesday, and Friday mornings from 7:15 to 8 and on Monday, Wednesday and Thursday evenings from 7:15 to 8.

Each person varies in the time he takes to become "fit" or lose weight. The professional staff and program are flexible in that adjustments are made for individual needs.

With a minimum of three-work weeks, a sedentary will see a marked difference in his overall physical condition.

Jogging and exercising seems to be the popular thing these days, and it is safer doing it in a tested and professionally supervised program—such as at the Quincy YMCA.

A YMCA membership has a full range of programs, including: Basketball, One-Wall Handball, Volleyball, Weightlifting, Boxing, Judo, Recreational Swims, and Swimming Instructions. For the Businessman's Membership, a fully equipped exercise room with weight station machine, sauna room, and steam room. An exercise and health consultant is available Monday and Wednesday from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. in the Businessman's area for individual counseling on exercise. Massages are available on an A La Carte basis. For further information contact the YMCA—479-8500.

Raiders Seek Second Win At Malden

By TOM SULLIVAN

Dave Burke outstanding North Quincy quarterback of the mid-40's, made a highly successful return to his alma mater as he led the Raiders to a convincing 27-0 non-league win at Milton last week in his debut as North's football coach.

Burke and his team will try to make it two non-league wins in a row Saturday when they play at Malden, which opened its season last week with a 22-6 Greater Boston League win over Chelsea.

"This was a good way to open and it is always satisfying to win your first game," said a happy Burke, who was a Quincy assistant the last 11 years.

"I was pleased with our performance both on offense and defense. We moved the ball very well and our defense was outstanding. I expected the defense to be strong, as it looked good in pre-season scrimmages, but I was not sure about the offense. We ran well and our passing game showed a lot of promise."

As expected, Brian Doherty sparked the Raider ground game as he ground out 118 yards. While Burke had his first unit playing, North gained 187 yards on the ground.

"I had my second team in there from midway in the third period so a lot of boys got some valuable game experience," Dave continued. "And they made a good showing, especially the defense."

Burke, of course, had good words for Doherty and also hailed Matty Constantino and Mike Adams for their running and Mike Holleran, who did some good passing. The quarterback had several strikes dropped by his receivers and his passing was impressive.

"George Wallace and Bill McIntyre looked good in the second backfield and Brian Donaghey did well spelling Holleran at quarterback," Burke pointed out.

On defense the North coach lauded Alf McHugh, who realized a lineman's dream by recovering a fumble in the end zone for a touchdown. John Ryan and Pete Hemphill in the line, linebackers Frank Strazzula and Steve Bell, John McKenna and Paul McGuigan and Jack Hatfield in the secondary.

"The entire offensive line played well and opened good holes, and the second defense turned in a fine performance," Burke said. "Milton reached our 30 only once and we stopped them when they gambled on a fourth down situation."

Doherty got North off on the right foot capping a drive with a one-yard plunge in the opening period. Ed McEleney kicked the point.

In the second period McHugh scored with his fumble recovery in the end zone and Holleran threw a touchdown pass to end Jerry McKenzie covering 23 yards. McEleney kicked his second point after the third TD.

In the third period Constantino scored on an 11-yard run and newcomer Dave Dill kicked the point.

The uncovering of two extra point kickers could prove valuable to Burke in close games.

St. Moritz Horseshoe Club Closes Season

The St. Moritz Horseshoe Club, Bunker Hill Lane, Quincy, finished its season with a tournament and cookout.

Winners were Russell Sweeney of Quincy, Class A; Tony Dziuba of Norwood, Class B; Bill Knowles of Quincy, Class C; Charles Bonani of Braintree, Class D; Ed Harrington of Quincy, Class E, and James Taverna of Quincy, Class F. Sweeney won in Class A via the playoff route after finishing in a tie with Russ Gadoury and Dan Beane.

During the cookout trophies were awarded for competition in the leagues, which were begun this year. Top team prize in the Monday league went to Mike Murphy of East Weymouth and Edith Gadoury of Watertown. They won a playoff match against the runnersup, Dan Beane and Bart Sargent of Westwood. Third place went to the team of Charles Stewart of Quincy, Beverly Fontaine of Rockland and Jerry LoConte of Hyde Park.

Champions of the Tuesday league were Stewart and Harrington of Quincy, followed by Beane and Phil Grindle of Quincy. In third place were Don Fontaine and Joe Cochrane of Squantum.

Individual honors went to Grindle for high game with handicap, Gadoury for high scratch game and John Airale of Dorchester for winning average. He posted a record of 20½ wins and 9½ losses. Russell Sweeney finished with high ringer average, 56.5 percent.

League officials considered the first year of play a success and it was directly responsible for the increase in club membership, up 25 from last year. The players expressed their pleasure at the handicap format, which made for many close games. The league is anticipating even more activity at the courts next season.

YMCA Church School Basketball Meetings Set

League Director Bill Johnston announces that the annual orientation and rules interpretation meetings of the South Shore YMCA Church School Basketball League have been scheduled for Thursday, Oct. 2, for the boys division, and Thursday, Oct. 9 for the girls.

Both meetings will be held at the YMCA starting at 8 p.m.

All churches planning to enter teams in the League this coming season should plan to be represented by at least one delegate at each meeting. A question and answer period will follow the discussion of the rules and regulations.

Appointments to the separate 1975-76 Advisory Boards will be made each night.

Adams Hat Trick Paces Red Team, 3-2

Smokey Adams' hat trick gave the Red Team a 3-2 win over the Golds in Executive Hockey League action Sunday night at the Youth Arena. Dave McArthur and Ken Croke had assists. Peter Lynch and Bill Monahan scored for the Golds with assists going to Monahan, Bob O'Connell and Jack Powers.

The Orange team defeated the Greens, 3-2, on a goal by Alan Gullickson and two by John Emmett. Marty Tolson had two goals and Ed Grogan and Charlie Duffy had one apiece.

For the Greens Dick McCabe and Ken Halloran scored with Tom Roberts and Wayne Cooper assisting.

Art Boyle's two goals and two assists sparked the Blues over the Whites, 5-4. Jack Hurley had two goals and Russ Erickson Sr. one for the Blues with Erickson having two assists. White scorers were John McNeil with two goals and Bob Kallstrom and Ralph Freeman with Ed O'Riordan, McNeil, Kallstrom and Ed Dwyer having assists.

Team Quincy Defeats Red Barons

Team Quincy defeated the Red Barons, 3-1, and Squantum Mobile topped Tiffany by the same score as the Quincy Youth Hockey Association Girls' League opened its pre-season schedule.

Kristin O'Gara scored unassisted to give the Barons the lead in the opening period but Missy Schaffer tied the score for Team Quincy, with Jean Crossen assisting. Kathy Hussey scored the winning goal with Karen Cullen, and Crossen scored the insurance goal with an assist for Leslie Bishop.

Tricia Sullivan scored first on a solo dash to give Tiffany the lead but Janet Colclough tied it up unassisted for Squantum. Laura Light scored twice to give Squantum the win with Lauren Appollo assisting on one.

This is the girls' third season and games are played Tuesday evenings between 5:30 and 7:30 at the Youth Arena.

Ho-Jo's Leads Women Merchant Bowlers

The Women Merchants Bowling League has opened its season and Ho-Jo's of West Quincy leads in the early going with a 12-4 record, followed by Quincy Motors, 10-6. The Body Smith Shop, 10-6; Merry Mount Lanes, 8-8; Pepe's Express, 6-10, and South Shore Barbers, 2-14.

Bev Putnam has high average of 103.3, followed by Sandy Barrie, 103.0; Noreen Mastroianni, 102.5; Elaine Rozanski, 102.3; Jini Seaver, 97.0; Ellie Iacobucci, 96.7; Edna Walker, 95.7; Taffy Senoni, 95.3; Ann Trementozzi, 95.2 and Doty Boyd, 95.0.

Ho-Jo's has high weekly team single of 496 and high team three of 1409. Noreen Mastroianni has high individual single of 124 and high three of 326.

Public Hearing Oct. 2 On Wastewater Management

The Technical Subcommittee on Boston Harbor will hold a public hearing Thursday, Oct. 2 in the John F. Kennedy Building, 1120 Hancock St., Quincy, to present recommendations for future wastewater management in the metropolitan area of Eastern Massachusetts.

The meeting will begin at 7 p.m. It is one of four final public hearings which will bring to a close a 30-month $2 million Waste Management Study conducted by the Metropolitan District Commission.

The Subcommittee has endorsed a decentralized waste system for the Metropolitan Sewerage District through implementation of secondary treatment at the Deer and Nut Island Plants and construction of advanced treatment plants along the Neponset River in the Canton area and in the Middle Charles River area.

The subcommittee is seeking the public's comments on construction priorities, construction and operation alternatives and costs. Since the subcommittee's meetings in May and June of this year, changes have been made in the proposed construction schedule and recommendations for financing and organizing the plan have been made.

Serving on the subcommittee with the MDC are the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, the Metropolitan Area Planning Council, the state's Division of Water Pollution Control, the Department of Public Health and the Office of State Planning.

A citizens' committee serves as advisor to the study.

Governor Michael S. Dukakis fields audience question at "town meeting" held Monday evening at Broad Meadows Junior High School. More than 100 Quincy residents attended the 90-minute session - 16th in a state-wide series - aimed at increasing the governor's understanding of local concerns and reducing the people's sense of isolation from elected officials.

New South Telephone Directory Being Delivered

The new South Suburban Boston directory is being delivered to more than 130,000 customers in the Quincy, Braintree, Cohasset, Hingham, Holbrook, Hull, Milton, Randolph, Scituate and Weymouth areas early in September.

Local telephone manager Donald C. Buron said the book delivered in these areas will include local Yellow Pages for quick and easy referral to products or services.

"Over a 12-month period, more than four out of five adults in the Greater Boston area used the Yellow Pages," Buron said. "A recent survey showed that 92 million adults used the Yellow Pages an average of 40 times a year. And ninety-three per cent of those who checked Yellow Pages' listings followed their reference with some sort of action - a phone call, visit or letter."

On the cover of this issue of the South Suburban Boston book is a reproduction of a painting of Samuel Adams by John Singleton Copley. This painting was reproduced through the courtesy of the Museum of Fine Arts in Boston.

Buron said delivery is expected to be completed Sept. 12.

Over the past year more than 11 million directory copies - amounting to about seven billion pages - have been issued.

The manufacture of today's directories is a highly complex process involving one of the biggest printing jobs in the U.S. Production has come a long way since 1878 when the first telephone directory was issued in New Haven, Conn. At that time a single six-by-nine inch sheet of paper listed 50 customers.

In those days there were no telephone numbers and a caller simply told the operator the name of the party he wished to speak with. Customer listings were conveniently classified under seven different categories including "residences", "meat and fish markets" and "hack and boarding stables".

Today's directory is a regular reference book.

In addition to customer listings and numbers for fire, police and emergency services, a reader can refer to time zones of the United States or postal Zip codes.

Everything a customer needs to know about placing a long distance call can be found on the ensuing pages - including the best and cheapest ways to call. Guidelines on how to deal with annoyance callers make up another section of each book.

Area telephone numbers can be obtained fastest by looking in the easy-to-use directory. Yet many unnecessary calls are made each day for directory assistance.

Some telephone companies have begun charging for directory assistance calls on the basis that a small percentage of customers were responsible for the vast majority of these calls and were being subsidized by the average customer.

Raymondi Makes Ward 2 Traffic Proposals

School Committeeman Daniel G. Raymondi, candidate for the Ward 2 City Council seat announces he has sent two proposals to the newly established Ward 2 Traffic Advisory Committee for study at tonight's (Thursday) meeting at the Fore River Club House.

One proposal would establish a stop sign at the intersection of Blanchard Rd and Faxon Lane for traffic coming from Blanchard Rd entering Faxon Lane. The other proposal would request the installation of traffic control signals at the intersection of McGrath Highway, Miller Stile Rd, Revere Rd, and Chestnut St.

Raymondi said the two areas create a dangerous situation for motor vehicle and pedestrian traffic especially for those travelers who are new to the community or just passing through.

He said the traffic advisory committee is open to all who wish to serve and is designed for residents of Ward 2 who have become frustrated and dismayed by the overwhelming traffic and parking problems in their community.

HOLLYWOOD HOTLINE

Maud learned a lot from Telly Savalas

By NANCY ANDERSON
Copley News Service

HOLLYWOOD — Maud Adams says she was terrified at the thought of working with Telly Savalas in "Diamond Mercenaries" but that he was the most helpful actor with whom she's ever been teamed.

Scenes with Savalas were acting lessons, she discovered.

In one scene, Savalas was supposed to "violate" her (to quote Maud), and her natural impulse was to react with violence.

"But he suggested that I play it just the reverse," she says, "very, very coldly."

"I did, and it played much better that way."

"I got to kiss Telly in the picture," she adds, "and I think he loved it."

The picture was made entirely in South Africa in what Maud describes as "the oldest desert in the world" with the cast and crew quartered in the tiny town of Swakamund.

The size of the town limited leisure activity but was an asset, Maud says, because the enforced togetherness melded the cast into a family of sorts.

As soon as she gets around to picking up her decree, Maud will be divorced from her photographer husband from whom she's been separated for two years.

"I like relationships," Miss Adams says, "but somehow the concept of marriage has gone all wrong."

"My private life right now is very exciting, but it is also private."

So whatever is causing the excitement remains her secret.

Barnard Hughes who plays "Doc" in the CBS-TV series of that name won't perform heart transplants, brain surgery or sex change operations on the show, because just about his only tool of his trade is going to be a flashlight.

"I've been using a tongue depressor," says Hughes, "because I dropped that last week, because it's too hard to get the sanitized wrapper off. So I think my most useful prop is going to be my flashlight."

While "Doc" won't handle such heavy cases as come Chad Everett's way, shows will occasionally be topical.

"We'll have a show about conditions in nursing homes and one about computerized doctors," Hughes points out.

"The doctor I'm playing isn't as up-to-date as Dr. Gannon at 'Medical Center,' but he has more warts than Jean Hersholt used to have."

Hughes and another television medic, George Peppard of NBC's "Doctors' Hospital," recently worked together in a movie for television about a real-life doctor, Dr. Sam Shepherd.

But in that instance, Hughes was a lawyer, the defense attorney, while Peppard portrayed the doctor accused of killing his wife.

The drama, called "The Dr. Sam Shepherd Story," will air over NBC-TV this fall at a time not yet announced. Hughes has played a doctor so often that his role in "Doc" might be considered type casting had not the doctors he's played been so diverse. He was a mad doctor in "Hospital" with George C. Scott. He was a villainous doctor in "Rage," also with George C. Scott. But in the daytime television drama, "The Guiding Light," he was Dr. Bruce Banning, a medic so kindly and proficient that a strange woman stopped him in Bloomingdale's to thank him for the wonderful work he was doing.

"At first I didn't know what she was talking about," Hughes chuckles, "because I was pretty sure she wasn't thanking me for the work I was doing as an actor. Then I discovered she was thanking Dr. Banning for his work."

HEALTHY Seminars At Pagnano

HEALTHY, a series of six seminars for senior citizens, began Wednesday for residents of Pagnano Towers.

Quincy Health Commissioner Dr. Alfred V. Mahoney launched the series, delivering a lecture entitled "Perspectives on Aging".

Developed by the Massachusetts Department of Elder Affairs, HEALTHY [Health Education And Learning To Help Yourself], is being brought to Quincy through the efforts of Dr. Mahoney and Putnam S. Borden, director of the Quincy Council on Aging, in cooperation with Sr. Eileen Driscoll, project coordinator in the State Department of Elder Affairs and Bella Krovitz, program coordinator at Pagnano Towers.

The seminars will be held at Pagnano Towers Wednesdays and Fridays from 10 a.m. to 12 noon through Oct. 10. Each seminar will emphasize measures to prevent disease and accidents. Secondary prevention - avoiding acute episodes or complications in a chronic problem - will also be stressed.

The following topics will be discussed during the seminar:

Sept. 26: "Long-Term Illness" with Ruth Dobbie, director of Quincy Visiting Nurses Association.

Oct. 1: "Drugs and Vitamins" with Romulus L. DeNicola, executive secretary of the Massachusetts Building of Registration Pharmacy; "Safety and Emergencies" with Madeline Papile, coordinator of the Health Occupation Division at Quincy Vocational Technical School.

Oct. 3: "Food and Pads" with Marilyn Bingle, nutritionist for Norfolk County Extension Service and Expanded Food and Nutrition Educational Program.

Oct. 8: "Anxiety and Tensions" with Bernice Parels, advocate for the Elderly, Region V. Department of Mental Health.

Oct. 10: "Exercise and Rest" with Beth Sprague, physical therapist.

Participants who attend at least five of the six seminars will receive a certificate from the Department of Elder Affairs.

Present plans call for repetition of the seminars for senior citizens in other parts of the city.

Broad Meadows Seeks Parent Board Candidates

Broad Meadows Junior High School is looking for candidates for its Parent Board and requesting all parents to cast ballots October 2.

Any adult who lives in the district serviced by Broad Meadows is eligible to become a candidate. Those who meet the eligibility criteria may have their names recorded as candidates by calling the school or register in person before Monday, September 29. The election will be October 2. Parents may cast their ballots anytime during the day.

The main purpose of the Parent Board is to establish an open line between the home and school. To do this, Board members meet monthly with school personnel in an advisory capacity. Agenda at these meetings consists of topics called to the attention of the Board by the school administration and citizens in the Broad Meadows district. Format at each and all meetings is such as to allow free and open discussion of all topics.

Delahunt Seeks Legislation To Get Name Off Ballot

By MARY ANN DUGGAN

Special legislation to remove William D. Delahunt's name from the Nov. 4 ballot must be passed by Monday or the newly-appointed district attorney will become a reluctant candidate in the councillor at-large race.

City Clerk John Gillis said printing of final election absentee ballots will begin Monday.

In the wake of a state-level ruling stating Delahunt's name must remain on the ballot under law, Delahunt said he plans to request Senator-City Council President Arthur H. Tobin to call a special city council meeting tonight [Thursday], seeking approval of the special legislation authored by the district attorney.

He has also requested Gillis to withhold the printing of final election ballots until definitive action is taken on the legislation.

Meanwhile, Helen McDonnell, who finished seventh in the at-large race with 3,309 votes, has filed for a recount. She trails Sabina Stenberg by 157 votes, a large number to try to overturn.

According to Delahunt, the special legislation requires approval by the City Council and Mayor Walter J. Hannon.

Second Top Aide Leaves LaRaia Camp

Two top aides in the "LaRaia for Mayor" campaign have resigned, saying the sudden formation of a 10-member advisory board clashes with their philosophy that "fast and firm" campaign decisions must be made by one man.

Former campaign director Frank DiCesare and co-director Paul Anderson have left the LaRaia camp but insist they both parted friends with mayoralty contender Joseph LaRaia.

Atty. Thomas Williams has been named to succeed DiCesare as campaign director.

No successor has been named to replace Anderson.

However, Ward 6 co-ordinator Giuliano Buccini denied rumors he planned to resign his post but said a "back-up" person will be aiding him in the ward.

Saphir Throws Support To LaRaia

Mrs. Grace Saphir has endorsed City Councillor Joseph LaRaia as the next mayor of Quincy.

In a prepared statement, Mrs. Saphir outlined her stance on a variety of issues and concluded that LaRaia's philosophies stand "more in concert" with hers than Mayor Walter J. Hannon's. Mrs. Saphir won 2,710 votes in the preliminary election to place third in the race.

Throughout her campaign for mayor, Mrs. Saphir said she has emphasized her belief a mayor or city councillor should serve no more than two consecutive terms "as a check against cronyism." She said that belief strongly influenced her decision to support LaRaia.

Asked if she would have endorsed Hannon if he were seeking a second and not a third term, Mrs. Saphir paused and replied:

"I don't know. It's a hard [Cont'd on Page 10]

Starting In Next Week's Quincy Sun

Hey, Kids! Here's Your Very Own Newspaper

Hey, kids, now you're going to have your very own newspaper.

The Quincy Sun is expanding its popular "Young Ideas" column into a four-page pullout newspaper for Quincy's elementary school youngsters.

The new paper will make its debut in next week's issue [Oct. 9] of The Sun with the Montclair School fourth grade class of Mrs. Carolyn Sullivan as the first staff.

The newspaper, which will continue the name "Young Ideas" is being published by The Sun in cooperation with the Quincy School Department and civic-minded members of the business community. It will appear frequently in The Sun during the school year.

"Young Ideas" will be edited by Cathy Conley of The Sun staff but all editorial content will be by elementary school youngsters.

Features will include short stories, interviews with schoolmates and civic and business leaders, opinions on various subjects such as sports, politics, ecology, safety, puzzles, contests, drawings for coloring. All of that will be done by the youngsters themselves, including the creation of the puzzles and drawings.

The first issue will concentrate on Fire Prevention Week and will be sponsored by Riley and Rielly Insurance Agency.

Mrs. Conley will work with the youngsters and their teachers right in their classrooms. She will visit various schools. At each, a classroom will be selected as the staff for that particular issue.

But the newspaper will have a guest department so that other youngsters in that school and in all the other elementary schools in the city may contribute items for publication.

In addition to this, of course, the puzzles and contests in each newspaper will be enjoyed by youngsters throughout the city.

School Supt. Dr. Lawrence

Creedon hailed the unique project for its educational value.

"We are very enthusiastic about the program," he said. "It's one of the more promising programs we've become involved in in recent times to give us an opportunity--in a very practical way--to strengthen the language arts and communication skills of young people and make them aware of the processes involved in producing a newspaper."

"And it's one more indication--of what we already know--of the support we get from The Quincy Sun in all our efforts."

Mrs. Conley, mother of five children aged six to 13, has a B.A. degree in journalism from Regis College. She has served as editor of publications for various companies and was editor of archeology for the Department of Interior, Washington, D.C.

Mrs. Conley has also been a copywriter, speechwriter and audio-visual program writer, freelance writer and has had several articles and poems published in children's magazines.

So, beginning next week, there will be another big reason for reading The Quincy Sun. "Young Ideas" will have something for every elementary school youngster in Quincy.

Donate Pint Of Blood Get Free Hour Of Tennis

By DEIRDRE SULLIVAN

The Boston Harbor Marina Tennis Club, in cooperation with Quincy City Hospital, is sponsoring one free hour of tennis for each pint of blood donated at the hospital's Blood Bank.

One hundred donors will be eligible for free time in one of the club's eight indoor courts. The club is sponsoring the court time, which amounts to $800, to help boost blood supplies in Quincy.

Open seven days a week, the Harbor Marina Club will arrange convenient times for the blood donors.

The Quincy City Hospital Blood Bank, a member of the American Association of Blood Banks Northeast Clearing House Program, offers family coverage anywhere in the U.S. if donated at Quincy.

The conor tennis program goes into effect immediately. More information may be obtained by contacting the Quincy City Hospital Blood Bank.

7-Digit Quincy Calls

Nearly 35,000 telephone customers in a number of Quincy exchange areas now should dial only seven digits for calls to much of the metropolitan Boston area.

Local telephone manager Donald Buron said that affected customers are in the 471, 472, 479, 328, 773 and 786 exchange areas, and that they should dial seven digits only for all calls to the areas listed on the page 3 map of the south suburban directory.

"For example," Buron said,

"Quincy customers will now need to dial only seven digits for calls to Scituate

"For station-to-station calls to any other exchanges in the Massachusetts 617 area, these customers should dial 'one' before the seven digit number, and for calls outside the 617 area they must dial 'one', the area code, and the number."

Buron said that the dialing standardization will not cause a rate change for the affected customers.

FLAG PRESENTATION - The Ancient & Honorable Artillery Company of Massachusetts, third oldest military organization in the world, is presented two Massachusetts state flags by Governor Michael Dukakis. Accepting them are Colonel Ernest J. Montilio of Quincy, commanding officer of the Ancients. The Ancients will bring the flags to Italy and Israel on their 338th Fall Field Day Tour of Duty Oct. 3-13. Colonel Montilio will present one state flag to U.S. Ambassador John A. Volpe at the American Embassy in Rome and the other to U.S. Ambassador Malcolm Toon at the American Embassy in Tel Aviv. At left is Ancients Adjutant George Peznola of Needham and at right is Ancients First Lt. Robert F. Murphy of Milton.

New Hours Effective At Germantown Service Center

The Germantown Service Center, 9 Bicknell St., announces new hours, effective Oct. 1.

The center will now be open daily from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Some of the services available at the center include: Nutrition demonstrations, family service counseling, food stamp applications, family planning clinic, welfare and housing advocacy, as well as information and referral services.

A food stamp aide is available to accept applications during regular hours. Evening hours and home visits can be made available by calling the center for an appointment. Anyone who feels they may be eligible to receive food stamps is urged to apply.

Counselors from the Family Services of Greater Boston are available Thursday mornings from 9 a.m. to 12 noon, for consultation. Private counseling by appointment or by telephone are available at that time.

Weekly coffee hours are held at the center Thursday mornings from 11 a.m. to noon. These coffee hours are by no means unproductive as the center is planning lessons on sand painting, crocheting, and cooking in the near future. Guest speakers have also been invited.

Today, [Thursday] instructions will be provided on completing a basic 'macrame plant holder.

All services of the Center are open to the public.

Rosemary Wallberg Named QCAO Executive Director

Mrs. Rosemary Wahlberg of 264 Southern Artery, Merrymount, was recently appointed Executive Director of the Quincy Community Action Organization.

Mrs. Wahlberg is serving as president of South Shore Day Care Services, Inc., and is a member of the Health Planning Council of Greater Boston - Area V. She was the first woman appointed to serve on the Quincy Housing Authority Board of Directors and was instrumental in the completion of the school lunch program for the City of Quincy.

She served as program assistant in the Norfolk County Nutrition Program in Germantown for six years, was a member of the Broad Meadows Junior High School Advisory Council, and is currently serving on the Board of directors for the League of Women Voters.

Wife of Archie Wahlberg and mother of eight, Mrs. Wahlberg was involved in several community programs in Germantown, including lead paint screening, tenant involvement, welfare advocacy and family planning, before moving to her present address.

Oct. 15 Deadline To Register For Final Election

Only two weeks remain for Quincy residents to register in time to be eligible to vote in the final city election, Nov. 4.

Wednesday, Oct. 15, will be the last day to register, according to City Clerk John M. Gillis.

Registration will be held at six locations.

From 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. on Tuesday, Oct. 7, Ward 2 residents may register at the Fore River Club on Nevada Rd. Also at this time, the registration location for Ward 3 residents will be the Cranch School on Whitwell St., for Ward 4 residents the Gridley Bryant School on Willard St.

On Oct. 9, also from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m., Ward 5 residents may register at the Wollaston Methodist Church, via the side entrance on Beale St. Also held at this time will be Ward 6 registration at the Quincy School on Newbury Ave.

From 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday, registration will be held at City Hall's Election Department. On Saturday, Oct. 11, the department will open for registration from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. On Wednesday Oct. 15, the last day of registration for the final city election, the department will again remain open until 10 p.m.

The U.S. Civil Service Commission has cleared Ward 4 Councillor James A. Sheets of claims his candidacy for state representative would be in violation of the Hatch Act.

The federal law governs the right of state and local government employees to run for political office.

John M. Tehan of 43 Town Hill St., West Quincy - who is expected to announce soon his candidacy for the post - questioned the legality of Sheets' bid for the office through a complaint presented before the School Committee last Wednesday by Committeeman Frank Anselmo. Sheets is head of the government and history department at Quincy Junior College, in addition to being a city councillor.

The Hatch Act covers officers or employees of a state or local agency if their principal employment is in connection with an activity financed in whole or in part by loans or grants made by the United States or a federal agency.

Lynn R. Collins, deputy assistant in the office of the general counsel at the U.S. Civil Service Commission, told Sheets the Hatch Act does not apply to him, the city councillor said. Responding to Sheets' inquiring on the matter, Collins wrote:

"State or local employees are not covered by the Hatch Act merely because they work for an agency receiving federal funds; to be subject to the Act, the employees must exercise some function in connection with a particular activity of the agency which is federally funded."

Collins continued to explain the Act excludes from coverage "an individual employed by an educational institution which is financed in whole or in part by a state or a political subdivision thereof." Collins told Sheets:

"Since you are employed by the Quincy Junior College, an institution receiving funds from both the city of Quincy and the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, you are not covered by the Hatch Act. Accordingly, your candidacy is not in violation of the Act."

The School Committee is expected to hear Tehan's objections to Sheets' candidacy at the Oct. 8 meeting. According to contractual agreement a teacher has the right to be present when he or she is to be discussed at a School Committee meeting. Although invited to attend the Oct. 8 meeting, Sheets said he plans to decline. He told The Quincy Sun:

"I have no reason to be there. There is no question that the statement from the U.S. Civil Service Commission resolves the question legally. This Commission is the highest source of authority and their statement is very clear...I highly respect the members of the School Committee and certainly believe they will handle the matter with discretion and maturity."

Tehan, who declined to comment why he believed Sheets' candidacy would violate the Hatch Act, said his "first and only announcement" on the matter would be forthcoming at the Oct. 8 School Committee meeting. He told The Quincy Sun:

"I don't want to hurt anyone beforehand. I am going to give Mr. Sheets a chance to respond to me. I want to be an honorable man as I have in the past."

Commenting on this challenge to his candidacy, Sheets said:

"It is as wrong to try to deny a person's right to serve as it is to deny his right to vote. All of us who will be involved in this race should respect and honor each other's basic, fundamental freedoms and rights as they exist in the Constitution."

"This election will be won or lost at the ballot box and in the minds and hearts of the people of Quincy. And that is the way it should be."

McCauley Requests NQHS Bid

Award Placed On Agenda

School Committeeman Francis X. McCauley, has requested School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon, to place the matter of the bid award for the communication system at North Quincy High School on the agenda for the Oct. 8 regular school committee meeting.

Robert D. Marinick, National Sales Manager of Strom Industries, Inc., of Newton has alleged "flagrant irregularities" in the recent bid award.

McCauley said he has been briefed on this matter by the School Department and would like to hear the other side of the story.

McCauley has suggested to Dr. Creedon that he write and invite Marinick or his representative to appear before the School Committee Oct. 8.

QUESTIONS WOMEN ASK

How can doctors foretell baby's sex?

By ELEANOR B. RODGERSON, M.D.
Copley News Service

Q. How can you tell what sex your baby will be?

A. So far the only sure ways you can tell what sex your baby will be is to examine the cells, or test for male hormone, in the amniotic fluid obtained by amniocentesis. Barr bodies, spots that are seen in a certain percentage of female baby cells are counted, or the chromosomes are examined for the female types. Recently, studies have been done on the amount of male hormone, testosterone, in the amniotic fluid and it is thought that this determination may be the fastest, easiest way to come to a definite conclusion as to sex.

The reason for determining the sex of the unborn baby is to be sure of the health of the baby, not to satisfy the curiosity of the parents. There are some sex-linked abnormalities, as in hemophilia, where the male is affected and the female is not.

Q. Should babies always be born head first?

A. Babies fit better into their mothers' pelvis when they lie head first and their heads, the largest part of them, prepare the way. A small percentage of babies come feet first and their deliveries are more difficult because the smallest parts come first. The "breech" delivery used to be a real test of the skill of the obstetrician, but, in recent years, with the improved safety of operations, the cesarean section is frequently resorted to in these presentations.

Q. Will it hurt my baby if I keep vomiting every day while I'm pregnant?

A. If you are unable to keep any food and fluid in your stomach, you should report to your doctor for specific treatment, but this condition occurs very rarely. Vomiting once a day should not hurt the baby.

Usually, nausea and vomiting disappear after the first few weeks of pregnancy, after the baby has settled in and your body has gotten accustomed to the changes in your hormones. Nausea alone is more common than nausea and vomiting.

The simple treatment of frequent dry feedings — taking your liquids in between — and not letting yourself get overly tired, are ordinarily enough to get you through the first weeks. Not all women notice nausea, but some are plagued all the way through the nine months. Probably you can say that the hunger which accompanies pregnancy soon crowds out the early nausea.

Today's Women

Sleepshirts Are For Sleeping

New York—(HK)—The recession and the energy crisis have inadvertently sparked a boom in sleepwear for men—pajamas, robes and loungewear. The biggest magnet is sleepshirts, which resemble football jerseys and photo prints and are an extension of the T-shirt.

Though no official figures are available, industry leaders believe the high cost of a "night on the town" has encouraged many breadwinners to stay home during the evening and watch TV, read a book, or devote himself to his favorite hobby.

How well the sale of nightwear is going can best be illustrated by Stan Frieze, president of the Weldon Menswear division of The Harwood Companies Inc., the nation's largest branded manufacturer of men's sleepwear and robes.

Frieze, who takes to the road like a salesman with a new territory, has increased Weldon's sales about $3,000,000 in the past two years. He has traveled coast-to-coast personally visiting department and specialty store presidents and general merchandise managers as well as consumers, talking about the importance of sleepwear and robes.

He said the boom in sleepwear was first noticed last year when the oil shortage affected the consumer. "Sales of nightwear went through the roof for the first time in history," he added. "We see it continuing in importance in the foreseeable future because of the continuing emphasis on energy conservation."

Men Under 40

Frieze said men under 40 began buying leisure wear at a rapid rate, with the emphasis on nightshirts and those with a fashion-look when the recession and oil shortage hit. At that time, between 60 to 65 percent of the men slept in the raw or in shorts.

For men 40 years or older, an estimated 50 percent sleep in pajamas. As to why the older men wear pajamas, Frieze said "when you get older, your body doesn't look as good and you find body covering important."

Another factor in the sales boom of nightshirts is the unisex approach. The younger wives frequently buy "one for him and one for her," he said. "And when she wants to use her nightshirt for day wear, she puts on a belt and has a dress for $9.00. Women buy almost all of the men's sleepwear and robes sold and have found many of the items very suitable for themselves. There is a definite blurring of sexual boundaries in the use of these apparel products." (HK)

STITCHING WITCHERY

Horsehair Braid Helps A Hemline

By BETTY W. KINSEY
Copley News Service

Horsehair braid. Doesn't sound like something you would use in sewing, does it? But it is. When you want to add a touch of stiffness to the hemline of such fabrics as chiffon, organza, taffeta or satin, use nylon horsehair braid. You'll like what it does.

Dear Betty: I'm interested in how to make neat blazer collars. Any suggestions? — Mrs. Lawrence Chase, Elmira, N.Y.

Sure. We can't have a complete sewing lesson here, but we can cover the most vital points.

The secrets of a neat, well-turned blazer collar are:

stitching, clipping, trimming, pressing and turning of the points and corners.

Stitching: As you near a point or corner, shorten the stitch length to about 15 or 18, leaving it at that until you have passed the corner. Right at the corner, instead of pivoting, make two stitches across the point.

Clipping: When clipping points and corners, clip right up to the stitching, but do not cut the threads! This takes a little concentration, but if you have a good pair of clipping scissors and a steady hand, you'll be all right.

Trimming: Always grade seam allowances. Trim the collar seam allowance to about 1/4 inch. Trim the under collar and facing seam allowances to about 1/4 inch. The interfacing should have already been trimmed before assembling the collar.

Pressing: Before turning the collar right side out, place the seamline on your sleeve board and press the seam open by pressing one part toward the collar and one part out on the board. It may be impossible to get to some parts, but do the best you can.

Turning: Turn the collar right side out. Work the seamline between your thumb and fingers to get it all the way out. Pin to hold, "then baste. On points and corners, you may need to pull the fabric out with a heavy pin or needle. Be careful. Don't pull out "whiskers."

Let me know how your next collar turns.

PERSONAL Boyfriend is too gloomy

By PAT AND MARILYN DAVIS

Dear Pat and Marilyn:

I've been engaged to Warren for six months and am already thinking of breaking the engagement. We do have many things in common but Warren has one trait I can't stand. He never looks on the bright side of anything. If we plan a picnic, he will predict rain. If I suggest the beach, he says it is apt to be foggy or that there will be too much traffic on the freeway.

Warren even carries this pessimistic trait to our friends. As an example: My best friend got a much better job and was very pleased and enthusiastic. She asked me to go to lunch the next day to celebrate. Warren said, "Better not celebrate until you've been there six months. You might get fired!"

I find this behavior offensive. What can I say to him?

Sara

Dear Sara:

Tell Warren to stop sticking pins in other people's balloons. And start looking for a new boyfriend tomorrow.

Dear Pat and Marilyn:

My wife has decided to change me completely and this is driving me mad. I feel she is trying to get the upper hand and is facing me as an enemy and not a mate.

I can't understand why she has decided to change everything about me. How do I handle this?

Frank

Dear Frank:

PULL-TAB PROBLEMS

When you open a can of your favorite drink, what do you do with the little metal ring tab? According to Doctor Lee Rogers of the Northwestern University radiology department who has seen one too many of these outlined on X-ray plates, many people drop it into the can and forget about it until that last fateful gulp when they swallow the tab and it becomes lodged in their throat.

Doctor Rogers recalls a former patient who inadvertently swallowed a tab during a break in a basketball game. Fortunately it landed smoothly in his stomach and was ultimately eliminated. Others, however, have not been so lucky. One young man swallowed a tab at a picnic and began to cough up blood. "We had to operate to remove the tab with the patient under general anesthesia," Doctor Rogers said. So what should you do with the tab? Put it in your pocket or wear it as a ring on your finger until after you've finished drinking and can dispose of it safely.

First Railway Restoration Ceremonies Set For Oct. 7

Completion of restoration work at the West Quincy site of the First Commercial Railroad will be marked by special ceremonies Oct. 7, the 149th anniversary of the railroad's opening.

Citizens are invited to attend the program beginning at 10 a.m. at the incline, just above the Southeast Expressway, to see the results of the extensive work which took place this summer.

The railroad site is located on Mullen Ave. in West Quincy.

Replicas of the bronze plaques which were stolen 30 years ago will be unveiled during the program, according to John R. Graham, Executive Director of Quincy Heritage.

The plaques, designed in Quincy granite and depicting early operation of the railroad, were produced by the Quincy Memorial Company, which donated much of the work, Graham said.

Also, a $500 contribution toward the restoration of the plaques was received from the Faxon family, which owned the railroad for many years.

Descriptive markers which graphically tell the story of the railroad will also be unveiled for the first time during the ceremonies.

The site, owned by the City of Quincy, has been fenced for proper identification by the Park Department, under the supervision of Commissioner Richard Koch.

Participating in the ceremonies will be sixth grade students from the Gridley Bryant School, named after the founder of the railroad.

The students have done considerable research on the history of the First Railroad and Gridley Bryant's contributions to railroading, and will make a presentation during the ceremonies, Graham said.

Working with the students have been Louis R. DiMartino, the school's principal, and Patricia A. Drew, sixth grade teacher.

City officials have been invited as special guest. Mayor Walter J. Hannon and Senator-Council President Arthur H. Tobin will bring the greetings of the city. Ward 4 Councillor James A. Sheets notes that the railroad is one of West Quincy's contributions to the nation.

The current restoration project was completed Sept. 1, under the supervision of project director, James Myette.

An announcement will be made during the ceremonies concerning further restoration plans in preparation for the 150th anniversary of the beginning of construction of the railroad scheduled for April 1, 1976.

also denied reports of his planned resignation but refused to comment on any alleged conflict between his campaign philosophy and that of LaRaia.

LaRaia, while praising the organization and conduct of the preliminary campaign, said a change in campaign philosophy was needed to involve more supporters already working for him as volunteers.

DiCesare said a "difference of opinion" regarding campaign organization began to sprout last Friday. He told The Quincy Sun:

"Joe and I got together Saturday night and I thought we had resolved it. But he stopped by my house Sunday and we both agreed we couldn't get together on how the campaign should be run. We parted friends. Basically, I don't want to see him lose."

DiCesare said he feels the advisory board will slow the decision-making process crucial to a successful campaign, creating diverse opinions and posing a problem on a direction for the campaign. He said:

"The way we ran the campaign up to the preliminary election, we made hard, fast and firm decisions. We tried to run a positive campaign and up to the preliminary we had the support of Mr. LaRaia. I told him if he followed the strategy set down for the preliminary, he would make it. But I told him he had to avoid mistakes."

Asked if he thought LaRaia had made a mistake by forming the advisory board, DiCesare said:

"I couldn't answer that. We'll know the answer to that Nov. 4."

While echoing DiCesare's sentiments on the newly-created advisory board, Anderson also told The Quincy Sun he felt the rift in campaign management signaled a much deeper problem. He said:

"I think if Joe had confidence in Frank [DiCesare] and myself, he wouldn't be adverse to having one person make the decisions that have to be made. His confidence in us, for one reason or another, is not what it used to be in the past and he felt a change was necessary. As a result, Frank and I had to do what we had to do. I couldn't be effective under the current structure."

LaRaia described himself as "very happy and pleased" with groundwork and organization developed by DiCesare prior to the preliminary election but indicated he felt his director was "limited" in the time he could devote to campaigning. He said:

"As a candidate, I felt the director was limited in his time. His effort was being strained in too many directions. We had to get more people active in the campaign to expand these efforts, delegate more responsibility down the line and thus generate more enthusiasm."

LaRaia said he regretted DiCesare's decision to resign, noting the two tried to reach "a compromise" but failed.

Denying any mistake in judgement by forming the advisory committee, LaRaia said he realized a large group could be "cumbersome" but added:

"We've got a good feeling about the people working for us and about what they can do. I have no qualms about that."

Members of the advisory committee are Atty. Williams, chairman, LaRaia, Norman Ford, Walter Woodward, A. Fred Lane, Pasquale DiStefano, Frank Scurti, Eleanor Woodward, Manuel Hurland and Mary Wilson.

Anderson, still pledging support of LaRaia, said he will cast his vote for the city councillor in the Nov. 4 election. He said:

"I still have a lot of respect for him and think he's still the best candidate for mayor."

However, neither Anderson nor DiCesare plans to become actively involved in LaRaia's campaign - even in other capacities. DiCesare said:

"I'll sit back and watch."

Kidney Foundation Bike-A-Thon Sunday

The Kidney Foundation rescheduled Bike-A-Thon will be held Sunday at 12:30 p.m. with the starting point in Faxon Park, South Quincy.

The Bike-A-Thon originally scheduled for last Sunday was postponed because of the weather conditions and slippery roads.

All persons, whether in families or as individuals, are welcome to participate with all proceeds going to the Kidney Foundation.

"Pedal for People" will be the theme of Sunday's event, sponsored by the Koch Club of Quincy, with all Quincy and South Shore residents invited to participate.

Top prize will be a ten-speed bike and each person providing a full sheet of sponsors will be presented a Kidney Foundation T-Shirt.

The 17-mile route will begin at Faxon Park, proceed to Chickatabot Rd. in the Blue Hills and return. Richard J. Koch, executive director of the Koch Club, noted that participants will also have the opportunity to view foliage along the route.

Applications or sponsor pledge sheets are available at the Quincy Police Department, from General Chairman Edward F. Gentile, at Room 27 of the John F. Kennedy Health Center, 1120 Hancock St., from Koch or Mrs. Marilyn Nestor, 98 Glover Ave., North Quincy.

Other committee members include: Mrs. Richard J. Koch, Mr. and Mrs. Anthony T. Delmonico, Mr. and Mrs. David J. Donaghue, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond C. Cattaneo, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Crowley and Mr. and Mrs. Gary Demole.

Participants are requested to check their bicycles for safety in preparation to join in Sunday's endeavor.

The North Quincy Knights of Columbus and the Quincy City Club each have donated $25 to the Bike-A-Thon for the Kidney Foundation. Other organizations are asked to participate in the cause.

Cerasoli Elected Chairman Ward 2 Traffic Committee

Rep. Robert A. Cerasoli was elected chairman of the new Ward 2 Traffic Advisory Committee at its first meeting recently at the Fore River Club.

Cerasoli said the committee was established to act as a community liaison between the Quincy Traffic Commission and the Quincy City Council to help solve traffic problems plaguing Ward 2 residents.

"The membership is open to any resident of Ward 2 who wishes to participate," said Cerasoli. He added that anyone with a traffic problem can contact the committee at 479-4988, 773-7274 or 471-0796.

Also elected at the meeting, which drew 23 members and residents, were Daniel G. Raymondi, vice-chairman;

Katherine Rivera, secretary; and Karen Douglas, treasurer.

Other action at the meeting included establishment of a By-laws committee to report to the traffic advisory committee at the next meeting on Oct. 30.

Raymondi proposed that a stop sign be erected at the intersection of Blanchard Rd and Faxon Lane, for the Blanchard Road traffic. The proposal was referred to a sub-committee to be investigated and brought back to the committee for consideration.

Though hopeful the special legislation will strike his name from the ballot, Delahunt nevertheless is contemplating an alternate course of action to emphasize to Quincy voters he is not a candidate in the councillor at-large race. He told The Quincy Sun:

"First I will ask the citizens of Quincy not to vote for me and make that statement as definite and as positive as possible."

"I just might disclose the three people I'm planning to vote for and among those will not be my own name. And if I don't vote for myself, I certainly hope no one else will."

Though appreciative of what he called "a courtesy vote" which ranked him fifth in last Tuesday's preliminary race for were "inaccurately signed and notarized" with the same Quincy resident attesting in all wards to the validity of other signers of recount papers. Under law, the individual attesting to the papers must be resident of the Ward. Since the signer is a resident of Ward 5, a recount will take place only in that ward, where Mrs. McDonnell polled 486 votes.

Recounting will begin at 9 a.m. Saturday in City Council Chambers.

Gillis noted any special legislation removing Delahunt's name from the final ballot must also carry a clause stating the candidate who placed seventh in the race would receive the at-large nomination in Delahunt's stead.

Though Mrs. McDonnell filed recount papers in all six wards, a recount will begin Saturday in Ward 5 only. Gillis said Mrs. McDonnell's recount papers councillor at-large, Delahunt reiterated his stance he will not accept - under any circumstances - election to the at-large seat. He said:

"It's not fair to the other candidates and to the people of Quincy to cause this confusion. I will not accept the nomination and I will not accept election to the office."

question to answer. That would have thrown a different light on my decision."

Calling the endorsement decision "a very tough one," Mrs. Saphir admitted she would have liked to remain neutral.

"Deep in my heart, I would have liked to remain neutral," she said. "But we have to have one or the other."

Before making her decision, Mrs. Saphir said she talked over the issues with both candidates, weighing their expressed stance against her own. She said priorities throughout her campaign included stabilization of the tax rate, protection of the environment, protection of neighborhoods against "wanton abuse" of zoning laws, broadening the tax structure by attracting and keeping "good business and industry" in the city, and 100 per cent valuation.

Mrs. Saphir, calling herself an advocate of "honesty and integrity in government," said she had placed a mammoth trust in the hands of LaRaia through her endorsement. She said:

"That's an awful lot for Mr. LaRaia to live up to. It is my sincere hope that he will adhere to these principles. I hope he doesn't disappoint me."

Mrs. Saphir said she will not campaign against Hamon and said she is planning to hold further discussion with LaRaia to reaffirm and clarify her stand on issues.

Something For Hannon, LaRaia To Think About

By HENRY BOSWORTH

Last week's preliminary election must have given the two winning mayoralty candidates something to think—or at least wonder—about. For Mayor Walter Hannon the figures added up to the fact that more voters who went to the polls preferred someone else other than him as their mayor.

Hannon polled 10,403 votes to pace the field with Councillor Joseph LaRaia nailing down the other nomination with 8,492 votes. So Hannon topped LaRaia by 1,911 votes, which in itself, is not too comfortable a margin.

Then Grace Saphir got 2,710 votes and Michael Jovanovic 170. Together, LaRaia, Saphir and Jovanovic got a combined vote of 11,372 to Hannon's 10,403. Thus, there were 969 more voters last week who wanted someone else to be, than for Hannon to remain, as mayor.

But can LaRaia really take comfort in that? Some political observers think he really has a long, hard road ahead of him to catch Hannon.

They feel that last week's preliminary election was LaRaia's day from both a weather and attitude standpoint.

The way they see it, the heavy rain would tend to keep Hannon supporters at home feeling he was sure to get one of the nominations and they would go out and vote for him in the final election Nov. 4 instead.

And, they think, anti-voters are more apt to turn out in a preliminary election regardless of the weather than pro-voters.

Thus, some observers think LaRaia may have already "peaked", or have come close to it. They think the 46% voter turnout is a pretty good barometer of what to expect in the final.

Most observers seem to believe that a good part of Mrs. Saphir's 2,710 votes will go to LaRaia in the final election. He probably will get a bigger share of them than Hannon will but he won't get every one of them.

And even if LaRaia manages to get every single one of them, Jovanovic's 170, too, and hold all of the 8,492 he got last week, he is still going to need more.

Two years ago, Hannon polled 15,492 to Saphir's 10,416 in the final election. Her vote was only 956 under last week's combined LaRaia-Saphir-Jovanovic total. The question: how many more negative votes will turn out Nov. 4?

But regardless of how the so-called political experts see it, one thing is sure: it's still a good horse race.

And a lot can happen between now and Nov. 4.

A BIG QUESTION still hanging from last week's preliminary election involves William Delahunt who doesn't want to be elected to the City Council but apparently can't convince everyone.

Delahunt who was a candidate until he was appointed Norfolk County district attorney, could not get his name off the preliminary ballot because they were already printed. And despite the fact he publicly declared he was withdrawing from the council race, some 4,739 voters didn't hear or believe him and voted for him. So, he wound up "nominated".

Unless he gets his name off the final ballot—and it now looks like he won't—Helen McDonnell who finished seventh won't be able to get her name back on. There are six nominations for the three at-large seats.

The big question, though, is if Delahunt does get off the ballot who will profit most from votes that would have gone to him? For example, who would have gotten most of the 4,739 votes he received last week?

Feeling is that Harold Davis and Paul Harold who finished third and fourth with 9,378 and 9,139 votes respectively, would benefit the most. It could make the difference for one of them.

And, if Delahunt's name remains on the ballot, who will he hurt the most?

ARTHUR TOBIN, the city's top vote getter with 12,554 looks like a shoo-in for re-election as councillor at-large.

John Quinn made one of his better preliminary election showings finishing second to Tobin with 9,699, but he cannot relax with both Davis and Harold breathing on him. This is one of the few preliminary elections in which he really campaigned.

For the past 18 years he finished so-so in the preliminary and some observers kept predicting his defeat. Some are doing it again. They've been wrong-so far.

FORMER City Council President Vincent Smyth is back on the campaign trail. He's a candidate, this time, for the vacant seat on the Quincy Retirement Board. Smyth served eight years—1966-1973—in the City Council. Election for the Retirement Board is Wednesday, Oct. 15. Voting hours at City Hall from 8:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.

TWO POLITICAL fund-raising events coming up: An appreciation night Friday for Paul Harold, councillor at-large candidate, at Montello's, Quincy Point, 8 p.m. to midnight... And a dance and reception for Patricia Toland, candidate for school committee, Friday, Oct. 10 at the North Quincy Knights of Columbus Hall.

Aquavan: Water Way To Go

By ERIC SWIDER

I don't believe it either.

It was a simple enough decision. The announcement was matter of fact. It was something you'd expect from responsive government, so I didn't believe it when we got the call that invited us to sign a four-part agreement that would result in a 60-day commuter boat experiment that will begin next Monday at 7:35 a.m. at the Hingham Shipyard.

But, it is true and as I think about who should be given the kudos for this decision, I guess they really have to go to the Governor.

Now I haven't spent an awful lot of ink saying nice things about the Dukakis Administration, but this is one program where the "coordination of governmental effort to make things happen" that he talks about all the time has resulted in a positive experiment. Candidly, it's more than we expected and a lot earlier than believed possible.

The idea for a Hingham-to-Boston commuter boat was conceived about two years ago by Bud Knapp and Hingham Selectman Joe Daley of the Route 228 committee as a way of relieving traffic congestion on Hingham's Main Street. They contacted the South Shore Chamber and asked for our help in bringing it about. We contacted the Boston Redevelopment Authority and the Department of Transportation to determine the criteria for long term leases on Rows Wharf, which would allow a private operator to invest in the equipment necessary to make the service possible.

We conducted a very successful survey during the "long gas line" days of November and December of 1973 to use in convincing an operator and financial institutions that the investment made sense. We spent a lot of time being kicked from one agency to another, wallowing in bureaucracy until Representatives Bill Spence had the idea of sponsoring legislation which would allow Massport to investigate the potential for such a service and to implement it if feasible. The legislation was adopted and the investigation made. Massport's Executive Director Ed King was enthusiastic about the idea and was to propose an experimental effort to the Massport Board at the meeting that ended up in his dismissal.

Believing the idea still feasible and workable, through private endeavor, we enlisted the aid of Don White and his group from Price Waterhouse to conduct a financial analysis, Fred Curtis from MIT to do a demand study, and Hovermarine to provide operating information. The study took six months and was presented to Fred Salvucci, Secretary of Transportation in late summer. Fred liked what he saw and promised to meet with Massport to reopen the door for an experiment.

In the meantime, we continued to update information and our doorknocking on the Hill asking for support for the project. We received encouragement sometimes in strange ways. Unsolicited endorsements for the idea came from the Governor and Senator Kennedy. Martha Reardon, the Chamber's Community Development group manager, responsible for the project, received calls from throughout the country inviting her to speak at meetings that were aimed at exploring waterborne transportation.

The day before we received the telephone call to sign the agreement, Martha, Carolyn Jennings and I had spent an hour developing our next series of moves to get additional recognition for the idea. Then it happened.

The unanswered question will be answered next Monday - about 1,600 people have told us they would use such a service. The boat holds 600 people. The parking is free. The $1.50 one-way fare is price competitive. The experiment should be an overwhelming success, and if it is, I'm confident that soon, possibly as early as the spring of 1976, it will be more than an experiment, more than a dream, more than a fanciful scheme but a serious mass transit option for many South Shore commuters.

We'll do the best job we can do to promote the idea and interview users to determine how to insure its long term success.

Now, the only thing left is for commuters to use the service - PLEASE COMMUTERS  USE THE AQUAVAN.

LIVING TODAY

To Marry . . . Or Not To Marry

By DR. WILLIAM F. KNOX

Most young people have either a spoken or an unspoken expectancy that they will marry. It's long "been our custom" in our society ... it was a mark of success ... of being stable. We know now that these are false marks ... because some of the most unstable and most unsuccessful people get married ... and live unhappily ever after. Nevertheless ... to be married has looked good to an employer ... makes parents feel relieved that their offspring were sufficiently acceptable to be married. Being married goes deep into our American Way of Life.

However ... more and more people are now taking a second look at this custom ... perhaps taking it more seriously than young people did a few generations ago. For one thing ... young people have seen such UNHAPPINESS IN THEIR PARENTS that many question the very institution of marriage. They've heard the ugly quarrels ... seen the unfaithfulness of a father or mother ... watched the deceptions ... been caught in the middle of parents ... each trying to keep the child on his/her side. Many young people are soured on marriage simply by watching their own parents.

For another thing ... everyone is not PREPARED NOR EQUIPPED TO BE MARRIED. The young man who NEEDS to marry to have someone to take care of him like his mother has, may become very disgusting to his wife after the new wears off. The young woman who "NEEDS" a man to give her guidance and stability as her father has isn't likely to be very pleasing to her husband beyond the second year. He'll tire of her clinging dependency. The girl whose mother hated her father ... and other men ... may have a tough time accepting and loving a husband. A boy whose mother has been domineering to the point of crushing him so that he's indecisive ... maybe hates women ... maybe can't cope with life ... may have a problem convincing a wife that she should respect him. The active alcoholic is not equipped to be married ... nor the homosexual ... nor the irresponsible ... nor the n'er-do-well. Everyone is not prepared nor equipped to be married.

No longer must PEOPLE GET MARRIED TO HAVE SEX. The goal of having someone to sleep with was a strong motivation to get married a few years ago. No longer is this a motivation. This is a misuse of marriage ... and a misuse of sex ... and soon leads to disappointment. Indeed ... more and more young people are living together for a couple of years to test out their preparation and equipment for the close relationship of marriage ... not merely to have a sexual partner but more the testing of the personal qualities of communication ... being comfortable with each other ... their ability to work together ... play together ... plan together. If they can't make it together before they're married they aren't likely to make it in marriage. Marriage bonds no longer bind people together in their inadequacies for life.

There are 43,000,000 single adults ... it's now respectable to be single.

'Second Time Around' Shop Opens

"Second Time 'Around'" a thrift and craft shop at 25 Temple St., Quincy Center, opened recently under the management of Howard Casler of the South Shore Mental Health Association.

The shop will provide work and rehabilitative experience for people who were formerly hospitalized.

"The purpose of 'Second Time Around' is really twofold," Casler said. "It will help support the Wollaston Community Aftercare Center, and, at the same time, provide aid and vocational rehabilitation for the members of the Aftercare Center who will be working in the store."

The Wollaston Community Aftercare Center is a joint program of the South Shore Mental Health Center and Medfield State Hospital, designed to help previously hospitalized patients make a smooth transition back to community life.

Ellen Ratner, Director of the Aftercare program said the store will "provide an opportunity for the members of Aftercare to work directly in the store with volunteers and to contribute their own craft and art work on a consignment basis."

Many items in the shop will be second-hand and donations of clothing, jewelry, arts and crafts, kitchen wares, linens, light appliances will be appreciated.

Store hours will be Monday through Saturday 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m., closed all day Wednesday, and open until 9 p.m. Thursday. Anyone wishing to volunteer to work in the shop may contact Casler at 472-4147.

Chamber, QCBPA Meet To Discuss Mutual Objectives

The South Shore Chamber of Commerce met Tuesday with Quincy businessmen, elected officials and community leaders to map out mutual objectives to meet community needs in the coming year.

In an hour-long brainstorming session held at the Neighborhood Club, representatives of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association, the Quincy Business Council, the Chamber, the city and its citizens worked to define both regional and local priorities to be addressed in 1976.

Called "Grassroots '76" the program is fourth in a series of 14 similar sessions planned by the Chamber to pinpoint specific local concerns as well as general regional concerns voiced by community leaders. Similar meetings have already been held in Rockland, Holbrook, and Hingham.

Eric Swider, executive vice president of the Chamber, called the session "a meeting of minds" and said the Chamber will develop a "comprehensive program of work" based on the comments and suggestions fielded Tuesday.

David Leitch, president of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association, characterized the meeting as a chance to coordinate efforts which have been duplicated by local and regional organizations in the past. He said:

"This meeting has given us a chance to concentrate on our areas of expertise while allowing the Chamber to concentrate on theirs."

Prior to the brainstorming session, the Chamber showed a short film outlining the organization's major concerns as job development, transportation improvement projects and the impact of legislative proposals on business.

Explaining the purpose of the film, Swider said:

"This film defines what the Chamber is doing and why. We are asking in effect, 'Are we on target, or should we change things?'...We want to define what we can accomplish together...We want to work in tandem to get a meeting of minds."

To arrive at goals for the coming year, those participating in the program defined on paper their local and regional priorities.

They then divided into groups, discussed their individual ideas about goals for the coming year, then defined a single priority, as a group.

Ten similar meetings will take place in other South Shore communities throughout October after which a program of work for 1976 will be prepared by the Chamber.

75 S.S. Firms To Help Acquaint Students With Careers

Seventy-five South Shore area firms - including 21 from Quincy - will team with area school systems in an effort to acquaint high school students with specific careers and the general world of work.

Coordinated by the Education for Employment Task Force of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce and chaired by James Carroll of State Street South, the program developed in response to parental, employer and school committee concern that students have little concept of the world of work.

Harold Davis, task force member and economic development manager of the Chamber, said graduating high school students sometimes have little concept of work hours, conditions, relationships with co-workers and responsibilities involved with a particular profession. He said:

"This program is designed to give students a taste of occupations to better plan their futures."

Designed to complement existing guidance departments within the school systems, the program will establish a cooperative relationship between guidance counselors and participating companies. Companies will offer lectures, tours, discussion sessions and in some cases actual internships within a field, allowing students to familiarize themselves with careers they might wish to pursue.

Peter Killelea Retires From Boston Gas Co.

Peter J. Killelea of 32 Scotch Pond Place, Quincy, has retired after 41 years service with the Boston Gas Company.

Killelea, vice president of industrial relations and a Boston Gas director, was honored at a retirement dinner attended by fellow employees, union officials, pensioners and guests.

For many years, he had been responsible for all contract negotiations with Boston Gas union employees, and chaired the company's management committee which meets with union members every month.

A Quincy resident since 1943, Killelea is a former scoutmaster of St. John's Church and presently serves on the city's Salary Survey Committee.

He and his wife, Ann, have five children and 11 grandchildren.

Hannon Seeks To Take Squantum Gardens By Eminent Domain

Congressman James A. Burke has been asked to file legislation for the taking of Squantum Gardens by eminent domain.

Mayor Walter J. Hannon talked to Burke in Washington Tuesday about plans to clear the way for the city to take over the property in North Quincy now under control of the United States Navy.

"Everybody agrees that the city should have the land," said Hannon. "The buildings are deteriorating rapidly. We can't just sit around and wait for the government to act."

Hannon has been working with various government agencies for over a year attempting to find ways to get the property for the city.

"The red tape is terrible," he said. "We need the land for recreation purposes. As a result we are asking Congressman Burke to help us by getting the right bill through Congress."

The Mayor pointed out that Burke also is in favor of turning Squantum Gardens over to the city.

The property, located at Quincy Shore Drive and East Squantum St., has served as a housing facility for Naval personnel.

Recently, however, the Navy phased out Squantum Gardens.

"Our building inspector and fire department say the buildings are uninhabitable. They're in terrible shape," said Hannon. "We need to get them cleared out now."

When asked about his ideas for using the property, the Mayor said that there is a great need for additional park and playground areas in North Quincy.

"We're short on parks there," he commented. "Welcome Young playground isn't adequate for the population."

Hannon also noted that North Quincy High School is in need of ball fields. "We have been looking for ways to solve that problem and Squantum Gardens looks like the perfect solution."

MacIntyre Says Vote Shows Importance Of Education

School Committee candidate Marie E. MacIntyre said support shown during her preliminary election campaign indicates the voting public is not overlooking the importance of education.

Miss MacIntyre polled 5,444 votes in last Tuesday's preliminary city election to win the sixth nomination for School Committee.

Speaking to campaign workers at the home of Bernice Poloniak of 112 Quincy Shore Drive, Miss MacIntyre said:

"As you all know, our campaign has been run on less than a shoestring - $93.62 to be exact. It is gratifying that all of you had such confidence and concern in presenting my ideas and qualifications to the public."

Also thanking voters for their support, Miss MacIntyre said:

"The public support and concern shown in my campaign points out that the democratic principle on which our country was founded are still very much intact. The importance of the educational system - the cornerstone for continuing our society - is not being overlooked by the voting public."

"We shall be searching and reviewing new dynamic methods in trying to carry our ideas to the citizens of Quincy for the final election in November. I hope to continue to have the public support."

THE CAMPAIGN TRAIL

LaRaia Says Preliminary Makes Him Confident

Mayoralty candidate Joseph J. LaRaia told West Quincy residents recently that the citizens in the city showed they were tired of the present administration when "the majority of them voted for candidates other than the mayor."

"We were extremely happy by our showing last week and we are confident of another fine showing in November," LaRaia, a councillor at large, said during a coffee hour at the home of Rene Lumaghini, 690 Willard St.

"I think what the preliminary showed was that the majority of citizens in the city do not have complete trust or confidence in their mayor," LaRaia said.

"I can't blame them," he said. "After all, can you trust a man who makes a signed agreement to build an MBTA station and then tells you it's the best thing for you?"

"Can you trust a man who raises assessments on one third of the city's homes and doesn't tell you of it until you get your bills in the mail?"

"Or, can you trust a man who postpones an increase in your tax rate until after the election," LaRaia said referring to two recent borrowing measures amounting to $2.5 million which was not reflected on this year's tax rate.

Harold Backs Renovations

At Sailors Snug Harbor Building

Paul D. Harold, councillor-at-large candidate, has voiced his support for proposed renovations at Sailors Snug Harbor building in Germantown.

Speaking at a recent coffee hour at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Kennedy of 37 Quarterdeck Rd, Harold hailed the project as more than "the fixing up of an old building." He called the planned improvements "an investment in a neighborhood and its people."

He said: "This is the type of lasting, bicentennial project that deserves city-wide support. Renovations will allow the service center to expand its operations and include such long-awaited facilities as a youth center."

Built in the 1800's as a retirement home for sailors, the Sailors Snug Harbor building has housed the Germantown Multi Service Center in recent years. Funds for the renovations have been appropriated by the state and the Quincy Housing Authority.

Calling the Germantown building "the focus for a genuine community pride," Harold pledged to work to see the project carried through if elected city councillor-at-large.

McCauley Notes Increase In Athletics For Girls

School Committee member Francis X. McCauley, candidate for re-election notes that during the past four years, the School Committee has substantially increased athletic programs for girls.

New programs for girls include track at the junior and senior high school levels; softball at the junior high level and field hockey at the senior high level, he said. In the past year, swimming, volleyball and cross country has been added to the list of girls' athletic programs.

McCauley said he has been a strong supporter of an increased role for girls in the Quincy School systems athletic program.

McCauley made his remarks at a house party held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Leaman, 426 Sea St.

Meade Says He Is Contender

Edward Meade, candidate for Ward 1 councillor, says he has "just begun to fight" in his election bid.

In last Tuesday's preliminary city election, Meade drew 692 votes against 2,558 votes polled by Ward 1 Incumbent Leo J. Kelly.

During a recent coffee hour held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Currie of 9 Baywater Rd, Houghton Neck, Meade told a group of supporters:

"I am no longer a candidate, I am a contender. A contender is a fighter and I have just begun to fight."

'Unreality'

Lesson-Sermon

"The night is far spent, the day is at hand: let us therefore cast off the works of darkness, and let us put on the armour of light."

Davis Calls FR Bridge Replacement Top Project

Harold Davis, candidate for city councillor at-large, calls the replacement of the present Fore River Bridge the number one priority public works project in the Quincy area.

Speaking at a coffee hour held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel O'Leary, 109 Sonoma Rd., North Quincy, Davis said that if the bridge is not replaced by the 1980's the future of more than 4,500 manufacturing jobs will be seriously threatened. When indirect employment is included, the job total rises to 10,000, he noted.

Davis said his exposure to the problem as executive director of the Fore River Bridge Replacement Action Team has convinced him that a wider bridge is needed to insure that General Dynamics can deliver the larger Liquid Natural Gas Carriers and Shallow Draft Tankers which will be in demand in the 1980's.

"All the statistical information I have seen indicates that the state expenditure for a new bridge will be paid back many times over in the form of taxes generated by the employment at the facility. With 1,000 Quincy workers at the shipyard and the prospect of increased employment likely, we must take the necessary steps to make this project a reality."

Davis pledged that, as a councillor, he would act "to cut red tape involved in the project." He cited a delay of 18 months to complete an environmental impact statement to replace an existing bridge in an industrial area.

Control On School Spending Stressed By Patricia Toland

Mrs. Patricia Toland, candidate for School Committee, spoke about the need for priorities in the school budget at a recent coffee hour. Addressing a group of supporters at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Scott of Bellevue Road, Squantum, she said there is a greater need than ever before to carefully control school spending.

"The tight economic situation which every one, from businessman to homeowner, is facing today gives the school committee a chance to examine its priorities. We all want the best education for our children within affordable limits. We want to avoid unnecessary increases in the tax rate."

"The taxpayers of Quincy spend over $26 million a year to educate our children. I believe it is the duty of a school committee member to insure that we receive a maximum return on our education tax dollar.

"In the coming years I would like to see an evaluation of existing programs in our schools. I believe it is possible to maintain quality education in the Quincy school system while keeping the budget under control and within the taxpayers' ability to pay."

'Multi-Billion-Dollar Interest-Free Bonanza' For Banks

By Philip J. Lawrence, President
Colonial Federal Savings
And Loan Association
of Quincy, Holbrook and Wareham
8 - 6 Weekdays 8 - 7:30 Thursdays

An end to the "multi-million-dollar interest-free bonanza" enjoyed by the nation's commercial banks through the use of Government funds has been urged by a leading spokesman of the savings and loan industry.

Gilbert G. Roessner, president of New Jersey's largest S&L and immediate past president of the National Savings and Loan League, has called upon the Treasury to halt this interest-free deposit of so-called tax and loan accounts into commercial banks.

"It is a monopoly which ought to be eliminated," Roessner states, noting that "not one penny goes to thrift institutions, which place the bulk of their funds into the housing market."

Tax and loan accounts are deposits made up of Federal income tax withholding funds taken out of employees' pay checks. Employers must deposit these funds each month in a commercial bank.

Roessner notes that "on any given day the balance of these tax and loan accounts totals in the billions of dollars. Some of these funds should be deposited in thrift institutions, where they could indirectly aid the hard-pressed home mortgage market."

"Moreover," Roessner emphasizes, "interest should be paid on these accounts, just as with any other account.

"Why should a construction worker have to have his withholding taxes deposited in a commercial bank, when his own job may depend on the ability of thrift institutions to secure funds for housing?"

"Why should employees of a savings and loan association or building tradesmen, architects, or anyone else connected with the housing industry be forced to deposit their tax payments in a bank, as opposed to an institution that is going to use their funds to help their industry?"

Roessner points out that as of the end of 1974, in the New York Federal Reserve Bank District alone, tax and loan accounts totaled nearly $215 million. "Some of these deposits are made in foreign banks based in New York," Roessner says.

He estimates that nationally the earnings on these funds by commercial banks are as much as $550 million each year.

"It is time that the Treasury ended this monopoly," Roessner asserts. "Savings and loans are certainly as well equipped as are commercial banks to service these accounts."

"If some of these funds move into the thrift institutions, they are going to be used primarily to help families meet their financial needs—and not be shipped into investments abroad, where many commercial banks now earn their greatest return."

Atty. Joseph Killion State Representative Candidate

Atty. Joseph F. Killion announces his candidacy for state representative in the Fourth Norfolk District.

Killion is a practicing attorney in the firm of Barry and Killion at 339 Hancock St., North Quincy and lives at 137 Grand View Ave., Wollaston.

Killion indicated that the most important issues in his campaign would be the question of busing, the rising cost of public utilities and the high cost of medical care.

Killion, a life long resident of Quincy, attended St. Mary's School, West Quincy, Christopher Columbus High School, Boston, Suffolk University and Suffolk Law School.

He is a member of the Massachusetts Bar Association, the Federal Bar Association and is president of the Quincy Bar Association.

Killion was legal counsel for the American Hardware Insurance Co., and has also served as assistant legal counsel to the Massachusetts Hospital Association.

He is married to the former Rosalie McDonald of Newton. They have three children, James 14, Sean 10 and Julie 6.

The State representative seat was vacated by William Delahunt when he was recently appointed Norfolk County District Attorney.

Jim Pansullo Southeast Area Heart Fund Chairman

Jim Pansullo, news reporter and radio announcer for station WEEI, and a Wollaston resident, has been named 1976 Heart Fund Chairman for the American Heart Association, Southeast Massachusetts Chapter.

Dr. Lee F. Philips, chairman of the chapter's board of directors, said Pansullo and his committee will coordinate all aspects of the annual Chapter Drive.

Pansullo, who has made an appeal for volunteer leadership in the 66 communities in the chapter, announces that the Heart Sunday residential solicitation will take place on or before Feb. 15. The campaign will also include Special Gift and Business solicitations. Special Events are conducted throughout the fiscal year.

Pansullo, has recently recovered from a heart attack. Before joining WEEI he was affiliated with WHDH-TV and radio and with WCUB-TV. He is a graduate of the University of Hartford and New England School of Drama.

Pansullo is active in numerous charitable organizations. He is chairman of the Catholic Charitable Bureau and a member of the Boards of the Boys Town of Italy and the Italian-American Charitable Society, and has also been active with the March of Dimes Campaign in Massachusetts. He lives at 28 Rice Rd, Wollaston with his wife Betty-Jo and their two children.

The local Heart Association Chapter covers a large area of Southeast Massachusetts with a population of nearly one and a quarter million. Funds raised in this years drive will support both state and national Heart research and will help to underwrite the costs of local programs of public and professional education and community services. The Chapter is based in Brockton at the Westgate Mall.

Brett Urges EPA To Review Incineration Merits

Rep. Joseph E. Brett has requested the Environmental Protection Agency [EPA] to review carefully the merits of waste disposal by incineration.

Disturbed at what he called "indications" the EPA is opposed to the method of incineration, Brett warned of possible land depletion through continued use of wetlands as a disposal area for rubbish and garbage.

In a letter to the EPA office in Boston, Brett asked:

"Will we then have to turn to the oceans, rivers and ponds for available space to get rid of our trash?"

Calling himself "a long-time advocate" of the incineration method of refuse disposal, Brett outlined what he considered as the merits of this method. He said incineration:

- Reduces rubbish volume to about five per cent of its original content.
- Results in a germ-free ash which can be used safely as solid fill.

• Guarantees preservation of depleting land for many more centuries.

Brett also noted smoke generated by an incinerator is "not nearly as harmful to public health as is the germ, insect and animal life generated by a landfill area." He said available smoke absorption methods can "eliminate any dangers from that area."

Richard Anderson Promoted To A.F. Major

'Quincy's' Lynn, Rice Cooper, Burton, In Key Sox Title Roles

By TOM SULLIVAN
Quincy Sun Writer

They can't be called "Quincy's Own," but three residents of the city played major roles, to say the least, in the Red Sox capturing the American League's East Division championship.

And two of them will continue to be key men in the best three out of five game playoffs with the Oakland A's which begin Saturday at Fenway Park.

The teams will clash at Fenway at 1 p.m. Saturday and 4 p.m. Sunday, then move to Oakland for games Tuesday night and, if necessary, Wednesday night and Thursday afternoon for the right to meet Cincinnati or Pittsburgh in the World Series.

Fred Lynn, who looks certain to be the league's Rookie of the Year and probably the Most Valuable Player; Jim Rice, another leading contender for the Rookie of the Year honor, and Cecil Cooper, who may be the best designated hitter in the league, are three of the biggest reasons the Sox took the East title.

They and rookie pitcher Jim Burton, who did well when called upon, live in the same apartment building on Furnace Ave., West Quincy.

Burton is the only bachelor in the group. Lynn is married to Diane "Dee Dee," Rice to Corinne and Cooper to Octavia.

The feats of this trio and several other graduates of the Sox farm system have made genial Ed Kenney of Braintree, director of the minor league clubs, one of the happiest men around Fenway Park.

"These kids did a terrific job for us and exceeded our expectations," Ed admitted. "I knew they could do it but I have to admit they came along faster than I had hoped for."

Their success and that of the many others who came up through the excellent farm system proved that an outstanding minor league system is better than buying or trading established stars in an effort to win a pennant.

When the season started the Sox were almost unanimously picked to finish no better than third behind Baltimore, which had acquired Mike Torrez, Lee May and Ken Singleton, and New York, which had taken on Catfish Hunter and Bobby Bonds. These acquisitions made the two teams odds-on favorites to finish 1-2.

Quincy's Sam Mele, special assignment scout for the Sox, called the shot on Lynn last season. He said when Rice was receiving all the publicity.

"Rice is a great hitter but keep your eye on Fred Lynn. He is an outstanding all-around player and he will be a starting out-fielder for the Sox next year. Rice is a fine hitter but needs work in the outfield."

Lynn had an unbelievable rookie season and it would be fitting if he led the Sox to the league title and the world championship. Fred batted .331, had 21 home runs, 47 doubles and seven triples, drove in 105 runs, made many amazing catches and threw out many a runner with his strong arm. He also stole 10 bases. What more could you ask? He was the winner of Channel 38's "Tenth Man" award a 1976 Buick.

Rice also had fantastic figures for a rookie before being sidelined for the season a few weeks ago with a broken hand. Jim, who developed into an excellent outfielder, finished with a .309 average, hit 22 homers and drove in 102 runs. He had 174 hits, only one less than Lynn.

The two gave the Sox the first rookie duo since Ken Ketner and Geoff Heath of the Indians in 1938 to drive in more than 100 runs. Lynn's 47 doubles were the most by a Sox rookie and also broke the league rookie record held jointly by Roy Johnson and Hal Trosky. His 103 runs scored were the most in the American League since Carl Yastrzemski scored 125 in 1970.

Cooper batted .311, mostly as DH, while also playing first on occasion. He and Rice, while Jim was being platooned as DH, gave the Sox the top designated hitter duo in the league. Cooper had 14 home runs and 47 runs batted in.

Rice's injury may have solved the problem of what to do with Cooper in the World Series, if the Sox make it. There is no DH in the series and it is expected Darrell Johnson will move Yaz to left field and use Coop at first against southpaw pitchers.

All four Quincy residents like the city and Lynn may stay around here in the off-season. His wife said they plan to build a home but further away from Boston, probably in Stoughton, where Bill Lee lives.

Rice expects to return home to South Carolina and Cooper to Texas. It is likely that they will again live in Quincy during the 1976 season, however.

Sharing the spotlight this season with Lynn, Rice and Cooper, was shortstop Rick Burleson, who played in nearly every game and did everything.

Kenney has reason to be delighted with these ex-Pawtucket stars but there are many other "home grown" players who are doing their part in keeping the Sox comfortably on top.

The Sox probably have as many players from their own farm system as any team in the league. Others who came up through the Sox system are the "granddaddy" of them all, Carl Yastrzemski; Carlton Fisk, Bill Lee, Dick Pole, Bob Montgomery, Tim Lincecum, Roger Moret, Juan Beniquez, Jim Burton, Rick Miller, Rico Petrocelli and Dwight Evans.

Several of the Sox leaders, of course, were acquired in trades, but the real sparks of the club are those developed in their own system.

And kudos are due the scouts who signed these players. The most active has been Joe Stephenson, who signed Burleson, Evans, Lee, Lynn and Steve Barr, an excellent pitching prospect who has been up with the parent team. Maurice DeLoof signed Burton, Miller and Pole, while the others were signed by various scouts in the extensive Sox scouting system.

This will be the final meet of their four-month season during which they have competed in 12 meets.

Quincy Girls Open Volleyball Season

Girls' volleyball is a comparatively new sport in the Quincy schools but Quincy Coach Barbara Webster feels her First Ladies, with a veteran squad, will do well in their Suburban League matches.

Quincy opened its home season yesterday [Wednesday] against Newton and will host Braintree Friday. It will play at North Quincy next Wednesday.

Capt. Carol Lynch, a junior, leads the nine-player varsity which includes only three seniors, Cindy Tozzi, Kelly Sparks and Rosemary Pestilli. Other juniors are Nancy Mattson, Laura Pizzi, Claire Oliverio and newcomers Lois Malvesti and Tracie Harrison.

"We are a very tall team and should do well both offensively and defensively," Miss Webster said. "We are able to spike and block quite well."

"Although we didn't have a good won-lost record last year, most all our matches went to three very close games."

The First Ladies' 14-player junior varsity includes 11 sophomores. The lone senior is Mary Tucker and the only juniors are Sheila Cullen and Lydia LaFleur.

Koch Club Boys Bowling Starts Saturday

The Koch Club Boys Bowling League will open its 12th season Saturday, Oct. 4, at 9 a.m. at the Merrymount Daylight Alleys, 17 Broad St., Quincy.

All boys between the ages of 8 and 16 years are invited to attend the Saturday morning sessions.

The 8 through 12 year old boys will be assigned to the Junior Division and boys 13 through 16 years will compete in the Senior Division.

Applications will be available Saturday for those boys wishing to register in either the Junior or Senior Loop. Anthony T. Delmonico, league founder and director, and Gary DeMole, league secretary will be available at the alleys for information and assistance.

The first three weeks of bowling will be for averages, teams will be formed and every boy in the league will be assigned to a team.

At the close of the season, a banquet will be held, trophies and prizes will be presented for team championships and individual achievements.

Conroy's Son In Scituate Backfield

Hank Conroy, Quincy's football coach, has another son playing on the Scituate High football squad.

Richie, although only a sophomore, is playing in the backfield for the Scituate varsity team.

Richie's brother, Mark, now an assistant to his father, was an outstanding quarterback at Scituate and later at Norwich University, where he set several place kicking records.

Raiders Eye Win No. 3 At Weymouth North

Brian Doherty had the finest day of his career and one of the best enjoyed by a North Quincy back in many years last week when he ran for 174 yards, from scrimmage, ran back a punt 94 yards and scored all four touchdowns in a 25-6 win at Malden, The Raiders' second impressive non-league win.

But Tom Fitzgerald, North's backfield coach, stressed it was far from a one-man show. "Give Matty Constantino a lot of the credit," Fitzgerald said. "He set up all of Doherty's runs and we sent him up the middle and Brian through the tackles. Brian's performance was brilliant, but he couldn't have done it without Constantino."

North's first-year coach, Dave Burke, was delighted with his second win in a row but prepared to put the Raiders through a hard week of workouts as he set his sights on Saturday's Suburban League opener at Weymouth North. Kickoff time at Weymouth's Legion Field will be 1:30 p.m.

Doherty's figures were mighty impressive at Malden but he had to share the spotlight with the sturdy Raider defense which was outstanding for the second week in a row.

Malden staged one long drive for its lone touchdown in the second period and had one other threat stopped when Dick Kennedy intercepted a pass on the North goal line. Other than that, the Golden Tornado was bottled up by the North defense.

"Our secondary has been great," said assistant Ken McPhee. "Neither Milton nor Malden could pass deep against us. We had two more interceptions at Malden, the big one by Kennedy and a beautiful one by Billy White."

In addition to Doherty and Constantino, Mike Adams and Quarterback Mile Holleran were singled out for the play on offense. Holleran for the second straight week was on the mark but his receivers dropped several strikes.

Burke lauded the entire offensive line. "They must have been doing something right, we just drove up and down the field," he said.

Among those receiving praise for their work on defense were John Ryan, Alf McHugh, Frank Strazzula, John Collins, Kennedy, White, Pete Hemphill and Dan Noonan. However, the coaches stressed that everyone excelled on defense.

"Tom [Fitzgerald] came up with a couple of new plays which worked well and I trust he will come up with a couple of more for Weymouth North," Burke said. Burke and Fitzgerald, incidentally, were teamed at North in the 40's.

Doherty put North on the scoreboard first with his long punt return in the opening period.

Malden staged its one long scoring drive in the second period but it was all North after that.

In the third period Doherty galloped 54 yards, added a 39-yard TD run in the final period and, with 34 seconds left in the game, added a six-yard scoring run. Ed McEnaley kicked the point after the third touchdown. With third and 19, North worked a deep reverse to perfection to set up Doherty's final score.

North's sophomore team, coached by Ted Sadowski, the Raiders' chief scout who was

● Cross Country

Petracca Paces North, Newton Edges Quincy

Nearly every time Bart Petracca, North Quincy's outstanding cross country runner, competed last year, he set a course record.

This fall he is continuing where he left off and last week led the Raiders to a 15-45 win over Brookline in a Suburban League meet by breaking the Brookline course mark, which had stood for five years. In his first meet this year he had broken his own Quincy course record again.

Lou Tozzi's North runners [1-1] hosted Rindge Tech Tuesday and next Tuesday will be at Newton.

Petracca was followed by teammates Mike Morin, Bob Levenson, Ken O'Brien, Marty Levenson and Jim Gavigan in that order.

Quincy, under new coach Joe Catalano, was edged by Newton, 28-29, last week to even its record at 1-1.

The Presidents Tuesday ran at Weymouth South and next Tuesday will be home to Brookline.

Newton's Duncan Scott was the winner, followed by Quincy's John Saville, Kevin O'Brien and Bob Thorne, all of whom turned in their best performances. Quincy's next finisher was Dave Rafferty in eighth place.

In girls' competition both Quincy and North won, the First Ladies nipping Newton, 29-30, and the Raiderettes romping over Brookline, 21-40. Both evened their records at 1-1.

Paula Constat was the winner for Quincy with Ellen Caramanica second and Dottie Irvine third.

For North Sharon McKenney was the meet winner, followed by Debbie Coutts, Maureen Tracey, Judy Malloy and Mary Gallagher. Other finishers were Cherie Martinelli, Michelle Seltzer, Chris Bonoli and Mary Horriagan.

The Quincy Park-Recreation Board announces that instructional figure skating classes will begin Wednesday, Oct. 15, and Monday, Oct. 20, at the MDC Shea Rink, Willard St., West Quincy.

Charles L. Alongi, administrative assistant said classes for children ages 5-15 will be offered Monday from 4 p.m. to 4:50 p.m. and Wednesday from 3 to 3:50 and 4 to 4:50 p.m. Adult instruction will be held Wednesday 10:30 to 11:30 a.m.

Each group will meet for one hour per week for 10 weeks and a fee will be charged. Mrs. Ann Eagles American Figure Skating Association Professional will direct the classes aided by several assistants and instructions will be offered from pre-skill to advanced free style.

Registration which will be handled on a first come, first serve basis, will begin Thursday, Oct. 2, at 10 a.m. at the Recreation office, 1120 Hancock St., Quincy.

Presidents Seek Second Against Revere

By TOM SULLIVAN

In its first game Quincy's offense was excellent but Monday, in a game postponed from Saturday, it was the defense which carried the Presidents to their first win of the year.

Coach Hank Conroy hopes to get both hitting on high Saturday at Veterans' Memorial Stadium where Quincy hosts former Greater Boston League rival Revere in a 1:30 p.m. game. It will be the third non-league game for the Presidents before they open their Suburban League campaign the following Saturday at Waltham.

Quincy's offense sputtered badly Monday in a 7-6 squeaker over Weymouth South at the stadium, particularly when Fullback Paul Vespaziani, one of Conroy's top runners, suffered a cut above the right eye requiring seven stitches.

Defensively the veteran coach was pleased. Quincy pretty well bottled up the Weymouth running attack and also did a good job against its passing, despite South picking up 138 yards with nine for 22. Quincy intercepted two passes and knocked down many more with Pat Gibbons and Anthony DiRocco especially strong on pass defense.

"We expected them to pass a lot and I thought our pass coverage was good," Conroy said. "They did gain quite a bit of ground, but our secondary did a fine job. It was all defense today and we really missed Vespaziani."

With Vespaziani out, Mark Buchanan, moved from quarterback to halfback, and heard Anthony Cedrone did most of the running and picked up good yardage. Quarterback Frank Guest, whose passing was good against Dedham, had his troubles and Conroy will work hard on the passing game this week. He completed two of five for 33 yards, one for the only touchdown, and had two interceptions. Buchanan threw twice, had one interception and the other was incomplete.

Paul Ferris, who saved a touchdown with a great effort early in the game; Mike Carloni, who had a big interception; DiRocco, who recovered a fumble on his two-yard line to stop a scoring drive, and Gibbons were singled out for their work on defense.

Weymouth had a big scoring chance early after Vance Clarke intercepted a Guest pass and returned it to Quincy's 30. South moved to a first down on the 11, but on fourth down on the two-yard line, Ferris broke through and spilled Brian Hogan, South's big ground gainer, for a 10-yard loss.

Quincy drove from Weymouth's 48 after a short punt to score its only touchdown, which came early in the second period. Guest threw to veteran end John for 18 yards and the TD and Mike Murray kicked what proved to be the winning point.

Following a short Quincy punt, Weymouth marched to a first down on the Quincy two late in the half but DiRocco came up with his big fumble recovery.

Carloni stopped another promising Weymouth drive with his pass interception on the Quincy 20 early in the third period and later a Weymouth pass was completed but then fumbled and Quincy's Ferris recovered at midfield.

The teams traded pass interceptions early in the final period and South drove from Quincy's 34 for its touchdown after a Quincy punt.

With fourth down and eight on the 11, the Presidents, along with nearly everyone else, apparently expected a pass but Hogan crossed them up and ran to the three for a first down. It took four plays but Steve Cameron finally scored on a quarterback sneak but his pass for the winning points was incomplete.

Weymouth had one last gasp after recovering a fumble on Quincy's 38, but it could do nothing.

Quincy had a net gain of 98 yards rushing to 84 for Weymouth, Weymouth had a big edge in passing with 138 yards to 33, and also had 10 first downs to eight for Quincy.

The Quincy sophomores won their first game under new coach Pete Chella, topping Dedham, 16-0. Tuesday the sophs played Scituate.

Advanced Lifesaving

Course Registration Open

The Quincy Park-Recreation Board announce that registrations are being taken for an Advanced Lifesaving Course [formerly senior lifesaving] sponsored by the Recreation Department.

To be eligible, persons must be Quincy residents who have passed their 15th birthday, and demonstrate an ability to pass swimming prerequisites. Objectives of the course are to provide each individual with the knowledge and skills designed to save their life or the life of another in the event of a water emergency.

The course will be held from 8 p.m. to 9 p.m. Wednesday and Friday evenings at the Lincoln Hancock Community School Pool beginning Oct. 8.

Those interested should appear at the pool during any Recreation Department sponsored swim to register and be tested. Registrations will close Oct. 5, and enrollment will be limited. Those who successfully complete the course requirements, will be awarded an American Red Cross Advanced Lifesaving Certificate.

Parsley Squeezes Oranges 2-0,

Goalie Bill Parsley posted his first shutout as the Orange Team defeated the Golds, 2-0, in Executive Hockey League action Sunday at the Youth Arena.

Goals were scored by Bernie Toland and Joe Gannon with assists credited to Harry Crispo [2], Gannon and Toland.

In an earlier contest, the Whites bombed the Reds, 7-2, sparked by John McNeil's hat trick. Ralph Freeman, assisted by Bob Hayes, and Bob Kellstrom, assisted by McNeil, make it 2-0 in the Whites favor in the first period. McNeil added another in the second, assisted by Kellstrom. Ed O'Riordan tallied again for the Whites 22 seconds into the third, unassisted.

Two quick goals by Smokey Adams, assisted by Ken Wright, and Ted Ahola, assisted by Ken Croke and Al McKay, for the Reds put them on the score board. But McNeil came surging back with two more, assisted by Kellstrom and Dave Hussey; Chet Brunstrom added another with Frank McAuliffe assisting on the play.

In the last game between the Blues and Greens, Tom Roberts and Dave Hickey tallied two goals each to pace the Greens to a 4-1 victory. Assistants went to Bill Lewis, John Crossman and Dick McCabe. Bob Quintiliani scored the lone Blue goal, assisted by Arthur Boyle.

● YMCA Basketball

Palmer Hotshots

Move Into Top Spot Tie

The Palmer Pub Hotshots of Quincy moved into a first place tie in the Quincy YMCA Businessmen's Basketball League with a 64-51 win over Telephone and Telegraph Monday night.

The win gave the Hotshots a 3-0 record to tie them with Courts of Dorchester and Crusaders of Roxbury.

C & C, Pumory Associates and Blue Cross-Blue Shield have 2-1 records, Brookfield Insurance, Tel & Tel and Quincy Point are 1-2 and Palmer Pub B team, IBM and Friendly Sons of Quincy are 0-3.

The Hotshots, with their strongest team ever and looking forward to playing in the strong Cranberry League during the winter, displayed a balanced attack in the Tel & Tel game, with everyone scoring. Al Jackson had 12 points and John Hayes, Joe Bendix, Buzz Connolly and John Osgood eight apiece.

The Hotshots earlier had defeated Quincy Point, 68-48, with Rich Sprague scoring 20 points, and rolled over Friendly Sons, 83-59, with Hayes scoring 15.

Other members of the Hotshots are Kenny Boyd, Hector Blondette, Bob Pike, Jack Schmidt, Don Constantine and Tom Garwood.

This is the strongest Y Businessmen's League in years and the director is Jim Rendle of the Y.

Mel Della Chiesa: A Quincy Legend

By HENRY BOSWORTH
Publisher, The Quincy Sun

A good many young adults living in Quincy today grew up knowing him as their only mayor.

Amelio Della Chiesa was mayor when they entered the first grade and was on hand to help give them their diplomas when they graduated from high school.

To them growing up he was as familiar as FDR was to millions of Americans now in their early 50's.

He served 12 years as mayor-longest of any man in Quincy's history. Two terms were under Plan E and four under the present Plan A. To many he was "Mr. Quincy".

He retired undefeated in 1965, giving up his seat "for the woman I love."

His devoted wife, Evelyn, whom he affectionately called "Blondie" had quietly and patiently remained in the background as Della Chiesa rose from plumber to become one of Quincy's all-time powerful and respected political figures.

His political career started as Ward 3 councillor in 1944 when he succeeded his brother, Aldo, who had gone off to World War II. It spanned 22 years, ending in 1966 when he also retired as state representative. He had served on Beacon Hill from 1953.

When he stepped down as mayor in 1965 he said Evelyn had been "a political widow the past 12 years." They wanted to spend their remaining years together without politics getting in the way.

He and Evelyn had been in love a half-century. Last week, death separated them. He died at age 74, after a long illness.

The phrase has been sadly overworked but Della Chiesa was truly a legend in his own time.

$700,000 Improvements

Project Underway In Southwest Quincy

Mayor Walter J. Hannon will launch a $700,000 Southwest Community Development Project tonight [Thursday], bringing the number of on-going neighborhood improvement projects in the city to three.

A meeting with area residents will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the Lincoln Hancock Cafetorium.

The project, financed through a HUD grant and a city bond issue, will pump $600,000 into parks, streets and sidewalk improvements and will inject $100,000 into home and business rehabilitation.

Ward 4 Councillor James A. Sheets and Asst. City Planner Daniel J. Driscoll will also attend the meeting to help provide residents with information on the project.

Residents will be encouraged to form a policy committee to work in conjunction with Sheets and the Planning Department, specifying improvement areas and drawing up guidelines.

The possibility of initiating a loan and grant program will also be discussed.

Similar community improvement projects are now [Cont'd on Page 29]

Hanabury Changes Elections

Second Candidate Wants Off City Ballot

By MARY ANN DUGGAN

A second candidate wants to get off the Nov. 4 city election ballot, adding more confusion to an already-muddled political picture.

Mrs. Marilyn Hanabury, announced candidate for the Ward 5 City Council seat, now wants to run for state representative instead.

This development - added to the William Delahunt dilemma - could give Quincy voters the most confusing ballot in the city's history.

Delahunt withdrew from the councillor-at-large race when appointed Norfolk County District Attorney but was nonetheless "nominated" in the Sept. 23 preliminary election, nosing out Helen McDonnell who finished seventh in the race.

Mrs. McDonnell of course wants to get on the ballot but cannot until Delahunt gets off. So far, efforts to remove the district attorney's name from the Nov. 4 ballot have been complicated and stymied by conflicting opinions as to the correct procedure to accomplish that goal.

Tuesday, Senator-City Council President Arthur H. Tobin filed on Delahunt's behalf special legislation to strike the district attorney's name from the ballot. Included in that legislation are provisions to add Mrs. McDonnell's name to the city ballot and to remove Mrs. Hanabury's name from the Ward 5 race.

The legislation must be signed by Gov. Dukakis by Friday [Cont'd on Page 38]

'Young Ideas' Newspaper In Debut, Offers $25 Savings Bond, Other Prizes

The first issue of "Young Ideas", a four-page pullout newspaper for Quincy's elementary school youngsters makes its debut in today's Quincy Sun.

The new newspaper, written by and for the youngsters, is on Pages 19, 20, 21, 22.

The first staff is the Montclair School fourth grade class of Mrs. Carolyn Sullivan and their subject is Fire Prevention Week.

And if you turn to "Young Ideas" you will see that you have a chance to win a $25 savings bond or another prize.

The newspaper is being published by The Sun in cooperation with the Quincy School Department and civic-minded members of the business community. It will appear frequently in The Sun during the school year.

"Young Ideas" is being edited by Cathy Conley of The Sun Staff but all editorial content will be by elementary school youngsters.

Mrs. Conley will work with the youngsters and their teachers right in their classrooms. She will visit various schools. At each a classroom will be selected as the staff for that particular issue.

But the newspaper will have a guest department so that other youngsters in that school and in all the other elementary schools in the city may contribute items for publication.

In addition to this, puzzles and contests in each issue of "Young Ideas" will be enjoyed by youngsters throughout the city.

QUINCY SUN newspaper carrier Mike Alcott of 57 Essex St., Squantum, makes delivery to next-door neighbor Mrs. John Clark. A freshman at Boston College High School and a member of the freshman hockey team there, Mike has been a Sun newspaper carrier six years. It's National Newspaper Week and we salute Mike and all 346 other boys and girls who bring the Sun to homes throughout the city each week.

Over 2,000 Tour Adams Birthplaces

More than 9,000 persons have toured the Quincy farm-house birthplaces of U.S. Presidents John and John Q. Adams, during this 78th season of display by the Quincy Historical Society.

The two saltbox houses on Franklin St., South Quincy, drew tourists from 46 states and 20 countries including distant ones such as Hong Kong and New Zealand.

During the first two October weekends, the two homes will be open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Until Nov. 1 they will also be open at other hours by appointment, and then the houses will close for the winter.

6 Candidates In Retirement Board Election

An election will be held Wednesday, Oct. 15 to select an employee representative to the Quincy Retirement Board.

The six candidates for the position are:

Incumbent Carmine A. DiRamo of the Quincy Police Department; Felice Daru of the Hospital Department; Owen J.

Eaton of the Water Department; Elizabeth A. Houston of the Quincy School Department; Robert J. Kelley of the Quincy Fire Department; and J. Vincent Smyth, also of the Fire Department.

The election will take place from 8:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. in City Council Chambers.

Ernest Montilio To Receive 'Man of Year' Award

Colonel Ernest J. Montilio, commanding officer of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Massachusetts, will be presented with the Italian-American Civic League's "Man of the Year" award Monday, Oct. 13, at The Diplomat, Saugus.

Montilio, who lives at 148 Monroe Rd, Quincy, has served six months of his one year term in the position of commanding officer in the third oldest military organization in the country.

A life-long Quincy resident, he is the husband of Mrs. Carolyn Montilio and father of Maire, 25, George 24, and Ernestine 17.

ERNEST MONTILIO

Montilio is the owner of the Montilio's Pastry Shops, in Quincy, Cohasset Chestnut Hill and Faneuil Hall, and has baked cakes for such notables as President John F. Kennedy, Bob Hope, Jimmy Durante and Queen Elizabeth. The bakery is working on a cake ordered by the Boston Republican Committee for President Ford's coming visit to Boston.

Montilio is also president of the Don Orione Home, Winthrop. He has launched a fund-raising campaign aiming for a goal of $1 million.

The Late President Kennedy and Italy's Unknown Soldier will be honored by the Ancient & Honorable Artillery Company while they are on their current 338th Fall Field Day Tour of Duty in Italy and Israel.

The Ancients departed for Rome last Friday and are scheduled to complete their tour Oct. 13.

They were to have an audience with His Holiness, Pope Paul VI, Wednesday.

Colonel Montilio will present a USS Constitution flag, flown once above famed "Old Ironsides", to U.S. Ambassador John A. Volpe and another Constitution national colors to United States Ambassador Malcolm Toon in Tel Aviv.

He will also present them with Massachusetts State flags and greetings from Bay State Governor Michael Dukakis.

He will also present greetings and Paul Revere Bowls from Mayor Kevin H. White to Mayor Clelio Darida of Rome, Mayor Shlomo Lahat of Tel Aviv and Mayor Teddy Killek of Jerusalem.

On Sunday morning, the Ancients will attend Mass in Bethlehem and in the afternoon participate in a wreath-laying ceremony at the Military Cemetery and a tree-planting ceremony at the John F. Kennedy Memorial.

Clothing Exchange Shop At Germantown Service Center

The Germantown Service Center will sponsor a clothing exchange shop, scheduled to open Monday, Oct. 13, in the center, 9 Bicknell St.

The center is accepting outgrown, clean, ironed clothes only. All articles must be on hangers or neatly folded and sized as accurately as possible. Football, hockey, tennis or dancing equipment may also be brought in for exchange.

Merchandise credits will be issued for all items donated. All clothing left at the end of each week will be donated to the Goodwill. All proceeds will benefit the center's emergency fund.

Tobin Calls Plan 'Madness'

City Officials Meet With MDC To Protest Quincy Bay Filling

City officials were scheduled to meet early Wednesday morning with state and MDC officials to express their opposition to a plan to fill 26 acres of Quincy Bay to build a secondary treatment plant there. Senator-City Council President Arthur H. Tobin called the proposed plan "madness" and described Wednesday's 8 a.m. conference as "a unity meeting to alert the MDC of our opposition."

Scheduled to attend the City Hall meeting were Mayor Walter J. Hannon, Tobin, MDC Commission John Snedecker, Atty. General Francis X. Bellotti, a representative of the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA), Reps. Joseph E.

Brett, Thomas F. Brownell and Robert Cerasoli, Councillor Dennis Harrington, chairman of the City Council's environmental committee, Councillor Leo J. Kelly, committee vice-chairman and Councillor Warren Powers.

Officials also planned to discuss the possibility of travelling to Washington, D.C. to state their strong opposition to the plan to Cong. James A. Burke and Sen. Edward M. Kennedy.

Kelly said he and Harrington are considering a federal court suit to enjoin the EPA from acting on studies or plans to build a secondary treatment plant at Nut Island until Congress can act on recommendations of the National Commission on Water Quality.

Kelly said the Commission has stated secondary treatment is not needed at an ocean treatment plant such as Nut Island. Kelly noted, too, the MDC and Army Corps of Engineers agree with the Commission statement.

As an alternative to the plan to fill in 26 acres of Quincy Bay, Kelly said the council's environmental committee has been urging all along the upgrading of the existing primary treatment plant at Nut Island and the extension - without landfill - of existing treated wastewater outflows into the ocean.

Kelly said filling 26 acres of Quincy Bay would herald "the ruination of the beaches" along the Quincy shore, causing degeneration into "a coastline of stinking mud flats."

Tobin said estimates indicate the proposed project would require 50,000 truckloads of fill to accomplish the intended goal to fill 26 acres of Quincy Bay.

"That shows how absurd the project is...This meeting Wednesday will determine policy and action to take to stop this proposed madness of filling in 26 acres of coastline. It's a project the people in my district just don't want."

'Dangerous Conditions' At Drive-In Referred To Traffic Commission

The City Council referred to the Quincy Traffic Commission a request to study "dangerous conditions" in the area of Custy's Drive-In Restaurant, 407 Sea St.

Mayor Walter J. Hannon made the request, responding to complaints from Ward 1 residents who say it is extremely difficult to cross the unusually wide street without the aid of a pedestrian light.

Hannon requested the Commission report on the cost of installing lights in this area.

Quincy Savings offers you 9-3 Saturday hours.

At Quincy Savings, all our branches are open from 9-3 Monday through Saturday, and until 6 p.m. on Thursday nights. Our Main Office TV walk-up and drive-up tellers are open from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Wednesday, and from 9 a.m. until 8 p.m. Thursday and Friday. So you get lots of extra time to take care of all your banking. But at Quincy Savings, the longest hours on the South Shore are just the beginning.

Because we also offer you people like Don Gohl, the manager of our North Quincy Office. Don started with the bank as a teller right after World War II. And in that time he has loaned millions of dollars to all kinds of people, businesses and newcomers to Quincy. In fact, loaning money is what Don likes best. Don Gohl sincerely cares about customers and tries to accommodate their needs.

And that, he says, is what makes Quincy Savings different from every other bank.

If you'd like more information on Quincy Savings, stop by any of our offices in South Quincy, North Quincy, Quincy Center and Quincy Point. Or call 472-0025.

At Quincy Savings, Don Gohl is here to help. And he does.

And Don Gohl.

CHILDREN

Smothering mother needs help

By DR. WILLARD ABRAHAM
Copley News Service

Q. Will you please help me get my wife to "let go"?

She's a "smothering" mother, making all the decisions for our children, and creating what I think is an unhealthy dependency.

Our youngsters are 11 and 13 years old, but to this day she doesn't let them go to school alone, meets them after school, never lets them shop on their own, and works out their entire homework and recreation schedule.

I can already see that they are becoming insecure and shy — and I'm very worried.

A. You apparently have a right to be too.

The children may need help, but she seems to need even more.

You no doubt have tried to discuss this matter with her. Now you may need some professional psychological assistance. Recommendations might come through your own doctor or the school psychologist.

Q. Our 5-year-old has squinty eyes, although she seems to see all right. It's just that she wrinkles up her nose and eyes very often, and it makes her look like a little old lady.

I tell her to stop, and have even hit her a few times for doing it, but she goes right on wrinkling up her face.

How can I get her to stop?

A. Did anyone once (or more than once) tell her how cute it was to wrinkle her nose? If so, a period of totally ignoring this habit may in time get her to stop.

Another possible solution is a visit to an ophthalmologist to see whether her sight really is within the normal range.

Q. My little boy's hands are often where I don't think they should be. However, I don't want to slap them or tie them behind him.

So what is your suggestion?

A. Keeping them busy with activities of which you do approve might be part of the solution. The materials, toys and other diversions you select (with his assistance) should be subtly provided.

Another approach could be to expand your own reading so that you might be a little more comfortable with a young child's habits that sometimes are within the normal range.

Today's Women

Have A Soup-er Supper

Nothing warms body and soul better on cold or murky days than a big steaming bowl of homemade soup. Somehow the world takes on a rosier glow as the warm liquid-filled with products of a successful summer garden—does for the inside what fuzzy slippers and an overstuffed easy chair do for the outside.

Extremely nourishing and economical, soup has been a basic food in every country and with every civilization throughout the ages. France has its pot-au-feu, Italy its minestrone, Russia its borscht and China its bird's nest soup. Since time immemorial people have kept the stock pot simmering all day on the back of the kitchen stove.

In France, soup is still the basis of national diet. The word "soup" is derived from the French term "La Soupe," which has been the name of the evening meal in parts of rural France for hundreds of years.

One of the most popular of French soups is bouillabaisse. A variation of this French delight is served at the Holiday Inn in Buena Park, Calif., in which seafoods and seasonings are simmered slowly in a white burgundy wine. Another hearty meal-in-a-bowl served at the Buena Park inn is a fascinating mixture of meat, vegetables and grain called beef barley soup.

Beef Barley Soup

6 qts. beef bone stock
½ lb. (1½ cups) pearl barley
1 10-oz. pkg. frozen spinach
1 16-oz. can tomato wedges
2 10-oz. pkgs. frozen mixed vegetables

SOUP-ER SUPPER—Warm up a cold, wintry day with a steaming bowl of homemade soup filled with juicy chunks of seafood and mushrooms simmered in wine.

¾ cup chopped onion
3 stalks celery, chopped
½ large green pepper, chopped
½ lb. cabbage, shredded
1 bay leaf
1 cup burgundy wine
½ cup beef soup base
3 tps. garlic powder
½ tsp. white pepper
½ lb. boneless beef, diced

Add barley to soup stock; cook 30 minutes. Add all other ingredients and cook until barley is tender. (Freezes well.)

Bouillabaisse

1 lb. halibut, cut in 2-inch cubes
1 #2½ can stewed tomatoes
1 4-oz. can tomato puree
2 large carrots, diced
1 large onion, diced

2 stalks celery, diced
3 cloves garlic, minced
1 tbsp. whole Italian seasonings
2 cups white burgundy wine
1 cup water
2 bay leaves
3 tps. chopped parsley
1 lb. fresh mushrooms, chopped
1 large dungeness crab, cut in chunks

8 large shrimp
8 cherry stone (large) clams
8 little neck (small) clams
8 mussels, well scrubbed
Combine halibut and next 12 ingredients in large Dutch oven; simmer 30 minutes. Place clam shells in warm oven about 5 minutes to open. Add remaining seafoods and simmer 20 minutes. Serves 6. Scallops may be substituted for mussels.

ARIES: (March 21 to April 19 — Also Aries Ascendant) — Strive to accept circumstances and events that are beyond your control. Avoid selfish and self-willed actions with family members. Cooperate and compromise. Face legal situations head-on.

TAURUS: (April 20 to May 20 — Also Taurus Ascendant) — You may need help with a heavy work load — ask for it instead of feeling sorry for yourself. Resist temptation to verbalize your anger at one who is interfering in your personal life. Be decisive.

GEMINI: (May 21 to June 20 — Also Gemini Ascendant) — Guard valuables and money against possible theft. Take good care of your credit. An opportunity for promotion appears likely. A time to "play it close to your belt" financially. Trips may be disappointing.

CANCER: (June 21 to July 22 — Also Cancer Ascendant) — A socially active week when you could meet someone who becomes a lasting friend. Conversations are stimulating — remain open and accepting. Just stay out of the way of a trouble-causer. Watch your trial.

LEO: (July 23 to August 22 — Also Leo Ascendant) — Ignore one who could be working against you behind your back. Others are aware of the truth. Stay away from quarrels with peers or mate. Agreement with a romantic companion about up-coming changes brings joy.

VIRGO: (August 23 to Sept. 22 — Also Virgo Ascendant) — Take restrictions to your freedom in stride and you gain the admiration of others. Resist the desire to move or make sudden changes. Recognize that freedom is a state of mind. Be patient — don't force issues.

LIBRA: (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22 — Also Libra Ascendant) — Career pressures could be released now. Review the past and recognize the need for integrity in business. Reorganizations and changes could be part of the current picture. Income increases.

SCORPIO: (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21 — Also Scorpio Ascendant) — Settle small disagreements with relatives. Continue to develop your plans. Clean out and discard outmoded articles and attitudes. Romance brightens and you will find pleasure in cultural events.

SAGITTARIUS: (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21 — Also Sagittarius Ascendant) — A good time to re-work past projects and prepare them for submission at a later date. Organize your goal plans and shore up your foundations. An offer for career change could look better than it really is.

CAPRICORN: (Dec. 22 to Jan. 19 — Also Capricorn Ascendant) — The stormy cycle in your personal life you have been going through could resolve itself now. Things come out into the open and you can make decisions. Some Capricorns may change their residence.

AQUARIUS: (Jan. 20 to Feb. 18 — Also Aquarius Ascendant) — You could feel like your "ship has come in" now. Have the courage to carry through on projects you have started. Tasks are harder than you had thought. Devote yourself to job and work.

PISCES: (Feb. 19 to March 20 — Also Pisces Ascendant) — Bring happiness to another by ignoring their faults and speaking of their virtues. Investment opportunities should be considered carefully and with moderation. Be "big" enough to apologize for a social error you may commit.

How to keep your children slender

The problem of obesity in children can be solved only by a low-calorie diet and no eating-on-the-sly and increased exercise, writes a physician in the publication Postgraduate Medicine. Children, however, may be resentful of weight-reduction programs, he warns.

RIGHTS 'N' WRONGS How do you use candles?

By RIV TOBIN
Copley News Service

Dear Mrs. Tobin:
What is the etiquette regarding the use of candles?

Mary LeB.

Dear Mary LeB.:

If candles are used on the dining table the flame should be below or above eye level. Any type of holder is suitable, provided it is in keeping with the rest of the service. The taller the candelabra, the more formal the occasion. Candles should never be used as a cigar or cigarette lighter. Candles are used to provide light, so are never lit during daylight hours unless the drapes are pulled. If candles are used as decoration the wicks should be burned only slightly. This indicates they are there to be used when needed.

Never leave short stubs in the holders because they look as though they were left over from a previous party.

The Kitchen Almanac

An assortment of cheese can provide a happy ending to your company dinner, with a minimum of fuss and flurry. Just remember to remove cheese from the refrigerator early enough to bring it to room temperature.

Twenty minutes to an hour should be long enough to bring out the best in flavor and texture of cheddar and blue cheese. Bring on butter for crisp crackers, and a bowl of icy-chilled fruit.

Babeches are small circles of glass (or plastic) that fit around the bottom of the candles to catch the wax drippings.

Candles should be snuffed out. Blowing can whisk wax on wood finish or linen. White candles without swirls or twists are always in good taste. Fancy or colored candles can accent a special theme.

Dear Mrs. Tobin:

I want to write a letter to Sen. Alan Cranston of California. How do I begin the letter and where do I send it?

L. C. Powell

Dear Mr. Powell:

The letter should be addressed to: The Honorable Alan Cranston, 152 Old Senate Office Building, Washington, D.C. 20510.

Begin your letter thusly, Sir. Close with, "Very truly yours." Keep your message short but clear. Be sure your return address is on both the letter and the envelope.

Rare, medium or well done beef? The rule is "as you like it." For accuracy, use a meat thermometer for roasts.

Less tender beef cuts — such as pot roasts, round steak and beef for stews — are cooked "well done" to develop their full flavor and tenderness.

Use low to moderate temperatures and don't overcook.

While we're on the subject of beef, fresh ground beef is at its best when you cook it within 24 hours.

Stay Alive!

By Jack Silverstein

BREAST CANCER

After Mrs. Ford and Mrs. Rockefeller underwent mastectomies, scores of articles were written on the subject, especially the importance of self examination. I've culled some of the facts which I feel are important.

Nine out of ten lumps that occur in women's breasts are not cancerous. This does not mean, however, that lumps should be ignored. Go to the doctor and have the necessary tests to determine exactly what the lump is, and if treatment is required.

Ninety percent of all lumps are discovered by women themselves. Breast feeding has no connection whatsoever with breast cancer.

Besides the monthly breast self-examination, most women should be given an annual comprehensive breast exam by their physicians. Women over 40 with a family history of cancer should have this exam twice a year.

One test for detecting breast cancer, called mammography, helps physicians to spot tumors while they are still too small to be detected by manual examination.

DiCesare Undecided Who To Vote For

By HENRY BOSWORTH

Frank DiCesare who resigned a week ago as mayoralty contender Joseph LaRaia's campaign manager, confides he doesn't know who his vote for mayor will go to on Nov. 4.

"I'm undecided," he says. "I'm going to see how they [LaRaia, Walter Hannon] handle themselves in the next few weeks and make up my mind."

"From here on in, I'm strictly an observer and a voter. I will listen to both of them and make my decision."

DiCesare and Paul Anderson, co-director of the LaRaia campaign through the preliminary election, both left the camp because of what they termed a difference in campaign philosophy.

Anderson, however, flatly says he will still vote for LaRaia.

THERE SEEM TO be nutcases everywhere. The night Gov. Dukakis appeared at Broad Meadows Junior High School to hold his "town meeting" with Quincy residents, someone telephoned the school threatening to kill him.

It was dismissed as a crank call. But those close to the governor were visibly nervous about the whole thing until Dukakis left safely.

HEY KIDS, if you want to be a mighty homerun hitter maybe you should try eating pineapple sherbert instead of wheats. Red Sox slugger Jim Rice and his wife were in Baskin Robbins ice cream shop in Quincy Sq. the other night and Jim ordered a pint of pineapple sherbert, reports owner Jack Kerrigan.

AND THAT REMINDS me that Luis Tiant's wife was getting her hair set at the Marvel in Quincy Sq. the day before Luis handcuffed the A's. Jim Mastrantonio suggested to her that she serve Louie some "hot Italian sausages" to get him hot for the A's. Don't know whether she took the advice or not but Louie sure was hot the next day.

HERB REPPUCCI, the Wollaston beauty salon owner and West Quincy resident, is warming up for a bid for the Fourth Norfolk state representative seat vacated by William Delahunt. He will run as a Democrat.

FORMER City Councillor Carl Anderson who was among those attending the services Monday at Bethany Congregational Church for former Mayor Amelio Della Chiesa felt quite bad. He sadly recalled he and Della Chiesa were elected to the City Council on the same day in 1943. Della Chiesa in Ward 3 and Anderson in Ward 2.

AMONG THE CANDIDATES for a seat on the Quincy Retirement Board are Fire Lt. Robert Kelley and Mrs. Elizabeth Houston, secretary to School Supt. Dr. Lawrence Creedon. Election is Oct. 15, 8:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. at City Hall.

A GOLFER'S DREAM came true for Russ MacDonald former baseball and rugby star at Norwich University. Came up with a hole-in-one at Lost Brook Golf Course in Norwood. Playing in a foursome with his father, Quincy Fire Capt. Ken MacDonald, Tom O'Sullivan and Dick Costley, also of Quincy.

FORMER Sheriff Charles Hedges is staying active as an insurance broker with Walter S. Attridge, Broad St., Boston. Hedges, of course, has returned to Quincy, living at 123 Elm St.

QUINCY'S Ruth Gordon and her husband, Garson Kanin, have returned to their Edgartown home on Martha's Vineyard. They had been several weeks in New York where she completed her latest TV film, "The Prince of Central Park" which will be shown early next year.

But there won't be much time for rest for the talented actress. On Nov. 11 she's scheduled to start the Paramount movie, "The Big Bus" which also stars Joe Bologna and Stockard Channing.

HER MANY FRIENDS will be happy to learn that Bernice King, secretary-treasurer of the Wollaston Business and Professional Association is recuperating nicely after surgery at Quincy City Hospital. She's expected to be home next week.

BUILDING A REGIONAL ECONOMY

Woman's Day--Y'all Come

By ERIC SWIDER

The liberation of womanhood has created some unique opportunities in the businessworld, and the South Shore Chamber is sponsoring an all-day session on Thursday, Oct. 16 at the Lantana in Randolph to explore them with the community.

Businesspeople, interested citizens, but especially women are encouraged to come and listen, question, probe and involve themselves in these sessions which are aimed at improving thinking about the status of women at work.

Hamilton's of Braintree is providing free day care service during the day so virtually no barriers to a healthy attendance exist.

Congresswoman Margaret Heckler kicks off the day with a 7:44 a.m. breakfast speech. Morning panels on "Day Care" and "Getting Back to Work" are scheduled. State Representative Elaine Noble shares the luncheon platform with Glendora Putnam, Chairperson of the Mass. Council Against Discrimination. Afternoon workshops on "Career Planning for the Working Woman", "Women in the Media", and "Re-Entry in the Job Market" are followed by dutch treat cocktails at 4:15 p.m.

The package price for the program, which includes breakfast and lunch, is $12 and tickets for individual sessions can be purchased separately. A fully detailed program and reservation form can be secured by contacting Martha Reardon or Carolyn Jennings at the Chamber, 479-1111.

Several years ago, a Women's Day planned by women members and staffers of a Chamber of Commerce here or anywhere else would have been sure to surround a fashion show. Lacy little sandwiches and putrid pink punch would have been the next most important program element and the raffle for the door prize [gasp--ooh--aah] would have been the highlight of the afternoon.

This program has no lacy sandwiches, no punch, that I know of, and as of yet, no one has even suggested a door prize [ooh - aah]. I suggested a fashion show to the program planners and was drummed out of the meeting as a male chauvinist pig. Well, I still think it's a good idea. After all, jeans come in several colors and styles now, and I think it would be nice for a re-entrant into the job market to get exposed to all of the options.

If I had been invited to sit in on the session to plan this meeting, as the husband of a working wife, I think I would have included as part of the program a sensitivity session for the working husband.

For most of our married life, Claudie has opted to teach, with three brief breaks for children, and I'm afraid that my occasional offers to lend a helping hand are too occasional so it has meant her holding down two full-time jobs.

I keep on trying to reprogram myself to take the initiative to do some housework, bathe the kids or do the dishes but I frankly admit that I contribute to the statistics that make the working wife the most overworked human being in our society.

A recent study tells us that a "homemaker" spends 56 hours a week at that job and if she is employed too, her combined jobs take 102 hours per week.

I'd be the first one to admit that the system, upbringing and social values which have cast the woman in the role of cook, maid, and scrubwoman - is basically unjust. Just as there are some competent creative male executives around, there are probably an equal number of competent, creative women executives in the pack.

We have a couple of women managers at the South Shore Chamber who are as equally effective as the men, and, by the way, get paid that way too.

The business community has much at stake in harnessing the best talent it can secure to manage its endeavors. They will increasingly hire women executives not because the law says they must provide them with equal opportunity but because it is business' basic motivation to maximize productivity. If a woman is the best applicant for the job, she'll undoubtedly get it, because hiring the second best is basically unsound management.

Woman's Day 1975 - Our first attempt to recognize the greatest untapped resource of the South Shore and to encourage business and women alike to find each other for work and profit - I hope y'all come.

LIVING TODAY

Can Your Marriage Stand The Strain?

By DR. WILLIAM F. KNOX

There is a strong shift in our society which is certainly affecting the institution of marriage. I refer to the shift to the individual person. Of course we've always talked in this country about the importance of the individual ... but it has been more talk than reality. Now there's real emphasis upon the individual as a person.

Everywhere people are studying themselves ... checking themselves against personality check-lists ... asking questions about themselves ... am I paranoid? Am I adult? Am I loving myself? Am I just letting things happen to me? Most people are aware to the conclusion that I am a person in my own right ... regardless of who my parents are ... or to whom I'm married. But once a man or woman comes to this conclusion ... is the marriage able to stand the strain?

Robbie is an area superintendent for a pharmaceutical firm. When he's away three or four nights each week he's suspicious that Susan, his wife of 15 years is having an affair with someone. He makes frequent telephone calls ... at all hours of the night ... either to reassure himself of her faithfulness ... or to catch her in a compromising position. Susan is going on with her life ... her job ... her friends ... her children ... well knowing that Robbie is suspicious and is continually checking on her. Once he hired a detective to follow her. Even though he wasted his money on the detective report he still is suspicious.

Susan's attitude is ... "his suspicious mind is his problem. I'm not going to let it affect me ... or the children. If he's going to act that way ... suspicious ... negative ... destructing, he's going to suffer, but I'm not going to cater to his sickness. I'm a person. I will live my life as best I know how ... and not be distorted by his distortion." The question is ... "What's going to happen to the marriage?" Can it stand the strain?

This is the type of crisis which has come to many couples. The traditional role of mother-wife has changed. The change is a threat to many men who still see their wives in the same role as their mothers ... staying at home ... cooking meals ... caring for children ... making beds ... going to PTA meetings. When many of these women want more in life ... see their youthful appearance beginning to fade and feel "it's now or never" that I must do something for myself ... many of their husbands feel terribly threatened.

There's a lot to be said for the security of marriage where the wife's whole concentration is upon making the home ... raising the children ... giving moral support to a husband ... while a man goes out, kills the wild boar and comes dragging his kill home at night. But this pattern is fast fading. Men, too ... are feeling the weight of this arrangement in these times of mounting costs for family. Many men feel that all they're good for is bringing home the pay check. They, too, want to be persons. The squeeze is on ... whether we like it or not.

In this "I want to be me" period which we are in it is still possible to be persons and be married. But it probably means that both husband and wife must face each other as adult male and adult female ... not being man to little girl ... or mother to little boy.

Marriage only works well with adults ... who want to be healthy persons in their own rights. [Those patterns never worked very well for most persons.] Your claim to fame is not who you're married to ... or who you're the son/daughter of ... but what you are ... the person.

Services Held For Capt. Francis Moriarty, 64

A funeral Mass for retired Fire Capt. Francis J. Moriarty, 64, of 60 Dysart St., was celebrated Tuesday at St. John's Church by Rev. David F. Delaney, chaplain of the fire department. The burial was at Blue Hill Cemetery, Braintree.

An honor-guard detail of more than 100 firefighters was present at the funeral.

"He was a very well-liked gentleman, in addition to being an excellent firefighter," said Quincy Fire Department Captain Francis Daly.

Mr. Moriarty died Saturday after a brief illness, at Quincy City Hospital. He was a member of the Quincy Fire Department for more than 32 years, and also active in organized firefighter labor organizations.

Born in Plymouth, he attended Quincy schools and was a resident of the city for more than 60 years.

Inducted into the fire department in 1943, he became a lieutenant seven years later and was assigned to the Quincy Point Station. After his promotion to captain in 1952 and until his retirement five months ago, Mr. Moriarty commanded Ladder 2 at the Wollaston Station.

A delegate to and a trustee of the Firefighters Association of Massachusetts, Captain Moriarty was also a past president and delegate to the International Association of Firefighters, Local 792, and a delegate to the Central Labor Union.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Annabelle P. [O'Brien] Moriarty; a son, Francis P. J. Moriarty Jr. of Quincy; a daughter, Mrs. Carol Ann Lydon of Quincy; a brother, Daniel M. Moriarty of Quincy; two sisters, Mrs. Mary Nolan and Mrs. Helen Doucette both of South Weymouth and 11 grandchildren.

Farm Workers Union St. John's CYO Topic

A film depicting the struggles of migrant workers will be shown at the St. John's CYO meeting Sunday Oct. 12, at 7 p.m. After the film, the South Shore representative of the National Farm Worker Ministry, John Jackson, will speak about Caesar Chavez's United Farm Workers Union.

St. John's Drop-In Center will be open after the meeting until 9 p.m., and also every Friday from 7 to 10 p.m.

On Monday, Oct. 13, the CYO will set out to climb New Hampshire's Mt. Cardigan. Any member interested in this trip must contact Peggy Thorley or Kathy O'Toole by Saturday, at 7 p.m.

'Light, Darkness' Sermon Topic At Point Congregational

"The Inner Light and the Outer Darkness" will be the sermon topic by Rev. Ronald J. Cebik at Quincy Point Congregational Church.

The church will host a

Pre-Fair Sunday dinner at noon, Oct. 19, as a preliminary event to their 1975 Calico Fair, being held Nov. 15.

Beginning Oct. 26 the church will resume its popular 7:45 a.m.

Sunday Bible and Breakfast series. Along with muffins, juice and hot coffee, there will be a wholesome serving of Bible Study. The sessions are free, and everyone is welcome.

Sin, Disease, Death Christian Science Lesson-Sermon

"Are Sin, Disease, and Death Real?" is the question asked in Sunday's Christian Science Lesson-Sermon at all Churches of Christ, Scientist.

Scriptural verses include

Romans 12: 1,2:

"I beseech you therefore, brethren, by the mercies of God, that ye present your bodies a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable unto God, which is your reasonable service. And be not conformed to this world: but be ye transformed by the renewing of your mind, that ye may prove what is that good, and acceptable, and perfect, will of God."

Sunday Church service and Sunday School begin at 10:45 at First Church of Christ, Scientist, 20 Greenleaf St., Quincy.

A funeral is no place for on-the-job training.

Someday you will be called on to arrange a funeral and have to make a lot of important decisions with little time for deliberation.

A new booklet tells you much of what you will need to know...about funeral costs, optional services available, and the countless little details that could add to your grief...if you're not prepared for them. Offered as a public service by National Selected Morticians it tells you now what someday you'll have to know. And it could keep you from spending more than you should, or may need to, for a funeral.

Mail the coupon or telephone us for your free copy. Because the more you know about funerals, the better we, or any other funeral director, can serve you.

Montclair Men's Club Not To Endorse Mayoralty, Council At-Large Candidates

The Montclair Men's Club has voted not to endorse candidates for the office of mayor or councillor-at-large, in order to avoid division among members.

But the club unanimously endorsed Thomas Mullaney for School Committee, John Lydon for re-election as Ward 3 Councillor, Warren Powers for re-election as Ward 5 Councillor and Dennis Harrington for re-election as Ward 6 Councillor. All are club members opposed by non-members.

Both Mayor Walter J. Hannon and City Councillor Joseph LaRaia - contenders for the office of mayor - are members of the Montclair Men's Club.

City Council President Arthur H. Tobin, Councillor-at-large John J. Quinn, School

Committeeman Harold Davis and Atty. Paul Harold are all club members seeking the office of city councillor at-large. Three seats are open.

The Men's Club released a statement explaining its stance on endorsements.

"Brother members seeking these positions [of mayor and councillor-at-large] are all capable. Endorsements would only cause a division in the club."

Both Hannon and LaRaia addressed a recent club meeting and asked for the support of the organization but not at the expense of a divided club.

Davis was the only at-large candidate to address the group. The other candidates had previous commitments.

Must Get Best Return For Each Tax Dollar Says MacIntyre

School committee candidate Marie E. MacIntyre says citizens must demand from public officials "the best possible return for each tax dollar spent."

Speaking at a meeting of the Quantum Community Association, Miss MacIntyre said:

"At the present time, the budget for schools is adequate to meet educational concerns. I'm aware of the plight of the taxpayer - the dilemma of all public agencies and cities to keep the lid on, I can only say that we all must work to get the best possible return for each tax dollar spent. This should be the demand of the taxpayer and the mandate of public officials."

Outlining other goals of the School Committee, Miss MacIntyre said dedication to "quality education" must be reaffirmed, ensuring each student "Equal access to opportunities."

Calling for greater community access to the School Committee, Miss MacIntyre suggested the School Committee meet within different communities "to become more responsive to community needs."

8 NQHS Seniors Receive

Merit Program Commendations

The National Merit Scholarship Corporation has named eight North Quincy High School seniors as Commended Students in the Merit Program.

James D. Anderson, Debra J. Ayres, Dana A. Cetlin, Robert A. Grazer, Anthony F. Poole, Marion L. Rideout, Catherine D. Shaffer and Mary E. Stebbins all received letters of commendation for attaining high scores on the 1974 Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test/National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test. These commended students represent less than two per cent of those expected to graduate from high school in 1976.

The eight students, whose scores ranked just below those of 15,000 announced semifinalists in the scholarship competition numbered among 35,000 commended students named nationwide.

Names of commended seniors will be sent to the colleges listed as a student's first and second choice when he or she took the qualifying test.

Montclair Men's Club

To Resubmit Traffic Lights Request

The club said it believes lives of children at the Montclair School and traffic supervisors are threatened daily by speeding vehicles on West Squantum St. and will re-submit testimony, and petitions to the city council. The project is under the direction of Joseph Gildea.

THE CAMPAIGN TRAIL

Drops Out Of Council Race

Marilyn Hanabury Candidate For State Representative

Mrs. Marilyn D. Hanabury of 2 Old Colony Ave., Wollaston, announces her candidacy for the Fourth Norfolk District's state representative seat vacated by William Delahunt.

Running as an Independent in the special election to be held Dec. 16, she said she is withdrawing from the Ward 5 Council race and hopes to have her name removed from the Nov. 4 City ballot.

This will be her second bid for the office. She ran in 1972. Promising to be a full time representative, she said she feels one person should not hold more than one elected office. This would insure the broadest possible representation and prevent a concentration of power, she said.

During 1972 Mrs. Hanabury noted she was active through the grass roots organization, Citizens for Participation in Political Action, to have the State Graduated Income Tax adopted. Since then it has become more accepted as a means of shifting the tax burden from the homeowner. The fight against 100% evaluation must continue probably through the courts, she said.

Mrs. Hanabury said she would pursue the nursing home probe started by Delahunt.

A delegate to the Democratic National Convention in 1972, a Ward 5 delegate to the 11th District Democratic Caucus in 1974, she recently received an award from the South Shore Women's Political Caucus for her political involvement.

She is a member of the Board of Directors of the Churchmen's League for Civic Welfare and a member of Morality in Media.

A fund raising benefit is planned for her Nov. 10 at Wollaston Legion Hall, Weston Ave., Wollaston.

McCauley Cites Advantages Of Quincy Vocational-Technical School

During the past five years, the Quincy Vocational Technical School has graduated more than 1,300 students from its regular high school and post graduate courses, School Committeeman Francis X. McCauley, candidate for re-election, pointed out at a house party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John MacLeod, 49 Ferndale Rd., Wollaston.

In addition to courses of study offered to high school students, a number of post graduate courses are offered, he noted. Included, are programs for dental assistant; operating room technicians; dental technician and a one-year course that prepares students to be licensed practical nurses.

Graduates of the dental technician program, under the direction of Dr. James Will, achieved the highest scores in the nation while graduates of the Licensed Practical Nurses Program, under the direction of Mrs. Madeline Papile, R.N., received the highest marks on the State Licensing Examination, McCauley said.

The Vocational-Technical School provides an alternative to students who do not plan to go on to college as well as to those beyond high school seeking career opportunities in the various technical and professional fields.

McCauley noted that as a city councillor, he had been an early supporter of the construction of the Vo-Tech School and had led the fight to win city council approval of the bond issues in 1964.

Mullaney Says His Experience Will Help Budget

School Committee candidate J. Thomas Mullaney says his experience as a financial analyst would help in scrutinizing the upcoming 1976 school budget.

At an organizational meeting held at the home of William Caiwiski of 228 Farrington St., Mullaney said:

"Shortly after they are elected, the new School Committee members will begin to review the 1976 budget. This 1976 budget will probably be around $28 million.

To a new School Committee member unfamiliar with large budgets the experience can be confusing at best and intimidating at the worst.

As a financial analyst I have spent many hours preparing, justifying and reviewing large corporate budgets. Any budget I review will be thoroughly scrutinized before I approve it. It's been common practice to elect educators to School Committees on the theory that they can best evaluate the educational programs. I think it also makes good sense to elect a candidate with a financial background to keep an eye on the spending."

Davis Calls Proposed HN Treatment Facility 'Threat To Quincy People'

Councillor at-large candidate Harold Davis calls the MDC's proposed expanded sewage treatment facility in Houghs Neck "a threat to the well being of the people of Quincy."

Speaking at a recent coffee hour at the home of Patricia Kilduff, 80 Babcock St., Houghs Neck, Davis noted the MDC's proposal to fill in 26 acres of Quincy Bay for the facility.

"Our 26 miles of shore line is one of our most precious resources," Davis said. "It would be a sacrilege to Quincy's environment and the welfare of its citizens to disturb the waterfront to such an extent."

Davis told the group that one

Houghs Neck resident had calculated that it would take 50,000 truck loads of fill to complete the project.

"One can imagine the traffic and safety problems resulting from the truck traffic through Quincy-and in Adams Shore and Houghs Neck in particular. Certainly we have a pollution problem in Quincy Bay. It is Quincy residents who have suffered the most. However, the MDC's track record in operating the existing facility at Nut Island has been so dismal that the prospect of another facility is frightening.

"I think the residents of Dover, Wellesley, and other communities where the sewage originates should bear more of the burden of solving this complex problem."

Toland Urges Residents To Register To Vote

Mrs. Patricia Toland, school committee candidate urges all unregistered voters to take advantage of the extended voter registration hours being offered this week.

Speaking at a coffee hour at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dana Johnsen of 26 Spaulding St., Quincy Center, she reminded the group Oct. 15 is the last day for registration before the Nov. 4 City election. She said:

"Having spoken to parents of school-age children throughout the city, I am aware that they are concerned about the School Committee elections. However, people who do not have children or whose children are past school age frequently feel that this race does not affect them."

The Quincy School Committee controls a $26 million budget. This comprises 46 per cent of the total city budget. Thus all taxpayers should be concerned that this large amount of money is wisely spent.

Business men and women in the city also have reason to be concerned with the quality of education in the city. They are directly affected by the students involved in Quincy's work-study programs and should also be interested in other types of career preparation courses offered at the city's high schools.

Lastly, all voters in the city, from the 18-year-old voting for the first time to the senior citizens who have lived their lives in Quincy, should be concerned that the Quincy public schools offer each child a quality education. The children in the classrooms today will be the adults running the city in the future. By voting wisely for candidates for School Committee each citizen in the city can help make Quincy the type of community in which the citizen can take pride."

Coloring Contest

Win A '25 Savings Bond

Riley and Reilly Insurance Company is sponsoring a Fire Safety Coloring Contest. Children in the fourth grade at Montclair School designed a four-page coloring book for you. Here's how you enter the contest:

1. Starting at the fold, cut along dotted line below STRAIGHT THROUGH TO PAGE 4.
 2. Color the pictures on pages 1, 2 and 3.
 3. Design your own fire safety picture in the blank on page 4.
- Deadline is Friday, October 24. Grand winner will receive a $25 Savings Bond. Also a winner will be chosen for each grade from kindergarten to the sixth grade and will receive a prize.

Our Four-Point Fire Safety Pact

1. I'll Never Play with matches!

By Bonnie Conroy, 9

2. We'll plan in advance how our family would escape if fire blocked the doors and we will agree to meet at one spot outside.

By Linda Pontes, 9

3. With Mom and Dad, we'll get rid of fire hazards.

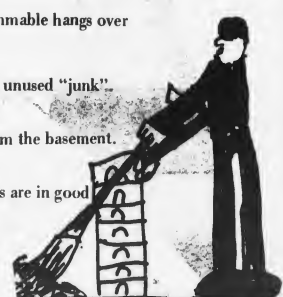

I'll see that nothing flammable hangs over the stove.

We'll check the attic for unused "junk".

I'll clean out rubbish from the basement.

We'll check that all plugs are in good condition.

By Sean Downing, 9 and James Hardin, 9

4. If a fire should start:

I would feel the closed door to see if it's hot. If it is, I would find another way out.

If there were smoke, I would cover my nose and mouth and crawl along the floor to the window.

If the window would not open, I would use a shoe or chair to smash it and put a blanket over the sill.

I would not jump unless I had to. But if I had to, I would jump out boldly.

If my clothes were on fire, I would drop and roll.

"Chief" Billy Kinsella

We visited Mrs. Sullivan's fourth grade at Montclair school for our fire safety issue. The class chose Billy Kinsella as fire chief. They "fired" these questions at him which he answered from the literature the class was studying.

Michelle Miller - Captain Bill, what should I do if there is a fire in my house?

Scream to everyone there is a fire. Get out as fast as you can. Then phone the fire department after you get to a safe place. Dial "O" if you don't know the number.

Sean Downing - Captain Bill, how do I get out if there is fire and smoke everywhere?

If it's hard to breathe, crawl. You'll stay below the worst smoke and gases and you'll have a better chance of getting out.

Word Search

Nancy Kennedy, age 9, has hidden ten fire safety words in this block of letters. Can you find them? They run across, up and down. The words are: fireman, firebox, extinguisher, hose, ax, crowbar, water, ladder, chief, and safety.

A Personal Experience

Be Careful When Cooking

One day my mother was cooking spaghetti for dinner. When she was straining it the handle slipped and all the boiling water fell all over her leg and burned it. She put her leg in the bath tub with cold water and ten minutes later she went to the doctor. He told her not to walk on it. My Grandmother had to come 175 miles on the train to our house in Dalton. She had to stay for one week. My mother had a blister from her knee to her ankle and it was filled with water. And when she was better, she was my good old mother again.

By Bonnie Conroy, 9

Should You Do If . . . ?

Susan Brooks - Captain Bill, what are some fire safety rules for camping?

Never use candles or matches in or near a tent. Use flashlights. Never use gasoline on a campfire. Explosions can result. Ask your parents to make sure your tent is flame-retardant.

James Hardin - Captain Bill, should electric wires run under rugs?

No. People walking on them can break them open. And the electricity can start a fire. Electric wires should be where you can see them.

Nancy Kennedy - Captain Bill, what if you know of an elderly person who smokes in bed?

You should tell that person that most victims of fire while smoking in bed were certain they wouldn't fall asleep, but they did.

David D'Angelo - What should you do if your clothes catch on fire?

You should drop down and roll wherever you are. The rolling will put out the fire and help save your skin. [David drew a picture how to do this elsewhere on this page.]

John Lydon Candidate For State Representative

Ward 3 Councillor John J. Lydon Jr., announces his candidacy for the recently vacated representative's seat of the Fourth Norfolk District.

Lydon, a registered

Democrat, said he will run as an Independent.

Lydon said his decision was the result of "many long hours of thought and contemplation."

"One does not make a decision such as this lightly", he said.

He said the reasons for his departure from the party were not philosophical but rather electoral.

"I have, throughout my life endorsed and fought for the goals of the Democratic Party. I do not intend to stop. Philosophically, I am and will continue to be a Democrat."

"I have committed myself to this decision, because I feel it is right. It is the only manner in which the people of the neighborhoods will have an opportunity to make a clear choice."

Lydon said the field of candidates is "muddled". There is no clear choice for the voters because of the entrance of so many candidates, he explained.

"The only manner in which two or three major candidates can run head to head in the final election, is by one of us changing our party registration to Independent."

"I felt that the decision was in my hands. It was not an easy decision to make, but I have made it and am committed to it."

"It has become fashionable for public officials to advocate austerity and budget cutting. These measures are certainly admirable actions, which stem from the very roots of the old American work ethic. However, I feel that the disproportionate increase in the cost of government is only a symptom of something far deeper."

"Austerity is certainly needed, but I would go one step further to advocate a bureaucratic reorganization and zero based budgeting."

Concerning taxes, Lydon said that the institution and escalation of various tax measures, such as the latest move to 100 percent evaluation and the more recent move to increase the sales tax are basically regressive.

"In a relative sense, these forms of taxation cause the lower and middle income groups to pay a proportionately higher percentage of the state costs," he said.

"I can understand inflation and the increased demand causing higher costs in government, but I do not believe that the proposed forms of taxation can fairly distribute the financial load throughout society."

"I do propose that we re-evaluate our present tax policy and look toward the graduated income tax structure. Through this manner we can more equitably distribute the costs of government."

"Lastly, but I must add, certainly not the least important of topics is the abortion issue. I firmly believe that the former representative from this area has performed a most admirable job in this area of anti-abortion legislation."

"It would be my intent to continue his fight."

Santa Fareri State Representative Candidate

Santa Fareri of 7 Welgate Circle, Wollaston, has announced her candidacy for state representative in the Fourth Norfolk District.

A vacancy was created recently by the appointment of William Delahunt as Norfolk County District Attorney.

Fareri, a life-long resident of Quincy, attended Quincy public schools, is a graduate of North Quincy High School, Quincy Junior College and attended Curry College.

Involved in student government in college, she served as political secretary and aid to Congressman John J. Moakley. She was director of public relations for the Kidney Foundation of Massachusetts, and worked for Atty. Gen. Francis X. Bellotti in his successful bid for office last fall.

As a homeowner and taxpayer, she said: "In these days of critical and financial restrictions that effect every homeowner and taxpayer, I firmly believe that the elective position of state representative must be a full time occupation to achieve responsible representation."

Aquinas Acting President On N.E. Business Educators Board

Sister Mary Louise Morgan is serving as an executive board member of the New England Business Educators Association.

At a recent meeting of the officers and directors which was held at New Hampshire College, Manchester, N.H., plans were made for the annual fall convention of the association which will be held on Saturday, Nov. 8, at New Hampshire College, Manchester, N.H. Theme of this year's convention will be "Business Education in Focus". Many well-known business educators have accepted invitations to participate in section meetings.

Sister Mary Louise Morgan, CSJ, acting president of Aquinas Junior College also served as an officer and is a member of the Epsilon Chapter of Delta Pi Epsilon; Boston University; National Business Education Association, and Massachusetts Association of Business Schools.

Comer Due Back Today

American Legion State Commander John P. Comer of Quincy is scheduled to return today [Thursday] from a four-day national conference between state commanders and adjutants held in Indianapolis, Ind.

Purpose of the annual conference is to plan nationwide programs and activities for the coming year.

Commanders and adjutants first met Saturday in Kansas City, Kansas to attend Homecoming Day for national commander Harry Wiles.

The conference began Sunday and continued through Wednesday.

Commissioners Seek Emergency Access To New Wollaston Golf Course

Norfolk County Commissioners have filed application with the Massachusetts Department of Public Works for a curb cut on Granite St. to create an emergency access to the new Wollaston Golf Course.

The announcement was made at a recent meeting of the Quincy Citizens Association [QCA] which had complained the new course was accessible only through local streets.

In other Association business, Mrs. Arthur Cripauk of 113 Franklin Ave., Wollaston, was named chairwoman of the nominating committee which will bring a slate of officers before the Nov. 5 meeting. The annual meeting and election of officers will take place Dec. 3 at the Montclair Men's Club.

Association President

Pasquale DiStefano reported the wording of the 10-story height limit question to appear on the Nov. 4 ballot will soon be decided in a joint meeting of the Board of Voting Registrars, City Solicitor Richard McCormick and Association Atty. Peter Macdonald.

Laurence Curtin will head the committee publicizing the QCA's stand on the 10-story height limit question.

Economic Problems City's Most Serious Says Davis

Harold Davis, candidate for city councillor at-large, says the most serious problems affecting Quincy are economic in nature.

Speaking at a coffee hour at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph P. Ryan, 263 South Central Ave., Wollaston, Davis cited the city's 16 percent unemployment rate, property tax, and high cost of living as being uppermost in the voter's mind.

"I think that in the area of employment much can be done by the city to attract new jobs and fill existing ones in Quincy," he said. "Across America, there are towns which, despite their locations in depressed regions, have bucked the tide and have developed effective job development programs."

"Instead of always looking to Boston or Washington for solutions to our problems, we can take many steps locally to alleviate our economic problems."

Davis said, that in his opinion, Quincy needed a first rate research and development park to retain and attract job producing enterprises.

"At present, there really isn't a piece of developed industrial land being actively promoted today," he said. "As a consequence, we have lost businesses to regions with available land."

Davis stressed that he believed Quincy's long term future to be bright because of its proximity to Boston and skilled work force.

Wollaston Legion Post, Auxiliary To Install Friday

Officers of the Wollaston Legion Post and Women's Auxiliary will be installed Friday at joint ceremonies to be held at the Post Home, 36 Weston Ave.

The Auxiliary officers will be installed at 8 p.m. with Norfolk County Director Mrs. Yvette Brown officiating with her installing suite. Officers for the 1975-76 year are:

Mrs. Bryant Carter, president; Mrs. Florence Jackson, senior vice president; Mrs. Louise Rhoda, junior vice president; Mrs. Verna Kinneburgh, secretary; Mrs. Helen Shea, treasurer; Mrs. Ethel Zink, chaplain; Mrs. Leona Bailey, historian; and Mrs. Shirley Senter, sergeant-at-arms.

Executive Board members are Mrs. Lois Deware, Mrs. Mabel Ellis, Mrs. Margaret Holmes, Mrs. Margret Humphrey and Mrs. Gertrude Lemieux, past junior president.

Norfolk County Commander Charles Wade and suite will officiate at ceremonies installing Post officer. Among those inducted into office will be:

Merwin A. Seymour, commander; Kenneth Riggs, senior vice commander; J. William LeClair, junior vice commander; Frederick Flores, finance officer; Rev. Frank J. Bauer, chaplain; Kenneth Taft, historian; Eugene Hultman, Americanism; Robert Halm, personnel; and Robert Deware, past commander, graves registration.

Atty. Thomas Barron United Way Quincy Chairman

Atty. Thomas M. Barron of 48 Summit Ave., Wollaston has been appointed Quincy Chairman of the United Way of Massachusetts Bay campaign.

A graduate of Boston College,

Suffolk Law School, and New England Law School, Barron is a member of the Massachusetts Bar Association, the Quincy Bar Association and the Quincy Council of the Knights of Columbus. He served in the U.S. Air Force from 1961-1962 and is listed in the 1975 "Who's Who in Massachusetts."

Barron and his wife have six children - twin daughters and four sons.

2 Nursing Home Patients Take Para-Tour Trip

Two residents of the Friel Nursing Home, Beach St., Wollaston, recently toured Boston in an afternoon excursion.

Arranged through Donald S. Gagne, director of Para-Tours, Inc., and Roseen Gustafson, activities director at the Home, the trip took Mrs. Jennie Goelet and Miss Ella Cain to the New England Aquarium and on a ride through Boston.

Blue Hill Girl Scouts Seeks Volunteer Leaders

The Blue Hill Girl Scout Council, Inc., serving Quincy and 18 other area communities, is seeking volunteer leaders to head scout troops.

Names of many interested girls are relegated to waiting lists due to the lack of leaders, the council noted.

The Council will train people interested in becoming a Girl Scout leader and noted that anyone - male or female - can volunteer to lead a troop - a professional, craftsperson, senior citizen, student or housewife. One need not have a daughter in Girl Scouts to volunteer.

Anyone wishing to volunteer should contact the Blue Hill Council, 57 Revere Rd, Quincy at 472-5960.

20 Oven-Proof Pieces

'Spirit Of '76 Stoneware' Collection Available At Colonial Federal

Area residents will have a chance to begin bringing a bit of authentic Bicentennial charm and beauty into their homes when Colonial Federal Savings makes available a handsome 20-piece collection of fine Early American Stoneware.

"The Spirit of '76 Stoneware collection is presented to commemorate our nation's 200th birthday," said Philip J. Lawrence, manager of the Quincy office.

Customers of the bank will be able to build their own collection of beautiful hand-finished stoneware mugs, cups, canisters, bean pots and casserole dishes by coming to Colonial Federal and making certain recommended deposits which enable them to take home items for a minimal cost, or in some cases, for free.

"These are magnificently handsome pieces," Lawrence said. "They're oven-proof and dishwasher-safe, and every one of them - right down to the salt and pepper shakers - is hand finished, so no two are exactly alike. They're beautiful to use, to collect or to display.

The collection of Spirit of '76 Stoneware is fashioned from native clays at the famous Nelson McCoy Pottery Works in Roweville, Ohio. The gleaming two-tone brown and beige pieces are decorated with a colorful flag and eagle design on the front, and all are so richly finished they look as if they could have been created in 1776 instead of 1975.

The entire 20-piece collection is as practical as it is beautiful. All items are oven-proof, freezer-safe and dishwasher proof. Bean pots and casserole dishes can go from freezer to oven right to table.

Additional information on the Spirit of '76 Stoneware collection is available at all three Colonial Federal Savings offices, 15 Beach St., Wollaston, 802 South Franklin St., Holbrook and Cranberry Plaza, Wareham.

Aaron Spencer Elected To Metrobank Board

Marvin A. Gordon, chairman of the Board of Metrobank, announces the election of Aaron Spencer to its Board of Directors.

Metrobank is the Norfolk County banking affiliate of UST Corp., the New England based Financial Service Center.

Metrobank has offices in Milton, Quincy and Braintree.

Spencer is President of International Food Service Company in West Roxbury and since 1966 he has been the principal owner and manager of thirty three Kentucky Fried Chicken units.

Quincy Savings Bank Adopts New Symbol

Along with Massachusetts' 166 other savings banks, the Quincy Savings Bank has recently adopted a new symbol to represent their business.

With a figure of a person and a dollar sign in the center of the seal, the design represents the goal of savings banks to help people with savings, loans, and money management. In Massachusetts, nearly $16 billion is held in more than four million savings accounts.

In its official version, the symbol will serve as the seal for the Savings Bank Association of Massachusetts.

People live in homes, shop, work and earn their incomes, go to school, and worship in buildings financed by $11.6 billion invested in mortgage loans by Massachusetts savings banks - loans that help people, made possible by the savings of people, and people have a total of $2 billion of Savings Bank Life Insurance Protection.

In its official version, as the seal of the Savings Banks Association of Massachusetts to which each savings bank belongs, the new symbol will carry the legend "Massachusetts Savings Banks - All Deposits Insured in NEW BANK SYMBOL - Don Almeida, downtown branch manager of Quincy Savings Bank, adheres a new state-wide symbol on the bank's window at 1372 Hancock St. The symbol was recently adopted by all 167 savings banks in Massachusetts.

Full", to emphasize the fact that whatever amount is on deposit in a savings account, including all dividend additions, is insured in full without limitation.

All savings banks in Massachusetts are "mutual institutions", which means that there are no stockholders to share earnings; only people saving money which is loaned primarily to people, or to organizations that help people.

Direct Deposit S.S. Checks

At 1000 S.A. Quincy Bank Branch

The 1000 Southern Artery branch of the Quincy Bank will be open today (Thursday) and Friday from 12 noon to 3 p.m. to give residents an opportunity to register for direct deposit of social security and other government checks.

Beginning next week, the branch will be open Monday, Wednesday and Friday from 12 noon to 3 p.m., ending the 30-day trial period when the new branch was open Monday through Friday.

Monday, Oct. 13 is a holiday and the branch will be closed.

The branch will now also be open the third of every month. If this day falls on a Saturday, Sunday or holiday, the bank will be open on the nearest business day.

Howard Johnson's Moves Last Office To Braintree

The move of the personnel offices of the Howard Johnson Company from Wollaston to Braintree recently, marked the end of an era.

Wollaston was the location for the chain's main headquarters for more than 40 years. Ten years ago, the first group of departments moved into the Forbes Rd, Braintree office buildings and within the next few years, all departments had vacated the Beale St. offices with the exception of the personnel department which remained at 299 Newport Ave.

Now the candy and syrup plant is the only Howard Johnson facility remaining in Wollaston on Old Colony Ave.

As the company celebrates its golden anniversary, it also ends 50 years of Johnson employees hustling and bustling up and down the famous Beale St.-Newport Ave. block.

The name of Wollaston will, however, be eternally emblazoned in the nation's history as the place where it all began - "Howard Johnson's, the Flavor of America".

$700,000 Improvements Project Underway In Southwest Quincy

on-going in Houghs Neck and Atlantic.

The $1,050,000 project in Houghs Neck represents $550,000 in bond issue and $500,000 in federal grant funds. A 13-member citizen committee formed several months ago consists of three sub-committees which deal with loans and grants, finances and public works.

In Atlantic, a $35,000 Self-Help program largely initiated by the Atlantic Neighborhood Association provides for exterior house painting and minor repairs to individuals meeting certain guidelines. CETA program employees provide the labor for the program.

All three community development projects as well as other city-wide improvements were financed through a $1 million HUD grant and a $2 million bond issue sponsored by Hannon.

Commenting on the on-going revitalization in three Quincy neighborhoods, Hannon said:

"Our neighborhoods are our single most important community asset. Their strength and vitality are essential to the health of our city. As with any valued asset, they must never become the victims of neglect."

Driscoll hailed the development projects as a chance for area residents to take an active part in decision-making which will affect their neighborhood. He said:

"These programs represent the first time we've gone to the neighborhoods to get input before major decisions have been made. This has and will insure that citizens have a strong voice in programs that will affect them."

Dr. Mahoney Urges Immunization Of Pre-Schoolers

Quincy Health Commissioner Dr. Alfred V. Mahoney urges parents of pre-schoolers to join in the state-wide "Immunization Action Month" to protect their youngsters against needless childhood diseases.

Gov. Dukakis has proclaimed October as "Immunization Action Month", urging parents and guardians to contact family physicians or health care facilities for immunizations against polio, measles, mumps, rubella (German measles), diphtheria, tetanus and pertussis (whooping cough).

Urging cooperation in this state-wide effort, Dr. Mahoney reminded parents of on-going hours for child health clinics throughout the city.

'Operation Speed Watch' To Be Expanded In West Quincy

Operation Speed Watch will be expanded to four other West Quincy streets and the program will begin to include speed traps in certain areas at designated times throughout the day.

Ward 4 Councillor James A. Sheets, initiator of the program, said Operation Speed Watch will begin on Bates Ave., Grove St., Plymouth Ave. and Governor's Rd in West Quincy. He said he will soon be requesting the Quincy Police Department to enforce speed traps in certain areas.

Under the program, volunteer area residents monitor West Quincy streets, watching for speeders and reckless drivers, noting the times the violations occur and calling them in to Sheets' office.

Sheets said the program has been so successful in many areas that other West Quincy residents have requested their streets be included in the operation.

Sheets noted some 40 per cent of all cars identified to date come from outside Quincy. The councillor said:

"These people must learn to respect our speed laws and protect our children. Our streets must not be speedways."

Council Studies Referendum Questions

The City Council was scheduled to review Tuesday the three referendum questions expected to be included on the Nov. 4 city election ballot.

Senator-City Council President Arthur H. Tobin recessed Monday's meeting until 5:45 p.m. Tuesday to allow full council consideration of the three questions. Three of the nine councillors were absent from Monday's meeting.

Two questions relate to proposed building height limitations and the other asks if beano licenses should be granted in Quincy.

An initiative petition presented by the Quincy Citizens Association would establish a maximum building height limitation of 10 stories on any future structure in the city, regardless of other zoning requirements.

The council's proposed height limitation would require an ordinance change to permit buildings in excess of eight stories, only upon the affirmative recommendation of the planning board and issuance of a special City Council permit.

Work To Start On Capen Bridge This Month

State DPW Commissioner John J. Carroll announces the contract to replace the already closed Capen Circle Bridge in Braintree has been advertised for bids.

Work will commence on this bridge deck replacement project in late October and repairs, weather permitting, will be completed late in December, 1975.

● Cross Country North Wins 2 More, Quincy Edged

Bart Petracca continues unbeaten in cross country and last week paced North Quincy to a 17-42 win over Rindge Tech in a Suburban League meet, the Raiders' second win in three league meets.

North also blanked Milton Academy, 15-45, in a non-league meet.

Following Petracca against Rindge were Mike Morin, second; Marty Levenson, third; Bob Levenson, fifth; Ken O'Brien, sixth; Jim Gavan, seventh, and Jerry Keys, 10th. Quincy dropped another squeaker, this time to Weymouth South, 28-30, in a league meet, despite the Presidents' John Saville winning the meet.

Other Quincy scorers were Bob Thorne, third; Kevin O'Brien, fourth, and Dave Raftery, 10th.

North will host Weymouth South and Quincy will be home to Waltham Friday over the Quincy course. Next Wednesday it will be Weymouth North at North Quincy and Quincy at Cambridge Latin.

The Quincy girls were defeated by Weymouth South, 19-43. Paula Conostas of Quincy was second, Dottie Irvine was eighth and Ellen Caraminca 10th.

Blue Hill Girl Scouts Cadette Olympics Oct. 13

The Blue Hill Girl Scout Council will sponsor its second Cadette Olympics Monday, Oct. 13 at Randolph High School.

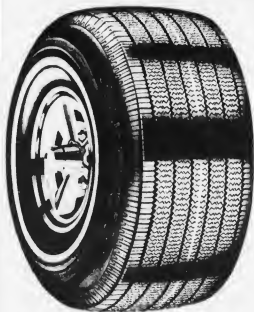

The program gives junior high school girls a chance to demonstrate athletic prowess. All registered Blue Hill Council Cadettes - whether currently meeting with a troop or not - can enter the olympics. Fee is one dollar.

Scheduled pool, track and field events include the 50 and 100-yard dash, the 220 and 440-foot relay, standing broad jump, softball throw, running broad jump, basketball throw, three-legged race, obstacle course, 50-yard back stroke, 50-yard breast stroke, a free-style relay, a medley, 50-yard butterfly stroke and water polo.

Interested Cadettes are asked to contact the Council office at 57 Rever Rd., Quincy.

Raiders, Everett Clash In Game Of Week

By TOM SULLIVAN

Saturday's North Quincy-Everett football game at Veterans Memorial Stadium could be the game of the week with two unbeaten, high scoring teams facing each other in a 1:30 non-league game.

North continued to make Dave Burke's first year as coach a successful one last week with a 30-7 romp at Weymouth North, in its Suburban league opener, while Everett paraded over Somerville, 30-6, in a Greater Boston League game.

Burke's Raiders previously had defeated Milton, 27-0, and Malden, 25-6, in non-league affairs, while Everett topped B. C. High, 34-6, in a non-leaguer, and squeezed by Haverhill, 14-12, in the league.

North and Everett are former GBL rivals. Last year, after the Raiders moved to the Suburban League, they topped the Crimson Tide, 20-16.

"This will be a toughie for us, as Everett again is much bigger than we are and, according to reports, have a really outstanding team," Burke said.

Assistant Ted Sadowski, who scouted Everett last week against Somerville, said, "They aren't only big but play awfully rough and we could be in for a tough afternoon."

Last week Weymouth keyed on North's Brian Doherty, who had gained 164 yards and scored all four touchdowns against Malden, so Matty Constantino had his best day of the season. He scored twice and gained 97 yards, while Doherty still managed to pick up 85 yards and scored once. He also caught Weymouth by surprise and threw a touchdown pass to Cooper Jordan. Mike Adams, junior halfback, added 41 yards rushing.

North's defense continued to be brilliant. The only Weymouth touchdown came after a penalty following a punt had given it the ball on North Quincy's 20. The only other Weymouth threat ended when North forced a fumble on its one-yard line.

The coaches agreed every one on the defensive unit was outstanding, but among those singled out were Ed McElaney, Danny Noonan, Pete Hemphill, line backers John McKenna, Frank Strazzula and John Desmond and cornerman Dick Kennedy.

"These boys and all the other defensive players have done a terrific job all year and deserve an awful lot of credit," assistant coach Ken McPhee said. "Weymouth, which outweighed us by plenty, couldn't move the ball at all in the second half."

Offensive Coach Tom Fitzgerald praised Constantino, who did some more fine blocking as well as running;

Doherty and Adams, and also had good words for quarterback Mike Holleran.

"We bogged down a bit in the first half [North led only 8-7 at halftime], but after a few adjustments, we rolled in the second half," Fitzgerald said.

Burke was naturally happy at his third straight win, but was disappointed at North's many penalties. "We have been getting hit with too many and it is hurting us," he said. "The boys have to gain more composure. Of course, we have a lot of green players in the offensive line and they will improve as time goes on. But, we have moved the ball well in all games and the defense has been tremendous."

Another highlight was the continued fine punting of McElaney, who also kicked two more extra points.

Dick Meyer, who coaches the defense along with McPhee, was also tickled with the work of the defensive unit, which has stood out in all three victories.

Weymouth drew first blood with a second period touchdown scored by Ed Moore. Ollie Cavallo kicked the point.

North bounced back and took the lead when Doherty, on a halfback option, surprised Weymouth and passed to Jordan for 25 yards and a touchdown. Constantino rushed for the go-ahead points.

In the third period Constantino scored from three yards out and McElaney kicked the point.

North salted the game away with two more touchdowns in the final period. Doherty sped from the seven and Holleran rushed for the points, and

Constantino scored the final TD, McElaney kicking the point. Sadowski's North sophomores defeated Brockton last week for their second win in a row.

Presidents Must Find Offense At Waltham

Quincy's football team, which has exhibited virtually no offense in the past two games, still came up with two wins.

But if the Presidents can't get an attack rolling Saturday to go with its outstanding defense, they face a tough assignment at Waltham when they play their first Suburban League game of the season at 1:30 p.m.

Two weeks ago, following an opening day 22-14 loss at Dedham in which the offense did well in the second half, Quincy squeezed by Weymouth South, 7-6.

Last Saturday, with the defense again shining but the offense sputtering badly, the Presidents nipped Revere by the same score.

In each game Quincy had a 7-0 lead thanks to Mike Murray kicking the extra points. The opposition both times had passes deflected in the tries for the winning points.

Waltham, victim of a stunning Quincy win last year, its only loss which knocked it out of the Superbowl, topped Norwood, 20-14, in its non-league opener, but was defeated last week by Brookline, 14-7, in a league game.

"The defense did it again, that's for sure," Coach Hank Conroy said. "We just can't seem to get a consistent attack rolling and, unless we do, we could be in for a long afternoon at Waltham. They will be gunning for us after that last minute [21-20] loss to us last year.

"We had some good players missing from our offensive lineup, which didn't help. Steve Coleman, our outstanding tackle, was out of the game as was his backup man, Pat Foley. We had to use Mike Murray at offensive tackle for the first time and he did well. Frank Guest, our quarterback, didn't practice all week due to an injury, so I started Mark Buchanan at quarter, but he was unable to move us and I put Guest back in. Frank has had his troubles but he is a take charge guy and really puts out. So, we had some boys playing at spots they never have played before."

Defensive coach John Skladany, a newcomer to the staff this fall, said, "The whole defensive team was outstanding. They have a lot of spirit and give 100 percent."

Skladany hailed the play of Paul Ferris, who came up with big defensive plays again; cornerman Larry Calley, interior lineman Bill Popsie, John Riggs, who had a pass interception and recovered a fumble; Rich Hockings, Frank McNeill, Tony Spadorcia, who came up with a key play, spilling a Revere back for a big loss, and Tony DiRocco.

Paul Vespaziani, Tony Cedrone and Buchanan gained most of what little ground Quincy had on the ground.

Revere didn't have a first down until there was 3:16 left in the third period, while Quincy had only one in the second half.

Quincy got a big break right at the start when Revere fumbled on a fourth down punt attempt and Quincy had the ball on the Revere 32 but was pushed back to its 36.

Briggs soon got the ball back with a fumble recovery on the Revere 44 but again Quincy couldn't move.

Quincy finally capitalized late in the half when Riggs intercepted a pass and returned it to the Revere 27. With just 16 seconds remaining in the half Guest scored on a quarterback sneak and for the second week in a row Murray kicked what proved to be the winning point.

The defenses continued to be the key in the second half. Revere drove to Quincy's 18 after the recovery of a Quincy fumble on the 34. The threat was stopped when Quincy's Steve Anderson fell on a fumble on his 15.

Revere drove to its touchdown late in the game after Ken LaMalfa intercepted a deflected Quincy pass on the Presidents' 34.

ONE OF QUINCY'S top defensive players this season is Anthony DiRocco, who here goes down after a key pass interception in the Presidents' 7-6 win over Revere.

With 47 seconds remaining in the game, Mario Potito, on a broken play, spotted John Festa in the end zone and threw the TD pass. As in the game the previous week, a pass for the winning points was deflected, clinching the win for Quincy.

Quincy had a net of only 57 yards rushing to 83 for Revere. The Presidents added only 36 yards through the air on two for seven, with two interceptions. Revere gained only 22 with two for six and one interception. Quincy had seven first downs, Revere four.

The Quincy sophomores continued to roll last week under new coach Pete Chella as they defeated Scituate, 21-14, and Weymouth South, 14-0, to run their record to 3-0.

Quincy Girls A Team Edged By Saugus, 6-5

The Quincy Girls A team was nipped by Saugus, 6-5, in a league game at the Town Line Twin Rinks in Danvers for its first loss of the season.

Sunday the Quincy girls will play Melrose in a 4:30 game.

Saugus scored first but Terry Flynn quickly tied it up for Quincy, with Mary Ellen Riordan assisting. Saugus took a 2-1 lead later in the opening period.

In the second period Quincy dominated with three goals for a 4-2 lead going into the finale. Riordan scored with an assist for Flynn and Flynn and Lisa Norling added unassisted goals.

Saugus came on strong in the third period and scored three times to take a 5-4 lead. Shawn O'Leary tied it for Quincy, assisted by Flynn, but Saugus scored the clincher with one minute to play.

Bantam B's Bow To Scituate A's, 5-2

The Bantam B team was defeated by Scituate's A team, 5-2, with John Mullin and Mike Edwards scoring the goals and Robbie Craig, Danny Sullivan and Tom Jo Connolly having assists.

In a non-league game the B team defeated Weymouth B's, 5-1, with Bobby Currier, Robbie Craig, Mike Edwards, George Mackey and Chickie Milford having the goals. Mackey had two assists, Danny Sullivan two and Milford, Edwards, Craig and Mullin one apiece.

Bantam C's Top Abington, 4-2

The Bantam C team toppled Abington, 4-2, with Fran Straughn having two goals and Mark Rooney and Chris Erickson one each. Sean Dennis contributed two assists and Warren Hassey and Paul Dunphy one apiece.

North Paces League, Quincy Close Behind

North Quincy's soccer team, which finished second in the Suburban League with a 14-2-2 record a year ago, leads the league with a 5-1 mark following last Friday's 3-2 win over Rindge Tech.

Quincy, hoping to better its 8-8-2 record of last year, is right behind with a 4-2-1 record after bowing to Newton, 4-0, the same day.

North hosts Cambridge Latin Friday at Montclair Field and goes to Brockton next Wednesday. Quincy goes to Rindge Tech Friday and is home to Weymouth South Wednesday.

Peter Donovan scored all the goals in the Raiders' win over Rindge Tech, two of them coming on penalty kicks. His other one was unassisted.

Quincy, according to Coach Ron Martin, "just wasn't aggressive enough against Newton."

Earlier in the week Quincy topped Weymouth North, 2-1, on goals by Bob Barras and Joe McEachern. McEachern and Glenn Schlager had assists.

North blanked the Presidents, 2-0, on goals by Kevin O'Neil and Jim McGinley and assists for Donovan and Jim Smith. Tony Alessi had eight saves in the North goal.

Point Panthers Win Second In Row

The Quincy Point Panthers defeated St. Gregory's Raiders, 24-0, in the Quincy Youth Football League Sunday at Veterans Memorial Stadium for their second win in a row.

Ronnie Cross, Mike Trubiano and Mike Ford scored the touchdowns and quarterback Bob Howlett threw conversion passes to Frank Battistone and Mark Jennette.

Coach Frank Brillo praised the defensive performances of Steve Cacciatore and Jimmy Travers.

North Girls Have Promising Runners

Girls' cross country is in its second year at North Quincy High and Coach Lou Tozzi has several promising runners.

Lou is being assisted by one of his former standouts, Mark Canavan, last spring's New England half mile champion.

"The girls were 3-3 last year and the highlights were a win over Quincy and a third place finish in the Suburban League championships," said Tozzi, who coaches the girls along with his boys' team.

"The squad is very young and inexperienced, but very willing. They lost their first meet to Brockton's powerhouse but breezed over Brookline."

The tri-captains are Christine Bonoli, a veteran of cross country and spring track; Mary Gallagher, also a harrier veteran, and Maureen Tracey, a veteran of both cross country and spring track. They are the only seniors on the squad.

"They are hardworking girls and provide the type of leadership we feel is needed at this stage of the program," Tozzi said.

Other top runners are Suzanne Yee, a junior; Debbie Brennan, Debbie Farren, a veteran and potentially a fine runner; Mary Morrong, Cherie Martinelli, Judy Malloy, the first finisher against Brockton who could be one of the best in the league in time; Joan Petkun and Michelle Seltzer, a veteran. All these girls are sophomores.

Freshman Debbie Coutts has been the biggest surprise and, despite no experience, was the first North finisher against Brookline and just missed winning the meet. Ann Conley is another fine freshman prospect.

"We are simply trying to build a program for the girls by creating as much interest as possible," Tozzi continued. "The girls have a full schedule and will earn a letter and a jacket, just as the boys do, if they fulfill the team's requirements. We are optimistic."

Second Enrollment Clinic For 'Y'

The Quincy YMCA has scheduled a second enrollment clinic for its Physical Fitness Program for Men Saturday, Oct. 18, at 1 p.m. in the "Y" Auditorium.

William J. Galarneau, chairman of the YMCA Fitness Council said he was encouraged by the turn-out at the Sept. 27 clinic. Galarneau said:

"Fitness is a 'now thing' with men, as well as women. However, most people, as busy as they are, are not as 'fit' as they probably should be. The "Y" offers this 15-week progressive exercise and jogging program for the purpose of body conditioning and cardiovascular improvements for the sedentary man."

The clinic begins at 1 p.m. and will include the following tests: E.K.G., three-minute cardiovascular step test, body measurements, blood pressure, one-minute sit-up, and computations for comparative purposes related to ideal body weight, percentage of fat, and maximum heart rate.

Previous members enrolled in the program must be retested Oct. 18 in order to be readmitted.

Full privilege YMCA membership is necessary. A Medical Clearance Form signed by a family physician and a $10 testing fee is required at the Oct. 18 clinic. Medical clearance forms and membership information is available at the "Y." Main desk, 79 Coddington St., Quincy [479-8500],

Little Loop Opens 22nd Season Saturday

Hanabury Asks To Get Off City Ballot

because City Clerk Gillis - who has already delayed the printing of absentee ballots at the request of Delahunt - says he must and will begin ballot printing Friday in order to meet his deadlines.

As an informal vote of confidence, the City Council passed Monday night an informal, non-binding resolution stating its support of efforts to remove both Delahunt's and Mrs. Hanabury's name from the Nov. 4 ballot and to insert Mrs. McDonnell's name on the same ballot as a contender for city councillor-at-large.

Delahunt had said last week he planned to request a special meeting of the city council a week ago today [Thursday] to seek City Council approval of special legislation drafted by him. Delahunt maintained state house officials told him city council approval was necessary.

But the meeting never transpired because City Solicitor Richard McCormick ruled it would be unconstitutional for the City Council to become involved in regulating elections. McCormick said a formal resolution passed by the City Council and signed by the City

Clerk would constitute "an unlawful act."

"There's no feud going on," said Council President Tobin. "We appreciate Mr. Delahunt's dilemma. But the district attorney certainly would not want the City Council to perform an unlawful act."

According to Tobin, both Senate and House counsel agree with McCormick's ruling.

When the bill is filed, Tobin said it will go immediately to the Rules Committee where signature is needed to report the bill to the Election Laws Committee. Tobin warned that some members of the Rules Committee are now attending a legislative leadership conference in Philadelphia - a factor which could delay the bill's route through the legislature. Tobin said a four-fifths vote is needed to report the bill out.

Tobin said according to normal procedure the bill would then be discussed at a committee hearing, would proceed to both the House and Senate for vote and then on to the Governor's desk for action.

Mrs. Hanabury said she will follow the normal procedure to get her name on the ballot as a candidate for fourth Norfolk District representative. She filed nomination papers at City Hall Tuesday for certification of signatures and said she will meet the Oct. 14 deadline for filing nomination papers with the secretary of state, thus ensuring a place on the Nov. 18 primary ballot.

Delahunt, admitting he never anticipated such roadblocks in removing his name from the ballot, still swears he will not give up. He told The Quincy Sun:

"I never had any idea that it would require all the action that it has. I never anticipated encountering these kinds of problems. But I shall never surrender."

Over 1,000 Expected In Youth Walk Monday

William J. Kaabe of the National Guard and Earl C. Montgomery of the Nickerson Legion Post, Squantum, estimate more than 1,000 walkers will leave the Quincy Armory Monday, Oct. 13 at 9 a.m. to participate in the third annual "Walk For Disadvantaged Youth."

Members of the 26th Yankee

Infantry Division, Massachusetts Army National Guard and members of the Massachusetts American Legion will leave from 72 additional armories and many of the 413 American Legion posts across the state.

Anyone wishing to join the 12-mile walk should contact the National Guard Armory, an American Legion Post, or call 828-7550.

A Unique Partnership

500 Local Businessmen Invited To Day In Court Oct. 30

Some 500 Quincy-South Shore area businessmen, businesswomen and executives will receive this week invitations to attend an Oct. 30 "Day In Court" jointly sponsored by Quincy District Court and the newly-formed South Shore Business Committee.

This businessmen's "Day In Court," designed to introduce a series of proposed projects and court reforms to decrease crime and improve the court system, will also provide an opportunity for businesses to express their concerns about shoplifting, the passing of bad checks, lawsuits and vandalism.

Judge Albert Kramer, presiding justice of Quincy District Court, hailed the meeting as "unprecedented" in this district and said the meeting signals a "partnership" between the courts and the community. He said:

"If there is a theme to this conference it is 'A Better Way' - a better way to run our courts, to deal with crime, to rehabilitate offenders, and to protect the community."

"And that 'better way' cannot be accomplished by the court alone, not by the business community alone, but by a partnership between the two. This court must become a community court to be effective."

Programs which will be introduced and discussed during the Oct. 30 meeting at the Court include:

• The "Earn It 100 Club" in which first offenders would work at area businesses, earning money to pay for property damages.

• Driving safety workshops for juveniles and young adults involved with speeding and driving to endanger offenses.

• Specific scheduling of cases affecting a certain business to facilitate prosecution or recovery of damages.

• Speedier sentencing for those convicted of serious

Time ran out Tuesday for three Quincy politicians struggling to get either on or off the city's final Nov. 4 election ballot.

Absentee ballot printing began Tuesday, ending all hope of correcting the confusing ballot situation brewing in Quincy over the past three weeks.

District Atty. William D. Delahunt and Mrs. Marilyn Hanabury - who announced last week her candidacy for the Fourth Norfolk District state representative's seat vacated by Delahunt's appointment as district attorney - will both be pseudo-candidates in the city's final election - Delahunt in the councillor-at-large race and Mrs. Hanabury in the Ward 5 council bid.

Mrs. Helen McDonnell, nosed out of the at-large nomination by Delahunt's whopping 'courtesy vote', accused "the Quincy political machine" of trying to shut her out of office. She told the Quincy Sun:

"If I am refused the privilege of having my name placed on the ballot and if a man who does not want to serve is elected, there will have to be another election or an appointment. My question is, who will be chosen and why? And is this a scheme to perpetuate the power machine in this city?"

Last week, Senator-City Council President Arthur H. Tobin filed on Delahunt's behalf special legislation to strike the district attorney's name from the ballot. Included in that legislation were provisions to add Mrs. McDonnell's name to the city ballot and to remove Mrs. Hanabury's name from the Ward 5 race.

... And More Confusion

2 Blank Ballots For Special State Primary

Quincy, fast becoming the land of confusing elections, will present voters not only a muddled final city ballot but a baffling state primary ballot as well.

Happily, none of the five Democrats and three Independents filing proper nomination papers for the vacant seat of Fourth Norfolk District state representative, Edward Revell, assistant to the supervisor in the state's election office, said a blank Republican ballot will be printed for write-in and sticker candidates.

And a blank American Party ballot will also be printed, allowing Jose Higuera, an announced candidate whose name cannot legally appear on the primary ballot, to conduct a sticker campaign instead.

Meanwhile, the city began printing absentee ballots Tuesday, ending the fight of District Atty. William Delahunt and Marilyn Hanabury to strike their names from the Nov. 4 city final election ballot.

Delahunt will be an unwilling "candidate" for a city council at-large seat and Mrs. Hanabury, who has filed nomination papers to seek the state representative's seat vacated by Delahunt's appointment as district attorney, will be a reluctant "candidate" in the Ward 5 city councillor race.

One of these five will then face the three Independent candidates or any sticker candidates in the Dec. 16 state final. The Independent candidates are Santa C. Fareri of 7 Welgate Circle, Marilyn Hanabury of 2 Old Colony Ave., and Ward 3 Councillor John J. Lydon of 468 Beale St., all of Wollaston.

Higuera, a former Democrat, filed to change his political affiliation to the American Party Oct. 2. But the General Laws of Massachusetts, according to a

Sheets Seeks Business Growth Controls In W. Quincy Section

Ward 4 Councillor James A. Sheets has requested the city's planning department to recommend steps to control growth and expansion of certain businesses located along a West Quincy section of Adams St.

Sheets said expansion of certain businesses between Alrick Rd and Wallace Rd, West Quincy will "increase the hazardous conditions to both pedestrians and vehicular traffic in the area."

He said inadequate parking facilities at some businesses creates "heavy congestion" at certain points - congestion which would only be aggravated, he said, with added expansion of certain businesses.

The Councillor requested the planning department to investigate this area along Adams St. and to make appropriate recommendations to control certain business expansion. He emphasized there are "many good businesses" in that area which have adequate parking and do not create problems.

No Vacation In 30 Years

South Quincy Blacksmith Keeps Busy Without Horses

By MARK MCCAIN

Blacksmith Charles F. Jones tackles a 10 or 12 hour workday even on weekends. He's been planning a vacation for more than 30 years, but each time he sets a date, some customer is desperate for a rush order. So he cancels the vacation.

"But kids today are smarter," says the 53-year-old South Quincy blacksmith. Jones' son works with him. But only for 40 hours a week, with occasional overtime.

With three weeks of labor and two tons of steel, Jones constructed Pine Hill Cemetery's imposing 24-foot gate. During spare moments he continued his smaller welding, sharpening and forging jobs.

"A blacksmith is a jack-of-all-trades," says the Quincy native, who operates his shop at his Nightingale Ave. home, "doing a little bit of everything, including repair on almost every darn thing under the sun."

His work can get hot. One or two days a week he fires up his forge. With temperatures exceeding 5000 degrees, the forge softens metal so he can hammer it into custom-designed tools, ornaments, and other hand-hammered pieces. Once as he was chipping slag from a forge tool, a piece of the ore residue landed in his eye. Though it caused no permanent damage, he could "hear it sizzle."

As one of only two blacksmiths in Quincy, Jones "enjoys his trade."

"Though some days I get a little disgusted - everyone has a lousy day once in a while - the next day things brighten up. Blacksmithing makes a good trade."

It was in 1955 after 25 years at a tool shop that Jones decided to move out on his own. Initially he forged only hand tools, then gradually he broke into wrought iron work. Since, he has expanded his ability into most facets of smithing.

In 1971, Jones' 23-year-old son, Roger, began work as his fulltime assistant. "He does a good job," said Jones, "I've had older guys with me who could only do half of what he does."

A recent piece of Roger's was a wrought iron chandelier. "You should have seen it light up when he first plugged it in," he recalls. "He had a short circuit in the plug, and the entire thing, wire and all, just lit right up!"

Because of the high demand, wrought-iron railings are Jones' most common job. Though they are expensive, "the railings are a lifetime thing; not like wood that rots out," says Jones. For ornamental scroll-work on railings, Jones devised his own metal-bending jigs.

"They have a machine that will bend them, he says, "but I can outbend the machine by hand with my jigs - it's faster."

For over a decade Jones had only a small workshop in his home. His smithing bench was outside; he worked there even in blistery sub-zero weather.

"You get used to it," he said, "you keep moving and that keeps your blood circulating."

In 1968 Jones moved his blacksmithing inside, after building himself a large workshop addition to his home. With benches and equipment and material strewn about, the shop now resembles an intriguing obstacle course. But Jones appears to have mastered the course.

Lead Paint Testing Clinic Friday

By MARK McCAIN

Testing for lead-paint poisoning in children will be held Friday from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Kennedy Health Center, Hancock St., Quincy Center.

Conducted by the Quincy Health Department, the clinic will use a simple and effective finger stick test to diagnose lead poisoning, a preventable childhood illness that may cause irreversible damage if undetected and untreated.

Parents are urged by the South Shore Council for Children to bring their children under age six to the test center. Every child tested will receive an autographed picture of Captain Kangaroo, and will be eligible to win a trip to Disney World with three other family members.

Lead poisoning affects children from all ethnic, racial and economic backgrounds. Estimates indicate that more than 20,000 Massachusetts children now have lead poisoning. Mental retardation, cerebral palsy, blindness and even death may result from the poisoning. Since even a healthy-looking child may be poisoned, a lead test is the only way to be certain a child is not sick.

The program is sponsored jointly by the Office for Children, the Dept. of Public Health's Childhood Lead Poisoning Prevention Division and Channel Seven, WNAC-TV. testing day. It is Massachusetts's first For further information call large-scale lead-paint poison 472-4224.

QUESTIONS WOMEN ASK

Career or kitchen — which is better?

By ELEANOR B. RODGERSON, M.D.
Copley News Service

Q. It's hard for me to decide whether I want to be a housewife or have a career. How can I be sure I do the thing that is right for me?

A. I don't suppose you can be absolutely sure.

There is a certain amount of general preparation that every woman ought to have and, as you live, you will gradually settle on what is important for you.

I think it is a mistake to rule one, or the other, role out completely. Develop all your talents so that you have interests to keep you busy and alert at all times.

If you decide on a family, you should realize that its need for you will diminish as the children grow older.

Then you will have opportunities to do something on your own. Many wives worked before marriage and pick up their skills afterwards when the children have "flown the nest," or extra money is required.

Husbands are usually grateful for the help, and their lives may actually be prolonged. Women who have not worked before marriage can find opportunities for training in fields that interest them.

What is right for you will become evident as you prepare yourself and as time passes.

Most women feel incomplete without marriage and pregnancies and children. After all, women were made to reproduce the races.

However, women have many other capabilities and are unhappy, usually, if they don't develop these also. It is not possible to plan every step of your life and expect no deviations. Unforeseen happenings are bound to turn up. Just make the most of whatever is available.

Q. How far ahead of the pregnancy that I want to have someday should I prepare — like no aspirin, no tranquilizers, and so on?

A. Fetuses (unborn babies) in the early weeks of pregnancy are the most susceptible to drugs mothers might be taking. The first six weeks are the most critical in their formation.

A woman may not realize she is pregnant during these early weeks and, consequently, if she is not using contraception, she is wise not to take any drugs on her own at any time.

This advice includes smoking.

It is true that some women take drugs and smoke and have apparently normal babies. Why one fetus is affected and another is not is questionable. Quantity of the drug, timing and the genetic makeup of the individual probably exert influences.

Before you start your pregnancy, it is a good idea to stop taking, or using, for several months, unnecessary substances that could affect your baby.

COOKING CORNER

Homemade bread adds interest to meal

By SUSAN DELIGHT
Copley News Service

Hot homemade bread can add savor faire to an otherwise ordinary meal.

Onion Cheese Muffins are similar to cornbread, yet different enough to be intriguing to the taster. One rule to observe in making the muffins — this is true of all muffins — is mix just long enough to moisten the dry ingredients. Fresh corn is an ingredient in an innovation of an old Southern recipe, spoon bread, a cross between a casserole and a bread. The history of this bread goes back to the first colonists. They adapted a porridge favored by the Indians to their own tastes by adding milk and eggs. According to historians, a cook left this mixture in the oven by mistake and spoon bread evolved.

CORN SPOON BREAD

- 4 ears fresh corn
- 1 quart milk
- 1 cup yellow corn meal
- 2 tablespoons finely chopped onion
- 2 tablespoons chopped
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 2 teaspoons salt
- 1 teaspoon sugar
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- 1/4 teaspoon ground white pepper
- 4 eggs, well beaten

Cut corn kernels from cobs (makes about 2 cups); set aside. Scald milk in top of double boiler. Gradually stir in corn meal, onion and parsley. Cook over simmering water until thickened, INTRIGUING — These onion cheese muffins are given intriguing flavor with crushed corn cereal, sour cream and shredded cheese.

- 1/4 teaspoon onion powder
- 1 egg, slightly beaten
- 3/4 cup milk
- 2 tablespoons vegetable oil
- 2 1/2 cups bite-size cereal
- crispy corn squares crushed to 3/4 cup
- 1/4 cup dairy sour cream
- 1/4 cup shredded process American cheese

Preheat oven to 400 degrees. Grease 12 medium muffin cups. Sauté onion in butter until tender and golden, about five minutes. Set aside. Sift together flour, sugar, baking powder, salt and onion powder. Stir in crushed cereal. Add dry ingredients. Stir only until moistened. Fill muffin cups one-half full. Combine remaining onion with sour cream and shredded cheese. Top each muffin with a rounded teaspoon of cheese mixture. Bake 20-25 minutes or until cheese is browned and crusty. Makes 12 muffins.

ONION CHEESE MUFFINS

- 3/4 cup finely chopped onion
- 1 tablespoon butter or margarine
- 1 cup sifted all-purpose flour
- 1 tablespoon sugar
- 2 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
- 1/2 teaspoon salt

'Farm' quilt made from knit scraps

By BETTY W. KINSER

Dear Betty: Read about the "Fun on the Farm" quilt. Too bad it is out of print. I'd like to encourage her to take a pencil in hand and start sketch-

ing. The drawings are very simple. I made the entire quilt of polyester knit scraps with poly-fiber filling. The quilt was made for my sister who has four granddaughters age three and under. This is to be their "play toy" when visiting grandma's house. A friend here in the southwest made one for her grandsons using Navajo scenes. Your column of shared ideas is really tops. Continued success! — S. Kelly, Tucson

My success would not be possible without readers like you who take time to share. Thank you.

OUR CHILDREN Tell your daughter, but do it gently

By DR. WILLARD
ABRAHAM
Copley News Service

Q. I have a heart-breaking problem, and would appreciate any suggestions you can offer.

I left my husband when my daughter was six weeks old. Now she is nine. Until a year ago he visited her but not very often — maybe once in three or four months, although he lives in a nearby city.

She receives no Christmas or birthday presents, just nothing.

She tells all her friends her father is dead, and that is why he never comes to visit.

I told my little girl that her father is alive, but she doesn't believe me. She is an above-average student, the teachers love her, and we are very close. What can I say to ease her pain?

A. Whenever she raises the question or an appropriate opportunity arises, you might repeat the fact that her father is alive. It would not be comfortable for you to say that he is "too busy" to see her or that he has other children, or to make up other excuses to cover up for him.

Your letter is eloquent evidence of the fact that "child abuse" can be more than a physical hurt. It can cause damage to children that sometimes results in hardness, skepticism, and sometimes even a sense of inferiority about themselves.

I hope he will see your letter printed here or that you will clip it out and send it to him.

Q. My wife doesn't like to cook or sew, and our daughters also dislike such involvements. In fact, they ridicule women who enjoy baking, cooking and sewing.

I come from a home where such skills were considered to be worthwhile, with women taking pride in their homemaking activities.

I really don't want my girls growing up with these negative attitudes. But what can I do?

A. Praise may be helpful, although you'll have to be subtle about it. Whenever they do anything of a feminine nature related to your home, be specific (although sparing) with your compliments. Even if it's something minor like setting the table, bringing a newspaper to you, or showing good taste in color or design of something they wear, let them know how you feel about what they have done.

You might consider extending such compliments to other women too — and it may not be long until they begin to get the idea that it's fun to please a man!

"Women's libbers" may not agree with this approach. They can have "equal time" if they write in.

WEEKEND 'DOWNFALL'

Weekends are the downfall of many people trying to slim down, says Prof. Tom Pilkington of St. George's Hospital medical school, London. That's because it's easier to stick to a diet on weekdays, he explains.

GUARDING YOUR EYESIGHT

Vision may be only one of your five senses, but it's the one most people rely on the most, so it would seem wise to be good to your eyes so that they'll be good to you.

What can you do for your eyes?

1. See an eye care professional at least once every two years if you are between 17 and 40. See him every year if you're younger or older.

2. Always read in sufficient light, evenly diffused to eliminate glare.

3. When reading or working, have more lights on in the room than the one near to you or the contrast could strain your eyes.

4. Avoid shadows on your work. If you're right-handed, have the light come over your left shoulder or vice versa.

5. While reading or working, look up, close your eyes or shift your position occasionally.

250 Expected To Attend 'Woman's Day' Conference

Some 250 South Shore women are expected to attend today's (Thursday's) "Women's Day," a conference aimed at discussing work alternative for women.

Sponsored by the South Shore Chamber of Commerce, the conference began this morning at the Lantana in Randolph with Rep. Margaret Heckler delivering a breakfast speech.

Historical Society In Tribute To Della Chiesa

The Quincy Historical Society has cited former member, the late Amelio Della Chiesa as a "most cooperative and concerned member," devoted and interested in all matters.

In a letter expressing deep sorrow and sympathy to Mrs. Evelyn Della Chiesa, wife of the former Mayor, the Society wrote:

"We are very proud to have had the Honorable Amelio Della Chiesa as a member ever since 1957. He was a most cooperative and concerned member, and, as a public official, he showed his devotion and interest in all matters in which the Society had a deep and vital interest, especially throughout his long terms as mayor of our city which he so loved."

Thursday, Oct. 23 - Spaghetti w/meat sauce, italian string beans, continental style, french bread and butter, cube of cheese, raspberry jello, beverage.

Friday, Oct. 24 - Orange juice, italian pizza w/meat and cheese, bag of potato chips, chocolate cup cake, beverage.

Junior High Lunches

Monday, Oct. 20 - Lemonade, make your own meat ball submarine sandwich, buttered corn, chocolate cake, beverage.

Tuesday, Oct. 21 - Pork cutlet w/gravy, fresh roll, glazed carrots, apple sauce, cole slaw, butter scotch square, beverage.

Wednesday, Oct. 22 - Sliced turkey w/gravy, buttered string beans, cranberry sauce, fresh baked roll, spice cake, beverage.

Thursday, Oct. 23 - Spaghetti w/meat sauce, buttered peas, fresh baked roll, apple turnover, beverage.

Friday, Oct. 24 - Orange juice, italian pizza and cheese cube, bag of potato chips, chocolate chip cookie, beverage.

During the day, speakers, panel discussions and workshops will focus on a range of topics from day care to women in the media. Two afternoon workshops are entitled "Career Planning for the Working Woman" and "Re-Entry Workshop." Carolyn Sammon-Jennings, principal organizer of "Women's Day," said:

"There are many problems and concerns that are common among women who feel they would like to widen their experiences through alternatives to working solely in the home. We believe it is very helpful for these women to come together to gain information and support from each other."

The conference is also open to men.

2-Party System Going Way Of 5-Cent Cigar

By HENRY BOSWORTH

The two-party system in Quincy seems to be a thing of the past. Or did it really ever exist?

The special election for state representative in Quincy's Fourth Norfolk District should convince you if you have any doubts that-at the very least-the two party system is on its way to oblivion.

There are nine candidates for the seat vacated by William Delahunt when he was named Norfolk County district attorney.

Of the nine, five are running as Democrats: Ward 4 Councillor James Sheets, Thomas Dougherty, Atty. Joseph Killion, Herbert Repucci and John Tahan.

Three are making the bid as Independents: Ward 3 Councillor John Lydon, Marilyn Hanabury and Santa Fari.

And one, Jose Higuera is running on the American Party ticket. But, alas, not one single Republican candidate.

It means the only real action in the Nov. 18 primary will be on the Democratic side. The three Independents will not be on the ballot until the Dec. 16 final election.

But a blank Republican ballot will have to be printed despite the fact there are no Republican candidates just in case one decides to run as a write-in. And another blank ballot apparently will be printed for the American Party for write-ins.

The current voter registration figures are further evidence the two-party system in Quincy is going the way of the five-cent cigar and the dime beer.

Quincy's latest compiled figures show a total registration of 46,723. Of these, 27,483 are Democrats, 11,327 Independents and 7,913 Republicans.

It means Quincy has 19,570 more Democrats than Republicans, 16,156 more Democrats than Independents. And, 8,243 more Democrats than Republicans and Independents combined.

If you look back, though, you wonder if Quincy ever really had a two-party system. Up through the early 1950's Quincy had long been a GOP stronghold. In fact, Republicans were parked comfortably in all the state representative and senate seats.

A Democrat back then had about as much chance of winning a state seat in this area as Phyllis Diller becoming Miss America.

The big political names then-all with R's beside them-were Charles Hedges, Amelio Della Chiesa, William Jenness, Carter Lee, Clifton Baker, etc.

Then in the mid-50's came the Democrats: James McIntyre, Charles Shea, George Burke, Joseph Brett, James McCormack. And with them Quincy made a political U-turn. It's been a Democratic fortress since then.

It was a shame when the Republicans so dominated the Democrats not so long ago and it's equally a shame the political shoe is now on the other foot.

A good strong two-party system is healthy. The Democrats overcame it. But will the Republicans be able to come back?

MAYORALTY contenders incumbent Walter Hannon and challenger Joseph LaRaia, have both hit the supermarket campaign route. Wonder how many votes are picked up among the eggs and hamburger?

MILESTONE: Mrs. Agnes Blake, former Quincy resident and Bethany Congregational Church member, recently celebrated her 105th birthday in Pictou, Nova Scotia. According to the Bethany Beacon "she is up and around, enjoys reading and has pleasant memories of her years in Quincy."

PATRICIA TOLAND, who finished a strong No. 2 in the School Committee preliminary race, now has campaign tags which read, ala Avis, "We Try Harder". Has them in both English and Italian.

A WINE AND cheese party fund-raiser for Councillor at-large candidate Paul Harold will be held Sunday from 3 to 6 p.m. at his home, 31 Riverside Ave., Adams Shore. [If the World Series is still going, there'll be several TV sets hooked up.]

HERE'S ONE: Mrs. Ann Gaffey, Quincy's "Mrs. Democrat" is also a rabid Red Sox fan. And, she wouldn't have minded being an Independent for a few minutes Saturday. She was watching the opening game of the World Series on TV and just as the last of the 7th started, the phone rang. A caller wanted to know whether a certain candidate in the city election was a Democrat.

Ann tried to explain that it didn't make any difference because the city election is non-partisan. Well, by the time she got through, the Sox had scored their six runs. And she had to stay up until 11 p.m. to see the replays.

SMILE DEPT: Jack Silverstein, the North Quincy druggist, says he saw a movie that was so bloody it was rated "O".

"Idiot" originally meant a private person, one not engaged in any public office.

Delahunt, Hanabury 'Stuck' On City Ballot

Tobin said the printing of the ballots will make the legislation moot but still pledged to see the bill through the legislature. He said:

"We've tried to co-operate all the way down the line. The bill was going through the Senator Tuesday and was scheduled to be in the House Wednesday. I made a commitment to move this legislation through and I'm going to keep that commitment."

Reiterating his stance he will not accept under any circumstances election to a city council at-large seat, Delahunt flatly told Quincy residents not to vote for him:

"This is incredible," said Delahunt, seeming to succumb to the fact his name will appear on the Nov. 4 city ballot. "All I can do now is keep indicating to the voters, and underlining it again and again, that I am not going to vote for myself, my mother is not going to vote for me, my wife is not going to vote for me. I certainly hope no one else will."

Likewise, Mrs. Hanabury urged Quincy residents not to vote for her as Ward 5 councillor and suggested voters support their present councillor Warren Powers.

"I'm going to campaign for the office of state representative the best I can," said Mrs. Hanabury, "And I hope the city election won't interfere."

Undecided whether to seek higher court action, Mrs. McDonnell said she had been scheduled to appear in Boston Superior Court Tuesday with her lawyer to present a plaintiff's case demonstrating voters wanted her name on the Nov. 4 ballot. She said the appearance was cancelled when her lawyer told her the city solicitor is handling the case. She said:

"I am the seventh candidate in the at-large race and I am being refused the privilege of having my name placed on the ballot because of what I consider is unfair play."

She contended the office of the Notary evaluated her recent papers as "100 per cent perfect" while the city clerk's office called them improperly certified. Mrs. McDonnell withdrew her request for a city-wide recount when City Clerk John Gillis ruled a recount could only be taken in Ward 5.

Mrs. McDonnell said she will decide this week whether or not to seek court action to get her name on the final election ballot.

2 Blank Ballots For Special Primary

state election official, say a certificate of enrollment - a document verifying a candidate's party affiliation - cannot be issued to a person changing his party enrollment within one year prior to the filing of nomination papers. In other words, Higuera must be a member of the American Party one year until he can run for political office as an American party candidate.

Atty. Richard Roeder of the state's election office who cited the law, said Higuera's name will not be officially printed on the primary ballot as an American party candidate.

But Higuera says he will wage a sticker campaign to assure himself a place on the final election ballot.

Higuera says he needs only 10 per cent of the registered American Party voters in the Fourth Norfolk District to land a place on the final ballot.

Asst. City Clerk Thomas Burke said there are no registered American Party voters in Quincy at the present time but noted Higuera will become an official member of the party Oct. 30 - 28 days after he filed to change his affiliation to the American Party.

Higuera, then, will need only one sticker vote - at this time, his own - to assure himself a place on the Dec. 16 final ballot, according to Burke.

Atty. Roeder confirmed Higuera's contention he needs the sticker vote of 10 per cent of the registered American Party voters to be on the final ballot. In this case, the one sticker vote cited by Burke would equal the 10 per cent quoted by Roeder.

A life-long Quincy resident and product of Quincy schools, Higuera decried the two-party system as "fraudulent". He said: "Political matrimony of the two-party system is a fact of life which has created a fraudulent two-party system with a one-party ideology."

Higuera continued: "There can be no representation for the Fourth Norfolk District from other candidates, for they represent only the same political machine that created the problems in the first place."

"We wanted less taxation but got higher taxation. We wanted less crime - we got higher crime. We wanted more jobs but only got less jobs. Does anyone call this representation?"

And to add more confusion, to voter confusion, two candidates seeking re-election as ward councillors in the city election are also making a bid in the state election for representative.

The names of Ward 3 Councillor John J. Lydon and Ward 4 Councillor James A. Sheets will appear on both city and state ballots.

APAW

Animal Films

Animal Protection and Welfare, Inc. [APAW] will begin its fall season Monday, Oct. 20 with the showing of two informative films at the Adams Shore Library, Sea St.

"The Animals Are Crying" and "The Paws Film" offer a look into a local animal shelter, examine why owners give up their pets and expose unnecessary destruction of many dogs and cats in humane shelters and dog pounds.

These films also make more explicit the goals of organizations like APAW.

All meetings are open to the public. Future meetings will feature films on trapping, seal hunting zoos and other animal issues.

Quincy Bay Pollution

Abatement Plan Announced

Gov. Paul Dever and Boston Mayor John Hynes announced plans this week for the abatement of pollution in Quincy Bay.

Under the plan, Boston sewage would be pumped directly from Cal Pasture to Deer Island and not through Moon Island.

Rep. William Jenness favored the proposal, but wondered if it wasn't just a strategic pre-election publicity stunt by the Democratic leadership.

Ceremonies At 5 P.M.

Ecumenical Installation For Rev. Keith Munson At First Parish

Clergymen of all denominations throughout the city will assist in the official service Sunday installing Rev. Keith C. Munson as minister of United First Parish Church, Quincy Sq.

A clerical procession will file into The Stone Temple at 5 p.m. to begin the ceremony.

Dr. Walter Wrigley, chairman of the board and congregation, will act as installing officer.

Rev. Dana Greeley, minister at the Unitarian Church in Canton, will deliver the sermon.

Rev. Dr. Raymond Hopkins of the Unitarian Church in Saco, Me., will offer the prayer and call to worship.

Rabbi David Jacobs of Temple Beth El will deliver a reading and extend the greetings of the city's Jewish community.

Rev. John McMahon, pastor of St. Mary's Church, West Quincy, will offer greetings from the city's Catholic community while Rev. Arthur Curtis of Bethany Congregational Church will extend greetings from the South Shore Council of Churches and the Quincy Clergymen Association.

Mayor Walter J. Hannon will send best wishes from the city of Quincy.

During the service, the Church Choir will perform several selections with William Flavin as tenor soloist and his wife Corinne as guest cellist.

Following the service a reception will take place in the social hall with Rev. Munson greeting invited guests.

Rev. Munson assumed his duties at First Parish Church Aug. 1. A native of Maine, Rev. Munson graduated from Tufts University and received a graduate degree from the Crane Theological School at Tufts.

Before coming to Quincy, Rev. Munson served parishes in Annisquam, Palmer, Springfield and Andover, Mass. and in Cherry Hill, N.J.

Present chairman of the Building Loan Fund for the Unitarian Universalist Association, Rev. Munson has served as president of ministers associations in Massachusetts, New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

He is married to the former Marguerite M. Hanson. The Munsons have two children, Bruce and Lynn, who live in Brighton.

Bethany To Sponsor Vietnamese Family In Quincy

Bethany Congregational Church plans to sponsor a Vietnamese refugee family, enabling the parents and children to resettle in Quincy.

A "Nucleus Committee" is planning the sponsorship. Members are Mrs. Gilbert Crofts, Rev. and Mrs. Arthur R. Curtis, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Evers, Miss Muriel J. Goudey, Mrs. William L. Lipp, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Penniman, Mrs. Stephen Roberts and Robert Ross.

This committee will find housing, food, clothing, furniture and other household items for a family. The committee will also work towards securing a job for the family bread-winner.

The U.S. Government pays transportation costs of each refugee, allowing each $10 in pocket money. Refugees will be given a minimum of $100 each to help get started. Under conditions of extreme need, the sponsoring church can obtain more funds for the family.

Anyone - Bethany member or not - who would like to become involved in this resettlement is invited to contact any member of the nucleus committee.

Correspondence has been initiated with Church World Service and with the American Fund for Czechoslovakian Relief - two authorized agencies for the resettlement program.

Atlantic Methodist Youth Group Elects Officers

The Atlantic Youth Group of Atlantic United Methodist Church, North Quincy, elected new officers at a recent meeting.

Officers are: Bonnie Drummond, president; Susan Estabrooks, vice president; and Susan Richards, secretary-treasurer. Lorraine Gill is youth consultant.

Upcoming events for youths in grades six to 12, sponsored by the Youth Group are:

Sunday, Oct. 5, 6:30-8:30 p.m., a meeting at church for planning and recreation; Saturday, Oct. 11, 7-8 p.m., splash party at the Quincy YMCA; Sunday, Oct. 19, 6:30-8:30 p.m., meeting at church for planning and recreation; and Sunday, Oct. 26

6:30-8:30 p.m. 50's party.

In an effort to raise funds, the group has arranged a "Slave Auction" for the month of October. Anyone needing assistance with a job, such as raking leaves, washing cars, or babysitting, may notify the group. Money received for the finished chore will go toward group activities.

Fr. James Haddad Chi-Rho Guest Speaker

Rev. James Haddad, former associate pastor at Sacred Heart Church, North Quincy, will be the guest speaker tonight (Thursday) at the opening meeting of the Chi-Rho discussion club's new season.

Rev. Haddad, now director of the pastoral institute at St. John's Seminary, will conduct an open forum and field questions about changes in the church and hear expressions of opinion.

The event will begin at 8 p.m. at CYO headquarters, 883

Hancock St., Wollaston. All young adults, married or single, are invited to attend.

Eleanor Villard of Quincy is a member of the committee planning the meeting.

Msgr. Robert W. McNeill is director of the Chi-Rho Club.

'Mood Revealing Rings'

At Granite Co-operative Oct. 29

Bonwit Teller wants it. Texans asked for it. Ali McGraw has it. The Granite Co-operative Bank just got it. They'll give it to you.

"Mood Revealing Ring," the new national sell-out that mirrors your mind will be available at the Granite Co-operative Bank, 100 Granite St. and 400 Hancock St. on Oct. 29.

Also called "Moodstone" or "truth rings," the chemically processed stone is temperature sensitive to changes in body heat caused by emotions and turns colors with your mood.

Bright blue means love has hit like a lightning bolt. But gray shows you're uptight, black very nervous, green means you're "turned on" or actively involved, and beige reflects a neutral frame of mind.

From celebrities to shippers, Americans are wearing their hearts on their fingers and the traditional greeting "How are you?" is now obsolete.

"MOOD REVEALING RING" will be available at Granite Co-operative Bank beginning Oct. 29.

Instead, the major question seems to be "Where did you get it?" with stores backed up with orders for the stone that psychs you out.

Cohen emphasized rings will be given on "first come first served basis" because of limited supply. He said 1,000 rings was the maximum order the manufacturer would deliver due to heavy demands from other sources.

While jewelry counters battle to fill the demand, the Granite Co-operative Bank is giving them away. President Bernard Cohen, who is always on the look-out for unusual premiums to attract depositors, will give "Mood Revealing Rings" to the first 1,000 depositors who open a new account with $500 or add $500 to an existing account, beginning Oct. 29.

THE CAMPAIGN TRAIL

Kennedy Stresses Need For Parent Involvement

At a recent meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Crowley of 139 Highland Ave., Wollaston, Christopher Kennedy, candidate for School committee, reaffirmed the need for parent involvement in the Quincy School System.

He noted that, as president of the Educational Development Committee, he had the opportunity to speak with parents at the old Lincoln and Hancock Schools. It was their concern that helped bring about the use of aides, the clean-up, paint-up work, and the federally sponsored breakfast program, he said.

Again today, many of the same parents along with new ones are very much involved in the affairs of the new Lincoln-Hancock Community School. He noted:

"They are finding that individualized learning does not preclude the use of the more structured classroom, and that most of the so-called basics are still taught, but in more interesting ways, he said.

Kennedy cited also, parents from the Gridley Bryant School who, as a result of the Right to Read Program became involved last June in a highly successful week long neighborhood project to foster life-long good reading habits. It was called "Families in Reading", and brought about enthusiastic cooperation among parents, teachers and students.

"These are excellent examples of people communicating their concerns and interests to bring about needed changes and new programs," he concluded.

School Committee Members Should Attend PTO Meetings, Says Toland

Patricia Toland, candidate for school committee, believes attending meetings of parent-teacher groups in the city would be a good way for school committee members to increase their awareness of parental concerns.

Speaking at a coffee hour at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Donnelly, 33 Charlesmount Ave., Quincy Point, Mrs. Toland said, "It has become apparent to me that many of the parents in the Ward 2 area feel that communication between citizens and the school committee needs to be improved.

"There are several reasons why parents may feel remote from the School Committee. Since members are elected city-wide, there is little neighborhood involvement. Many people who do not hesitate to contact their ward councillor, seldom call upon a school committee member.

"Second, the downtown location of the bimonthly meetings and the formal agenda seem forbidding to many people. To remedy this, I think the school committee should meet in different neighborhood schools on a rotating basis. This was done a few years ago and more people did attend the meetings.

"Lastly, parents have other channels of communication with the school system. Many problems can be solved in parent-teacher conferences. Others are resolved with principals. The school committee is usually the last resort but nevertheless they have an important role to play.

"I think school committee members should attend some of the meetings of parent-teachers groups for their own benefit. In this atmosphere, they could hear first-hand the concerns of the citizens who elected them to office. By listening to these parents and communicating with them on a personal level, a School Committee member would be better prepared to make decisions at bimonthly meetings."

McCauley Commends Seniors For Interest In Government

Senior Citizen participation in the city primary election was the highest in the city, according to School Committeeman Francis X. McCauley, candidate for re-election to the School Committee.

Quincy precincts where senior resident housing facilities are located recorded substantially higher turnout percentages than the city-wide average turnout of 46 per cent, he said.

McCauley commended the senior residents for their continued interest in city government. McCauley made his remarks at a meeting at Oceanview in Germantown attended by more than 200 senior residents.

Bellotti Recommends Special Committee

School Committee candidate Francis X. Bellotti Jr. has suggested formation of a special committee to help improve the Quincy School System, making it more effective in preparing students for the future.

At a coffee hour held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cammarata, Bellotti said the committee could be composed of parents, teachers, students and interested citizens who could meet regularly to pool their ideas. He said:

"Hundred of graduates are leaving school annually with little self-understanding, inadequate motivation and few if any, marketable skills. This leads to frustration, confusion and waste of valuable energy.

"Parents and students throughout Quincy concur that our youth could be getting much more for the time and money we spend on education.

"As your representative on the school committee, I will act as a spokesman for, and promoter of, the will of the community. This way we would all take an active part in fostering the development of productive people capable of meeting the demands of the future."

Davis Cites Changes In Election Laws

Harold Davis, candidate for Quincy city council at-large, reminds residents of the changes affecting voter registration.

Speaking at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Aristide, 156 Brook Rd., recently, Davis noted that there was no longer a waiting period before a resident could register.

"Unfortunately, many people who are not registered believe that they must live in Quincy for at least six months before they are eligible," he said. "The Supreme Court has held that the six month residency requirement is unconstitutional. A person who moves to Quincy may now in fact register the day he begins his residence in Quincy."

Davis also told the group that in certain respects the absentee ballot law had been liberalized.

"College students from Quincy may now have their ballots witnessed by their college registrars instead of a notary," he said. "Individuals who are permanently disabled after filing a certificate to that effect signed by a doctor, priest, minister or rabbi will no longer be required to have their absentee ballot notarized."

Davis said he hoped that the liberalized requirements would result in an increased voter turnout. Davis urged all other candidates to do their best to inform local residents of these changes in order to increase citizen participation in government.

Hannon, LaRaia Meet To Set Debate

Mayor Walter J. Hannon and City Councillor Joseph LaRaia were scheduled to meet Wednesday morning in the mayor's office to determine the date, format, topics, location for a debate between the two mayoral candidates.

Although a definite date for the forum has not been set, Robert McCarthy, press secretary for LaRaia said it could take place next week.

McCarthy suggested the debate - welcomed by both mayoral candidates - could be moderated by the League of Women Voters or the Montclair

Men's Club, neither of which has endorsed either candidate. Both Hannon and LaRaia are members of both organizations.

Both Hannon and LaRaia say a debate would crystallize their views for Quincy voters, bringing the issues to the foreground of the election.

Senior Citizens Services Departments Moving To Maple St.

The Senior Citizens Activities office of the Recreation Department will move from the John F. Kennedy Health Center, 1120 Hancock St., to the new senior citizens service center at Maple and Chestnut Sts., Oct. 15.

The newly renovated offices provided by Mayor Walter J. Hannon and the Quincy City Council will combine the offices of the Senior Citizens Activities of the Recreation Department, Mrs. Marion Andrews, Director, the Council on Aging office, directed by Putnam Borden, the Retired Senior Volunteers Program, Consumer Assistance and Speedy Senior Service offices.

Each agency will have private offices within the complex, providing a convenience for senior citizens to have all programs together on a street floor walk in center, close to public transportation.

Part Department personnel completed the moving of the R.S.V.P. office furniture and equipment this week into the new office, with the lease of the former Adams Building expiring Oct. 1, 1975, requiring immediate occupancy of the new Maple St. quarters. The location is owned and was occupied by Barker's until it moved to expanded Hancock St. quarters.

The Conservation Commission has been assigned a new permanent administrative office, effective Oct. 1, in Room 25 of the John F. Kennedy Health Center, 1120 Hancock St., and will utilize the adjoining Park and Recreation Board Room 26, for conservation commission meetings. Public hearings of the commission may be conducted at the Health Center Auditorium.

Mrs. Clara Yeomans, executive secretary, and the conservation commission have been seeking a permanent location for a number of years. Commissioner of Natural Resources, Richard J. Koch, sought the approval of Mayor Hannon and Commissioner of Health, Dr. Alfred Mahoney for the new location of the Commission in the Health Department Building.

Part Department personnel have provided and moved office furniture to the Conservation Commission's new administrative office.

Brett Suggests More Parking At N. Q. MBTA Station

Rep. Joseph E. Brett has suggested the creation of additional parking spaces at the North Quincy MBTA Station by utilizing vacant land on the westerly side of the tracks.

In a letter to MBTA

Chairman Robert R. Kiley, Brett said use of land would help alleviate "a serious lack of parking spaces" at the North Quincy Station.

Brett also asked that action be taken to correct a drainage problem on the easterly side of the station. He said riders of the "T" tell him they sometimes have to walk through two or three inches of water to get to the station.

Keohane Funeral Home Sponsoring

'People Helping People' Seminar

"People Helping People", a five-part seminar for widows, widowers and other interested persons, will be sponsored by the Keohane Funeral Home of Quincy beginning Oct. 23.

All sessions will be held at the North Quincy Knights of Columbus Hall, 5 Hollis Ave. at 7:30 p.m.

Edward J. Keohane, a director at the Keohane Funeral Home, said the firm's "service to humanity is first, burying the dead with dignity and second rendering service to the living."

Keohane said that the widowed are often confused by changes in their lives and lack of knowledge of responsibilities they must assume.

He said experts will discuss grief counseling, insurance, law, finance, general maintenance and taxes. After each presentation, there will be a question and answer period. Persons will be able to discuss problems or solutions with those present as well as the speaker.

The first seminar, Oct. 23, will be "Coping With Your Grief", with Rev. Victor F. Scalise, D. MIN., a Baptist minister from Brookline, as speaker. His topics will be, "Effective and Realistic Acceptance of Death", "Making Life Meaningful Again", and "What Resources Enable Us to Enter the Land of Beginning Again."

The second talk will be Oct. 30 featuring O. Donald Gohl, vice president and manager of the North Quincy Branch of the Quincy Savings Bank. He will discuss "You and Your Finances", including budgeting, record keeping for tax purposes and financial options for insurance and inheritance.

At the Nov. 6 seminar there will be two speakers David F. Bouley and Atty. Frederick J. Sheehan. Bouley will discuss insurance needs, including auto coverage, home owners insurance, medical and life insurance and the protection which is provided by policyholder by the different policies. Atty. Sheehan will speak on the importance of having a will, what happens from the time of death to the eventual probate, whether a will is involved or not and tax consequences involved in the probate of an estate.

Anthony Rizzotti, an instructor in auto mechanics at Quincy Vocational Technical School will conduct the program Nov. 13, discussing general auto maintenance.

Speaker at the Nov. 20 concluding seminar, will be Terrence G. Kennedy, CPA. His topic will be Personal Tax Considerations. He will discuss determining what information is necessary to file proper tax returns, explanation of filing status and review of estimated tax requirements and what is required where a business is involved.

The success of the program last year, which was the first such service to be offered on the east coast has prompted Keohane to continue it again this year, he said.

There is no need to sign up for the seminar. All are welcome.

Mrs. Betty Pickles

To Be Honored Sunday

An Open House will be held Sunday, Oct. 19 at the Wollaston Legion Post Hall, Weston Ave., to honor Mrs. Betty Pickles, founder of the Barrette Kindergarten and Nursery in Wollaston.

The Open House will be sponsored by Mrs. Pickles' daughters Mrs. Barbara Meister of Marshfield and Mrs. Betty Curtis of Quincy, current director of the Barrette Kindergarten.

The reception will take place from 2-5 p.m. The public is invited to attend.

Mrs. Pickles founded the Barrette Kindergarten 45 years ago. During the first 10 years of operation, the kindergarten was located in North Quincy, moving

MRS. BETTY PICKLES to its present location at 50 Willow St., in 1940.

Pack 30 Cub Scouts Visit Quincy Sun

Six cub scouts from Den 1, Pack 30 of St. Mary's Church, West Quincy recently visited the Quincy Sun office.

David Finneran, James Finneran, John Fortin, David Fortin, Kevin Johnson and Eddie Johnston were accompanied on their tour by Den Mother Mrs. Mary Ann Finneran and Assistant Den Mother Mrs. Betty Johnston.

Henry Bosworth, editor and publisher of The Quincy Sun, showed the scouts the editorial departments of the paper, explaining the process of news gathering and organization.

A tour of the lower level of the Quincy Sun office showed the boys machinery used in compiling newstories and ads. The scouts saw headlines being set by a Compugraphic 7200 photo typesetting machine and

W. C. Fields' role hard to interpret

By NANCY ANDERSON
Copley News Service

HOLLYWOOD — W. C. Fields allegedly didn't like children, but Rod Steiger, playing the eccentric comedian in Universal's "W. C. Fields and Me," obviously does, since his newest chunk (and most enthusiastic fan) is a 13-year-old boy named Derek.

Derek did the almost impossible, wiggled his way into a set, when "W. C." went on location to a mansion near the boy's home.

An admirer of Mr. Steiger, he wanted to meet his idol, and he managed the coup.

"After almost everybody left, he was playing liar's poker, so I went over and started talking with him," Derek recounts.

And after that, for so long as the company was located in his neighborhood, Derek was welcome on the set as Steiger's special guest and as a pet of the total cast and crew.

Throughout the shooting day, even when he's not in a scene, Steiger adopts the Fields' speech patterns, so an interview with him is an eerie experience. One might be talking with the dead.

However, the thoughts expressed are Steiger's own. "Characters I play don't follow me off the set," he ventured, "except for the verbal pattern. Maybe the voice."

"My wife says I always change a little with the roles I play, and I know that when I'm playing a heavier character I'm not as gay or humorous perhaps, as I am at other times."

Steiger has portrayed characters ranging from Napoleon to Mussolini to Pope John.

But Fields, he says, has been the hardest of all to interpret.

"The more I work on this," Steiger explained, "the more I realize Fields never in his

ROD STEIGER and W. C. FIELDS
... Fields never ... allowed anyone to know him' life allowed anyone to know him.

"I don't believe anyone knew what he was really thinking."

"He was on the defensive from childhood, so he created a Fields figure. For example, if you were talking to him like this and should ask, 'Do you love me?', he would switch and say something like this," (Steiger's voice became Fields' to an extreme degree), "Love? Love is nothing. Love is just something people should discard."

"He wouldn't give you an answer. You could never get through to the man."

"Fields is also challenging, obviously, because everyone has his own idea of him."

While admitting that Fields had a reputation for hating children, Steiger says that wasn't really the case but was part of the carefully maintained facade.

"He gave gifts to children," Fields' interpreter claims,

"but he insisted that his kindnesses be kept secret."

The public is interested in Fields now, Steiger thinks, because he was an individualist who refused to meet anyone's standards except his own.

One of Steiger's more recent films is "Mussolini — the Last Act" in which he played the Italian dictator, giving him, he thinks, some seldom suspected dimensions.

"The film was about the last four days of his life," Steiger explains, "when he was a desperately tired, old man who wanted to die."

"I gave them the idea of putting film clips of the real Mussolini into the picture and then I did two scenes when he was younger, but I didn't do his whole life. We concentrated on the last four days when he was defeated."

"However, I insisted upon those flashbacks so that the picture wouldn't look like an ode to Fascism."

TV MAILBAG

More family-type shows to be aired

By RICK ROBERTS
Copley News Service

HOLLYWOOD — The TV Mailbag:

Q. I would like to know why there has to be so many crime fighting shows on television for our children to see. Isn't it enough that they see violence in everyday life without having to see it on T.V. every day of the week? I would like to see more shows like "Born Free," "Swiss Family Robinson," "Lassie" — shows which would keep kids at home and out of trouble. — A reader, Kelowna, B.C.

A. More and more persons feel the same way about television programming as you do. In the United States, the Federal Communications Commission recently instructed networks to provide more family-type entertainment by de-emphasizing violence on television shows.

As a result, more of the type of shows you would like to see will probably be aired next year.

The only real way viewers can get their point of view across is to write their local stations and the networks which produce the shows.

Q. Recently, we saw the pilot for Darren McGavin's "Night Stalker." We were wondering if there really is an underground city of an extent in Seattle, Wash. Also, where can I write to Darren McGavin? — Mrs. F.F., Delancey, N.J.

A. Seattle does have a two block underground city, which came about as the result of a fire in the downtown area in 1889, when the city's leaders decided to rebuild over the destroyed area.

You can write to McGavin in care of ABC, 1330 Avenue of the Americas, New York, N.Y. 10019.

Midget A's Bomb Milton, 7-2

The Midget A team walloped Milton, 7-2, in a South Shore Conference game at Charles River with Matt Schaffer and Brian Bertoni each turning in the hat trick.

Jack Campbell had the other goal. Bertoni and John Andrews had two assists each and Jimmy Fitzpatrick, Schaffer, Mark Paolucci, John Fitzgerald and Tom Cahill one each.

Goalies Jeff Nord and Ronnie Beresiewicz combined for a total of 23 saves.

The A's will meet Canton Sunday at 1:10 at the same site.

The A's also topped Randolph AA team, 4-2, at the Quincy Youth Arena with Bertoni scoring twice and Cahill and Dave Peters once each. Schaffer had two assists and Bill Monahan, Jimmy Shea and Cahill one apiece.

Nord and Beresiewicz again shared goalie duties and also playing outstanding games were Fitzpatrick, Paolucci, Mike Gullizia, Andrews and Campbell.

Tiffany Edges Squantum Quincy Defeats Barons

The Quincy Youth Hockey Association's Girl League opened its season last week with Tiffany edging Squantum Mobile, 3-2, and Team Quincy topping Red Barons, 4-2.

In the Tiffany-Squantum game Squantum took the lead in the opening period on a goal by Karen Keeley, assisted by Ginny Weeks.

Tiffany came on strong in the second period with three goals, two by Sherry Craig and one by Joan Lally. Nancy Ball had assists on all three goals.

Keeley scored her second goal in the last period with Weeks again assisting.

Kristin O'Gara put the Red Barons on the scoreboard first with an unassisted goal in the first period. Jean Crossman tied it for Team Quincy with Sherry Craig assisting.

In the second period Craig put Quincy in front with Crossman having the assist. Maureen Worley scored with Craig assisting.

The Barons cut the gap to 3-2 in the third period on Cheryl Bamberg's goal with O'Gara assisting, but Kathy Hussy clinched things with a goal with Karen Cullen assisting.

O'Hare's Hat Trick Paces Squirt B's, 10-0

The Squirt B team rolled to a 10-0 win over Westwood with Mike O'Hare having the hat trick. Dennis Cronin scored two goals and Mike McArdle, Kevin Greene, Brian Chase, Keith Smith and Paul Marshall one each. Marshall had five assists.

O'Hare, Chase and John Burnm two apiece and Cronin, McArdle, Greene, and Smith one each.

The B's topped the Squirt C team, 6-4, with O'Hare and Greene scoring twice each and McArdle and Burnm once apiece. Brian Chase and Dave Allen had two assists apiece and O'Hare, Marshall, Dick Tapper and Smith one each.

The B's lost to Abington, 5-4, with Cronin, Allen, Bobby McCabe and Burnm scoring the Quincy goals and Cronin having two assists and Pete Quinn and Billy Campbell one each.

Mite A's Roll By Hingham, 8-0

The Mite A team rolled over Hingham, 8-0, with Timmy Collins excoiling in goal. Marc Basch, Sean Barry and Jim Milano had two goals each and Robby Reidy and Richard Horrigan one apiece. Bobby Kane had five assists, Marc Abboud two and Basch, Barry and P. J. Hussy one each.

The A's lost to Duxbury, 6-4. Barry, Tom McGrath, Ready and Horrigan had the Quincy goals and Abboud had two assists and Ted Hohmann, Barry, McGrath and Reidy one apiece.

Bantam A's Blank Braintree, 4-0

The Bantam A team kept rolling with a 4-0 league win over Braintree with goalies Jimmy Campbell and Jimmy Scanlan combining for the shutout.

Scott Richardson, Mark Messina, Bryan McGilvray and

Bob Molloy had the goals and Messin, Richardson, Billy Deitsch, Bobby Hayes and Paul McDermott had assists.

The A's also blanked South Boston, 4-0, on goals by Messina, Eddie Kane, Tommy Brennan and Robbie Craig and assists for Hayes, Kane, Messin, Deitsch and Brennan.

6 North Runners In N.Y. Race Saturday

The six top runners on the North Quincy cross country team will compete in the 25th annual St. John's University race Saturday in Van Cortlandt Park in the Bronx, N.Y.

Coach Lou Tozzi, whose Raiders have won five meets in a row after losing their opener to powerhouse Brockton, announced that Bart Petracca, one of the best runners in New England; Marty and Bob Levenson, Mike Morin, Jim Gavigan and Ken O'Brien will make the trip.

"I want to thank Carl Leone [coordinator of athletics] and the school committee for approving the trip, as these boys deserve it," Tozzi said. "It will give them a chance to compete against some of the best runners in the East."

The Raiders, with ace Petracca breaking a record, as usual, ran their win streak to five with a 24-32 win over Weymouth South last Friday.

The unbeaten Petracca, who breaks a record virtually every time out, smashed his own

Quincy course mark by four seconds in covering the 2.3-mile course in 12:02.

It was one of the best races of the season as only 13 seconds separated the second and 10th runners. The other North scorers were Bob Levenson, fourth; Marty Levenson, fifth; O'Brien, sixth, and Morin, eighth. Gavigan finished ninth.

The North girls were shut out by Weymouth's speedy team, as Debbie Coutts was the first Raiderette to finish in sixth place, Maureen Tracey was eighth and Mary Gallagher ninth.

Joe Catalano's Quincy harriers, who had lost two previous meets by a total of three points, one a squeaker of their own as the edged Waltham, 29-30, as sophomore star John Saville won his fifth meet in six starts. Saville was followed by Bob Thorne, second, and Kevin O'Brien, third. The win gave the Presidents a 3-2 league record and a 4-2 overall mark.

The Quincy girls also raised their record to 3-2 with a 23-33 win.

Rolling Raiders Seek No. 5 At Weymouth S.

By TOM SULLIVAN

Some football teams have a strong defense but a sputtering offense. Others have a potent offense but a porous defense.

But when a team combines an awesome defense with an explosive offense, it is awfully hard to defeat.

This was proven in no uncertain terms last week when North Quincy rolled to a 25-6 win over previously unbeaten Everett in what was generally rated "Game of the Week."

In winning its fourth in a row by impressive scores (North has outscored the opposition, 107-19), Coach Dave Burke's team definitely established itself as a threat for the Eastern Mass. Division One title.

If the Raiders continue to display the same brilliant defense and great offense, they should continue undefeated Saturday when they play Weymouth South in a 1:30 non-league game at South's spanking new field.

However, Burke and his assistants expect no easy time of it, as Joe Kelly's Wildcats, who played the first game at their new field last week, has been in every game. They rallied from a 21-0 deficit to the Hingham, 21-21; dropped a 7-6 squeaker to Quincy, defeated Boston Latin, 16-6, and last week held unbeaten and heavily favored Brookline to a 14-0 score, both Brookline touchdowns coming as the result of Weymouth errors.

Burke was naturally elated after last week's tremendous two-way performance. "These kids really came to play today and I've never seen a team so high for a game," he said. "They have good leadership. The defense never gave Everett a chance and our greater speed was the key. The kids have done just a tremendous job and we are very pleased."

Dave and his defensive coaches, Dick Meyer and Ken McPhee, were high in their praise of the entire defensive unit. Everett was held to 37 yards net rushing and its backs were dropped for 48 yards in losses. The only score came on a 66-yard punt return.

"This defense is just fantastic," McPhee enthused. "You have to give everyone credit. Our front four of Pete Hemphill, Alf McHugh, John Ryan and Danny Noonan was immense again. So were our linebackers, John McKenna, Frank Strazzula and John Desmond. And the secondary was again tremendous." Everett completed only one short pass against North's reserves late in the game. The only other completion came on pass interference.

Others singled out for their defensive performances were Ed McElaney, Paul McGuigan, John Collins, Dick Kennedy and Jack Hatfield.

Burke opened up the passing game a bit and quarterback Mike Holleran, who had his best day, was four for nine, all to end Cooper Jordan, and two touchdowns and he scored the other himself.

North netted 192 yards on the ground and it was pretty well divided with Brian Doherty picking up 67 yards (a total of 434 in four games), Holleran 69, Mike Adams 36 and Matty Constantino, used many times as a decoy again, 18.

The offensive line was lauded, especially Mike Nee, rated by Fitzgerald as "one of the best linemen in the state." Also hailed were Paul Santoro, Harry Knudsen, Jordan, Bruce Hall and Mike Kelly.

"We run a multiple pro-type offense, something few schools have," offensive coach Tom Fitzgerald said. "We run an awful lot of plays and today we showed we can pass. Holleran did a fine job and Jordan really came into his own as a receiver. I think we proved we have a well-balanced attack."

North was outweighed by at least 25 pounds to man both ways, but its speed more than made up for Everett's size.

North's first score came midway in the first period on a 33-yard field goal by McElaney, believed to be the Raiders' first successful field goal in at least 10 years and maybe more.

North drove 82 yards for its first touchdown, which came early in the second period. A 27-yard run by Doherty highlighted the drive.

Holleran hit Jordan with a pass for 12 yards to Everett's 30 and on fourth down and three, the same pair combined for a 22-yard scoring play. McElaney kicked his sixth conversion of the season.

Everett nearly scored with the half nearing an end when a pass apparently was completed for a touchdown but offensive pass interference was called.

Ryan spilled Everett's Joe

Nuzzo for a big loss to give North the ball on the visitors' 45 and it appeared the 10-0 score would stand. However, Holleran passed to Jordan for 25 yards and, with one second remaining, Holleran threw a bomb which nestled into Jordan's arms in the end zone, completing a 30-yard scoring play. McElaney's kick made it 17-0 at the half.

A spectacular 60-yard punt by Everett's Doug Soule set North back on its 12. McElaney got off a good punt but Joe Nuzzo gathered the ball in and raced 66 yards for the touchdown. On a pass try for the two points, Hatfield, who had earlier intercepted a pass, dove to knock down the pass.

North's final touchdown probably would have been on another pass but Holleran, unable to find a receiver open, took off to the left, reversed his field, and, behind excellent blocking, raced 55 yards for the touchdown. This time North went for two points and Doherty scored.

Early in the final period Hatfield ran a punt back 38 yards for an apparent score, but it was nullified by an offside penalty.

Ted Sadowski's North sophomores remained unbeaten last week when they topped Weymouth North, 22-14, for their third win in a row, after trailing, 14-0, at halftime.

Although North Quincy girls' volleyball team has only a 1-4 record, Coach Jim Ducey is pleased with the team's improvement and the Raiderettes are savoring last week's win over Quincy.

North defeated the First Ladies, 15-9, 15-13. North was down, 12-3, in the second game but came back on the serving of Elaine Shea and the all-around play of Nancy Willard. Gail Kiley, Marie Duggan, Sherry Bevans and Joanne Leone also turned in fine efforts.

The North junior varsity lost to Quincy, 8-15, 15-11, and 15-13.

Friday the North varsity lost to Braintree, 15-13, 15-11, in a closely-fought match, while the jayvees won their first match, 15-4, 15-12.

"The girls have come along well and are playing fine ball," Ducey said. "We have a senior-dominated team and most of the girls played last year, when North had its first team."

The Raiderettes are led by Co-Captains Duggan and Shea. The usual starting lineup includes the two captains, Willard, Marion Rideout, Leone and Bevans. All are seniors except Leone.

Rounding out the squad are seniors Marcia Crowell, Cathy Arsenault, Mary Ellen Nagle, Jeanne Doherty and Debbie Durkin, and junior Kiley.

North will play at Brockton Friday and host Brookline Wednesday. Barbara Webster's Quincy girls will be at Brookline Friday and will be home to Cambridge Latin next Wednesday.

2 'Quincy' Red Sox On UPI All-Star Team

Three of Quincy's Red Sox fared well in the voting for the annual UPI American League all-star team.

Jim Rice is the first player in the 30-year history of UPI post-season surveys to be elected to two positions as the 22-year old rookie star, who batted .309 with 22 home runs and 102 runs batted in, was named the designated hitter and an outfielder.

Rice barely edged teammate Cecil Cooper, another Quincy resident, by one vote for the DH honor.

Presidents Host Undefeated Newton North

The Quincy football team, which had turned in two outstanding defensive games and pulled out 7-6 wins over Weymouth South and Revere, went to Waltham last week with high hopes of repeating last year's surprise last second win over the Hawks.

However, Waltham, remembering that 21-20 loss, its only defeat of the year which kept it out of the Super Bowl, jumped away to two quick touchdowns and went on to hand the Presidents a 34-6 wallowing in Quincy's Suburban League opener. Quincy's record dropped to 2-2.

Coach Hank Conroy and his assistants want to forget that game and have worked hard this week to prepare the squad for Saturday's league meeting with undefeated Newton North at Veterans' Memorial Stadium. Kickoff time is 1:30 p.m.

Newton, despite a big score last week when it barely nipped winless Weymouth North, 13-12, looms as one of the best Division One teams. It started out by topping Framingham North, 15-6; defeated Medford, 19-14, then pulled one of the early season's top surprises by shocking Brockton, 19-0.

"The game wasn't as one-sided as the score would indicate," said a disappointed Conroy. "It was hard to come back after their two quick touchdowns and we should have had that boy [Greg Gross] who ran 61 yards for their third touchdown. But, you have to give Waltham credit, it looked as though they remembered that loss last year."

Despite the loss, Conroy praised Mark Buchanan for a good game at quarterback and Paul Vespaziani for another good running game. He also hailed the play of Kevin Donovan, Paul Ferris, Mike Carloni, Pat Gibbons, Bill Popsie and Tony Spadorcia.

Waltham took the lead midway in the first period on a 14-yard scoring pass from Scott Coleman to Don Place. The Hawks made it 14-0 two minutes later when a blocked punt was recovered in the end zone by Mike Gaudet.

Gross broke loose for his 61-yard scoring run in the third period and three minutes later Coleman passed to Place for 15 yards and a fourth TD. In the final period Coleman threw his third scoring pass, this one for 10 yards to Bob Langley.

Quincy averted its first shutout of the season when Vespaziani scored from the one with only seven seconds left after a pass interference call had given the team the ball at that point.

Quincy had eight first downs, three more than Waltham, and out-gained the winners through the air with 77 yards on six for 15 to 50 yards for Waltham on four for seven. Waltham had the edge on the ground, 160 net yards to 97.

Ho-Jo's Takes Women

Merchants Lead

Ho-Jo's, W. Quincy, went back into first place in the topsy-turvy Women Merchants Bowling League, holding a two-point edge over The Body Smith Shop. Ho-Jo's has a 28-12 mark and Body Smith Shop is 26-14. Pepe's Express is 22-18, South Shore Barbers 20-20, Merrymount Lanes 12-28 and Quincy Moton 12-28.

Elaine Rozanski's 106.3

average is tops, followed by Bev Putnam, 104.5; Edna Walker, 102.8; Ellie Iacobucci, 101.4; Noreen Mastroianni, 98.5; Fran Taylor, 97.0; Jini Seaver, 96.6; Evie DuBois, 96.6; Mal Adams, 96.2 and Sandy Barrie, 94.1.

South Shore Barbers rolled the high weekly team three of 1477 and high single of 522. Evie DuBois has high weekly individual three of 331 and high single of 132.

North Wins 8th, Quincy Bows

North Quincy soccer coach Lou Ioanilli admitted he expected a good season this fall, but was not optimistic about the Raiders equalling last year's 14-2-2 record which gave them second place in the Suburban League and a berth in the state tournament.

North, however, appears well on its way to at least equalling its 1974 record and last Friday's 2-0 win over Cambridge Latin gave it an 8-1 mark and sole possession of first place.

The Raiders yesterday [Wednesday] played at Brockton, will host Weymouth

North Saturday at 10 a.m. and will be home to Brookline next Tuesday.

Meanwhile, Ron Martin's Quincy booters saw their record fall to 5-4-1 Friday when a penalty kick in the final 25 seconds gave Rindge Tech a 4-3 win over the Presidents.

Quincy yesterday was home to Weymouth South, will play at Cambridge Latin Friday and play at Brockton Tuesday.

Pete Donovan, one of the Suburban League's top scorers, added his 11th goal on a penalty kick in North Quincy's win over Cambridge Latin. The other goal was scored by Dave Harrow with an assist for Kevin O'Neil.

Earlier in the week the Raiders had nipped Weymouth South, 2-1, on Jim McGinley's two goals. Jay Nelson and John Lawson had assists.

Joe McEachern, one of Quincy's leading scorers, had two goals in the loss to Rindge, with Glenn Schlager scoring the other.

Earlier in the week the Presidents had blanked Waltham, 3-0, with McEachern again scoring twice and John Golub once. Mike Kennedy and Larry O'Toole had assists.

Burleson, Lee To Speak At TARO Dinner

Shortstop Rick Burleson and pitcher Bill Lee of the American League East Division Champion Red Sox will be the principal speakers at the dinner dance being held by The Adult Recreation Organization [TARO] Friday, Oct. 31, at the Lantana in Randolph. A cocktail hour at 6:30 will be followed by dinner and entertainment featuring the Golden Chords. Donation is $12 a person.

Many Quincy teams are members of the TARO softball and basketball leagues.

Ticket information can be obtained by contacting the Double G Sub Shop in Braintree, Bob Mina at 584-7436 or Roger Homan at 698-5651.

Point Girls Defeat A-N

Quincy Point is the smallest junior high school in the city but Kathy Bertrand's girls' basketball team got away to a fine start in the city-wide league with an easy 41-19 win over Atlantic-North. Debbie Russo led the Point attack with 18 points, all in the first half. Ellen Doucette, a fine scorer and playmaker, added 42 in the first half as Point rolled to a 30-8 lead. The reserves played the rest of the way.

"Roseanne Eleuteri and Teresa Spano were outstanding on defense, blocking shots and stealing the ball," Ms. Bertrand said. "The girls played an excellent game and it was a good way to open the season."

Rounding out the varsity squad are Cheryl Ferguson, Laurie Peterson, Cheryl Dauphinee, Patty Bollen and Cindy Watt.

LEGAL NOTICE

CITY OF QUINCY

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

Sealed proposals for construction of a portion of Bunker Hill Lane and the construction of a sidewalk in front of house number 19 Bunker Hill Lane will be received at the office of the Commissioner of Public Works, Room 206, 55 Sea Street, Quincy, Massachusetts, until 10:30 A.M., October 22, 1975, at which time they will be publicly opened and read.

The contractor to whom the contract may be awarded will be required to appear at this office with the surety offered by him and execute the contract within ten days from the date of the mailing of notice from the Commissioner to the bidder, according to the address given by him that the contract is ready for signature and in case of his failure or neglect so to do, the Commissioner may at his option determine that the bidder has abandoned the contract and thereupon the certified check or bid bond shall become the property of the City of Quincy.

The contractor will be required to give a guarantee of his work and file a bond in an amount acceptable to the City of Quincy for the fulfillment of his guarantee and contract. A certified check or bid bond in the amount of 5% of the face value of the contract shall accompany each bid.

Specifications may be obtained at the office of the Commissioner of Public Works upon deposit of $5.00 for each set, which will be refunded provided they are returned promptly and in good condition.

The right is reserved to reject any or all bids or to accept the bid deemed best for the City.

500 Local Businessmen Invited To 'Day In Court'

[Cont'd from Page 1]

Judge Kramer had outlined some of the above programs at a July meeting of the Quincy Center Business Association (QCBPA). Several of Kramer's suggestions emanated from a previous meeting with six QCBPA members talking with the judge to pinpoint areas of the business community's concern.

Since then, a South Shore Business Committee has been formed, representing 13 businesses and organizations from Quincy and throughout the South Shore. This committee, meeting numerous times with Judge Kramer, held a four-hour conference last Thursday to finalize plans for the Oct. 30 meeting.

Committee Chairman Michael Williams of Fred Williams, Inc. of Randolph, praised Judge Kramer's efforts in fostering a new partnership between the court and business community. He said:

"We're very fortunate to have Judge Kramer to work with. If anyone can put this program over, it's Judge Kramer."

"Our work begins," he added, "after the 30th."

Invitations to the event were sent out by the Chamber and the QCBPA to businesses within cities and towns served by the Court.

Underlying both the "Earn It 100 Club" and the driving safety workshops is the philosophy an offender must realize the hardship or damage he caused or could have caused by his action. He then must earn "a break" — a clean record — by showing the Court and the community he is willing to work to pay restitution for the damage himself — or work to fund his own way through a traffic safety workshop.

Under the "Earn It 100 Club," businesses would give 100 hours per year at minimum wage, allowing the offender to earn the money needed to reimburse the store owner for damages.

Juveniles committing driving to endanger and speeding offenses would be required to enroll in a weekly driving safety workshop conducted by the court during the evening. Those attending the course would pay a $25 approximate fee out of his or her own pocket. If an offender could not afford the fee, he or she would be provided 15 hours of work from the "Earn It 100 Club" to fund the course. The workshop would include instruction, safety movies and in-the-car analysis.

To speed up the appeal process for those convicted in District Court, Kramer said the court plans to discuss with the business community possible legislation to bring an appealed case before Superior Court within three months. Appeals at the present time can take approximately one year, Kramer said:

"In this way, the guilty will serve their sentence immediately and the innocent will be cleared without undue delay."

Responding to businessmen's complaints of wasting time and money while waiting to testify on a particular offense, Kramer said the court will implement specific time schedules where groups of cases affecting a single business will be heard at one time, reducing the number of days and waiting time wasted by employees and store managers attempting to prosecute each case individually. Kramer said: "Sometimes it would cost the business people $80 just to collect $10."

Admitting he had anticipated "an up-hill fight" in presenting these programs to the business community, Kramer says he is "elated" with initial response and commitment by many organizations.

Executives, businesswomen and men who wish to be placed on the invitation list for the Oct. 30 meeting can contact either Chairman Williams or Ronald Frazier at the South Shore Chamber of Commerce, 479-1111.

Kramer said "We're hoping to bring together a large cross-section of the community — from bankers to businessmen. I want them to get involved and I want to hear their problems."

2 Quincy Police Dept. Marksmen Priming For National Competition

Two Quincy police officers ended a five-month combat pistol shooting season this month but already the pair are priming for national competition in the bicentennial year.

Officers Louis McDonald and Peter Kendall combine timing, accuracy, dexterity and speed in competitive police combat pistol shooting held throughout New England.

While the two await the results of the Oct. 12 Massachusetts State Championship match held in Agawam, both McDonald and Kendall intend to practice and prime now and throughout the winter season, sharpening their skills for the national competition hosted by Jackson, Miss. in 1976.

Kendall, ranked by the National Rifle Association as "combat Master"—the most expert shooting classification—and McDonald, a beginning competitor, recently classed a "combat marksman," both consider pistol competition a hobby.

Yet both agree the many practice hours spent perfecting form, accuracy and speed, coupled with the match-time pressure to perform with unwavering precision and finesse, give them a kind of "mental edge" in performing their police duties. It's that extra assurance, that redoubled confidence, knowing the proper skills have been honed to meet any life-or-death situation that might arise.

McDonald, a member of the Quincy Police Force six years, and Kendall, a member four years, both quickly point out neither has yet fired his pistol in the course of duty in Quincy.

May Be Cancelled

Hannon, LaRaia In Hot Words Over Debate

By MARY ANN DUGGAN

Quincy's mayoral candidates clashed in an exchange of hot words at mid-week, threatening to end Friday's great debate before it even starts.

Candidate Joseph LaRaia has accused incumbent Mayor Walter J. Hannon of turning the planned forum into a "farce" by criticizing the debate format, location and date agreed upon by representatives of both mayoral camps.

Members of LaRaia's election committee planned to meet Tuesday to "reassess" the status of the debate, heralding the possibility of cancelling the debate.

LaRaia described himself as "enraged" at statements reportedly made by Hannon at a coffee hour held at the home of Mrs. Grace Kelly, 93 Ames St. LaRaia said Hannon criticized the format, location and date of the debate, renegeing on a statement LaRaia said Hannon made in the press stating he [Hannon] would debate his opponent "any time, any place."

"It seems Mr. Hannon is now taking back some of the statements he has made in the past, if he has, let him say so," LaRaia said.

Hannon called the debate format "too structured," saying rigid question-answer debate style excludes audience participation.

Representatives of both mayoral camps met last week to iron out particulars of the debate but Hannon said his camp bowed to the wishes of the LaRaia people. He said:

"We were at their mercy as to structure and place. I'm not happy with the format. It's too structured and it's not fair. My opponent always talks about a people's candidate and open government and we're closing the people out of this debate."

The debate, scheduled to begin at 7 p.m. in the Lincoln-Hancock School Cafeteria, will follow a formal format of questions posed by a moderator. Although Hannon's camp suggested a debate which would entertain audience questions selected that night as citizens entered the auditorium, both camps agreed to follow the format favored by LaRaia's representatives.

Responding to Hannon's criticism of the debate format, LaRaia said:

"I understand Mr. Hannon does not consider the debate to be an actual debate because there will be no audience participation... Anyone familiar with the rules of debate realizes that the audience does not participate. Apparently, Mr. Hannon is not familiar with these rules."

Critical of the agreed-upon location of the debate, Hannon said he would have preferred the debate to take place at a location providing maximum seating capacity such as Quincy Vocational Technical School auditorium which he said seats 1,000. The Lincoln-Hancock Community School cafeteria seats approximately 200, he said.

North Quincy High School, Atlantic and Broad Meadows Junior High Schools had also

Permanent Foot Patrolmen

A recommendation for the addition of permanent foot patrolmen to the Quincy force will be presented to the City Council Monday evening by Ward 4 Councillor James A. Sheets.

He expressed a need for at least three foot patrolmen in West Quincy.

Citing a major increase in crime and reduction of the drinking age, Sheets said foot patrolmen would help insure security for residents. Though people feel the Quincy police are doing an excellent job, Sheets said, during recent weeks he has received many calls from people in his area who are concerned with increasing crime.

The councillor said he believes cuts in the MDC budget are gradually reducing the ability of MDC Police to respond to emergencies, especially in West Quincy, thereby placing an additional burden on the Quincy police.

Sheets said he intends to speak with Councillor Clifford Marshall, chairman of the Public Safety Committee, to try to arrange a public committee meeting to encourage general and open discussion of the problem.

Halloween Featured In This Week's 'Young Ideas'

Goblins and witches are featured in this week's issue of "Young Ideas", the new four-page pull-out newspaper especially for elementary school youngsters.

"Young Ideas" appears on pages 15, 16, 17, 18 of this week's issue of The Quincy Sun.

Guest editors are children from the fifth grade of the Elementary Lab Center at Lincoln Hancock Community School with other contributions from the sixth grade. Lab teachers are Gerald Butler, Miss Lorraine Sheller and Miss Mary Lee O'Brien.

And, there's a great guest editorial about the assassination attempts on President Ford.

There is also a word scramble contest with a special Halloween decorated ice cream cake from Baskin-Robbins, 1434 Hancock St., Quincy Sq. as the top prize.

There are also 25 ice cream cone prizes from Baskin-Robbins. Deadline for entering is Oct. 30.

And don't forget that Friday, Oct. 24 is the deadline for submitting entries in the Fire Prevention Week coloring contest which appeared in "Young Ideas" in the Oct. 9 Quincy Sun.

Winner of that will receive a $25 savings bond from Riley and Reilly Insurance Co. sponsor of that issue. There will also be a prize for each grade level, kindergarten to the sixth grade.

Better hurry, time is running out.

Dist. Atty. William D. Delahunt announces today the appointment of a Screening Committee for Assistant District Attorneys in Norfolk County similar to that established by Atty. Gen. Francis X. Bellotti.

The Committee, headed by Atty. Martin Cosgrove of Quincy, will recruit and interview and make recommendations to Delahunt regarding candidates for assistants' positions in his office.

"I have already received about 100 resumes from attorneys," said Delahunt. "There is no way I can fairly screen all of them who deserve my attention; but I believe this committee comprised primarily of attorneys and law enforcement officials, by reflecting a broad range of viewpoints, is the best possible means to help me create a top criminal prosecution staff."

Delahunt noted that Cosgrove is a practicing trial attorney and "a man with whom I have worked for a number of years and have a great deal of respect for."

Also on the committee are:
• Atty. Paul Cataldo of Franklin, former state representative and Franklin town moderator, past president of the First Norfolk Bar Association and vice-chairman of the Massachusetts Bar Association Committee on Legislation.

• Lt. Romeo DeFazio of the Weymouth Police Department, a police prosecutor in the Quincy District Court and past president of the Norfolk County Prosecutors' Association.

• Detective Barbara DeNatale of the Quincy Police Department, former undercover agent, selected in 1974 as the outstanding narcotics officer in the U.S.

• Atty. Reuben S. Dawkins of Newton, practicing trial attorney and an outstanding criminal defense attorney.

• Atty. Edward F. Harrington, a partner in the law firm of Gargan, Harrington, Markham and Walsh, former candidate for attorney general and present chairman of the Alcoholic Beverages Control Commission.

• Captain Bernard Fleming, Prosecutor for the Brookline Police Department, with extensive experience in the Superior Court. He is past president of the Norfolk County Prosecutors' Association.

Auxiliary Police Officers Begin Training

Approximately 20 auxiliary police officers began training at Civil Defense headquarters last week to participate in the Neighborhood Watch Program.

The program, headed by Lt. William Murphy of the Quincy Police Department, allows residents to join together with their neighbors in a group effort aimed at deterring crime in their area.

Mayor Walter J. Hannon, addressing the group prior to the start of their instruction, cited the 13 per cent decrease in burglaries during the first six months of this year as proof of the success of the Neighborhood Watch Program. He said:

"The utilization of auxiliary police officers to assist police personnel in conducting neighborhood meetings will enable the program to reach a greater number of groups throughout the community."

The officers will be trained in residential security and crime prevention and will be fully familiar with the operation of the city's total crime prevention program.

Requests for Neighborhood Watch meetings should be directed to the police department, Office of Planning and Research.

Fred Antoon Receives Commission

Fred A. Antoon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred J. Antoon of 102 Baxter Ave., Quincy Point, has been commissioned a second lieutenant through the Air Force Reserve Officers Training Corps program and awarded his bachelor of science degree in

Take Fight To Washington

Quincy, MDC Officials Protest Quincy Bay Filling

Quincy and MDC officials met Tuesday with Massachusetts Congressmen in Washington, D.C. to protest a proposed plan to fill 26 acres of Quincy Bay to construct a secondary sewerage treatment plant.

Mayor Walter J. Hannon, Senator-City Council President Arthur H. Tobin, City Councillors Dennis Harrington and Leo J. Kelly, chairman and vice-chairman respectively of the city council's environmental control committee, and MDC Commissioner John F. Snedeker were scheduled to meet with U.S. Representatives James A. Burke and Joseph Moakley and members of the federal Water Quality Committee to discuss alternatives to the plan.

This journey to Washington was first suggested two weeks ago when city, MDC and Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) officials met at City Hall to plot the proper course of action in expressing their vehement opposition to the filling-in of 26 acres of Quincy Bay.

Although federal regulations now require implementation of secondary treatment at all primary sewage plants [like Nut Island] in the next few years, the local delegation favors upgrading of the existing primary treatment plant at Nut Island and the extension of existing treated wastewater outflows deep into Massachusetts Bay.

To accomplish this, Harrington said Congress must pass legislation amending the current secondary treatment requirements. He said:

"Our committee has met with every state agency and with the federal EPA at Boston. After dozens of meetings, it is apparent no state agency nor the regional EPA can change the requirements for secondary treatment at the Harbor Treatment Plants. It is only possible to bring about a change in the proposed plans by Congressional action."

Kelly said the delegation planned to bring with them a copy of a study stating secondary treatment is not needed at ocean treatment plants such as Nut Island. According to Kelly, building of secondary treatment plants at Nut and Deer Island would cost one-third of the total $1 billion plan to upgrade and decentralize the MDC sewage system. Kelly said:

"That is an astonishing amount of money to implement a project that many experts feel is not required in harbor treatment plants - and especially when all revenue comes from the taxpayer."

Kelly said the filling in of 26 acres of Quincy Bay would herald "the ruination of the beaches" along the Quincy shore, causing degeneration into "a coastline of stinking mud flats."

Meanwhile Rep. Thomas F. Brownell launched "a personal and public campaign" to help defeat what he called a "ridiculous recommendation" to fill 26 acres of Quincy Bay for expansion at the Nut Island Sewage Treatment facility.

Brownell says he plans to speak to civic groups in Quincy and throughout the South Shore, "explaining the economic and environmental imprudence" of the plan.

The representative began his campaign Tuesday, addressing the Houghs Neck Community Council.

Brownell noted the recommendation to fill Quincy Bay is included in a Metropolitan Wastewater Management Engineering study and said officials refuse to delete the plan from the study.

He said he will also seek public support of legislation he has filed to prohibit Metropolitan District Commission expansion of the Nut Island Plant. He said:

"It was not long ago when the public was angered by the attempt of former Judge Troy to fill tidal lands in Dorchester to create a marina. Similarly, I believe the public will be enraged at this recommendation to fill in 26 acres of seawater in Quincy Bay."

Along with Boston and 11 other neighboring cities, Quincy is to be included in a $62,610 MDC tree and shrub planting project.

The new plantings along roads and parkways will increase the total number of plantings in the four-year-old program to more than 13,000.

Nightwear Is Rightwear

Is it a hostess gown, a dinner gown or a nightgown? The answer to all three is a resounding, "Yes!"

Today's versatile, brightly hued sleepwear fashions change their look to suit the occasion, and whether you're entertaining company or putting a gleam in hubby's eye, you'll look beautifully feminine when you step off of Cloud 9 into the luxurious world of at-home elegance.

The flowing, bare shouldered evening look, or the softly draped, empire waisted peasant style adapts itself to wearing for intimate evenings at home. Fluid lines add to easy comfort while you prepare hors d'oeuvres, mix cocktails, or settle down to some romantic music. "For a personal, YOU touch, add a string of pearls or chiffon neck scarf," suggests Elizabeth Erotas, Fashion Director for Queen's-Way to Fashion, a leading direct selling firm featuring fashions and accessories for women, men and children.

Faunt a million dollar look at a minimum cost when you use your imagination to create at-home fashions from your nightwear wardrobe! Sleepwear creeps out of the fashion closet to make its appearance as chic evening wear, and no one will suspect that tonight's becoming hostess gown was last night's dream gown.

Caramel Apples For Family Night Fun

During the fall, plan some family night fun. Spend an evening making one of everybody's favorite treats — Caramel Apples; or shape up some Confetti Mallow Popcorn Balls, delicious crunchy treats studded with chopped gumdrops.

To make Caramel Apples, you'll need a 14-oz. bag of caramels and some water. Just melt caramels with water in a covered saucepan and dip apples into the hot mixture. Invite your family to decorate apples with cereal or miniature marshmallows. Set out raisins, chopped nuts and coconut too; they're all tasty toppings for delicious caramel apples.

Although crisp, juicy apples and creamy caramels are available year 'round, apples are in greatest abundance in autumn. The International Apple Institute reminds you that you can use your favorite harvest-time variety for Caramel Apple-making, making sure that the fruit is firm and vivid in color. They also suggest you wash and dry apples thoroughly for best results.

The apple industry expects a bumper crop this fall, so you'll find plenty of apples in the produce section of your supermarket. You'll find caramels there too, as well as on the candy shelf, with sticks for making Caramel Apples right in the bag.

Caramel Apples

49 (14-oz. bag) caramels
2 tablespoons water
4 or 5 medium size apples, washed, dried Wooden sticks

Melt caramels with water in covered double boiler or in saucepan over low heat. Stir occasionally until sauce is smooth. Insert a wooden stick into stem end of each apple.

Dip into hot caramel sauce; turn until coated. Scrape off excess sauce from bottom of apples. Place on greased waxed paper; chill until firm. Keep in a cool place.

Variation: Before chilling apples, roll in crisp rice cereal or dot with Kraft miniature marshmallows, cut in half.

Confetti Mallow Popcorn Balls
4 cups miniature marshmallows

1/2 cup Parkay margarine

1/2 teaspoon vanilla

1/2 teaspoon salt

3 quarts unsalted popped corn

1 cup chopped gum drops

Melt marshmallows with margarine in saucepan over low heat; stir occasionally until smooth. Stir in vanilla and salt. Pour mixture over combined popped corn and gum drops; toss lightly until well coated. With hands slightly moistened with water, shape into 1 1/2-inch balls; place on greased baking sheet.

3 dozen balls

STITCHING WITCHERY

Dear Betty: I have several pair of slacks that are too short in the crotch in the back. When I sit or stoop they slide down and are uncomfortable. Is there any way I can fit them? — Beaulah Weaver, Indiana, Pa.

Sure is. Just add a little rise. Back the crotch point area of your back pattern piece with tissue paper. On the paper, extend the crotch curve the needed amount. Redraw the inside leg seam, tapering to the original seam line. This will give you more curve (rise) in the back and prevent your slacks from pulling down when you sit. Do not change the front pattern piece.

On slacks that are already made, there isn't a lot you can do unless you have a little seam allowance at the crotch seam that can be let out.

His mother-in-law has a rough tongue

By JOHN MOON
Copley News Service

Dear John:

My mother-in-law is a female Don Rickles.

She has a tongue made of barbed wire, broken glass and old razor blades.

I never win an argument with her. Do you have any ideas?

A Loser

Dear A Loser:

Yes.

Don't argue with her.

Arguing with a mother-in-law can lose you a bride.

Also, arguing with a mother-in-law is like engaging in a you-know-what contest with a skunk.

You are bound to lose.

Best way, when you come to verbal grips, is to say:

"Oh, what the heck."

And let her know that the subject is of no importance and should be dismissed.

That succeeded with my mother-in-law.

However, she had the last word.

She said the words, "Oh, what the heck," would be engraved on my tombstone as an epitaph.

But the arguments died. And we got along just fine.

Dear John:

You are an old man.

Maybe you can define a couple of terms that my grandparents use around the house all the time.

They talk of goose grease and elbow grease.

What are they? Are grandpa and grandpa being dirty? New Generation

Dear New:

I ain't so old, and they ain't being dirty.

Goose grease is put on your chest to fight off a cold. Elbow grease is what you put on the end of a broom or whatever other instrument of work that is to be used.

I suggest that you sit down with grandma and grandpa and get acquainted with them.

Dear John:

I have gone to college and have a degree.

But I am never called an "intellectual."

Please describe a so-called intellectual.

Educated,

But Not Intellectual

Dear Educated:

An intellectual you are. An intellectual I am.

But the word "intellectual" is used contemptuously to describe a lot of well-educated types who go around with both feet planted squarely in mid-air.

They are the type who see all sides of every issue and, therefore, sees nothing.

Just chat with one and ask him a question.

He usually will reply:

"I am delighted you brought up that point. Now you can look at it this way and that way, and 15 other ways. There are many facts."

"And you must assume this and assume that and assume 15 other things."

"Then, perhaps, everything being equal, maybe this is so. However, that is still open to question."

To this type, you just say, "Bull!"

And leave him, for he will never agree that two plus two equals four, or that black is black and white is white, but varying shades of gray.

That type will be on the launching pad forever. He can never agree on anything to give him a springboard off life.

He will be an educated hobo so far as getting things done.

Your Horoscope Guide

For The Week Of Oct. 26 To Nov. 1
By GINA, Copley News Service

ARIES: (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19 — Also Aries Ascendant) — Recognition for fine, error-free work will be forth coming now. Succumbing to impulse and restlessness could cause trouble in personal life. Attend to health and diet needs. Good time to lose weight.

TAURUS: (Apr. 20 to May 20 — Also Taurus Ascendant) — Move with caution and concentration to avoid physical mishaps. Someone you meet now really needs you and there is meaning for you both in the relationship. Take the initiative in pursuing your work goals.

GEMINI: (May 21 to June 20 — Also Gemini Ascendant) — Keep your "nose to the grindstone" at work — others are watching. Be open and honest in your positions and don't get caught up in childish, gossip, activities. Don't talk about your own private affairs.

CANCER: (June 21 to July 22 — Also Cancer Ascendant) — Don't let childish temperament interfere with doing your job. Give some thought to budget matters — be thrifty. A creative work project could bring public attention, and others may be envious. Ignore it.

LEO: (July 23 to Aug. 22 — Also Leo Ascendant) — Nostalgia for the carefree life of youth could lead you into mistakes of judgment. Guard against excesses of any kind. Call on your patience and perseverance to see you through. Wait for developments.

VIRGO: (Aug. 23 to Sept. 22 — Also Virgo Ascendant) — Grouchy and negative moods could reflect on your appearance and prestige now. Expressions of resentment toward another endangers your position. Family members may be irritating but don't be critical.

LIBRA: (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22 — Also Libra Ascendant) — Extend yourself in friendship to one who is ill or confined. Frustrating financial problems are temporary and can be patiently worked out. Consider carefully before accepting a business opportunity.

SCORPIO: (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21 — Also Scorpio Ascendant) — Look at the situation from the other person's viewpoint when you feel overworked. Be patient with other's shortcomings. Keep your work performance A-1. Career efforts are coming to culmination.

SAGITTARIUS: (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21 — Also Sagittarius Ascendant) — Work on your secret projects with an eye to discovering a new approach. The clue toward solution could come from someone you consider "unconventional." Be persistent and give work your very best effort.

CAPRICORN: (Dec. 22 to Jan. 19 — Also Capricorn Ascendant) — Domestic life is in a state of change and adjustment. Travel is a possibility. Guard against impulse in your need to break with the old. A new love could enter your life and bring contentment.

AQUARIUS: (Jan. 20 to Feb. 18 — Also Aquarius Ascendant) — You could be overly idealistic now. Keep your attention on the job at hand and let social life wait until later. You can feel insecure in a new situation now. Curb the tendency to "tell your troubles."

PISCES: (Feb. 19 to Mar. 20 — Also Pisces Ascendant) — Unexpected changes, possibly affecting your residence, could occur now. Avoid feeling uprooted and distraught. Accept the change philosophically. Curb tendency toward extravagance in clothing purchases.

Far forward slant shows attitude

By DOROTHY
ST. JOHN JACKSON

Dear Dorothy:

I am single in my late 40s. I was laid off after working for one company for almost a quarter of a century. I've given my all to my job for all these years and now look what they've done to me. This has made me very nervous, and I don't want to do anything or go anywhere. What is life made of anyway?

F. J.

Dear F. J.:

Life is made up of little bits of everything... accomplishments, disappointments, pain, and fun!

Twenty-five years tied you to your job and your surroundings.

Suddenly, the strings went snap, and your security went poof! Twenty-five years in one place made you a fixture. Naturally, you felt your position, but, on you, it showed, through your far forward slant!

You were beginning to make demands upon those younger in the business than you, seen in the slanted t crossings. You enjoyed being in charge! You resented anyone who passed you in rank, anyone who took advantage of your position in any way, seen in the long rigid beginning upstrokes. Because of your very expressive nature, your attitude showed, all over the place!

The complete lack of lower loops indicate that, through the years, you neglected to remember that where you go in life and how you get there depends upon the help you get from other people. They either support you because they like you and want to, or they don't support you at all! You have, unfortunately, gathered few, if any, into your friendship circle!

The pure joy of living comes when we mean something special to someone, and someone means something special to us!

Life hands you a "raw" deal only when you keep peeling it down to the core!

HAY FEVER VACATIONS

Hay fever is a reaction to pollen from three principal sources: trees and bushes pollinating in the spring; grasses and weeds pollinating in the summer; and particularly, ragweed in the fall.

Hay fever can be as troublesome as a severe head cold at times, and although the condition is usually associated with fall ragweed, it can occur through much of the year.

Many hay fever sufferers arrange to take their vacations during the height of the hay fever season that causes the most problems for them. They seek areas where the pollen count is reported to be low.

States in the U.S. having a low pollen count include parts of Alabama, Arizona, California, Colorado, Florida, Hawaii, Idaho, Maine, Michigan, Minnesota, Montana, Nevada, New Hampshire, New York, Oregon, Utah, Vermont, Washington, Wyoming, Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands. Nearby Canada and Mexico are also listed among the low pollen areas.

MILESTONE — Mr. and Mrs. John Gilfeather of Wollaston celebrate their 25th wedding anniversary at dinner dance.

Mr., Mrs. John Gilfeather Honored on 25th Anniversary

More than 100 guests gathered at Anthony's Pier 4 aboard the S.S. Peter Stuyvesant for a dinner and dance to celebrate the 25th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. John Gilfeather, 55 West Elm Ave., Wollaston.

The party was hosted by Daniel C. Dibona, Mrs. Gilfeather's father, and the couple's three children; Barry, a journeyman plumber; and Brian and Marie, both Quincy High School students.

The couple were married Oct. 15, 1950 at St. John's Church, Quincy. Both are life-long Quincy residents. Gilfeather is a Quincy police officer, a member of the Quincy Elks, the Mass. Police Association, and the YMCA.

Special guests were the Gilfeathers' maid of honor, Mrs. Dorothy Riloff of Braintree, and their best man, Alfred Radley of Quincy.

Squantum Catholic Women To See 'Styles Through The Years'

The Catholic Womens' Club of Squantum will sponsor the Morgan Memorial Goodwill Industries fashion show "Styles Through The Years" Tuesday, Oct. 28, at 8 p.m. in the Star of the Sea Church, Mary Hall, Bellevue Rd., Squantum.

Newly installed officers Elizabeth Dunn, president; Ester Graham, first vice-president; and Marjorie Hughes invite prospective members and other interested women to attend.

Mrs. Elin Cochrane, program chairman, reports at least 60 people are expected to attend the program. "This is purely a fun, social evening," she said. "Bring a friend to enjoy those grand old styles with you."

Admission to the show is free. Refreshments will follow the program.

The authentic fashions to be shown date, back to 1800, through the "Flapper" period, the bustled hoop skirts of the 19th century, to present fads and styles.

Seven to 12 male and female models walk among the audience so they can examine the wide array of changing fashions more closely.

Favorite styles include the hats, high laced shoes, elaborate ball gowns, and old fashioned gym and swim suits for men and women. The display of 1800 undergarments is one of the evening's most popular highlights.

Ward 2 Halloween Dance Saturday

The Ward 2 Civic Association will sponsor a Halloween Dance Saturday at the Fore River Club House, Nevada Rd, Quincy Point.

Music will be provided by Guy Oliveri and his orchestra from 8 p.m. to 12 midnight.

Costumes are optional.

Committee members planning the event are Projects Chairman Ted DeCristofaro, Owen Eaton, Phyllis Bagen, Ted Harrington, Angelo DiGravio, James Lyons, Pamela Corrasella and Richard Curtin.

Mrs. John Bagen Chairman Woodward Holiday Fair

Mrs. John Bagen, who was in charge of the Woodward School's successful 1974 Fair, has accepted the chairmanship of the 7th annual Holiday Fair to be held at the school Saturday, Nov. 15th, under the auspices of the Woodward School Mothers' Club. Announcement was made by Mrs. Paul Brouillard, president.

Mrs. Sidney Hajjar has accepted the co-chairmanship of the Holiday Fair, and Mrs. Richard Purnell is serving as coordinator. The following members are in charge of booths:

Christmas Decorations, Mrs. Albert Kelley, assisted by Mrs. Paul Brouillard; knitwear, Mrs. John Morris, assisted by Mrs. Joseph Barbour; boutique, Mrs.

Robert Shine, assisted by Mrs. Richard Purnell; country store, Mrs. George King; baked goods, Mrs. Donald Deware; white elephant, Mrs. Sidney Hajjar and Mrs. Paul Moriarty; books, Mrs. John Bagen.

John Morris, Richard Purnell and Clifford Masticola are in charge of setting up the booths.

Craft sessions are held Tuesdays and Thursdays at 7:30 p.m., and Wednesdays from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. The sessions are open to all interested parents, alumnae and friends.

The annual Holiday Fair is the school's most important fund raising event. Proceeds will benefit the Woodward School Scholarship and Equipment Funds.

Election Getting Like Abbott & Costello Routine

By HENRY BOSWORTH

The Nov. 4 city election is getting so confusing it's beginning to sound like that old Abbott & Costello routine, "Who's on first?" By now everyone should know that William Delahunt and Marilyn Hanabury have withdrawn as candidates even though their names will appear on the ballot.

Delahunt who tried to get off the ballot as a councillor at-large candidate after being named Norfolk County district attorney is pleading with voters not to vote for him.

And Mrs. Hanabury who now wants to be elected state representative instead of Ward 5 councillor is urging voters to vote for incumbent Warren Powers who was to have been her opponent.

That's still pretty confusing. But there is still more confusion over two other candidates who are on the ballot and want to be elected.

People are still mixing up Harold Davis and Paul Harold who are running for council at-large. In fact, just last week at a candidates program at Quincy High School, Harold was introduced as Davis and Davis as Harold.

There have even been times when one has been referred to as Paul Davis and the other as Hal Harold.

Maybe City Clerk John Gillis should assign each candidate a number and jersey and pass out scorecards to make it easier to keep track of the candidates and non-candidates this year.

SPEAKING ABOVE Of all the political confusion, Paul Harold has another headache, too. The windows next to Harold's Quincy Sq. headquarters with Walter Hannon's signs in them may miff Joseph LaRaia supporters. Actually, the windows are those of the South Shore Building Trades Council whose offices are sandwiched between Harold's two rooms. From the street, however, the windows look like they are part of Harold's headquarters. Harold says he is definitely neutral in the mayor's race but the signs are making it difficult to convince everyone.

SOMETIMES YOU WONDER if this old world might be running out of nice people. Well, there are still a lot of them around. It's just that you keep hearing and reading about the other kind.

An old friend and former colleague of mine at the now gone Boston Herald Traveler sends along a note about one of those nice people.

Joe McLaughlin whose popular "Tell It To Joe" column appears now in the Boston Herald American lives on South St., Quincy. He writes:

"Now that you have retreated bloody, but unbowed from the Ms. battle, it might be appropriate to let it be known there are an awful lot of 'good people' out there.

"How often have so many of us moaned over what has happened to people: decency has gone; no one cares about anyone but themselves, etc?"

"Next time you hear me make any of those remarks, boot me, because a gentleman from Quincy answered all three of those remarks last week in Quincy City Hospital.

"My wife underwent surgery there and required quite a few transfusions of blood. Replacement of blood is the urgent need today. Simply paying for the transfusions does nothing to ease the critical shortage.

"I am most grateful that a number of my friends went to Quincy Hospital to donate their blood. However, and I would suppose it's a by-product of the newspaper business, several were turned down because their blood pressure was too high.

"While the nurse was explaining things, [to two rejected donors], a man who overheard the conversation explained he had come to the hospital to donate his blood because of the shortage..." and if you don't mind, I'd like to donate it to the person you came to give blood to."

"Henry, that was one of the nicest gestures a person could make. I have never had the pleasure of meeting this man-Joseph Clifford of 18 Greenview St., Quincy-but I extend to him my sincere and heartfelt thanks.

"Come to think of it, if more of us-including myself-emulated the concern and kindness of people like Mr. Clifford, there never would be occasion to wonder, ... 'what has happened to people?'"

"P.S. Mary's coming along fine now."

"THE WARD 2 FRIENDS" of Mayor Hannon are holding a dance in his honor tonight [Thursday] at Montello's, Massachusetts Ave., Quincy Point. Music by "The Best In Sound."

QUINCY'S SAM MELE, special assignment scout for the Red Sox who is again serving as a coach for the Sox rookie team in the Florida Instructional League, recently received the supreme compliment. Cal Griffith, owner of the Minnesota Twins, in an interview, said, "The biggest mistake I ever made in baseball was firing Sam Mele as manager." Sam was let go after piloting the Twins to the American League pennant in 1965. Incidentally, that year the Twins won 17 of their 18 games with the Red Sox. And who says nice guys finish last?

OBSERVATION via the Quincy Kiwanis Club newsletter: "It seems that our road manners become more crude as our gasoline becomes more refined."

Hannon, LaRaia Exchange Hot Words Over Debate

been discussed as possible sites for the debate.

LaRaia also says Hannon has criticized the date of the debate, claiming, Hannon said, LaRaia would not debate last Sunday because the city councillor needed time to prepare." LaRaia said:

"The fact of the matter is that I had previous commitments Sunday night. We did suggest, however, to hold the debate two days later on Tuesday night or even Thursday night, but the mayor's people would not agree."

Joseph Shea, Hannon's executive secretary, said the mayor also had previous commitments Tuesday and Thursday.

Disgruntled with Hannon's criticisms, LaRaia said his committee must "reassess the situation." He said:

"My committee has worked long hours preparing this debate and to hear Mr. Hannon's comments disappoints me gravely. We find the mayor's position on the debate to be utterly incomprehensible and ludicrous. In view of the mayor's attempts to diminish a grave and critical forum into a mockery, my committee feels it is necessary to reassess the situation."

According to the mayor's office, the debate "is go". Shea told The Quincy Sun:

"In keeping with our statement - 'any time, any place' - we've bent over backwards to help him - LaRaia - his building, his format, his moderator. We are working very hard for this debate and we're taking it seriously and we're going to be there. It's a go as far as we are concerned."

If the debate transpires, four issues agreed upon by both camps will be discussed: The South Quincy MBTA Station, crime, cost of government and North Quincy High School.

The format of the debate is as follows. A moderator - still to be selected at press time - will alternately ask each candidate two questions on each of the four issues. Each candidate's two questions will be prepared prior to the debate by members of the opposing camp.

A candidate will have two minutes to answer each question with the other candidate given one minute for rebuttal and response. The candidate originally questioned will then have the opportunity to close the question with a one minute summation.

Each candidate will be allowed three minutes for opening statements and three minutes for closing statements, bringing the total debate time to one hour and 16 minutes.

The LaRaia camp had initially wanted to include the cemetery issue in the debate but later agreed to withdraw the suggestion even though Hannon said he would gladly entertain questions on the cemetery issue and on any issue.

LaRaia said, "I don't need the cemetery to be an issue to get elected."

While Hannon said LaRaia "doesn't want to discuss the issues," LaRaia in turn said Hannon is "evading him." The Mayor said:

"Mr. LaRaia doesn't want to discuss the issues...If I have been doing such a terrible job as mayor, he should have said, 'Let's talk about North Quincy High School, let's talk about the South Quincy MBTA Station, let's talk about this and this and find out what separates us.'"

But LaRaia says only Hannon's "department heads" have responded to issues he says he has raised during the campaign. He said:

"In the past four months he [Hannon] has positively been evading the issues. I've talked about issues. Only his department heads have responded."

Both candidates see themselves as differing philosophically in their overall approach to government. Asked what differentiated himself from LaRaia, Hannon replied:

"I'm a positive guy who feels the city of Quincy needs to grow in order not to become another Boston, for example. We must grow with the times, get a greater tax base and employment.

"My opponent is a negative guy. It's easy to be against things. And the people who sign his ads were the ones against State Street South, against Kemper Insurance.

"That's the basic difference. I'm a positive guy and he's a negative guy."

Given his turn to pinpoint the overall difference between himself and Hannon, LaRaia said:

"I feel I'm a people's candidate and I don't represent vested interests. I feel the decisions in the mayor's office should be an accumulation of ideas filtered through individuals and community organizations which reflect the city in its entirety.

"The mayor's positions on issues have been arbitrary, often not representing public opinion. The mayor acts on what he feels as an individual he is right in doing. It's been carried too far."

'Leave Our Bay Alone'

Editor, Quincy Sun:

If the Metropolitan District Commission is allowed to fill in 26 acres of Quincy Bay adjacent to Nut Island, its devastation is imminent. The shoreline from Houghs Neck, Adams Shore, Merrymount and Wollaston will become a mud flat with all its accompanying odors. A researcher assigned to the city's Dept. of Planning and Community Development has compiled a report that this landfill would drastically alter current flows and could result in hydrogen sulfide odors which smell like rotten eggs.

Nut Island already handles the sewerage for 22 cities and towns like Framingham, Wellesley, Newton, Natick, Canton, to name a few, now we are being told to give up our beaches, clam beds, fishing and boating area and eventually our homes when the smell get bad, so that we can better handle more for them.

I ask the citizens of all Quincy to urge our local, state and federal officials to force the MDC to use an alternate plan and leave our bay alone. If they would update the primary treatment plant at Nut Island and run that efficiently, along with satellite plants along the Charles and Neponset Rivers, not only would we still have our bay, but it would be a lot cleaner.

Fire Dept. Checks Possibility Of 'Tot Finder' Stickers

The Quincy Fire Department will investigate the possibility of providing free "tot-finder" stickers for families, making it easier to locate children in case of a fire.

Ward 4 Councillor James A.

Sheets initiated the request for "tot-finders" responding to inquiries by interested parents.

These stickers are pasted on bedroom windows where children sleep, alerting firefighters to the number of children sleeping in that room and making it easier to locate the youngsters.

Sheets said other cities and towns in the state now distribute these "tot-finder" stickers at no cost through their local fire stations.

E. Mass. Street Railway Union Accepts Contract

After five months of negotiating, William McNeill, president of the Quincy local of the Eastern Mass. Street Railways Union, announced that a new 18-month contract had been accepted.

Under the new contract, employees would receive a basic monthly wage of $1.75 an hour, an increase of 10 cents. Originally, employees had asked for a 30 cent boost.

MERCHANTS OPPOSE SOUTHERN ARTERY MEDIAN STRIP

Merchants along the Southern Artery voiced opposition this week to plans which called for the building of a center strip median down the roadway.

Reconstruction of the artery by the state was scheduled to begin next spring, but merchants wanted the median strip taken out of the plans. They said it would seriously cut down on their volume of trade, since motorists would be prevented from cutting across the road to reach businesses on the opposite side.

RED FEATHER CAMPAIGN GOES DOOR-TO-DOOR

More than 1,500 volunteer workers were busy this week ringing door bells as the final phase of the Quincy Red Feather Drive got underway. William Harris, chairman of the residential division said his unit's quota was $26,940. The annual open house was scheduled on Sunday night at Chest Headquarters at the Adams Academy. At that time, initial results of the weekend drive would be reported. Mr. and Mrs. Alf Swensen were in charge of preparing refreshments for the volunteers making reports.

CHURCH MEMBERS PAINT HOUSE

Twenty-five men from First Presbyterian Church of Quincy went to Weymouth this week to paint the house of fellow parishioner John Young, a recent polio victim.

Mr. Young had made an excellent recovery since being stricken and had since returned to his teaching position at North Quincy High School.

Serving refreshments to the workers were Mrs. John Young, Mrs. Wallace Pearson, Mrs. John Smith, Mrs. Alton Horte, Mrs. Marshall Miller, Mrs. Alexander Warrington, Mrs. Henry Bishop and Mrs. William Souden.

NORTH QUINCY WATER BREAK

A water main burst in North Quincy early Saturday night, causing several thousands of dollars damage to furnaces and clothes and furniture stored in cellars.

At noon Saturday, emergency workers from the fire, highway and water departments were still pumping out cellars on Faxon Rd., Gordon St., and French St. The yard of White Brothers Milk Co. was covered by several feet of water and it was necessary to tow out a dozen trucks so that the company could deliver its milk.

NEW BACKFIELD FOR QHS

Injury-riddled Quincy High School prepared to meet Malden with an entirely new backfield unit. Coach William Sullivan said, "We are no longer a passing team. I don't know if we're even a running one, either."

Sullivan was expected to start Sophomore Tom Connors at quarterback to replace the injured Ronnie Leone. Missing from the once powerful backfield was Dick Pakalmis, Dick Derbes and Jack Brown.

The Raiders were attempting to make it two in a row, after their victory over New Bedford at the beginning of the week.

BUILDING A REGIONAL ECONOMY

A Better Way

By ERIC SWIDER

Malicious vandalism and shoplifting are two problems concerning more and more businesses.

For the last four years, the Chamber has conducted at this time of the year, program development sessions around the area with business and community leaders to determine what programs or projects we should undertake to assist improved economic conditions in the marketplace.

Up until three weeks ago, I would have had to report that incidences of vandalism and shoplifting were scattered and isolated and nothing we need worry about much. The result of the recent round of sessions leads me to conclude that these two activities are almost as menacing to the business climate here as our inordinately high property taxes, and that a well organized business effort to combat them is essential.

For the last several months, through the initiative of Albert Kramer, presiding Justice of the Quincy District Court, which serves about half of our turf, we have been working to create a program that allows for the quicker administration of justice and the issuance of sentences and fines that give the first offender something to pause over, and encourage them not to become repeaters.

Kramer, who is new to his job and has a desire to innovate if he can see it resulting in better court management and more effective justice, has put forth several new ideas which he has invited business people to visit with him about on Thursday, October 30 at 7 p.m. in his court room in Quincy.

Kramer has labeled his program "A Better Way," and it surrounds four basic elements:

* The "EARN IT" Program: As a better way to treat the first offender where damage is done to property of others, the program would require that the juvenile or young adult pay restitution for the damage himself by EARNING it.

Businesses will be asked to join the EARN IT 100 CLUB - to contribute 100 hours at minimum wage for the offender to earn the money to pay for the damages themselves.

* Traffic Safety: As a better way to deal with driving to endanger and speeding cases, the offender would be required to attend driving safety workshops [average 20 persons] once a week for a period of weeks. Instruction, safety movies, and in-the-car driving analysis will be given under a program conducted by the court in the evening.

The offender would pay the $25.00 [approximately] fee for his or her own education. Individuals who cannot afford the fee would be provided fifteen hours of work from the "EARN IT" Program to pay their own way.

* More Efficient Prosecution of Bad Checks - Shoplifting - Civil Actions: As a better way for businesses to prosecute offenses against them or to recover money due them, special scheduling of these cases will be arranged through special sessions.

At specific times on specific days, groups of cases affecting a single business can be heard all at once reducing the number of days and the waiting time wasted by employees attempting to prosecute each case individually.

* Speedier Sentencing for Those Convicted of Serious Crimes: As a better and more effective way to reduce the time, usually one year, that individuals are allowed to walk the streets after jail sentence from District Court, awaiting appeal to the Supreme Court, legislation will be suggested to reduce the time to three months so that the guilty serve their sentences immediately and the innocent are cleared without undue delay.

While this program does not address the entire problem of crime, vandalism, and shoplifting for this area, it is a good start and we are hopeful that businesspeople who are interested in confronting the problem and helping solve it will take advantage of their day in court - Thursday, October 30 at 7:00 p.m.

[Eric Swider is Executive Vice-President of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce].

LIVING TODAY

'Men Who Need A Mother'

By DR. WILLIAM F. KNOX

An adult wife wants a husband to be an adult male companion ... self sufficient ... responsible ... and on an equal plane with her. She doesn't want to be his mother. But if an adult wife discovers that her man really needs a mother ... rather than an adult male to female relationship ... she's probably going to question her wisdom in marrying this man.

A child is able to learn by experimenting ... by taking responsibility for his own actions ... for learning to care for his own basic needs ... for learning to be considerate of other people. The servant mother stunts the growth of the boy ... so that he continues to need a mother.

Another reason why some males keep on needing a mother is the BAD EXAMPLE in the relationship they saw between their father and mother. If father puts down his mother ... if he treated her as a subordinate ... servant woman ... who waits on his every need ... chances are that father's son may expect the same of his wife.

The third ... some boys grew up WITHOUT A MOTHER and know nothing of how to treat a woman ... or his relationship with a woman. Jack had only a strong rigid father from the time he was four years old. He knows nothing of tenderness ... or equality between a man and a woman. So, he is insolent ... inconsiderate ... ugly ... rough ... treats his wife more as a dog than a woman. Some such men are even cruel using physical abuse.

When a woman finds herself in such a relationship, she's wise to take immediate steps to get the situation changed ... by counseling if the husband will. If not, her best alternative may be to get out. No one needs to be abused. Marriage does not call for that.

Of course ... there are women who think of their mission in life as being to "love, serve, and obey" a man. Then ... that's the kind of woman the fellow wants who needs a mother. But these women are becoming more and more scarce ... except in some of the under-developed countries. I'm always a little distressed when I hear some service man tell about how great are the women in Europe and Asia and the Islands of the Pacific because they "know their place" ... really know how to "please a man". That usually means they walk four paces behind a man ... care for his children ... his sexual needs ... his laundry and meals and chores ... in all ways she is subordinate to the man. [These fellows usually speak also of how the good black man "knows his place"]. This sort of talk and attitude is repulsive to the enlightened man. A real man sees people as equals, regardless of their sex or color. The man who "needs a mother" really needs a servant girl ... not an adult woman as a wife.

For that matter ... I find abhorrent the content in which I'm using the term "Mother". A mother isn't a house servant. A little boy of two NEEDS a mother to care for his basic needs. To feed him ... clothe him ... and shelter him ... to dispel his fears ... to toilet train him ... to teach him basic principles of how to cope with life ... how to be an adult male. THAT'S NOT THE JOB OF A WIFE. These should have been accomplished long before the fellow marries.

What causes a male to keep on needing a mother? For one thing ... TOO MUCH MOTHERING in his childhood. A happy child is a growing child.

A man who needs a woman for a mother, can learn how to treat a wife ... how to benefit from the relationship. He may be teachable. He may not.

But until he learns ... don't be his mother.

St. Joseph's Church To Observe 'Vocation Awareness Days'

St. Joseph's Church in Quincy Point will observe "Vocation Awareness Days" Oct. 25 and 26, encouraging parishioners to examine the meaning of present-day religious vocation as lived through the priesthood, sisterhood and brotherhood.

During Masses on those two days, representatives from such religious communities as the Franciscans, Maryknolls, Sisters of St. Joseph, Sisters of Notre Dame and the Diocesan Clergy will speak to the congregation on their personal acceptance of a religious vocation.

During the week of Oct. 27, grammar school and CCD classes will have an opportunity to meet men and women from these visiting religious orders, to discuss their particular work in the Church.

A "Preparation Week" will be observed Oct. 20-24. Grammar school and CCD children will be encouraged to create posters, collages, banners and displays carrying the theme of "Celebrate Vocations." All artwork will be on display in the parish hall during "Vocation Awareness Days."

Encouraging observance of these special days, Rev. Joseph J. Downey, pastor at St. Mary's said:

"It is hoped that through these 'Vocation Awareness Days' as many people as possible will see that a religious vocation is a very real and unique way of serving God and his people in the Church."

Big Sister Director To Speak At QJWV Breakfast

Carol Huntington, executive director of the Big Sister Association of Greater Boston, will be the guest speaker at the 25th annual "Citizen of the Year" breakfast of the Quincy Jewish War Veterans to be held Sunday, Nov. 2 at Beth Israel Synagogue.

The breakfast will begin at 9:30 a.m. with the Big Sister

Association of Greater Boston being honored for helping girls reach self-development through the help of a volunteer woman.

Executive director of the Association since February of 1974, Miss Huntington has also served as community organizer for the Youth Activities Commission, staff associate for the Task Force on Children Out of School, and has taught kindergarten in the Marshall Islands.

A graduate of Hood College, Miss Huntington earned a master's degree from Boston University School of Social Work.

Co-chairman of the breakfast are Past Commanders Irving Isaacson and Allen Kofman.

Commander Bernard Pokat of Hull presided during the event.

Point Congregational To Have Youth Choir

Quincy Point Congregational Church is starting a youth choir for youngsters from grades three through eight.

The choir's first meeting will be held Friday, at 3:30 p.m. in the church's Fellowship Lounge. Director of the new choir will be Carla Errichiello, a senior at Eastern Nazarene College. She is a piano major and has also assisted in the leadership of choirs at the Wollaston Baptist Church.

Fontbonne Father-Daughter

Communion Breakfast Nov. 8

Paul V. Daly of Quincy, vice president of the Fathers' Club at Fontbonne Academy, has been named general chairman of the father-daughter communion breakfast to be held Sunday, Nov. 9 at the Academy.

The event will begin at 9 a.m. with the celebration of Mass, followed by a collation.

Guest speaker will be Rev. William L. Butler, executive director of the Archdiocesan Commission for Parish Councils.

Tickets for the event may be obtained by contacting Ticket Chairman James Glennon Sr., at 52 Tower St., Jamaica Plain.

'T.A. In Marriage' Series at Union

"Transactional-analysis (T.A.) in Marriage," a series of seven lecture and discussion meetings are being given at Union

Congregational Church, 136 Rawson Rd., Wollaston. The one to one-and-a-half hour sessions which started last Sunday are being held at 10:30 a.m., lead by Congregational

Rev. Francis W. Archer.

This free "mini-series" is open to all interested, and are being held on the second floor of the church in the Guild Room.

Sheets Discusses Legislative Salaries

Legislators' current salaries are too low to allow persons to serve without supplemental income, according to Ward 4 Councillor James A. Sheets, candidate for the 4th Norfolk District Representative seat vacated by William Delahunt.

"My income would have to be supplemented by a reduced and adjusted teaching load to keep my income near its present level," said Sheets. "This adjustment and reduction is possible because the schedule and working conditions for a college instructor are quite different from those of elementary or secondary teachers. Quincy Junior College has never operated on a 9 to 3 basis."

Currently state representatives earn salaries of about $12,000; half the salary received by the Quincy Mayor, and also about half of that received by a school principal.

One reason lawyers become legislators, said Sheets, is they can easily supplement their legislative salary by practicing law in the mornings, evenings or weekends, and have law partners handle their courtroom duties. Real estate brokers are also able to adjust their work schedule to supplement their incomes as legislators, said Sheets.

"The legislature is a place where any citizen should be allowed to and able to serve without threat to his job or security," said Sheets. "Legislative salaries should be such that it would not be necessary to supplement one's income. But they are not, and we must deal with what is, not what should be."

Sheets said that his total income will be a matter of public record and this should be a positive factor "since everyone will know what I am doing, where I am, how much money I make, and whether I'm living inside or outside my means and why."

Merrymount School

Bids Due In January Says Kelly

Ward 1 Councillor Leo J. Kelly says bids for construction and renovations at the Merrymount School are scheduled for the first part of January.

Responding to a voter query while campaigning recently in Merrymount, Kelly said Quincy has been assured 65 per cent reimbursement on the project by the state School Building Assistance Bureau. Kelly noted the Merrymount School is one of the last projects to be awarded full 65 per cent reimbursement.

Repucci Says He Would

Herbert Reppucci, making a second bid for the Fourth Norfolk District Representative seat, pledges to be a fulltime representative if elected.

During his 1974 campaign against William Delahunt, Reppucci was a strong advocate for a fast and efficient court system.

Reppucci, who seeks the Democratic nomination said:

"At long last there is a movement within government and the courts to streamline the judicial process," said Reppucci, who wants to continue this program.

Reppucci lives on Shirley St., West Quincy and operates a Wollaston Beauty Salon.

In 1974 Reppucci said he would fight for a more equitable tax system by eliminating loopholes. He also spoke out against forced busing for Quincy students, and said as a representative he will continue this fight.

"There is only one way to accomplish these programs and future programs that will confront our state, city, and district," said Reppucci, "and that is with a full-time representative."

Kennedy Cites Achievements
Of Educational Development Committee

During a recent meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert O. Mahon of 143 Fayette St., Christopher Kennedy, candidate for school committee, described some of the major achievements of the Educational Development Committee of the Quincy Public Schools which he has chaired since its inception in 1967.

After long investigation and study the committee recommended to the school committee that the Air Force ROTC program be adopted for Quincy. This program has resulted in the awarding of several thousands of dollars in scholarships to students of this city.

The Educational Development Committee also researched, studied and approved the adoption of the kindergarten through grade 12 Drug Education Program which is currently in use today; recommended the appropriation of moneys for girls' sports teams and equipment on the high school level; studied and supported the enrollment of a fairer proportion of Vocational-Technical High School students from the northern end of the city.

Kennedy noted that last year he was presented with the Public Service Award by the Quincy School Committee for "outstanding Volunteer Service to Quincy Schools."

He said that service on the school committee is also on a volunteer basis, and carries with it no pay or compensation "other than the satisfaction which derives from serving one's fellow citizens in general, and our school children in particular."

He said he wanted no other political office of any sort because service on the School Committee is a worthy end in itself, and very important.

Mullaney Says He Will Oppose Forced Busing Plan

School Committee candidate J. Thomas Mullaney says he will, if elected, strongly oppose any forced busing plan which might come before the Quincy School Committee.

Speaking at a house party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Stebbins of Highland Ave., Wollaston, Mullaney said:

"Many Quincy people are deeply concerned about forced busing. Now that the minorities have become the majority in the Boston School System many Quincyites feel that we may be the next community to face a federal court order to bus our students.

"Phase II has accelerated the white flight from Boston.

Forced busing in my opinion, will never work. Personally, speaking as a parent, I would never let my two children be bused out of Quincy.

"The next School Committee could face the challenge of forced busing. If elected I will strongly oppose any plan that calls for the busing of Quincy students."

House Of Representatives In Tribute To Ernest Montilio

The House of Representatives has formally congratulated Col.

Ernest J. Montilio on receiving the "Man of the Year" award from the Italian-American Civic League of America, Inc.

In a resolve introduced by Rep. Joseph E. Brett, the House lauded Col. Montilio as a man who "has given unstintingly of his time and efforts to a multitude of public, charitable and educational endeavors."

The resolve, presented to Montilio at a recent banquet in his honor, also reads:

"Highly respected by his friends and associates for his sterling integrity and sense of public duty, Col. Montilio has been a credit to his family, his city and the Commonwealth."

Col. Montilio is commanding captain of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Massachusetts.

How Do You Feel About The World Situation?

YOUNG IDEAS would like to feature a guest editorial each issue. Editorial means how you feel about a current event. You read the newspaper each day. And you listen to the news on TV. Tell us how you feel about something in the news. Just write a paragraph or a poem. You may draw a picture or a cartoon to go along with it. [Pictures must be in black ink or magic marker.] Send your Guest Editorial to: YOUNG IDEAS

Here is our first Guest Editorial. It is from Matthew Fallon, 10. He read about the two attempts on President Ford's life a few weeks ago. And this is how he felt.

AREN'T WE FORTUNATE THAT, . . .

*Aren't we fortunate that President Ford is not dead?
Yes, it's so lucky because Four presidents were killed already.
Why kill another?*

*If you don't like the way
They run the U. S.
You try to do it.
You may think that no one
Would argue with you.*

*Are you a human being?
Of course you are.
Well so are Presidents.
Take Lincoln.
Many people loved him.
But because of one man
He was killed.*

*Presidents are men who
Try to help you.
They might not do everything right.
But you can't either.
Not all people are like that.
But for people who read this.
Who do think this way.
I hope you will take consideration.*

*Four Presidents have been shot.
Why kill another?
You probably couldn't run
The U. S. any better.*

I'm sure I won't be needing this safety dome much longer!

A Fright On Halloween Night

By Raymond Mark, 10

*In Bicabob Castle, down by the old mill scream
Ghosts attacked me, I think they were a team.
Witches cackle, Owls hoot, and Mummies moan
Then I saw a skeleton, no skin, but all bone.
Black cats meow, so calm but so fierce
I felt a shiver down my spine, it's feeling so pierce
Cyclops' spirit, looking at me with his one eye,
Dust blew in my face, it felt like a sty.
Frankenstein monster, moaning in pain.
Then I stopped a wolfman with some wolfbane.
Satan appeared, before me a flame,
Then a vampire swooped on me, as if I were game.
Then faintly I heard a voice, and light coming in a beam
"Wake up, Wake up," You were having a dream.*

THE CAMPAIGN TRAIL

Concerned Citizens Group Supports 8-Story Referendum Question

Peter F. O'Connell of 1501 Furnace Brook Parkway announces the organization of Concerned Citizens for Quincy, a non-partisan group of business people, labor representatives, senior citizens and other civic groups who have united in support of passage of Question 2 on the November ballot.

If passed, the referendum would place an eight-story restriction on Industrial Zones A & B, and Business C. Taller structures would be permitted upon issuance of a special permit by a two-thirds vote of the City Council.

In making the announcement, O'Connell said:

"We believe Question 2 is the sensible approach to height restrictions. It is compatible with citizens' concern for unlimited high-rise construction yet provides for approval of commercial/industrial projects over eight floors when justified."

"On the other hand," explained O'Connell, "Question 1 seeks to impose a 10-story limit on virtually all non-residential construction, with no appeal possible. It would quite obviously prevent such projects as the Goliath crane at the shipyard. It would also prevent construction of buildings over 10 floors for much needed senior citizen housing. An irrevocable ban on all high-rise commercial construction in Quincy would be economic suicide. Question 2 is a more sensible approach."

Hickey Says Incumbent Has 'Faulty Communication'

Walter J. Hickey, candidate for Ward 6 councillor, spoke to a group of supporters at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel J. Lyons, 232 Billings Rd., North Quincy recently, again emphasizing his belief that residents of that ward are victims of "faulty communication" from the present city councillor.

Hickey told the group he would overcome what he termed the lack of "information feedback" from incumbent Dennis Harrington by holding periodic open forums within Ward 6.

He said his experience of 26 years as a registered professional engineer would bring what he called "better balance" to the City Council.

Dear Voter:

I am running for the School Committee in Quincy, and I would appreciate your considering me for one of the three seats which are available. I am the Dean of Students at Northeastern University, and have been doing volunteer work with the Quincy Schools since my first child began kindergarten twenty years ago.

I have eight children, all of whom have graduated from, or are still attending Quincy Public Schools. I have been President of the Montclair School PTA, President of the Quincy Parent-Teacher Council, and am presently Chairman of the Educational Development Committee of the Quincy Schools. Last year I was presented with the Public Service Award by the School Committee for "Outstanding Volunteer Service to the Quincy Public Schools."

I believe that good schools and a good city go hand in hand, and that good people will come to a good city and remain there. It is extremely important therefore, that interested and qualified citizens volunteer to run for the critical positions on the School Committee, and that they be supported by all voters who are concerned about our most important natural resource, our children.

I hope that you will consider me for one of your three votes.

Sincerely Yours,

Chris Kennedy

Davis Says Busing 'Still Hot Issue'

Harold Davis, candidate for Quincy city councillor at-large, believes the busing problems of Boston are "very much in the minds of Quincy voters."

Speaking at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Terry DiBona recently, Davis said he received far more questions about busing than any other issue.

"It's a hot issue, no doubt about it," he said. "People in Quincy are afraid that somehow Quincy will be involved with the whole mess in Boston. Metropolitanization is probably the most dirty word in Quincy."

"However, I think the tide is now shifting against forced busing as an integration tool. The most distressing sight is the fight of white vs. black to attend standard schools while some $30,000,000 in taxpayer supplied funds is wasted on busing and the bureaucracy that goes with it."

Davis said his position is the same he has held throughout his four years on the Quincy School Committee—support of the parents' right to control where their children go to school.

"Busing is contrary to that concept," Davis said.

Dougherty Aims Views On Student Loans

Thomas Dougherty, candidate for state representative, Fourth Norfolk District, who is a member of the Massachusetts Student Loan Commission, testified before the Senate Subcommittee on Appropriations in Boston last week.

He appeared at the request of Subcommittee Chairman Senator Edward Brooke.

Among university presidents, bank representatives, and state and federal loan program officials Dougherty was asked to present the views of students and their families. Dougherty emphasized two points:

- Middle-income families are hardest hit by rising tuition costs and evaporating student aid funds. They can neither afford the high tuitions at the better colleges nor meet the strict income standards that would qualify them for state or federal scholarship assistance.

- Federally assisted student loans are an effective way to make more money available to more students at a minimum cost to the government. In addition, they encourage self-help by students.

When asked for recommendations by Senator Brooke, Dougherty made four specific proposals:

- Federal subsidies to student loan programs should be increased. He criticized the pending federal legislation that unwittingly decreases those subsidies.

- Student obligations to repay loans should be geared to the economic climate. The student who graduates, heavily in debt, and who is legitimately unable to obtain a job should qualify for a deferred repayment schedule.

- Banks holding federal, state, county or city monies should be required to make a minimum number and dollar amount of student loans per year. Presently they are not required to do so.

- More effort should be directed toward informing students of the various student loan programs.

McCauley Suggests Group Insurance For QJC Students

School Committeeman Francis X. McCauley has requested Dr. Edward Pierce, president of Quincy Junior College to investigate the possibility of making available a group hospitalization and accident insurance plan to the McCauley noted that many area colleges now offer such a plan which results in savings on insurance costs to student and parents already burdened with tuition, books and other educational costs.

McCauley also noted that a plan, if adopted, would result in no costs to the taxpayers.

Paul D. Harold, candidate for councillor at-large, voiced his opposition to the implementation of 100 per cent valuation of property in Quincy, at a recent coffee hour at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold McCarthy, 144 Holbrook Rd, North Quincy.

Harold cited a study

Fontaine Critical Of North Quincy Land-Taking Vote

Emery Fontaine, candidate for the Ward 3 city council seat, questioned present Ward 3 Councillor John Lydon's vote against the land-taking of a "combination automobile repair garage and gas station adjacent to the new $15,000,000 North Quincy High School."

At a recent coffee hour at the LaFleur home, 21 Sherman St., Wollaston, Fontaine said, "Mr. Lydon voted to take the homes on Oliver St. but elected to leave this piece of property that could prove to be a very hazardous as well as unhealthy situation."

"During the good weather, with the windows of the new school open, the gas fumes and exhaust fumes from automobiles being worked on would filter into the school. There also could be the remote possibility of an accident when a gas tank truck is filling their underground tanks.

"When elected to office," he continues, "one of my first priorities would be to take this property, eliminating a hazard and adding land that should have been taken on the initial land taking for the North Quincy High School addition."

published by the Federal Reserve Bank of Boston which showed that the home owner and building trades worker would be adversely affected by 100 per cent valuation.

"If 100 per cent valuation becomes reality, the Quincy home owner will have to endure an increase of over 16 per cent in their tax bill, while industrial property would be taxed as nearly 35 per cent below current assessment, Harold said.

"And since the informal tax agreements used to stimulate major construction projects would be outlawed, virtually all construction would be eliminated except for subsidized housing and projects built in blighted areas under Chapter 121A of the Mass. General Laws."

"The building trades workers in Quincy and the surrounding area have experienced enough hardships. The unemployment rate in Quincy is already too high and I don't want to see it increase just because some of the business interests in the state want to impose on the citizens a law that serves primarily to reduce real estate taxes for commercial and industrial properties at the direct expense of the working man and the homemaker."

"I would support an amendment to the Massachusetts constitution which would allow real estate to be evaluated according to use.

Toland Reaffirms Stand Against Forced Busing

At a recent coffee hour at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hunt, 228 Holbrook Rd, Patricia Toland, candidate for School Committee, reaffirmed her position against forced busing.

Mrs. Toland expressed her appreciation for the city-wide support she received in the primary election and said if elected she will work to achieve maximum quality education for every tax dollar spent on educating our children.

Responding to a question regarding busing Mrs. Toland said, "As a mother of young children I am in favor of the neighborhood school concept and opposed to forced busing. I believe that the Quincy Public School system must devote its energies to solving its own problems free of outside pressures."

Rotate School Committee Meetings Says MacIntyre

By rotating one School Committee meeting a month from the school department and into schools in the community, School Committee candidate Marie E. MacIntyre believes residents will have more access to the committee.

Speaking at a recent coffee hour at the home of Thelma Bousquet, 184 South Central Ave., Wollaston, Miss MacIntyre said this decentralization would get School Committee members into all the Quincy neighborhoods and schools, so they would learn about the needs and concerns of the city's different areas.

"To keep costs down and to maintain quality education is a tough job," said Miss MacIntyre. "As an administrator, I am accustomed to dealing with budgets, I do feel keeping costs down is important."

"At the present time the budget for the schools is adequate to meet its educational concerns. Having been a high school teacher, I'm aware of the needs of students, teachers, and curriculum. Presently as a junior college instructor, I see students with varying skills who have graduated from high school and I know just how important our educational system is."

must realize is that there are a given number of hours each student has over the three year secondary period and we must program in each schedule a more realistic amount of closely supervised reading and writing training.

Bellotti Cites 'Inadequate Secondary School Education'

School committee candidate Francis X. Bellotti, Jr., speaking at a recent coffee hour at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cammaratta, warned of the inadequate secondary-school education received by many students.

"What our secondary schools must come to realize is that we are doing a disservice to anyone we graduate from the secondary level, regardless of what life station they seek, if we have not equipped them with basic learning skills.

"Once in college or vocational training, these students are quite surprised and disappointed when they receive marginal or failing grades. The colleges are forced to set up remedial reading and writing programs which are costly in terms of money and time, sometimes necessitating a five year program for a four year degree.

Aquinas Junior College Awarded N.E. Association Accreditation

Sister Mary Louise Morgan, president, Aquinas Junior College, Milton, has received official notification the college has been recommended for initial membership and accreditation in the New England Association of Schools and Colleges, Inc. for a period of five years.

In preparation for accreditation, Aquinas has undergone a comprehensive self-study during the academic year, covering all aspects of the college—administration, finance, educational programs, faculty preparation and student services. Following the completion of the report, it was sent to the Commission. A team of educators, selected for the evaluative visit, had to review this report completely and objectively in preparation for their visit to the school.

The visiting committee members were: Dr. Donald L. Ruhl, chairman, Dean of the College, Northern Essex Community College, Haverhill, Mass.; Noel Bing, Dean of Instruction, New Hampshire Vocational-Technical College, Nashua, N.H.; Mrs. Peggy J. Hveem, Chairman, Liberal Arts Division and Associate Professor of History, Post Junior College, Waterbury, Conn.; Dorothy S. Rogers, assistant professor of Business Management, New Hampshire College, Manchester, N.H.; Marie Gould Seaton, Chairman, Business Department, Bay Path Junior College, Longmeadow, Mass.

The three-day visit included interviews with faculty and students, visits to classrooms, examination of records and facilities, and a meeting with administration and faculty to discuss the results of the evaluative visit.

At this meeting, the administration and faculty are told the strengths and weaknesses of the school and recommendations are made for implementation.

One very important purpose of the accreditation is the improvement of educational and career opportunities for the college undergoing evaluation. In addition, achievement of this accreditation means that students are able to transfer credits to any four-year college in the United States.

The commission said in its report to Aquinas that the school "has a clear sense of its mission and the capacity to continue to achieve its stated goals and to work for improved career opportunities for young women."

Mrs. Michael Allen UNICEF Trick Or Treat Program Chairman

Mrs. Richard S. Allen, of 127 Hillside Ave., Wollaston, was recently appointed to direct work and planning of the South Shore's UNICEF Trick or Treat program.

"We count more than ever this year on increased support and understanding from adults," said Mrs. Allen, South Shore chairwoman for UNICEF. "The children seem to understand just naturally."

Hundreds of Quincy children this Halloween will collect money for UNICEF to use overseas in its fight against hunger and disease.

The UNICEF program had a modest beginning 25 years ago when a Sunday School class in Pennsylvania raised $17 for the cause. Within three years the idea had spread to every one of the then 48 states. Four years later collections passed the million dollar mark, and since 1968, they have never fallen below $3 million.

"That is history now," said Mrs. Allen. "We hope even more adults and children will participate in National UNICEF

HOLLYWOOD HOTLINE

'God, man and Archie'

By NANCY ANDERSON
Copley News Service

HOLLYWOOD — The Rev. Spencer Marsh, pastor of the Brentwood Presbyterian Church of Los Angeles, who expanded a sermon into a book, "God, Man and Archie Bunker," has starred in the pilot for a television talk show, "The Preacher and the Rabbi," which costars Rabbi Jerome Cutler of the Synagogue for the Performing Arts.

"We have a neat relationship with the Synagogue for the Performing Arts," says the Rev. Marsh. "I've preached there and Rabbi Cutler, who is also an agent, is a good friend."

His TV show, intended for Sunday morning viewing, featured Monty Hall as the first guest celebrity.

"We live in a society where we enjoy emphasizing our differences," the Rev. Marsh points out. "We need to confirm what we have in common, and this program will help do that."

However, no matter how much he likes his rabbi co-star, Marsh won't get ground on the question of the divinity of Christ.

The Presbyterian preacher says he didn't accept Christianity until he was 19 years old and that when he first came to Hollywood as a freight-hopping hobo he broke into a church to gain shelter for a night.

"I'd come out to go to the Pasadena Playhouse," he says. "I had no idea then I'd become a preacher."

Clifton Davis is a Maxfield Parrish nut who's long since covered his walls with his favorite artist's works. And now he's carried the Maxfield Parrish theme into his closet.

When he heard that shirts featuring a Maxfield Parrish print were available at Sy Devore's, Clifton dashed down and bought one in each available color and color combination.

Greg Morris was shopping at Devore's too, picking up slacks and cologne to pack for a trip to Scotland where he played in the Gleneagles Celebrity Golf Tournament.

His first two drives on the celebrated St. Andrews course went into the building, Greg ruefully admits, but each bounced back onto the fairway. Completing his four-some were Dennis Morgan, Howard Keel and Leslie Nielsen.

Two days before he was to leave for Italy to work in his first X-rated movie, "Saloon Kitty," Dick Crenna reappraised the situation and canceled plans. The big trouble wasn't the nature of the script but, rather, his assignment. Dick found out he wasn't going to play the part he'd thought was his.

Bombings in London gave Charlie Rich second thoughts about a British tour. "I've already been to war," said Charlie, "and I don't need any more of it." However, he finally flew to Blyth.

Though he's a native Texan, country music kingpin Johnny Rodriguez has been appointed to the staff of Tennessee Gov. Ray Blanton as an honorary colonel and aide-camp.

Curtain Call Theatre

To Present 'No Sex Please'

"No Sex Please...We're British" promises a wild and wacky night at the Curtain Call Theatre on Nov. 14 and 15.

Under the direction of George Stevens of Braintree, the play will be presented at Braintree Central Junior High School auditorium at 8 p.m.

Though this play is not very familiar to American audiences, it is now in its third successful year on London stage.

Stevens has twice directed the theatre group's entry in the N.E. Theatre Conference drama competition, receiving nomination for Best Director both times.

Members of the cast include Liz Nicklin, James Bright, Geoffrey Campbell, Janet Dignan, Gordon Teague, Gene Vaillancourt, Jean Mangan, Louise Gilman, Mike Kelly, and Richard Walsh.

Also in the theatre's 1975-76 schedule will be "Finishing Touches" Feb. 6-7, and "Follies" May 7-8-9. Tickets may be purchased at the door, or a season's subscription may be obtained. For further information call Rosemarie Bonani, 843-0907.

Quincy Resident In

Hingham Civic Theater Production

Tom Dowling of Quincy will play Doc Parkhurst, head of the gambling room in George Gershwin's "Girl Crazy", to be presented by the Hingham Civic Music Theatre in November.

The show - a combination musical-Western comedy - includes such favorites as "Bidin' My Time", "But Not For Me", "Embraceable You", and "I've Got Rhythm".

Opening night of the play will be Friday, Nov. 14 at 8 p.m. at the Hingham High School Auditorium. The play will also be performed Nov. 15, 21 and 22 at the same time and place.

TV MAILBAG

Fenniman is still around

By RICK ROBERTS
Copley News Service

HOLLYWOOD — The TV Mailbag:

Q. What has become of George Fenniman, who was the announcer for Groucho Marx? I enjoy the reruns of the show immensely. — G.J., Freeman, Calif.

A. Fenniman still lives in Los Angeles and although no longer very active in television work, he still does occasional commercials.

Q. Stephen Elliott of "Beacon Hill" is terrific. Is this the first television show he has appeared in? — K.I., Jefferson City, Mo.

A. Hardy. Elliott, who plays Benjamin Lassiter in the show, has appeared in more than 300 television shows, including several made-for-television movies.

However, most of his career has been devoted to stage work and he has won several awards for his acting.

Elliott is a native of New York and received his acting training at the Neighborhood Playhouse. He was an original member of the Actor's Studio.

Q. What's happened to Raymond Burr now that "Ironside" is off the air? —

R.M., Oakland, Calif.

A. Apparently, he's just enjoying the good life, making occasional guest appearances on variety shows.

Q. I am very anxious to know why I do not see the guitarist, Buddy Merrill, on the Lawrence Welk Show any more. Could you give me any information as to why we do not see him playing in the band and what has become of him? — F.S., Cherry Hill, N.J.

A. Merrill, who played with the Welk band for many years, left voluntarily last year to devote his time to arranging and composing music. Officials with the Welk company say there are no plans to replace him.

Q. What is the last name of the married couple, Rona and Guy, on the Lawrence Welk Show? Also, when will the next Lawrence Welk album be coming out and where can I write to him? — B.C., Sierra Vista, Ariz.

A. It's Rona and Guy Hovis. The next Welk album, "25th Anniversary on Television," is scheduled for release soon and should be available at local record shops in the near future. You can write to Welk at 100 Wilshire Blvd., Suite 700, Santa Monica, Calif. 90401.

S.S. Regis Club To Hold Auction

The South Shore Regis Club will hold an auction Saturday, Oct. 25, at 1 p.m. at Aquinas Junior College, 303 Adams St., Milton.

Proceeds from the season-opener event will benefit the club's scholarship fund. Co-chairmen are Mrs. James Mawn and Mrs. Michael Gallahue. Auctioneer will be James Mawn.

Pottery, Batik Exhibits At Library

The exhibition for October at the Main Hall Gallery of the Thomas Crane Public Library is a showing of pottery by Marsha A. Klein of Weymouth, and of batik by Lucille L. Wilhelm of Cambridge.

Miss Klein has had one woman shows with the Tomlinson Collection in Baltimore, and the Sojourn Gallery in Cambridge, the Massachusetts Society of Arts and Crafts in Boston, and in many stores.

Miss Wilhelm has a BFA in illustration from Syracuse University. She first became introduced to batik while working as a Peace Corps volunteer in West Africa, where batik cloth was produced locally. Later as an art teacher in the Boston Public Schools

Chess Club Opens New Season

The Quincy Chess Club opened its 1975-76 season at a recent business meeting at Christ Church, Quincy.

More than 50 members from Quincy, Milton, Weymouth, Braintree and other South Shore towns attended.

Elected as new officers were Robert Rollins, president; Kenneth Harrison, treasurer; and David Tedesco, secretary - all three are of Quincy. Also elected was Robert Godfrey Jr. of Hingham who will be the club's first treasurer.

Following the business meeting players began the club's fall tournament. Other club activities include participation in the Boston Metropolitan League, United State Chess Federation Tournaments and serious club play for experience players. Meetings are held Wednesday nights from 7:30 to 11.

FIGHT MUSCULAR DYSTROPHY

Maria Former Outfielder

Luis' Secret Weapon: Fish?

By MARY ANN DUGGAN

Mexican-born Maria Tiant, wife of Red Sox pitching giant Luis Tiant, first captivated her husband of 14 years in Mexico City under ironic and laughable circumstances.

She was playing centerfield in a woman's softball game!

Talent seemingly recognized talent.

Interviewed last Friday at Marvel Beauty Shop before the rained-out weekend series games, Mrs. Tiant said her husband keeps calm and confident before a game - even before crucial pressure games of a World Series. She said:

"Louie doesn't feel nervous. I'm more nervous than him!

"But Louie has a lot of confidence - and so do I."

At the time of the interview, Luis had pitched both of the Sox winning games, shutting out the Reds 6-0 in the opener and edging them 5-4 in the third game.

Just before that third game, Mrs. Tiant visited Marvel Beauty Shop to have her waist-long black hair swept up in soft curls. Salonist Jim Mastrantonio suggested Mrs. Tiant serve her husband "hot Italian sausages" to fire him up for the game against Cincinnati.

And although Louie was indeed "hot" for the game,

Mrs. Tiant confesses she did not follow the advice of Mastrantonio. Apparently, she concocted instead a more magical and potent dish.

"No, I didn't give him hot sausages," Mrs. Tiant giggled. "I fed him fish."

The mother of three children ranging in age from 14 months to 13 years, Mrs. Tiant does not have time to pine for her often away-from-home husband. She and all the other baseball wives have attended all the series games, including the ones in Cincinnati.

But she says the Cincinnati fans have not treated the Red Sox wives royally - not even with respect. She said:

"The Cincinnati fans threw ice at us and papers, peanuts, popcorn. The Red Sox fans would never do that. They are great."

Like many baseball wives, Mrs. Tiant is diplomatic and non-committal when talking about the outcome of the series. She wisely avoids opinionated predictions and biased verbal bets and expresses the feelings of every anxious Red Sox fan coast-to-coast.

"I want to win," said Mrs. Tiant. "And I hope we win. Every player on the team will do the best they can."

YMCA Basketball

Palmer Hotshots In Top Spot

With only two games remaining, the Palmer Hotshots are in the number one slot of Quincy YMCA's Businessmen's Basketball League.

Hotshot's top man, Ken Boyd, a former NBA star, was the leading scorer in the team's last three victories.

The Pulmonary Association team bowed to the Hotshots in a recent 83-57 defeat. Boyd picked up 31 points and 28 rebounds, and all 12 Hotshots scored in the game.

In games against the Roxbury Counts and the Roxbury Crusaders, the Hotshots scored 94-69 and 76-59 victories. The Counts' top scorer was Frank White with 24 points, while Hotshot's Ron Bradley picked up 27 points, and Boyd finished the game with 32 points. The Palmer Hotshots - Roxbury Crusaders game pitted two together two teams with untarnished 8-0 records.

On Thursday, the Hotshots go up against Cox and Company at the Quincy Vo-Tech gym. Game time is slated for 6:45 p.m. Monday, Oct. 27, the Hotshots take on their "B" league rivals, the Palmer Pub team, at 7:45 p.m.

Bob Roberts 'Athlete Of The Year'

Bob Roberts, a member of the Quincy Babe Ruth League, has been selected to Babe Ruth Baseball's "Athletes of the Year" program for 1975.

Announcement was made by Richard W. Case, president of Babe Ruth International, and Bob's manager, Ray Dunn.

• Cross Country

North's Petracca, Quincy's Saville Shine

The Quincy and North Quincy cross country teams took time off from their dual meet competition last Saturday as Lou Tozzi's North runners travelled to the Bronx, N.Y., for the St. John's University meet and Joe Catalano's Quincy team competed in the Catholic Memorial invitational meet.

North's Bart Petracca, unbeaten in dual meet competition and a record breaker in nearly every meet, made an outstanding showing over the tough course at Van Cortlandt Park, finishing fourth among more than 250 in his race. He covered the course in 13:03. A timing of 13 minutes is considered excellent for the course.

The meet was divided into five different races with approximately 250 runners in each race. The meet attracts runners from all over the East Coast with most from New York State and New Jersey. North's other runners placed among the first 100 in their respective races.

In the Catholic Memorial meet Quincy's outstanding runner, sophomore John Saville, was second in the junior varsity race. Kevin O'Brien was 23rd in the varsity meet. There were more than 300 runners from 27 schools competing.

Both meets were run under atrocious conditions with heavy rain and the courses very muddy.

Meanwhile, in Suburban League action last week, North easily defeated Weymouth North, 17-42, for its sixth win in a row. The win hiked the Raiders' league record to 5-1 and overall mark to 6-1.

Petracca, as usual, was the winner, followed by Mike Morin, second; Marty Levenson, third; Bob Levenson, Fifth; Matty Breslin, sixth, and Jim Gavigan seventh.

Quincy romped over Cambridge Latin, 21-40, to make its league record 4-2 and overall mark 5-2.

Catalano rested Saville, for Saturday's Catholic Memorial invitational meet and the Presidents' Bob Thorne and Kevin O'Brien finished first in a dead heat. Don Jones was fifth, Dave Rafferty sixth, Fran Yee seventh, Paul Laddes eighth, Gene Allen ninth and Sam Gravina 10th.

The Presidents will host Brockton and the Raiders will run at Cambridge Latin next Wednesday. On Saturday, Nov. 1, both squads will run in the annual state coaches' meet.

After The Rains

North At Newton, Presidents Host Malden

The Quincy and North Quincy football games were rained out last week, as were those of nearly every other school, and both prepare to face tough foes Saturday.

Last week's games, Newton North at Quincy and North Quincy at Weymouth South, had been rescheduled for Saturday but when the rain continued, both were postponed until Nov. 22, the Saturday before Thanksgiving.

Saturday Quincy will play its final non-league, hosting former Malden at Veterans Memorial Stadium, while undefeated North travels to Newton to play equally undefeated Newton North in a big Suburban League game. Both will start at 1:30.

With last week's rainouts, North Quincy was assured of holding first place among the Eastern Mass. Division One teams and a win this week over Newton North will strengthen the Raiders' hold on the top, as Newton is right behind them in the standings.

Newton provided one of the Suburban League's big upsets, a 19-0 win over Brockton, but two weeks ago barely nipped winless Weymouth North in the final seconds. It also defeated Framingham South, 15-6, and Medford, 19-14.

First year North Coach Dave Burke expects another busy day Saturday, but playing unbeaten teams is nothing new. Two weeks ago the Raiders moved into first place in Division One by walloping unbeaten Everett, 25-6.

North Quincy has outscored four opponents, 107-19, with Brian Doherty high scorer with 38 points. Doherty, who might have gone over 1,000 yards a year ago except for an injury (he wound up with more than 800), has gained 434 in four games and, barring injuries, should threaten the 1,000-point figure again.

Quincy, 2-2, was walloped by Waltham, 34-6, in its last game, after a strong defense had sparked successive 7-6 wins. Coach Hank Conroy is still trying to get his attack clicking, as the Presidents have scored only 34 points in four games. The defense has performed well in most games.

Malden lost to North Quincy, 25-6, but defeated Chelsea, 22-6, and Haverhill, 29-18.

● Hockey

Quincy A Girls Tie Stoneham, 5-5

The Quincy Girls A hockey team had to be satisfied with a 5-5 tie with Stoneham Sunday at Danvers when the Stoneham girls tied the score in the last minute.

Each team scored twice in the opening period, Paula Conas and Mary Ellen Riordan scoring for Quincy with assists for Lisa Noding, Shawn O'Leary and Sue Goring.

In the second period Quincy took the lead on Mary Ann McCarthy's goal, Riordan assisting.

Stoneham tied it at 3:39 of the final period but Eileen Marr again put Quincy in front with assists for Riordan and McCarthy. Stoneham again tied it and with 2:14 left Terry Flynn took a pass from Norling but with one minute remaining Stoneham tied it up.

In their previous game the Quincy girls had topped Melrose, 2-0, with goalies Doreen Hayes and Lynn McGoff sparkling. Terry Flynn and O'Leary had the goals with Kathy Flynn, McCarthy and Marie McAuliffe assisting.

Sunday the Girls will play Gloucester at 4:30 at the Twin Rinks in Danvers.

● Executive League

Oranges In Top Spot

The Orange team moved into sole possession of first place in the Quincy Executive Hockey League Sunday with a 4-2 win over the Blues.

The Blues took a 2-0 first period lead on an unassisted goal by Dave Edgren and a goal by Artie Boyle with Jack Powers assisting. The Oranges came back with three in the second period. Alan Gullickson, Bob Murray and Joe Gannon had the goals with Bernie Toland having two assists and Murray one. John Emmott scored the insurance goal in the final period with assists for Kevin White and Marty Tolson.

The Greens nipped the Reds, 2-1, on goals by Dick McCabe and Kenny Halloran, both were unassisted. Ed Holt had given the Reds an early lead with an unassisted goal.

The Golds squeezed by the Whites, 4-3, with Gary DeCoste having the hat trick for the winners. His three goals came after Frank McAuliffe had scored for the Whites with Ed Dwyer assisting. Jack McDonald assisted on two of DeCoste's goals. Bill Monahan made it 4-1 with Don Fawcett and Dave Bertrand assisting, but the Whites came back on goals by Charlie Chambers and Ed Dwyer. John O'Neil had an assist.

In the previous set of games the Oranges had rolled over the Whites, 7-3, with Marty Tolson having the hat trick; the Blues walloped the Reds, 8-3, sparked by Bob Quintilliani's hat trick, and the Greens defeated the Golds, 4-2, with Dick McCabe having two goals and an assist.

Pee Wee A's Breeze By West Roxbury, 14-2

The Pee Wee A team breezed over West Roxbury, 14-2, with hat tricks for Neil Shea and Joey Rathgeb. Paul McCabe, Robbie Zanardelli and Bobby Beniers had two goals apiece and Chuckie Marshall and Mike Rowell one each. Shea also had four assists, Mark Boussy three, Beniers, Marshall, Rowell, John Carthy and Karl Nord two each and McCabe, Rathgeb, Steve Walsh and Danny Flynn one apiece.

The Pee Wee A's lost to Worcester, 6-1, with Beniers having the goal and Boussy and Zanardelli assists.

Previously the A team had defeated Braintree, 4-1, with P. T. Kelley and Kenny Mann excelling in goal. Beniers scored twice and Boussy and Marshall once each with Boussy, Shea, Rathgeb and Walsh assisting.

The team also tied South Boston, 3-3, on goals by Shea, Marshall and Kevin Craig and two assists for Boussy.

Marshall's Hat Trick Paces Squirt B's, 13-0

The Squirt B team blasted Shrewsbury, 13-0, with Paul Marshall having the hat trick, Mark Chambers, Kevin Greene and John Burn two goals apiece and Mike McArdle, Dick Tapper, Dave Allen and Mike McGrath one each. Marshall and McArdle had three assists each, Chambers and Rick Reardon two apiece and Tapper, Allen, McGrath, Steve White, Dennis Cronin, Keith Smith and Peter Quinn one each.

The B's also topped Hanover, 6-1, with Burn scoring twice and McGrath, Cronin, Allen and Tapper once each. Smith had three assists and Brian Chase one.

Ruane Shoots Down Red Baron

Goalie Joanne Ruane posted her first shutout as Squantum Mobile defeated the Red Barons, 2-0, in the Quincy Youth Hockey Association Girls' League action at the Youth Arena.

Janet Colclough scored in the first period unassisted and in the final period Karen Janet assisted on Karen Keeley's insurance goal.

Team Quincy and Tiffany tied, 1-1, with both goals in the first period. Sherry Craig scored for Tiffany with Nancy Ball assisting, and Jean Crossen tied it up for Quincy with Leslie Bishop having an assist.

Team Quincy and Tiffany are tied for first place with 1-0-1 records. Squantum Mobile is 1-1-0 and Red Barons 0-2-0.

SOI Bantam A's Edge Marlboro

The Quincy Sons of Italy's Bantam A team edged Marlboro, 3-2, on goals by Bobby Hayes, Robbie Craig and Mark Messina. Messina also had an assist.

The Bantam A's defeated West Roxbury, 6-2, with Hayes having two goals and Kevin McGrath, Messina, Craig and Bryan McGilvray one each. Messina had three assists, as did Leo Doyle, Paul McDermott had two and John Jackson, McGrath, Johnny Mullin and Danny Gorman one each.

Junior B's Roll To 4th

Quincy's Junior B team has rolled to four wins in a row at Hingham Pilgrim Arena to lead the league. Quincy defeated Weymouth, 11-5; Kodiaks, 6-5; Braintree, 10-0 and Weymouth again, 9-7. In the most recent game for Coach Gerry O'Rourke's team, the 9-7 win over Weymouth, Ken Graham and Kevin Jago had two goals each and John Ryan, Andy Colleran, Dennis Bertoni, Brian Nevins and Bud Powers one apiece.

Our Lady CYO Skating Party

The Our Lady of Good Counsel CYO will hold a skating party Friday at the Quincy Youth Hockey Rink from 8-10 p.m.

At the Nov. 2 general meeting of the CYO, a member of the Massachusetts Ski Club will address the group. New members are invited to attend the meeting which will begin at 7 p.m. in the lower hall of the Church, 126 Sea St.

New Rivalry

Quincy, North Girls Swim Teams Meet Saturday

By TOM SULLIVAN

A new chapter in the still expanding Quincy-North Quincy High School sports rivalry will unfold Saturday at 10 a.m. when the cross-town rivals' first girls' swim teams meet at the new Lincoln-Hancock School Natatorium.

There will be a pre-meet ceremony recognizing the new sport and the girls who have worked so hard to make it happen. The public is invited.

Although neither team has a Suburban League win, it has been mostly because of lack of depth and not lack of quality.

"We just need more members for some depth," said Elaine Murphy, the Quincy coach. "In our second meet against Weymouth North we won seven of 11 events but still lost, 103-59," as Weymouth dominated the second and third places. The Quincy girls, and also those at North, are doing very well in their first season."

Both teams meet to practice a minimum of two hours daily together and they have an hour of diving practice each day.

"It is important to note that both teams practice together," said Miss Murphy. "The girls from both teams work very hard, working with one another earnestly to learn the different skills such as flip turns and stroke technique. At this point it doesn't make any difference who is on which team, the girls are concentrating on learning the skills."

The Quincy girls have lost to Cambridge Latin, Newton, Weymouth North and Brockton, despite some outstanding individual performances.

In their opener against Cambridge, the First Ladies won the 200-medley relay, 200-yard individual medley, 50-yard freestyle, 200-yard butterfly and 100-yard breast stroke.

In the Weymouth North meet they won the 200-yard medley relay, 200-yard individual medley, 100-yard butterfly, 100-yard freestyle, 100-yard back stroke, 100-yard breast stroke and 400-yard freestyle relay.

Co-Capt. Tricia Kussman won the 200-yard individual medley and 100-yard butterfly in both meets. Terri Finnegan won the 100-yard breast stroke in both meets.

Kussman and Kathy Ryan are the co-captains. Other members of the team are Sheila Burke, Carol Bower, Sue Buttomer, Jayne Collins, Valerie Collins, Julie Deery, Finnegan, Kathy Grant, Jeanne Keyes, Shirley Lyons, Donna Maloney, Chris Mitchelson, Cory Morrison, Gail Morrison, Sue Murphy, Beth Rice, Lori Robertson, Lisa Salvaggio and Sue Tautvaisis. Murphy, Morrison and Salvaggio are the divers.

The North Quincy girls, coached by Bill Walker, lost to Waltham, Weymouth North and Weymouth South. As in the case of Quincy, the team had several fine individual efforts.

Walker has a young team with only one senior, Jody Rich. Co-capt. Linda Walker and Cindy Burke, Lisa Coletta, Lorraine Curroy, Joan Galasso, Lee Gullage, Pam Henry, Jonna Hiltunen, Kathy O'Hara, Janice O'Toole and Ingrid Pagliaro are juniors. Jane Abban, Terri Bangs, Linda Caruso, Bernadette Feeney, Kathy Goslin, Betsy Johnson, Ann Joyce, Jeanine Rich and Mary Roche are sophomores and Maureen Santry, Barbara Toland, Donna Walsh and Linda Wilkens are only ninth graders.

"These girls have worked very hard and have done a fine job," Walker said. "Most of them lack experience in competition and we suffer from lack of depth, as Quincy does. The members of both squads have pulled together into two very respectable swimming teams."

Both schools will have their first boys' swim teams getting under way Dec. 1.

NICKLAUS IS CHAMP

Jack Nicklaus won PGA championship for third time on Aug. 12, 1973.

Wollaston Yacht Club Winds Up With Trophy Night

Wollaston Yacht Club recently finished up the 1975 racing season with its annual trophy night.

Trophies were awarded not only to competitors in its Saturday and Twilight series, but also to participants in its 55-member sailing program made up of youngsters from 8 to 14 years of age.

After the awarding of the trophies, an entertaining selection of "slides to music" was presented by Kathy Dolbec. The pictures were of boats of the racing fleet taken during the season. Robbie Dolbec, head sailing instructor, and Dick Kelsey, rear commodore of Wollaston, also put on an entertaining presentation of "slides of the fleet and participants."

Wollaston had a fleet of 46 sailboats competing during the season, consisting of 16 Hustlers, 16 Lasers and 14 National Tens.

The Commodore John J. Morris Memorial Trophy, presented for the first time this year to the winning Laser skipper in a series of races, was won by John Dolbec.

The top seven finishers in the Saturday series:

Hustler Class: 1, Bewitched, Henry Welsh; 2, Carillon, Bill Bell; 3, Hot Cat, Dick Berger; 4, Butterfly, Doug Randall; 5, Honora V, Dick McCabe; 6, Alibi II, John McMann; 7, Blossom, Ted Randall.

The Quincy Bowling Little Loop will open its 22nd season Saturday at 9 a.m. at the Wollaston Bowladrome, following two weeks of rollofs.

In the opening matches Hal Davis Club will face Wollaston Bowladrome, Hutchinson Oil will meet Local 503, AFL-CIO; Granite Lodge 1451, AFL-CIO, will play Atlantic Fuel Oil, Montclair Men's Club will take on Quincy Lodge of Elks, George G. Burke Club will face Rep. Joseph E. Brett Club, George F. Bryan Post VFW will meet Hennessy Plumbing Supply and James R. McIntyre Club will play Dick Morrissey Club.

Boys 11 through 15 years of age wishing to join the league can register at the Bowladrome Saturday by contacting President Joe Gildea.

Broad Meadows Girls Look For Good Season

The Broad Meadows Junior High girls' basketball teams are anticipating a successful third season of league play with the varsity led by members of last season's junior varsity champions.

Lynne Powers and Paula Lynch are the varsity co-captains. Three-year veterans Nancy Campbell, Hazel Conroy, Lorraine Denver, Brenda Morrison and Kathy Ward balance the offense and defense.

Barbara McClelland and Joan St. Angelo, second-year girls, are given a lot of help from Carol Caramanica, Linda Deady, Annmarie Lydon, Paula Miller and Peggy Rugg, who are, according to Coach Corinne Mitchell, "welcome additions to the team."

Campbell has been the team's leading scorer followed closely by Powers, Lynch, Deady and Miller have been the defensive sparks and Conroy has been the top foul shooter.

Last week BM defeated previously unbeaten Point in a 30-29 squeaker. Campbell was high with 10 points, but the defense was the key, led by Powers, Deady, Miller and Morrison. For Kathy Bertrand's Point team Debbie Russo had 20 points and Ellen Doucette nine, while Roseanne Eleuteri and Teresa played fine defense.

BM had previously defeated Atlantic-North, 19-11, sparked by Powers' 10 points; and topped Sterling, 20-17, led by Miller and Deady.

The BM junior varsity is off to a good start and won its first four games. Susan Callahan and Laura Riley are co-captains of the jayvee squad.

The other starters come from among Linda Brennan, Laura Miller, Peggy Morrell and Paula Morrison.

Eighth grade veterans are Donna DePietro and Joanne Pacetti, and other eighth graders are Patrice Bohmbach, Clare Lynch, Maureen Maher, Donna Readon, Carol Carpenter and Marla Bloom.

Rounding out the squad are seventh graders Camille Brooks, Nancy Chludzinski, Karen Deady, Joan Giordani, Ann McCarron, Kathy Petrilli and Ruthann Roache.

Dawn Magee is the team manager.

Last week the jayvees breezed over Point, 33-2, led by Riley and Callahan with 10 and eight points respectively. The defense was outstanding with Miller, Brennan, Morrell and Pacetti sparkling.

Earlier the junior varsity had walloped Atlantic-North, 21-4, with Callahan and Riley high scorers, and topped Sterling, 17-11, sparked by Callahan, Riley and Morrell.

The girls are enjoying another good season, Mrs. Mitchell said. "Many of our players have been part of the league since it was initiated and have grown to be excellent players and fine sportswomen. We expect a successful year, one in which the girls will always give 100 percent."

Before its close loss to BM, the Point varsity had topped the defending league champion, Central, 40-25, as Doucette scored 18 points and Russo displayed super defense and offensive rebounding. She also scored 16 points. Eleuteri, Spano and Cheryl Ferguson also stood out. The junior varsity lost, 18-2.

Quincy Girl Runners Win, Raiderettes Bow

The Quincy girls' cross country team last week defeated Cambridge Latin, 25-30, for its fourth straight Suburban League win after losing its first two meets.

Dottie Irvine finished second for the First Ladies behind Cambridge Latin's Liz Skelton. Ellen Caramanica was third, Paula Constat fourth, Laura Noenick seventh and Kelly Tobin ninth.

The North Quincy girls, meanwhile, lost to Weymouth North, 26-31, as Weymouth's Stephanie Garbarczuk broke the Weymouth course record.

North Quincy's Debbie

Coutts finished third, Mary Gallagher fifth, Maureen Tracey sixth, Judy Malloy eighth, Debbie Farin ninth and Cherie Martinelli 10th.

Quincy will host Brockton next Wednesday, while North will go to Cambridge Latin.

North Booters Stopped, Quincy Blanks Weymouth S.

Although its six-game win streak was snapped last week, North Quincy's soccer team stayed in a top tie in the Suburban League with a 9-2 record.

Lou Ioanilli's Raiders dropped a 2-0 decision to Brockton, despite the fine play in goal of Tony Alessi, who had 16 stops. Walt McGinley played well on defense.

Earlier in the week North had edged Waltham, 2-1, on goals by Kevin O'Neil and Jim McGinley. John Lawson had an assist.

Ron Martin's Quincy booters topped Weymouth South, 2-0, on a pair of goals by Ken Donovan. Bill Norton and Glenn Schlager had assists. The win boosted the Presidents' record to 6-4-1.

Yesterday [Wednesday]

North played Weymouth North in a game rained out last Saturday. The Raiders will host Waltham Friday and play at Newton Tuesday. Quincy will play at Weymouth North Friday and Host Brookline Tuesday.

Evening Gym Program For Boys and Girls

Charles L. Alongi, administrative assistant of recreation, announces the Evening Gym Program for Junior and Senior High boys and girls is now underway.

The program, 6 to 9 p.m. for girls and 6 to 10 p.m. for boys, follows:

Atherton Hough, Tuesday and Thursday for boys.

Beechwood Knoll, Tuesday and Wednesday for girls, Fridays for boys.

Montclair, Tuesday and Thursday for boys, Wednesday and Fridays for girls.

Snug Harbor, Monday and Friday for boys.

Squantum, Monday and Wednesdays for girls, Thursdays for boys.

Wollaston, Monday and Tuesday for girls, Wednesday and Fridays for boys.

Quincy Leader In Providing Outdoor Tennis Courts For Residents

Richard J. Koch, Commissioner of Natural Resources, announces that a survey conducted by the Quincy Recreation Department indicates Quincy remains "outstanding in providing outdoor public tennis courts for its residents.

Quincy, with a population of 89,000, has 40 outdoor tennis courts within its city limits, while the City of Boston provides 67 courts to service its 700,000 population and the MDC serving 2,300,000 has a total of 29. Springfield, with double Quincy's population, has the same number of courts as Quincy, 40, while Worcester, with approximately the same 180,000 population provides 29 outdoor tennis courts, 10 of them lighted while Springfield provides some type of lighting in 6 courts. Quincy illuminates 31 of its 40 outdoor tennis facilities with some type of lighting, while the MDC illuminates four.

Cambridge, with a comparable population to Quincy [93,000], provides 14 courts for its residents, while Somerville with 82,000 has eight courts to service its people. In neighboring communities, Braintree [40,000] has 24, with eight of them illuminated; Weymouth [50,000] residents, has 13 courts, three lighted and Milton [27,000] has 12 courts.

The Quincy Park Department and School Department have tried to continually add and refurbish its tennis facilities whenever possible, Koch said.

In 1973, the most recent tennis facilities in the city were installed at Faxon Park with a four-court complex and lighting was provided in 1974 for this most used recreational site. The Adams playground basketball court was converted to tennis last year as an outdoor basketball court already located at the Adams School which serviced the immediate vicinity.

Mayor Hannon and the City Council, in 1973, appropriated $10,000 to refurbish the LaBrecque Playground tennis courts and basketball courts, considered the oldest in the city, while the School Department resurfaced the four tennis courts at Atlantic and Broadmeadows Junior High Schools and the two at Perkins Field, Merymount.

Ten public outdoor tennis courts have been added in the past five years in Quincy or an additional 33% over the previously existing facilities. Park Department Personnel are trying to repair the older facilities in need of repairs and sealcoating.

Koch, has been provided the following information by Charles L. Alongi, Administrative Assistant of the Recreation Department, concerning tennis participants at the city's outdoor public facilities:

season 69 boys teams and 42 girls teams participated.

The League season will get underway Saturday, Dec. 6, and play through the month of February. The three-week championship playoffs are scheduled in March.

Anyone desiring information regarding League requirements may contact Johnson at the YMCA [479-8506], or YMCA Coordinator Seymour Sutcliffe at 344-7410.

From May 5, to Sept. 6, Faxon Park tennis courts use recorded by the Recreation Department supervisors indicates Monday through Sunday from 6 p.m. - 10 p.m., weekday evenings from 6 p.m. - 10 p.m., Saturday from 10 a.m. - 10 p.m., and Sunday from 10 a.m. - 6 p.m. showing a total of 4,476 or 248 persons weekly using the facilities.

Bishop Playground, Montclair, indicated Monday through Saturday from May 5 to Sept. 6 from 6 p.m. - 9 p.m., a total of 1,808 or 100 persons played weekly for this short period of time.

Welcome Young, with only two courts on a 12 week period, had a total of 604 or weekly average of 50.

Fenno St., also with two courts, in a 14 week period, from Monday through Saturday, 6 p.m. - 10 p.m., had a total of 923 playing or 65 weekly.

The five tennis courts located at Quincy Vocational Technical School, longest complex in the city during the 18 week period of supervision, showed a total of 5,140 or 285 weekly from Monday through Friday from 6 p.m. - 10 p.m., Saturday from 10 a.m. - 10 p.m. and Sunday from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

The 17 tennis courts listed above for the limited time indicated showed a total attendance of 15,151 with the remaining 23 tennis courts not recorded and the unsupervised time of use in the original 17 courts.

Estimates for the total use of the City's 40 outdoor tennis courts from May 1 when the nets are installed until Nov. 1 when removed, the facilities are used approximately 75,000 times by tennis enthusiasts.

Gov. Dukakis Keynote Speaker At John Adams Honor Ceremonies Oct. 30

Gov. Michael Dukakis will be the featured speaker at a presidential wreath laying ceremony Thursday, Oct. 30, honoring the 240th birthday of President John Adams.

The ceremony is to be held at 11 a.m. on the steps of the United First Parish Church, Quincy Sq.

The traditional presentation of the wreath from President Gerald Ford will be made to Mayor Walter J. Hannon by Admiral Thomas E. Morris, USNR, Commanding officer, Naval Reserve Readiness Command, Boston.

Featured during the ceremony will be a special presentation by the Curtin Call Theater of a scene from "American Primitive", a play by William Gibson, based on the letters of John and Abigail Adams.

Portraying the role of John and Abigail will be Lauren Fitzhugh and Cathryn Vent.

Dialogue from the play is derived directly from letters written between John and Abigail while John Adams was attending the First Continental Congress in 1774.

The ceremony will open with patriotic music by organist Gay Sullivan, and the Quincy High School Band, under the direction of Michael Cahill.

Members of the Quincy High School Air Force Junior ROTC will provide a color guard for the singing of the National Anthem, and lead the audience in a Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag.

Welcome to the ceremonies honoring the second president will be given by John R. Graham, executive director of Quincy Heritage, the city's bicentennial agency.

Speakers for the event, in addition to the keynote address by Gov. Dukakis, will be Admiral Morris, Mayor Walter J. Hannon, who will accept the wreath for the city, and Rev.

Keith Munson, who will accept on behalf of United First Parish Church.

Rev. Joseph Downey, pastor of St. Joseph's Church, will offer the prayer of dedication.

To commemorate the event, a special parchment scroll bearing John Adams portrait and selected thoughts, will be given away free with every purchase made at the Quincy Heritage Visitors' Center in the Quincy MBTA Station.

Also available will be a similar parchment portrait of John Quincy Adams, suitable for framing.

Following the wreath laying ceremonies, an invitational civic luncheon, sponsored by the Quincy Savings Bank, will be held at the Three Seasons Restaurant, in the Quincy Vocational Technical School.

The public is invited to attend the wreath laying ceremony and to visit the crypt of the Presidents beneath the church.

16 Elected To QCBPA Board Of Directors

Sixteen members of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association [QCBPA] have been elected to serve on the organization's new board of directors.

They are:

Mark Bertman of Roger's Jewelry; Henry Bosworth of The Quincy Sun; Pierre Boulanger of Sears Roebuck Co.; Phil Chase of Cummings; Robert Colman of Colman's Sporting Goods; Burt Cook of Tag's Sleep and Lounge Shop; Jack Cosseboom of Milton's; Remo DeNicola of South Shore Television and Appliance; Kenneth Fallon Jr. of WJDA; Jason Feidman of Jason's Luggage and Music Shop; Ted Johnson of Granite City Hardware; John Kelly of Sawyer's Campus Shop; Jack Kerrigan of Baskin-Robbins Ice Cream Store; David Leitch of Burgin-Platner & Co., Inc.; Bernie Reisberg of Bernie's Modern Formal Shop; and George White of the Patriot Ledger.

QCBPA Vice-President Bernard Reisberg said the new board of directors will meet later in the month. A meeting tentatively scheduled for this week has been postponed.

Reisberg urged all QCBPA members to attend today's [Thursday's] general membership meeting to be held at Quincy Legion Post 95 at the corner of Revere Rd and Mechanic St.

The meeting is scheduled to begin at 10 a.m. and members will discuss future downtown activities.

Quincy Police Marksmen Priming For National Competition

[Cont'd from Page 1]

"And we hope we never have to," Kendall added.

Admittedly an expensive hobby, pistol shooting competition personally costs both officers an estimated $1,000 per season.

Kendall, who has been competing in regional meets for two years, and McDonald, launching his first competitive season this year, each devote during the match season two to three hours per week to practice shooting, spending an estimated $300 per man for practice ammunition alone. One case of ammunition carries 1,000 rounds (a round equals a shot) and costs $50. The $300 per man covers, then, six cases of practice ammunition.

And during the 12-match season, McDonald and Kendall each use an added case and one-half of ammunition - approximately 130 rounds per competitive match. That adds another $75 per person, bringing the total estimated cost of one season's ammunition to $375 per man.

Match entrance fees ranging from $15-20 also deplete the shooter's pocket and travel expenses pile an estimated $150 to the total, paid entirely by McDonald and Kendall alone.

A pistol adds between $250 and $300 to this hobby's total cost. Both Kendall and McDonald use a Smith and Wesson 38-caliber six-inch barrel pistol purchased locally at Colman's Sporting Goods.

Then, a holster, speed loaders, bullet loops, belts and ear protectors to block out the bang of the bullets jack total expenditures another $75.

In area matches, Kendall and McDonald compete both on individual and team levels. Participants stand at varying distances from round fringed targets, shooting required volleys of fire. A typical match begins with the shooter standing seven feet from the target. At this distance, he must fire 12 rounds in 25 seconds, drawing, firing, discharging, reloading and re-firing.

Then, at 12 yards from the target, the shooter must fire 18 rounds - six left-handed, right-handed and kneeling, all in 60 seconds.

Then, at 25 yards, each man fires in 60 seconds 18 rounds while stationed behind a barricade kneeling, left-handed and right-handed to end the match.

A special 50-yard event requires firing 24 rounds in two minutes and 45 seconds - six rounds each while sitting and prone, then left-handed and right-handed behind a barricade.

In all these events, timing is second only to precision. Kendall said:

"You have to take as much of the allotted time as possible. If you finish that 50-yard round in two minutes instead of two minutes and 45 seconds, you know you're not shooting as accurately as possible."

McDonald agreed. "Speed, accuracy and timing are the most essential items. You really need a good sense of timing."

Both shooters also rank concentration and composure as ingredients essential to proficient performance. Kendall explained:

"If you have the jitters, you're going to blow it. It's like a little war with everyone shooting at once. You have to concentrate and block out everything around you. You can't be thinking of the guy next to you."

Long-time boyhood friends, the two officers rekindled their friendship when Kendall joined the Quincy Police force. Both are now working towards associate degrees in law enforcement at Quincy Junior College.

Having represented the Quincy Police force in state and regional matches, both McDonald and Kendall now hope to bring pride to the city by representing their department next year - in national competition.

Adams Birthplaces To Be On Sears Catalog Cover

Sears, Roebuck will have a full-color photograph of the birthplaces of Presidents John and John Quincy Adams on the cover of its catalog for Spring and Summer of 1976.

Gordon MacPhee of Quincy Heritage worked with Sears representatives early this past summer at the birthplaces. Sears paid to have the houses cleaned on the exterior and then had the paint touched-up where necessary.

In 1971 Sears painted both houses as part of the "Great American Homes" program.

Sears representative indicated that the birthplaces were chosen for the cover of the bicentennial edition of the catalog because they seemed to be most representative. All of the "Great American Homes" were given consideration.

Over the years, Sears has featured its products on the cover of its catalog. This is the first time that Sears paint products have been given cover recognition.

The caption on the photograph notes that the birthplaces, located in Quincy, are the homes of both the second and sixth presidents of the U.S.

"We are very pleased that Sears is bringing this special recognition to Quincy," said John R. Graham, Quincy Heritage executive director. "This will create interest in Quincy everywhere in the nation. The dollar value of such national exposure cannot be calculated."

The catalog will be released early in 1976.

Gov. Dukakis Keynote Speaker At John Adams Honor Ceremonies Oct. 30

Gov. Michael Dukakis will be the featured speaker at a presidential wreath laying ceremony Thursday, Oct. 30, honoring the 240th birthday of President John Adams.

The ceremony is to be held at 11 a.m. on the steps of the United First Parish Church, Quincy Sq.

The traditional presentation of the wreath from President Gerald Ford will be made to Mayor Walter J. Hannon by Admiral Thomas E. Morris, USNR, Commanding officer, Naval Reserve Readiness Command, Boston.

Featured during the ceremony will be a special presentation by the Curtin Call Theater of a scene from "American Primitive", a play by William Gibson, based on the letters of John and Abigail Adams.

Portraying the role of John and Abigail will be Lauren Fitzhugh and Cathryn Vent.

Dialogue from the play is derived directly from letters written between John and Abigail while John Adams was attending the First Continental Congress in 1774.

The ceremony will open with patriotic music by organist Gay Sullivan, and the Quincy High School Band, under the direction of Michael Cahill.

Members of the Quincy High School Air Force Junior ROTC will provide a colorguard for the singing of the National Anthem, and lead the audience in a Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag.

Welcome to the ceremonies honoring the second president will be given by John R. Graham, executive director of Quincy Heritage, the city's bicentennial agency.

Speakers for the event, in addition to the keynote address by Gov. Dukakis, will be Admiral Morris, Mayor Walter J. Hannon, who will accept the wreath for the city, and Rev.

Keith Munson, who will accept on behalf of United First Parish Church.

Rev. Joseph Downey, pastor of St. Joseph's Church, will offer the prayer of dedication.

To commemorate the event, a special parchment scroll bearing John Adams portrait and selected thoughts, will be given away free with every purchase made at the Quincy Heritage Visitors' Center in the Quincy MBTA Station.

Also available will be a similar parchment portrait of John Quincy Adams, suitable for framing.

Following the wreath laying ceremonies, an invitational civic luncheon, sponsored by the Quincy Savings Bank, will be held at the Three Seasons Restaurant, in the Quincy Vocational Technical School.

The public is invited to attend the wreath laying ceremony and to visit the crypt of the Presidents beneath the church.

16 Elected To QCBPA Board Of Directors

Sixteen members of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association [QCBPA] have been elected to serve on the organization's new board of directors.

They are: Mark Bertman of Roger's Jewelry; Henry Bosworth of The Quincy Sun; Pierre Boulanger of Sears Roebuck Co.; Phil Chase of Cummings; Robert Colman of Colman's Sporting Goods; Burt Cook of Tag's Sleep and Lounge Shop; Jack Cosseboom of Milton's; Remo DeNicolis of South Shore Television and Appliance; Kenneth Fallon Jr. of WJDA; Jason Feidman of Jason's Luggage and Music Shop; Ted Johnson of Granite City Hardware; John Kelly of Sawyer's Campus Shop; Jack Kerigan of Baskin-Robbins Ice Cream Store; David Leitch of Burgin-Plattner & Co., Inc.; Bernie Reisberg of Bernie's Modern Formal Shop; and George White of the Patriot Ledger.

QCBPA Vice-President Bernard Reisberg said the new board of directors will meet later in the month. A meeting tentatively scheduled for this week has been postponed.

Reisberg urged all QCBPA members to attend today's [Thursday's] general membership meeting to be held at Quincy Legion Post 95 at the corner of Revere Rd and Mechanic St.

The meeting is scheduled to begin at 10 a.m. and members will discuss future downtown activities.

Senior Volunteers Sought For 'Project Observe'

Speedy Senior Service in conjunction with the RSVP [Retired Senior Volunteer Program] is recruiting Senior Volunteers to participate in "Project Observe", a program which will survey available services and additional needs of older people in the area.

The program is being operated through the Massachusetts Association of Older Americans under the direction of the Department of Elder Affairs.

Seniors participating in the program will attend five training sessions to be introduced to the importance of the survey and methods used in gathering information. These sessions will be held at the J. F. Kennedy Health Center, 1120 Hancock St., Nov. 3, 4, 5, 7 and 10.

Seniors interested in helping with "Project Observe" should contact Loretta Ardini at the Speedy Senior Service office, 1 Maple St., Quincy Sq., or call 471-3601.

30 IS ABOUT THE RIGHT AGE TO THINK ABOUT RETIREMENT.

With inflation the way it is, anyone planning to live out his retirement comfortably on Social Security is only kidding himself.

It takes a long time to prepare for your retirement. Starting at age 30 is certainly none too soon.

South Shore Retirement Accounts.

Recently, an act of Congress made it possible for you to set up your own retirement program if you're not already covered by a plan.

At South Shore this means that you can set aside up to $1500 or 15% of your salary (whichever is less) in a special tax-exempt Retirement Account.

This money is tax free from federal taxation so long as it stays in the account. (That could amount to several hundred dollars a year.)

And since when you draw on your retirement fund you will most likely be in a lower tax bracket, this will result in even further tax savings.

The only caution is that since this fund is intended for retirement, it must be used that way. If you withdraw any money before age 59½ the federal law insists that there be a penalty.

$248,160 when you retire.

Let's say you set up a retirement account at South Shore National at age 30 and at the beginning of each year you deposit $1500 in your retirement account.

At the end of the thirty-fifth year you will have contributed $52,500, taken tax benefits amounting to $13,125 and due to interest earnings, accumulated $248,160 by the time you retire at age 65.

If you contributed $1500 at the beginning of each year for 35 years, here's how your fund will be computed.
Annual contribution	$1,500
Total tax saving per year (25% tax bracket)	$375
Total contributed at age 65	$52,500
Interest earnings at 7.25%	$195,660
YOUR TOTAL RETIREMENT FUND	$248,160

It's amazing how it all adds up.

The convenience of Multistatement.

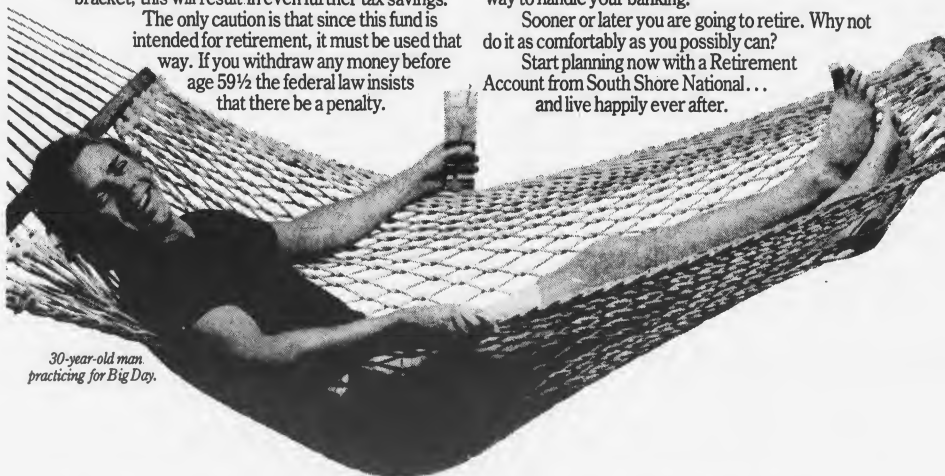

If you wish, your Retirement Account at South Shore National can be still another part of Multistatement. Multistatement automatically entitles you to such services as free checking, NOW Accounts, automatic transfer of funds and a discount on personal loans. It's a most convenient way to handle your banking.

Sooner or later you are going to retire. Why not do it as comfortably as you possibly can?

Start planning now with a Retirement Account from South Shore National... and live happily ever after.

Will your retirement party be something to celebrate?

30-year-old man practicing for Big Day.

65% Voter Turnout Predicted Next Tuesday

Mayoral Race Close--Hannon Given Edge

By HENRY BOSWORTH

As Quincy's confusing city election campaign heads down the home-stretch, political observers still see a fairly close race between Mayor Walter J. Hannon and challenger Joseph J. LaRaia.

But most of them are giving the edge to Hannon whom they think has picked up more steam than LaRaia since the September preliminary election. But other observers will argue that point.

The only really sure thing about next Tuesday's finale is that Quincy will get at least two new city councillors and two new school committeemen.

The four new municipal faces are guaranteed because there are four vacant seats to be filled.

City Clerk John M. Gillis predicts "about 65 percent" of Quincy's 48,232 registered voters will go to the polls. Two years ago, in another confusing election that did not take place until Dec. 4, 53 per cent turned out.

Ironically Gillis thinks all the Sample Ballot

On Page 11

confusion about this year's election has generated so much publicity that it will have a sort of reverse-psychological affect bringing out more voters than if it were a normal election.

All the confusion results from the fact that the names of 25

Debate At Kiwanis Club

Proponent, Opponent Take Sharp Issue On Building Height Referenda

An opponent of height limitations in Quincy charged passage of either ballot question will place an "irrevocable ban" on commercial and industrial high rise construction but a proponent of the limitations labelled that charge "mendacious fabrication."

Speaking at a Monday meeting of the Quincy Kiwanis Club, Eric Swider, executive vice-president of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce, and Pasquale DiStefano, president of the Quincy Citizens Association, presented polar views on the height limit debate which goes to the people Nov. 4.

While Swider urged Quincy voters to reject both height limitation ballot questions, DiStefano lobbied for passage of referendum Question No. 3 which would limit the maximum number of stories of any future building in Quincy to 10 in Zones [Industrial A and B, Business C and Resident D] which presently have no limit. Passage of this question would also prohibit issuance of special permits to exceed 10 stories but DiStefano emphasized it would continue to allow variances for "essential and justifiable" construction over 10 stories.

Referendum Question No. 2 would, if passed, limit the maximum number of stories of any future building in Quincy to eight. Buildings in excess of eight stories would be allowed by issuance of a City Council permit passed by a two-thirds vote of the council.

DiStefano calls this proposal "second best" and Swider classes it with Question No. 3, labelling both as types of laws which "border on lunacy." Calling those who support height limitations "the anti-growth forces" in the city, Swider said: "The essence of these two proposals is to thwart investment by the business sector in the development of Quincy, scare away their interest and the potential jobs they bring with them...It is a total irrevocable ban on high rise commercial/industrial construction with no opportunity for review or change."

Denying Swider's charges,

A HOUSE DIVIDED - His and hers signs at 200 Beale St., Wollaston, indicate Chuck and Leona Doherty cannot agree on a mayoral candidate to lead the city.

He For Hannon, She For LaRaia

Wollaston Home A Political (Mayoralty) House Divided

By MARY ANN DUGGAN

Chuck and Leona Doherty of 200 Beale St., Wollaston are proving a political house divided need not crumble nor fall.

Side-by-side mayoral placards pounded into the Doherty front lawn announce with billboard boldness the occupants within will not be voting for the same mayoral candidate on election day. Hoisted above a "Hannon Mayor" sign is the word "His", and tacked above a "LaRaia Mayor" sign is the word "Hers".

Although Mrs. Doherty explains she and her husband usually agree on political matters, she said this year's race for mayor has created division within the household.

"We've been trying to convince each other to change sides," says Mrs. Doherty.

And in order to prod her husband into the LaRaia camp, Mrs. Doherty - the mother of five children, two of whom are 17-year old twins - is using an age-old tactic. She said:

"I'm threatening no supper all next week!"

Mrs. Doherty explained she demanded equal billing for her candidate after her husband erected a Hannon sign on the front lawn a week ago. Refusing to comply with her spouse's suggestion to stand the LaRaia sign on the other side of the yard, Mrs. Doherty said she wanted her billboard placed right beside her husband's.

"You wouldn't dare," my husband said to me," Mrs. Doherty recalled. "And when someone says 'You wouldn't dare,' I dare!"

Mr. Doherty has now vowed to spotlight his Hannon billboard in bright lights on election night. Not to be upstaged, Mrs. Doherty says she will concoct some countering plan to attract attention to her LaRaia sign.

"I may get a belly dancer," she laughed. "Or maybe I should get a colored spotlight. I'll have to think of something."

Despite the disagreement over the mayoral race, the Dohertys do concur on another candidate wedged between the Hannon and LaRaia signs is smaller "Mullaneey for School Committee" sign which used to carry above it the designation "Both". Mrs. Doherty said someone stole the marker in the wee hours of Tuesday morning.

"It was there at one o'clock in the morning Tuesday but gone at six," she said.

This amiable political feud has been brewing so long, both Dohertys can parrot what the other will say about the candidate of the other's choice. Mrs. Doherty

You Have Until Monday To Pay First Half Of Tax Bill

The first half payments of Quincy real estate tax bills are due Saturday, but may be paid by 4:30 p.m. on Monday without a penalty charge announces Treasurer-Tax Collector, Robert E. Foy.

Any bills paid later will be subject to an annual charge of eight per cent, he said.

Bills must be paid at the Tax Collector's Office, City Hall, 1305 Hancock St.

City To Pay $296,519 Less To County

Quincy will pay $296,519.29 less to Norfolk County this year, thanks to a recent decision allowing the county commissioner to deduct the county's previous year's unappropriated balance from city taxes authorized by the General Court.

City Treasurer Robert E. Foy announces the money will go into the city's Excess and Deficiency fund at the end of the year.

It can be used to help reduce next year's tax rate, he said.

Heritage Seeks $10,000 More
For First Railway, Hancock Cemetery

Restoration work at the site of the nation's First Railroad in West Quincy is proposed in a new Quincy Heritage grant application.

The proposal was submitted recently to the Massachusetts Bicentennial Commission with a request for $10,000 in matching funds.

Contained in the proposal, in addition to work on the railroad site, are plans to enter into a third phase of beautification work at historic Hancock Cemetery in Quincy Sq. Earlier projects were completed during the summers of 1974 and 1975.

If approved, the Massachusetts Bicentennial funds will be matched with $10,000 of community development funds which were approved by Mayor Walter J. Hannan at the request of Ward 4 Councillor James A. Sheets.

The money at the railroad site will be used to complete excavation work on the rail bed and to create interpretive materials for visitors.

"We want to be ready for the 150th anniversary of the railroad on April 1, 1976," said John R. Graham, Quincy Heritage executive director.

Graham indicated that the funds would also make it possible to continue both research and preservation efforts at the Hancock Cemetery.

"We are just about to the point where some repair work can be done on several of the badly damaged tombstones," he said. "With the cooperation of the Quincy Public Schools in providing lab space it will be possible to accomplish the work under excellent conditions."

Quincy Heritage reports that endorsements have been received for the proposal from Senator Arthur H. Tobin, Councillor James A. Sheets, Rep. Joseph Brett, Asst. Supt. Maurice Daly of the Quincy Public Schools, Heslip Sutherland, chairman of Board of Managers of Quincy Public Burial Places, Natural Resources Commissioner Richard Koch, and Richard H. Meade, assistant city planner.

TOURING Quincy's General Dynamics Shipyard are, from left, Mayor Walter J. Hannon, Gerald P. Reidy, U.S. Department of Labor, Boston office; Robert Aders, undersecretary of Labor, U.S. Department of Labor, Washington, D.C.; and P. Takis Veliotis, division president and general manager of the General Dynamics Quincy Shipyard.

Brownell Says DCA Trying To Sidestep Housing Law

Rep. Thomas F. Brownell charges the State Department of Community Affairs (DCA) with illegally attempting to sidestep the public housing law.

In a letter to William G. Flynn, DCA secretary, Brownell said it appears the Department's proposed new housing regulations are designed to reduce tenant participation in the management of their homes and contain no assurance that needy people will receive housing. He said:

"They [the regulations] contain many hidden charges which are really backdoor attempts to raise the rents of the needy. In my opinion, this is an illegal attempt to circumvent the policy of the public housing law."

Brownell urged Flynn to abandon the proposed regulations and to focus instead on enforcing and implementing existing regulations which Brownell called "equitable, sound and fair."

Aders Sees CETA Program In Action At General Dynamics

Robert Aders, undersecretary of the U.S. Department of Labor in Washington, D.C., visited the General Dynamics Quincy Shipyard Friday to meet employees receiving on-the-job training under the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA) funded by the U.S. Labor Department.

P. Takis Veliotis, division president and general manager of General Dynamics, served as Aders' host for the day.

General Dynamics, the state's most active CETA employer, has hired 159 men and women from Quincy, Brockton and Cambridge CETA regions to be trained in shipfitting and welding.

Under the CETA program, those hired become full-time regular company employees after four to eight months of training. The federal government then reimburses the company for costs incurred during the program.

Accompanying Aders and Veliotis on the shipyard visit were Mayor Walter J. Hannon, Paul J. Ricca, Quincy CETA director; Catherine Stratton, CETA director, balance of state, executive office of economic affairs; John Read, councillor to the U.S. Secretary of Labor in Washington, D.C.; Gerald Reidy, U.S. Department of Labor in Boston; and John Chavez, assistant director of the U.S. Department of Labor's information office.

Quincy CD In Emergency Test

Quincy and 91 other southeastern Massachusetts communities will participate in "Snostorm '75" in December to ascertain the emergency readiness of Civil Defense organizations in these cities and towns.

This test exercise, conducted by the Area II staff of the Massachusetts Civil Defense Agency, will involve the operational problems which would develop if this section of the state were directly hit by a severe winter storm.

Quincy Civil Defense Director Thomas Lyons emphasized the general public will not participate in this exercise. Only key area, sector and local officials who have ultimate responsibility for coordinating relief efforts in any major disaster will be involved.

The test exercise will be held Thursday, Dec. 4.

How to add warmth to your apartment

By BARBARA HARTUNG

Q. We are moving to a small city apartment from our large family home, selling because our children have married and left home. We want to create in this apartment a comfortable place for entertaining friends informally and for Monday through Thursday living. We spend the rest of the week in our mountain home. In our city apartment I want to have easy care furnishings so that maintenance problems are reduced as much as possible. Our furniture will need recovering and much I plan to dispose of. Please suggest some colors for a warm and comfortable color scheme and some fabrics to go on chairs, sofa and dining set. We want to create a light and crisp, carefree look in this apartment but now the apartment has no personality with white walls. We will need to choose a floor covering and window treatment. — C. B.

A. You might add instant warmth and interest to two of your living room walls by painting them a soft, earthen orange. Paint the other two walls an off-white or leave them as they are if they are not too starkly white. For the floor you might like easy care white vinyl and then add an area rug for your sofa and chairs to create an eye-appealing conversation area.

FOR EASY CARE — Vinyl floors, punctuated with a large area rug, and a glove-soft white vinyl sofa help reduce maintenance in this apartment living room. Color is added through the upholstered chairs and walls of a deep persimmon shade.

pealing conversation area.

The rug might be in a deeper rust color, soft orange, yellow and off-white. For the sofa you might like low maintenance white vinyl. You might like a heavily textured linen in yellows, oranges and off-white on your chairs you might reupholster. You might antique yellow or gold a piece of wood furniture that would be good looking against the pale orange wall. The painted piece would be a nice contrast with natural wood end tables and coffee tables. For windows why not create an airy look with an open, heavily woven white fabric.

STITCHING WITCHERY

Fixing zipper may take time

By BETTY W. KINSER
Copley News Service

It never figured that I would get caught... but then, I've been wrong before.

The zipper on the jeans I was wearing started to pull out. So, I thought, "Who will notice if I slip them off and quickly stitch the zipper?"

There's more to the story, friends, but let's say I'll never do that again and let it go at that, OK?

Nothing can wipe the smile off your face like a rip in your britches. Take some care, therefore, when stitching the crotch seam of your slacks or shorts.

First of all, make sure of the fit before you cut out the pattern. In construction, make a row of stitching on the seamline, followed by a second row one-quarter inch from the first, stitching from notches down to end of crotch seam. Clip this curved seam up to second row of stitching. Press seam open.

Your Horoscope Guide

For The Week Of Nov. 2-8 By GINA, Copley News Service

ARIES: (March 21 to April 19 — Also Aries Ascendant) — Social activity is favored and your popularity could soar. Become involved in civic, community or church activities; volunteer your talents. Decisions in romantic life may be hard to reach.

TAURUS: (April 20 to May 20 — Also Taurus Ascendant) — Financial good fortune may come your way now. Honors or high position in community or civic organizations could materialize. Keep your ego in proportion. Use care in money matters; get expert advice.

GEMINI: (May 21 to June 20 — Also Gemini Ascendant) — The glamor of a financial venture attracts you, but loss could be involved if you are not careful. Deal only with people you know you can trust. Some deviousness in romantic matters needs watching.

CANCER: (June 21 to July 22 — Also Cancer Ascendant) — Guard against deception, both in yourself and others. Stick to the budget even though money matters are improved. A person you meet now and are instantly attracted to could be a long-term close friend.

LEO: (July 23 to Aug. 22 —

Also Leo Ascendant) — Your boss could look on you with favor now. Celebrate your high spirits with a loved one. Pay attention to your grooming and appearance. Take time out to think quietly about your goals and be grateful for attainments.

VIRGO: (Aug. 23 to Sept. 22 — Also Virgo Ascendant) — You can see that a long-held wish is beginning to come true. New people you meet now can lead to other meaningful contacts. Guard health, pay attention to your appearance. A new romance may prove disappointing.

LIBRA: (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22 — Also Libra Ascendant) — Attend to detail work and completing projects. Decisions made about career matters are best made in consideration of long-term results. Listen to opinions of older, wiser, heads. Keep a firm foundation.

SCORPIO: (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21 — Also Scorpio Ascendant) — Energy is high now, and when you review past accomplishments you can make new goal plans. Finish up jobs of work left dangling. Prepare new projects for launching. Contact those who will help.

SAGITTARIUS: (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21 — Also Sagittarius Ascendant) — Search out your own secret fears and analyze them. Face realistically an evaluation of your talents and abilities. Investigate hidden philosophies. Finish up tasks that are nagging at you.

CAPRICORN: (Dec. 22 to Jan. 19 — Also Capricorn Ascendant) — Some of you may change jobs now, without a backward glance. Hard work and dedication to duty takes up all your attention. Financial worries may plague you but romance is a bright spot in life.

AQUARIUS: (Jan. 20 to Feb. 18 — Also Aquarius Ascendant) — Don't try to force events prematurely — be patient. Finances improve somewhat surprisingly. Romance is emphasized and you can act decisively. Avoid anger at one who speaks about you to others.

PISCES: (Feb. 19 to March 20 — Also Pisces Ascendant) — Unusual circumstances could lead you to a life-long friend. Communications by telephone have deep meaning. Attend to career matters. Sift offers carefully. Letter writing and short trips are involved.

POINT BLANK

Be beautiful inside — where it counts

By JOHN MOON

Dear John:

I read in your column about the 18-year-old boy who had the "worst case of acne in the world."

He's wrong. I am an 18-year-old girl and I had the worst case of acne in the world.

But I licked it, finally, just as he will overcome it.

In the meantime, I want you to tell him not to be so self-conscious. If he smiles and thinks about others, he will forget himself. Others will enjoy being with him and not even think about his complexion.

I know, because I look back on that acne period and realize I had fun in sports, dancing and mingling with others, despite my face.

One Who Has Had It

Dear One:

To me, you are beautiful. But you are even more beautiful on the inside — where it counts.

A not-so-pretty face is an asset. In fact, an ugly face often is a person's fortune.

Phyllis Diller and Jimmy Durante didn't become popular because they won beauty contests.

There once was a very ugly, misshapen man with a long nose and twisted features. He was a good speaker.

People for miles around would go to hear him speak. He became wealthy.

With his wealth, he decided to get a nose job and make himself more attractive.

However, to his dismay — with his new, beautiful face — he lost his audiences.

PREVENT CHILD BURNS

Parents can prevent many tragic childhood burns by exercising caution and educating their youngsters to the danger of fire. Parents should make certain that matches and lighters are kept out of reach of the tot. Any forgetfulness in this regard could easily lead to tragedy.

Similarly, young children should be kept away from kitchen stoves, heaters and fireplaces. Never leave a toddler alone in the kitchen where he might be tempted to turn on the stove or in the living room when there is a fire in the fireplace.

Always turn pot handles in to prevent children from pulling scalding liquids over on themselves.

Education can begin by the time the child is two years old. At this age the child must be still given 100 per cent protection against major fire hazards, but he can be taught the meaning of "hot" and learn respect for fire through educational experiences.

Stuffed Peppers

Green bell peppers are the perfect "bake and serve" containers for a high protein, reasonably priced main dish. The combination of flaked halibut and bulk pork sausage, mixed with enriched white bread in a sherry-seasoned pepper, might be your unexpected flavor coup this fall.

Cream of celery soup makes the easy sauce base, and eight slices of enriched white bread contribute the B-vitamins—thiamine, niacin and riboflavin—plus the mineral, iron. The green peppers, a good source of vitamin C, also have a fair amount of vitamin A and only 15 calories per unstuffed pepper.

Stuffed Peppers
12 peppers

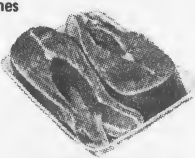

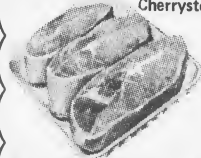

- | | |
|--|---|
| 8 slices enriched white bread, torn into small pieces (about 5 cups) | 1 can (10 1/2 oz.) cream of celery soup |
| 1/2 cup sherry | 1 pound halibut or haddock, cooked, seasoned and flaked |
| 12 medium green peppers | Fine enriched dry bread crumbs, buttered |
| 1 pound bulk pork sausage | |
| 1/4 teaspoon pepper | |
| 3 dashes hot pepper sauce | |

Sprinkle bread with sherry. Set aside. Slice tops from peppers and remove seeds. Plunge peppers in boiling water about 5 minutes until slightly limp; drain. Cook sausage until brown; drain. Add bread, seasonings and soup; gently stir in fish. Spoon mixture into hollow peppers. Top with bread crumbs. Bake in preheated 350° oven about 20 to 30 minutes or until crumbs are brown.

Secret Service Lax When JFK Elected

By HENRY BOSWORTH

President Ford has had a couple of close assassination calls in the past month or so and almost got banged up in a car crash in Hartford two weeks ago.

The latter event may, more so than even the other near tragic incidents, point out what's really wrong with the Secret Service: they assume too much—take things for granted.

In Hartford, the presidential motorcade was travelling at a fast clip to the airport after Ford had spoken at a fund-raising dinner.

The procession was led by Connecticut state police cruisers—no sirens, no flashing lights. The President's limousine was five seconds or so behind the escort when it approached an intersection.

The light was red. But the Secret Service agent driving the limousine sped through it. He assumed the state police had sealed off the intersection or had a police officer at the corner. But no one was there to give the limousine a safe go-ahead.

A 19-year-old in another car had the green light, crossed the intersection and smashed into the President's limousine.

The President fortunately escaped with a shaking up.

Why didn't the Secret Service make sure there was a police officer at that intersection? They just assumed there would be one there.

Assume... someone can get killed because of that word. Someone has. President John Kennedy was assassinated in Dallas. Those who knew Lee Harvey Oswald was around town that November, 1963, assumed he wasn't really too dangerous.

Personally, I first started wondering about the Secret Service Nov. 10, 1960 in Hyannis Port while covering JFK's election. I've told it before but because of President Ford's hair-raising experiences, it deserves repeating.

I was standing in the living room of former Ambassador Joseph Kennedy's house in the Kennedy compound that night wondering where the Secret Service was.

I was wondering because I wasn't supposed to be there. But there I was wandering around the house just a few hours after Richard Nixon had conceded victory to Kennedy.

Earlier that day, Pierre Salinger announced there would be a party for the press at the Kennedy compound that evening. The invitation was to members of the press who had travelled with Kennedy throughout the campaign. The local press wasn't really invited.

That night, there were about 50 newsmen milling around the Kennedy house waiting for the President-elect to arrive. But three of us were party crashers.

Reporter Dave Farrell, now with the Boston Globe, photographer Frank Kelly and I were covering for the Boston Herald and Traveler. We three decided this was a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity and we weren't going to miss it. We were determined to crash the party.

Earlier we had heard that 18 Secret Service agents had moved in to protect the new President-elect. It might be difficult getting by them but it was worth the try.

The bus to take the invited press to the Kennedy compound was parked outside the Hyannis armory, election headquarters. The three of us had proper press credentials but only to get into the armory during our coverage.

But we stepped aboard the bus like we owned it. No one questioned us. When everyone was aboard, the bus left for the compound. We entered the compound. No one asked for credentials. We entered Joseph Kennedy's house. No one asked for credentials.

Apparently anyone could have gotten aboard that bus that night, rode into the compound and walked into Joseph Kennedy's house, where the President-elect would soon be.

None of the Kennedy's were there when we arrived. So we all started browsing around looking at Joseph Kennedy's mementoes in the living room.

The dining room connected with the living room. And on the dining room table was a full punch bowl and cups. Someone said to help ourselves. We did.

Everyone then headed back into the living room. I didn't care too much for the punch and was returning the cup to the dining room table when a screen door swung open and in stepped a tired but happy John F. Kennedy.

He walked over to me and we shook hands. I congratulated him and we started to chat.

We were alone in the room for a few moments. The others then spotted him and we were soon surrounded. It turned out to be a most memorable evening with Jackie, Rose, Bobby and Ted Kennedy, the Kennedy girls and Sargent Shriver were there.

It was a night when a President-elect carried ice cubes and poured drinks for members of the press. A night to remember.

But the fact that no Secret Service men challenged me, Farrell or Kelly bothered me that night. And still does.

I figured Kennedy would be re-elected. But I made notes of that night and promised myself to write a story about it once he left the White House. I would wait because that night was supposed to be "off the record".

"I'm going to write a story," I told the others, "about how I could have assassinated a President over the punch bowl in his father's home."

The Secret Service that night apparently assumed that everyone in the house, with the exception of family members, were reporters. They were right.

But, the point is, they assumed it. They should have checked us out. Anyone could have boarded that bus that night. Even someone like Lee Harvey Oswald.

LETTER BOX

Finds Height Limitations Interesting

Editor, Quincy Sun:

It is now getting to be interesting to observe the varied interests on the question of height limitations.

The biggest argument going for the 8-story side appears to be that with special permits it will provide jobs and low income housing for the elderly.

While on the 10-story side it appears that the citizens are fed up with almost unlimited variances and overdevelopment. They also appear to fear for their environment and the strain on the city services.

Since we have all been through school it is obvious that 8 stories is less than 10 stories, so why would one fight so hard for 8 stories when arguing jobs and housing? The answer must be that special permits would be almost guaranteed thereby granting them unlimited height. If this is true then we should take a close look before voting and see who is working for the 8-story side and a closer look at our councilors who would be granting these special permits. It now becomes a case of the people vs. special interests and politicians.

'Thanks' For Veterans Day Change Help

Editor, Quincy Sun:

In 1968, over the objection of Veterans Organizations, Veterans Day was changed to the fourth Monday of October.

Veterans organizations continually fought to have it returned to Nov. 11, which to them is a meaningful date, and finally were successful when the Congress passed and the President signed legislation returning Veterans Day to Nov. 11 in 1978.

Here in Massachusetts we will observe Veterans Day this year on Nov. 11.

We thank the news media for letting us tell our side of the story. We thank the thousands who contacted their Congressmen and President Ford urging the return of Veterans Day to November 11.

It is great to win a battle and we will continue to fight all efforts detrimental to disabled veterans and continue to see that all disabled veterans who are able to work are gainfully employed.

Ross Elected To 5th Term, Plan E Charter Adopted

Mayor Charles Ross was re-elected to his fifth term, beating challenger Councilor Russell Bates. Plan E form of city government was adopted overwhelmingly by Quincy voters.

Other highlights of the city election was the return to the council by Mrs. Edna Austin and the election to the School Committee of Alexander Smith, in his first attempt at public office.

Frank Orcutt was re-elected councilor at-large while Councilor Carl Anderson made the jump from Ward 2 to an at-large seat. Carter Lee was re-elected to the School Committee.

Ward 1 Councilor David Crowley was re-elected as were Ward 3 Councilor Amelio della Chiesa, Ward 4 Councilor John O'Connor, Ward 5 Councilor Clifton Baker and Ward 6 Councilor Thomas Gilmartin. The new member on the council would be William Papile from Ward 2.

The voters also voted a 48-hour work plan for firemen, and equal pay for women teachers. Approval was voted for a pay raise for the Mayor, to $6,000 and for Councilors, to $1,000.

EQUAL PAY TO COST $37,500

School Supt. Dr. Paul Gossard estimated the equal pay requirement adopted this week by Quincy voters would cost the city $37,500.

He noted that 125 women, all at the secondary level, would be given raises as a result of the change. The 175 women teachers at the elementary level would not be affected since they already receive equal pay under the Simpson salary schedule.

ATLANTIC METHODIST CELEBRATES 20TH ANNIVERSARY

The Atlantic Methodist Church celebrated its 20th anniversary with sermons and mortgage burning.

Bishop Lewis Hartman was guest speaker, with Rev. Willard Arnold, superintendent of the Boston district, and Rev. Thomas Bridges, president of the Quincy Council of Churches, giving sermons. The second mortgage was burned at ceremonies following the evening service.

WOLLASTON BUSINESS ASSOCIATION MEETS

Parking and traffic problems, Christmas lighting and widening of streets in the area were discussed at a meeting of the Wollaston Business Association at Glenwood Hall.

Milton Sobol and Elliot Mathews were named to the committee to study the traffic and parking problems. Association president Edward Urquhart named Robert Ridder and Mrs. John Clinton co-chairmen of the Christmas lighting committee.

NAVY DAY OBSERVED AT SQUANTUM

Navy Day was observed with an open house at the Squantum Naval Air Station. Twenty-four Navy planes soared in formation to set off the Navy Day celebration at Squantum, the largest open-house in the history of the base. On display of particular interest was a Japanese seaplane captured in the Pacific.

If the Red Sox had won the World Series, Boston's image as a staid and stuffy city would have been shattered for all time.

With the CIA looking over its shoulders, no wonder the Post Office had so much trouble getting the mail delivered on time.

candidates appear on the ballot but only 23 are actual candidates.

Two-William Delahunt and Marilyn Hanabury—tried to get their names off the ballot but were unable to do so.

Delahunt originally was a city council at-large candidate but withdrew when he was appointed Norfolk County district attorney. Mrs. Hanabury bowed out of the Ward 5 competition to become instead, a candidate for state representative in Quincy's Fourth Norfolk District. The seat is the one vacated by Delahunt when he became district attorney.

All that confusion-publicity, the mayor's race, a good council at-large battle, two referendum questions on limiting building heights and the six candidate scramble for school committee will "bring out the vote" next Tuesday.

In the preliminary election in September, a surprising 66 per cent of the voters turned out when only 35 per cent was expected.

Both the 44-year-old Hannon, who is seeking a third term, and the 43-year-old LaRaia, who is giving up his council at-large seat to challenge him have carried on active campaigns, making the candidates nights rounds, hitting the supermarkets, appearing at coffee hours and knocking on doors.

From time to time they have exchanged hot words over the tax rate, crime, the proposed South Quincy MBTA station, the North Quincy High School addition and charged each other with misleading political advertisements.

Last week they hooked up in a debate at the Lincoln Hancock School attended by an estimated 600.

But, going into the final few days of campaigning, they have hardly worked the average voter up into any kind of a frenzy.

Out on the sidewalks, the only ones who seem to be talking about the mayoralty race and the other contests are the candidates themselves or their supporters. Mr. and Mrs. Average Voter seems to have other things on their minds. But the next few days should change that.

Some observers are wondering what affect the departure of LaRaia's two top campaign co-ordinators right after the preliminary election, will have on the finale. Frank DiCesare and Paul Anderson left the camp over what was described as "a difference in campaign philosophy."

And what affect will Mrs. Grace Saphir, knocked out of mayoralty contention in the preliminary election have on the final outcome? She has endorsed LaRaia.

In the preliminary election, Hannon took the top spot with 10,403 votes. LaRaia had 8,492 and Mrs. Saphir, 2,710. Combined, LaRaia and Saphir topped Hannon by 799 votes.

Two years ago, Hannon polled 15,492 to Saphir's 10,416. The latter figure is approximately the same as what Saphir and LaRaia combined for in this year's preliminary.

Another question which has observers wondering is what affect will LaRaia's campaigning as a Democrat in a non-partisan municipal election have on the outcome.

Quincy is a Democratic stronghold numerically speaking and LaRaia is pushing the word "Democrat" in his political ads.

as Joseph Brett did four years ago. Hannon, of course, is a Republican.

But there are many people in Quincy who still like their municipal elections non-partisan and object to this type campaigning. Among them are Democrats.

LaRaia, it seems, is now pulling out all stops trying to win a battle—that if he loses—could very well be his last hurrah.

One of the best contests on next Tuesday's ballot is for the city council at-large seat being vacated by LaRaia to run for mayor.

Observers see a close run between School Committeeman Harold Davis, 31, and Paul Harold, 27. The two attorneys have staged a marathon campaign since the preliminary election. Sabina Kavanagh Stenberg, 45, beauty salon-academy owner active in a number of civic-charitable causes, is making her first bid for public office.

On her side, possibly, is the fact that female voters outnumber male voters in Quincy, 26,568 to 21,664.

City Council President-Senator Arthur Tobin, 45, who was the top vote getter in the preliminary election, appears to be a shoe-in for re-election. And most observers believe Councillor John J. Quinn, 52, will be re-elected to a record 10th consecutive term.

Helen M. McDonnell, nosed out of the at-large nomination by William D. Delahunt's whopping "courtesy vote", in the preliminary announced Monday she will be a write-in candidate in the Nov. 4 election. And that should help confuse it even more.

In the ward council races: Ward 1 incumbent Leo J. Kelly, 43, seeking a second term, is opposed by Edward W. Meade, 54, licensed stationery engineer. Kelly is expected to win.

Ward 2 will have a new representative in the seat vacated by Norfolk County Sheriff Clifford Marshall. School Committeeman Daniel J. Raymondi, 27-year-old-attorney, is expected to win it over Robert H. Martinson, 53, business manager Thomas Crane Library.

Ward 3 incumbent John J. Lydon, 34, looking for a second term, has a hard-hitting contender in Emery C. Fontaine Jr., 47, automobile agency sales manager. Lydon is given the edge.

Ward 4 incumbent James A. Sheets, 40, is assured of a second term. He has no opposition.

Ward 5 incumbent Warren Powers, 33, is also a virtual sure-thing. Mrs. Hanabury not only has withdrawn as a candidate but is urging voters to cast their ballots for Powers.

Ward 6 incumbent Dennis E. Harrington, 33, is challenged by Walter J. Hickey, 54, civil and structural engineer, who has staged an active campaign. Observers predict it will be Harrington.

The School Committee campaign has been a good one for the past several months. Three are to be elected from a field of six candidates — two for vacant seats.

Incumbent Francis X. McCauley, 45, is expected to win re-election. But observers do not seem too sure about who will fill the two seats being vacated by Davis and Raymond to run for the city council. The contenders in the order they appear on the ballot are: Francis X. Bellotti Jr., 25, newspaper advertising salesman and son of the attorney general;

Christopher F. Kennedy, 53, dean of students, Northeastern University; Marie E. MacIntyre, 30, hospital administrator and sociology instructor at Newbury Junior College; J. Thomas Mullaney, 40, senior cost analyst at Polaroid, and Patricia M. Toland, 43, homemaker and former elementary school teacher.

In the preliminary election,

McCauley finished first, followed by Toland, Bellotti, Kennedy, Mullaney and MacIntyre.

Most observers think it will be close with most of the candidates fairly well bunched. Voters face three referendum questions—One on beano and two pertaining to proposed limits on the heights of buildings.

Question 1 asks if licenses shall be granted for the operation, holding or conducting beano.

Question 2, an ordinance change proposed by the City Council would, if approved, limit the maximum number of stories of future buildings to eight stories. Buildings over eight stories would be permitted by issuance of a special permit by a two-third vote of the City Council.

Question No. 3, proposed by an initiative petition, would if approved, immediately limit the maximum height of future buildings to 10 stories, in districts which now have no limit. It would prohibit the issuance of special permits to exceed 10 stories.

The polls in Quincy's 39 voter precincts will be open from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. next Tuesday.

Building Heights Questions Debated

DiStefano told the Kiwanians: "To say Question No. 3 places an 'irrevocable ban' on high rise construction is a mendacious fabrication...Essential types of structures - such as senior citizen housing, hospitals, cranes and the like - would continue to be allowed through the legal process of the variance by a 'yes' vote on Question No. 3. The QCA supports that. We are not anti-construction we are pro-construction with intelligent and reasonable limitations."

But Swider said all "straight-thinking voters" should reject both proposals and retain what he called the city's "fine, well-thought-out set of zoning regulations" recently adopted. He said:

"If you vote for either proposition, you are suggesting that nothing should change in the downtown area...If you vote 'yes' for either proposition...developers will just simply by-pass Quincy and go to a community where the environment is more conducive to their thinking."

Swider said to ensure "a bright future for Quincy" potential development must take place in the downtown area, the State Street South area and at the dump site.

DiStefano said the QCA favors passage of ballot Question

No. 3 over Question No. 2 because the organization fears issuance of special City Council permits would allow building heights of "an unlimited number of stories."

DiStefano also denied claims the QCA would oppose projects like the General Dynamics goliath crane. According to DiStefano, the goliath crane is classified as equipment, not as a building. He said:

"The goliath crane is not a 14-story building. It's a piece of machinery. It's equipment. No permit is issued for that. The QCA has never been against that type of construction. It's ludicrous to say we are."

explained: "I say to Chuck, 'It's time for a change,' and he says to me 'Wollaston has been good for the city so far.'"

"It's not a heated argument," she continues. "We're having a few laughs about it. It seems just before an election, people get so up-tight about the race. Maybe this will give people a chance to laugh."

The reaction to this unique billboard battle has apparently been just that - laughter. Mrs. Doherty said she checked with representatives of both mayoral camps before installing her LaRaia sign next to her husband's Hannon one. Asked how each camp responded, Mrs. Doherty said:

"They laughed! If it had been offensive to either candidate, I wouldn't have done it."

With the city election only days away, time is indeed running out for each Doherty to switch the other's vote.

"My husband won't change his mind," admitted Mrs. Doherty. "He's a stubborn Irishman...and I'm a stubborn Canadian."

"The war is on!"

Kids, have you been struggling with the Halloween Scramble contest in the Oct. 23 issue of YOUNG IDEAS?

No wonder! We made a mistake. Two letters were inadvertently left out of the word scramble. We are sorry and are reprinting the corrected word scramble here and extending the deadline. The new deadline is Thursday, Nov. 6. On this day we will put all correct entries into a box and Jack Kerrigan of Baskin Robbins who is donating the prizes will draw the name of the top winner. This winner will receive a beautiful Thanksgiving turkey ice-cream cake.

Also 25 runners-up will be picked and will receive free ice cream cones.

Congratulations to the many children who figured out the scramble in spite of the mistake! Their entries, of course, are still good even though the contest deadline is being extended.

Those who have not sent in an entry must do so by Nov. 6. Send the entries to:

Though predominantly a female medical problem, breast cancer can also afflict men.

The program will begin at 2 p.m. and will feature movies, demonstrations of self-examination techniques and a discussion of medical treatment by a three-member panel of Quincy City Hospital physicians.

Co-sponsors of the event are the Area 524 Committee of the Health Planning Council for Greater Boston, South Shore Chapter of the American Cancer Society, Quincy Family Planning Advisory Council and the Family Counseling Services for Greater Boston.

Dr. David Goodman, chief of staff at Quincy City Hospital, will moderate discussions and question and answer periods.

Dr. Peter Barrett of the Hospital's radiology department, will explain modern methods in breast cancer detection and alternatives to surgery.

Dr. Anthony Dragone, a surgeon, will discuss mastectomy, the surgical procedure which removes cancer from the breast area.

Hanlon's of Quincy will display wearing apparel specially designed for women who have undergone major breast surgery.

Also attending the program will be representatives of "Reach for Recovery," a group dealing with emotional and psychological problems once breast cancer is detected.

27 Students Complete

QJC Drug Abuse Course

Through the auspices of Quincy Junior College and the Attorney General's office 27 students recently completed a three-credit course on Drug Abuse.

The Drug Abuse Education Seminar enabled Quincy police officers as well as the public to hear expert lecturers speak on drug abuse: its causes and cures, and laws governing arrests and sentencing.

Writing Program

Thursday At HN Library

A special program entitled "Writing: A Craft" will be presented by Mrs. Ruth Wainwright tonight (Thursday) at 7 p.m. at the Houghs Neck Branch Library, 1186 Sea St.

The program will deal with such topics as effective letter writing and other practical aspects of writing. It will be free and open to the public, and refreshments will be served. Further information may be obtained by calling the Houghs Neck Branch at 471-2400, ext. 52.

3 From Quincy At Providence

Along with more than 1,000 other freshmen, three Quincy students have enrolled at Providence College in Providence, R.I.

Michael P. Faherty, 28 Furnace Brook Parkway, Quincy; James A. McCusker, 2 Ellis St., West Quincy; and John J. Rabel, 55 Copley St., Wollaston enter in September with the college's largest freshmen class.

Quincy citizens speak out for Question 2

On November 4, there will be two questions on the ballot to restrict high-rise construction in Quincy. Question 3 seeks to place a permanent 10-story limit on virtually all non-residential zoning areas in Quincy. Quite clearly, it is aimed at business and industrial districts. Question 2 calls for an 8-story limit in these districts...but allows for exemptions with approval of the City Council.

We believe a vote "Yes" on Question 2 is a vote for sensible zoning.

Peter O'Connell
Quincy Taxpayers Association
"Your property taxes are affected by zoning. Downtown Quincy and other commercial/industrial areas are important contributors to our maintaining a balanced tax base. Responsible citizens must be concerned with protecting both residential and commercial interests in Quincy. Question 2 does just that."

Bud Durante
President, Local 133 Quincy Laborers Union
"Any permanent ban on buildings over a certain height in downtown Quincy would be irresponsible and would kill job opportunities. Demolition and property costs demand that high rise construction be available as an alternative if approved by the City Council. Question 2 provides that alternative."

Dorothy E. Campbell
Real Estate Broker - Robert Stone
"The benefits of any zoning change must be looked at from the viewpoint of the entire community, not just as it might affect a single faction. Question 2 treats height restrictions on a common sense basis and permits intelligent use of our commercial and industrial resources."

Clement A. O'Brien
Administrator, Quincy Housing Authority
"Voters must understand that if Question 3 is passed, construction of high-rise low-income housing for the elderly would be extremely difficult. Question 2 recognizes the needs of our senior citizens and allows for approval of these much needed projects."

Evejyn Kilbourn
Senior Citizen and Homeowner
"Construction of housing for the elderly should not be discouraged. Question 2 gives our elected officials the opportunity to approve high-rise construction for senior citizens when warranted."

Carmen D'Olimpio
President, Quincy Building & Construction Trades Council
"A vote YES on Question 2 is a vote for progress. Progress means new jobs—both construction and permanent, with new income coming in. It means replacing old buildings with new ones. Progress is positive action and is vital!"

Vote YES on Question 2.

City Senior Services Now At 1 Maple St.

The new Quincy Senior Service Center opened Tuesday at 1 Maple St., Quincy Sq.

Located in the building formerly occupied by Barker's Stationery Store, the Center brings together for the first time all of the city's senior citizen programs in one location.

At the opening ceremonies, Mayor Walter J. Hannan indicated that plans for the center have been in progress for over a year.

"We've needed this for a long time," he said. "Having all of our services for senior citizens under one roof will make it much more convenient for everyone."

The Mayor also noted that the new center is located on the ground level. "There aren't any steps to climb which will be helpful to many people," he said.

The Quincy Senior Citizen Center brings together the office of Mrs. Marion Andrews, director of Senior Citizen Activities of the city's Recreation Department, the Council on Aging, R.S.V.P., the Consumer Assistance Center and the Speedy Senior Service under Executive Director Putnam Borden.

"We now have 'one stop' service for all our senior citizens," said Borden. "We hope people will drop in and say hello. We want people to get acquainted with the new center."

Borden pointed out that Quincy is one of a very few cities to have a central location for all senior citizen activities and programs.

A formal dedication and open house is being planned for the near future by the Quincy Senior Citizens Council.

Open House At Central Junior Thursday

An annual Fall Open House and Back-to-School Night will be held tonight [Thursday] by the staff of Central Junior High School.

Parents will begin the evening at 7:30 p.m. with Principal Vincent Moscardelli in the Learning Center. Then parents will meet with teachers and follow the daily schedule of their children. Parents will be introduced to the schools curriculum, and in some cases they will be able to participate in science and social studies activities.

"The evening is an excellent opportunity to observe the school program and actually take part in it," said Moscardelli.

Candidates Present Views On Issues For Nov. 4 Election

The 23 candidates in the Nov. 4 Quincy city final election have been given the opportunity to speak out on key issues through a questionnaire compiled by the League of Women Voters of Quincy.

The public service project was carried out under the direction of Mrs. Janet Poole, League president and Mrs. Christina Morrison, Voter Service Chairman. Assisting them were committee members Mrs. Anne Kane, Mrs. Nancy Jolly, Mrs. Elinor Thompson and Mrs. Sheila Ward.

In addition to profile information, mayoral, city council at-large, ward council and school committee candidates were each asked two questions on issues pertaining to the office they seek.

The two mayoral candidates were asked not to exceed 150 words and the other candidates not to exceed 100 words in answering their questions.

Although the names of 25 candidates appear on this year's ballot, there are actually only 23 candidates.

Two — William Delahunt and Marilyn Hanabury — have withdrawn as candidates but were unable to have their names removed from the ballot.

This special voter section by the League of Women Voters in cooperation with The Quincy Sun concerns the 23 who are actual candidates.

• Mayor

Question 1: There seems to be a general acceptance of Quincy's zoning ordinance. However, citizens at the February Conference on Multi-Family Housing expressed concern that the ordinance provided little protection for the ordinary citizen because of the frequency with which variances are granted. Ultimate responsibility for the action of appointed boards rests with the mayor. How would you respond to citizen concern in this area?

Question 2: We have fallen behind area hospitals in community health services. What can we do to provide additional services in present space, and what priority would you give to out-patient services in the new hospital unit?

WALTER J. HANNON, 45
Forbes Hill Rd., incumbent.
Age: 44. Occupation: Mayor.

Answer 1: The Board of Appeals is a three-member citizens board established by state statute which may grant variances upon a unanimous vote. I have reviewed policy with the board but have not become involved in either their administration or case decisions, because I believe that destroys citizens interest and insults the board members.

As a matter of policy, I urge the Board of Appeals to respect the public hearing process and opinions of residents who speak out and record their opinions, and also encourage tax producing development with the exception of the small apartment buildings sandwiched into residential neighborhoods.

Answer 2: I do not agree that we are behind in community health services. We have a fine health center providing many services with the exception of out-patient. We do have a problem of space at the hospital out-patient department, but with the new addition in the near future, I strongly favor making such services a top priority.

MAYOR:

Term: Two years.

Salary: $25,000

Job description: Serves as chief executive officer of the city and has general supervision of all departments.

JOSEPH J. LARAIA, 54
Grogan Ave.
Age: 43. Occupation: Social worker.

Answer 1: As mayor I would have the responsibility to appoint capable individuals to the Board of Appeals. I can assure you that this duty will receive my utmost consideration.

Concerning the high number of variances that are granted, all parties in a variance dispute have the right to appeal. The responsibility then shifts to the courts where I would have no jurisdiction. I will however, guarantee my input in controversial matters.

Answer 2: Before any expansion of hospital services is considered, I want to be sure that the hospital's existing services are being sufficiently provided. Once this priority is satisfied, I would have to determine whether providing additional services is necessary and financially feasible.

I have some questions as to whether the Outpatient Department - as a fulltime operation - is practical recognizing that its demand has diminished. This must be carefully reviewed. Under no circumstances, however, should persons needing outpatient treatment be using the Emergency Room.

• Councillor At-Large

Question 1: What could the city council do to respond to the expressed citizen demand for expansion of out-patient care at the Quincy City Hospital, presently and in the future?

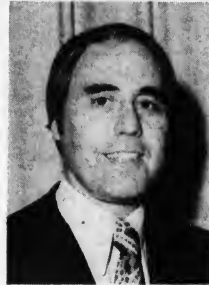

Question 2: Temporary shelters for our troubled youth could lower our increasing crime rate among juveniles and young adults. What could the council propose to meet this need, since our present Host Homes Program can never be an adequate solution?

JOHN J. QUINN, 86
Grand View Ave., incumbent.
Age: 52. Blue Cross and Blue Shield, senior representative.

Answer 1: I support the citizens demand for expanded out-patient service at the Quincy City Hospital. This addition would improve patient care and reduce their health-care cost. The hospital plans are already underway for the new facility, housing a laboratory, new blood bank, physical therapy and out-patient sections. These services are totally self-supporting and will not burden the taxpayer.

Answer 2: Character building and attitudes begin in the home and are expanded upon in the churches, schools and community. A more concerned effort is required by all of us. Caring, interest, guidance and communication with our youth will help improve the attributes and status of all our youth.

ARTHUR TOBIN, 58
Huntley Rd., incumbent.
Age: 45. Occupation: Attorney.

Answer 1: The Hospital, Mayor, and City Council, are in preliminary planning stages for hospital upgrading and expansion, which could be a multi-million dollar project to provide the best health care facility to the citizens of Quincy. Included in these plans is modern and better out-patient care. As president of the City Council, I lead the way to cut red tape, both on the state and local level of government.

Answer 2: The City Council has already taken a major step by acquiring property to help young adults, and young male and female juveniles on the road to recovery. I led the debate to take these initial steps.

HAROLD DAVIS, 65
Furnace Brook Parkway.
Age: 31. Occupation: Attorney.

Answer 1: The Quincy City Hospital accident room is one of the best on the East Coast. In my opinion the people involved in its operation are excellent. The best method to expand

COUNCILLOR AT-LARGE:

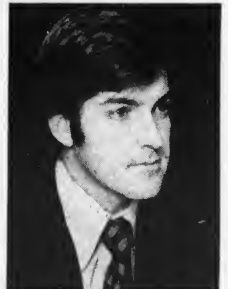

Term: 2 years

Salary: $3,000

Job description: Three are elected from the entire city to represent all of Quincy's residents.

WILLIAM D. DELAHUNT

His name is on the ballot but he has withdrawn as a City Council at-large candidate.

PAUL D. HAROLD, 31
Riverside Ave.
Age: 27. Occupation: Attorney.

Answer 1: Long-range hospital plans call for an expansion of out-patient care, but for more immediate expansion, the city council could use its power over the hospital budget. The council could either cut or refuse to accept the budget until such monies were appropriated for expanded out-patient care.

Answer 2: The city council could help meet the need for such temporary shelters by expanding the services of the Youth Commission. The commission could contract with agencies, such as Host Homes or Survival, to provide the shelters, hopefully with funds from D.Y.S. or welfare.

SABINA STENBERG, 141 South Central Ave. Age: 45. Occupation: Owner beauty salon, beauty academy.

Answer 1: The city council could give enough money to have an emergency room as well as an out-patient department at Quincy City Hospital. In the past the hospital did have an out-patient department. They presently have only the emergency room.

Answer 2: The council should appropriate enough monies to meet these needs. It is evident that there is a great need for these changes now. The city council could also take an interest in the youth of our city. Having temporary shelters for juveniles, and creating new jobs in the city department is a good solution.

● Ward 1 Councillor

Question 1: What do you consider the most important issue in your ward?

Question 2: How can it be dealt with by the City Council?

LEO J. KELLY, 44 Littlefield St., incumbent. Age: 43. Occupation: Self-employed.

Answer 1: Environmental Pollution.

Answer 2: Studies indicate Quincy Bay pollution has increased. Residents have been alerted of conditions. I have met with government officials. Have made changes in permits to Nut Island so all sewerage would be properly chlorinated.

Air pollution from Proctor and Gamble causes major discomfort to Germantown. Through my efforts working with the Health Department, they have installed an evaporator for odor control and are installing heat exchanger to eliminate cooling towers.

I have been an outspoken opponent to the filling in of any portion of Quincy Bay and submitted alternative proposals.

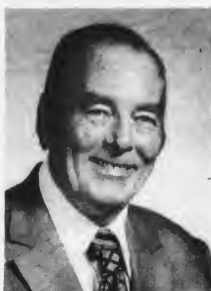

Proposed landfill will destroy our shoreline at Houghs Neck, Adams Shore and Merrymount.

WARD COUNCILLOR:

Term: Two years

Salary: $3,000

Job description: One elected from each of the city's six wards to serve as a representative of the residents in that area.

EDWARD W. MEADE, 19 Crosby St. Age: 64. Occupation: Licensed Stationary Engineer.

Answer 1: The most important issue is representation. The ward councillor provides the people with a contact in city government directly answerable to them. He is in effect an ombudsman. His primary duty is dealing with everyday problems that may not be important to the entire city but are important to the people directly affected. He is paid to represent the best interest of all citizens in his ward, not one group or neighborhood.

Answer 2: Council should act in the best interest of all the people and also act in the interest of the people of each neighborhood, guided by the advice of their ward councillor.

● Ward 2 Councillor

ROBERT H. MARTINSON, 60 Hughes St. Age: 53. Occupation: Business manager, Thomas Crane Library.

Answer 1: The biggest problem is vandalism. Schools, library, public parks, even cemeteries are at the mercy of vandals.

Answer 2: At the beginning and end of each school year the students should be informed, by their teacher, that they and their parents own all the public property in Quincy and whether their parents own or rent their home they bear the cost of the damage through increased taxes. I recommend watchmen be assigned to schools at critical hours when vandalism may occur. The benefits would be two-fold: creating a few jobs and eliminating vandalism. Our police department is doing an excellent job but cannot be everywhere at once.

DANIEL G. RAYMOND, 88 Elm St. Age: 27. Occupation: Attorney.

Answer 1: Ward Two is one of the most politically active areas in Quincy. The people deserve a city councillor who will be available to meet their needs. Availability and accountability are important issues in this campaign.

Answer 2: The city council is the only administrative and legislative body in Quincy equipped to resolve the problems of our residents. It is important that an experienced and qualified individual be elected to serve in this position. My experience as a public defender, school committeeman and former member of the Park and Recreation Board will enable me to provide aggressive, honest and dedicated public service to the people of Ward Two.

● Ward 3 Councillor

JOHN J. LYDON, 468 Beale St., incumbent. Age: 34. Occupation: Funeral director.

Answer 1: The major problems facing us revolve around the fiscal area of government. Taxes are going higher. Government costs are increasing. I simply do not feel people want to pay more for services they may or may not feel they are getting.

Answer 2: A councillor's office does not allow much leverage to change the basic fiscal and taxation policies. But a councillor can use one useful tool - budgetary review - which has enabled us to hold the taxes. I feel I have used this tool to its fullest in the past and hopefully will be enabled to do so in the future.

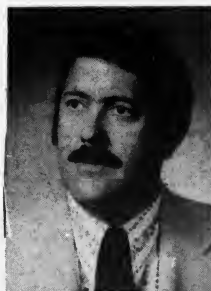

EMERY C. FONTAINE, 68 Churchill Rd. Age: 47. Occupation: Sales manager, Duggan Brothers automobile agency.

Answer 1: Open land areas on the east side of Quarry St., the land bounding State Street South and Montclair, and the new county golf course. I want the people in these areas to be assured their rights and privacies are not infringed upon and that they have a voice in how, what and in what manner these areas will be developed.

Answer 2: The Council has control of all open space land. In regard to the golf course the Council would have to work with the county.

● Ward 4 Councillor

JAMES A. SHEETS, 926 Furnace Brook Parkway, incumbent. Age: 40. Occupation: Professor, Quincy Junior College.

(Unopposed)

Answer 1: The most important problems are flooding, the MBTA station, the disposal facility and traffic.

Answer 2: The first problem is flooding. The cost in prevention flood-work is 40 million dollars. Intermediate funds could and should be sought to begin an immediate effort at flood control in areas abutting Furnace and Town Brooks. Second, the constructing of a fourth MBTA Station in South Quincy - a station the people do not want. Third, the disposal facility in West Quincy and the fact that the people living around that facility are still troubled by vermin and sea gulls. The Fourth problem is traffic. Operation Speed Watch has been successful and will be expanded.

● Ward 5 Councillor

WARREN A. POWERS, 3 Grandview Terrace, incumbent. Age: 33. Occupation: Attorney.

Answers 1 and 2: Among the most important issues are:

A. Taxes can continue to be controlled through a system of "Zero Based Budgeting" and careful review of the three major categories of the City budget; Personal Services, Capital Outlay, and all Expenses. We must also protect and continue abatements for our widows and senior citizens.

B. Safe Streets must be preserved through increased police protection.

C. Protection of all properties along Wollaston Beach through the acquisition and elimination of Kimberly's Lounge.

D. Pollution of Wollaston Bay by the MDC sewerage treatment plant must be stopped and no land filling allowed along Quincy Bay.

MARILYN HANABURY

Her name is on the ballot but she has withdrawn as a Ward 5 City Council candidate.

● Ward 6 Councillor

DENNIS E. HARRINGTON, 10 Hillcrest Rd, incumbent. Age: 33. Occupation: Attorney.

Answer 1: The most important issue facing Ward Six is the need to upgrade our residential character.

Answer 2: Our City Council must continue its commitment to visible programs and projects; such as the Atlantic program begun during 1975.

The exterior repair and painting of homes through a self-help program; along with, curbing, sidewalk and street repair on more than 30 streets in the coming six months; will benefit all Ward 6 residents. Our neighborhoods require these programs and more. They must have a City Council that deals with all the issues.

Safer streets through increased police services; more educational opportunities through meeting school building needs; proper development through zoning and planning and the protection of our natural resources, such as Quincy Bay; are but a few areas of necessary concern.

KEEP FREEDOM ALIVE...

WALTER J. HICKEY, 115 Huckins Ave. Age: 54. Occupation: Civil and structural engineer.

Answer 1: Lack of communication between the ward councillor and residents is the most important issue. There seems to be a feeling that unless residents personally attend council meetings they won't know what goes on. Representation without information feedback is ineffective representation.

Answer 2: Faulty communication must be remedied by the Ward Councillor himself. If elected, I will hold periodic open forums within Ward Six to report to residents on Council affairs and to discuss problems of the Ward itself and the City at large. Unless a Councillor knows what is important to residents of his Ward he cannot effectively represent them.

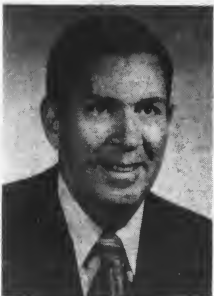

● School Committee

The following is a list of the Duties of the School Committee as defined by state law:

- Has charge of all public schools.
- Determines policy.
- Makes the budget.
- Appoints personnel.
- Approves courses and textbooks.
- Plans school services.
- Evaluates the educational program.
- Negotiates with teachers under the collective bargaining law.

Question 1: Which one would be a specific area of concern for you?

Question 2: What resources would you use to arrive at an informed decision in that area?

FRANCIS X. MCCAULEY, 210 Manet Ave. Age: 45. Occupation: president-treasurer Presidential Cooperative Bank.

Answer 1: Item No. 7 - the evaluation of the educational program would be the area of specific concern to me.

Answer 2: The evaluation of our educational program is one of the most important responsibilities of a school committee member. As a present member of the school committee, I have visited every school in Quincy. I have observed the educational process and have discussed the educational progress and problems with teachers,

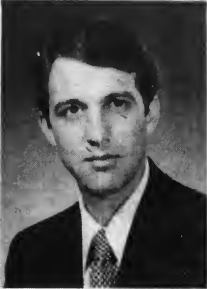

SCHOOL COMMITTEE:

Term: Four years, three of the six members elected every two years.

Job description: Duties are as described in the questions to School Committee candidates in this special voter information section.

administrators, service personnel as well as concerned parents. I feel that this "grass roots" approach in evaluating our school department's educational program has been most helpful to me when making decisions in this area at school committee meetings.

FRANCIS X. BELLOTTI, JR., 120 Hillside Ave. Age: 25. Occupation: Newspaper advertising representative.

Answer 1: I intend to fulfill the obligations of law by taking "Charge of all public schools." Within this capacity, I will address specific areas of concern which I feel need attention. At this moment, I am concerned with the evaluation of our educational program and will be making a number of inquiries as to what system of evaluation we currently employ, who participates, and what results are realized.

Answer 2: In this process, I intend to utilize the resources of my personal experience in education, the resources of our community, and most importantly, the resources of direct participants - parents, teachers, and students.

CHRISTOPHER F. KENNEDY, 27 Barham Ave. Age: 53. Occupation: Dean of Students, Northeastern University.

Answer 1: Although all eight duties are of importance to me, my primary concern lies in the evaluation of educational programs. The School Committee must be aware of the success [or lack of it], and of the effect of both new and ongoing programs. Consistent and continuous evaluation of them are necessary through testing and other means, and avenues for the input of parents must be designed.

Answer 2: I would: scrutinize carefully the testing and research programs currently in use. Study the observed results and comparisons from them. Talk with as many parent, teacher and student groups as possible.

MARIE MACINTYRE, 118 Standish Rd. Age: 30. Occupation: Hospital administrator.

Answer 1: Although all the tasks have equal merit, I select my "hobby horse": Task 6. "Plans school services". To plan what services the schools is to offer is the most important task. The answers to the question can only be found out in the community.

Answer 2: The resources I would employ are: People - [students, parents, teachers]; Organizations - [social, business]; Institutions - [public, private]; in general, all resources. I would utilize the community as a whole... study, listen and attempt to have schools meet the human needs of the community.

J. THOMAS MULLANEY, 115 Standish Ave. Age: 40. Occupation: Senior cost analyst, Polaroid Corporation.

Answer 1: Largely because I have attended School Committee meetings for five years, I feel very confident in my ability to make meaningful contributions in all of the 8 duties indicated.

Answer 2: My financial and managerial background leaves me well equipped to deal with the $26 million school budget. I have spent many hours preparing, justifying and reviewing large budgets. Once the budget has been approved I feel the School Committee also has an obligation to help sell the budget to the taxpayers. I'd like to hear from parents and school department personnel, as to whether they feel we are wise.

PATRICIA TOLAND, 82 Cedar St. Age: 43. Occupation: Homemaker.

Answer 1: Evaluation of the educational program is my specific concern.

Answer 2: To arrive at an informed decision, I would consult [a] school administrators concerning the basic goals of the school system, the rationale for these goals and how they are reached through the educational program as it now operates. [b] teachers concerning their views on the scope of learning opportunities provided, the appropriateness of the teaching methods used, and the success of the instructional program. [c] students, graduates and parents for their evaluation of the learning experience.

Also available is educational data from many sources which can be used as a basis for comparative judgements and evaluation of programs.

2 Building Height Limit, Beano Questions on Ballot

Quincy voters will be asked to say "Yes" or "No" to three referendum questions on next Tuesday's final election ballot.

One concerns beano and the other two proposed heights on future buildings to be constructed in the city.

Question No. 1 is the simple one: "Shall licenses be granted in this city for the operation, holding or conducting a game commonly called beano?"

Question No. 2 an ordinance change proposed by the City Council and Question No. 3, a zoning amendment proposed by an initiative petition are more complicated and wordier.

Thus, we present them here in summary, as they will also appear on the ballot:

Question No. 1 [summary]: "The effect of this measure if voted into law by the voters of Quincy would limit the maximum number of stories of any future building in the City of Quincy to eight [8] stories.

In excess of [8] stories may be permitted upon the issuance of a Special Permit by a 2/3 vote of the Quincy City Council."

Question No. 2 [summary]: "The effect of this measure if voted into law by the voters of Quincy will immediately limit the maximum number of stories of any future buildings within Quincy to ten [10] in those Districts which presently have no limit, and prohibit the issuance of Special Permits to exceed ten [10] stories."

Delahunt, Hanabury Withdraw As Council Candidates

The names of William Delahunt and Marilyn Hanabury appear on the Nov. 4 final city election ballot but they have withdrawn as candidates.

Delahunt withdrew as a candidate for city council at-large when he was appointed Norfolk County district attorney.

Mrs. Hanabury decided to withdraw as a candidate for Ward 5 city councillor and become a candidate, instead, for the Fourth Norfolk District state representative seat. The seat was vacated by Delahunt when he was named district attorney.

Both Delahunt and Mrs. Hanabury were unable to have their names removed from the Nov. 4 city election ballot.

Both, meanwhile, have been urging voters not to vote for them in the city election.

Because they no longer consider themselves candidates in the city election, no information was sought from them for this special section as far as the city election is concerned.

10,000 Extra Copies Of This Section Being Distributed By Pupils

Ten thousand extra copies of this Quincy Sun Special Election pullout section are going to school and then to homes of voters.

The copies will be distributed to public and private elementary school pupils to bring home to their parents to acquaint them with the candidates seeking office in the Nov. 4 city election.

This is a public service project by the League of Women Voters of Quincy, the Quincy public school system and The Quincy Sun.

Cost of the questionnaires to which the candidates were invited to reply, was financed by the Education Fund of the League of Women Voters. The fund is comprised of contributions from Quincy residents.

The Quincy Sun is making the 10,000 extra copies of the four-page pullout section available to the League of Women Voters at a nominal cost as a public service.

Special Election For State Representative In 4th Norfolk District

There is a special election in Quincy's Fourth Norfolk District this year to fill the unexpired term of William Delahunt, in the state House of Representatives.

Delahunt vacated the seat to accept appointment as Norfolk County district attorney.

The primary election will be held Nov. 18 and the final election Dec. 16.

The district includes West Quincy, Wollaston Hill, and parts of Montclair. Also included is that part of Wollaston on the Albion Rd side.

The eight candidates are: Thomas J. Dougherty, Santa C. Faren, Marilyn D. Hanabury, Joseph F. Killion, John J. Lydon, Herbert Reppucci, James A. Sheets and John M. Tehan.

48,232 Eligible To Vote

A total of 48,232 Quincy residents are eligible to vote in the Nov. 4 final city election.

Two years ago, in the Dec. 4 final city election, 49,197 Quincy citizens were registered voters - 965 more than registered this year.

In that last city election, 53.7 per cent [26,320] of those eligible to vote actually cast a ballot.

Of the total 48,232 voters who could cast ballots in the Nov. 4 election, 26,568 are women and 21,664 are men.

And although city elections are non-partisan, here is the party breakdown: Democrats, 28,028; Republicans, 7,987; Independents, 12,210, and American, seven.

Despite a pelting rain which fell on preliminary election day Sept. 23, a surprising 46 per cent [21,986] of the city's 46,560 then-registered voters went to the polls.

PLANNING INFORMAL CANDIDATES rally to be held Nov. 1 from 10 a.m. to noon on McIntyre Mall are Quincy League of Women Voters committee members. From the left, seated, are Mrs. Sheila Ward, Mrs. Christina Morrison, Voter Service chairman, and Mrs. Janet Poole, League president. Standing are Mrs. Elinor Thompson and Mrs. Nancy Jolly.

Do's And Don'ts For A Safe Halloween

As children robe up as sheiks, goblins and princesses for this Halloween, safety should not be forgotten.

A child's trick-or-treat over-exuberance can turn Halloween into a spooky and scary event if unchecked by a few precautionary instructions by a parent.

Mayor Walter Hannon, Police Chief Francis X. Finn and School Supt. Dr. Lawrence Creedon have issued a list of safety suggestions for this Halloween.

Very young children should be accompanied by a parent, and should wear make-up rather than a mask to improve vision. Regardless of age, children should trick-or-treat in a group, rather than alone.

Reader Suggests

Halloween Alternative

In a recent letter to The Quincy Sun, Mrs. Darrell Miller of 17 Berry St., Quincy Point, suggested an "alternative to Halloween, without depriving the children of their enjoyment."

Mrs. Miller's idea came from a friend living in Houston, Texas, where the alternative plan for the hazardous holiday is being endorsed and encouraged by the Houston Jaycees and city officials.

Houston civic representatives formed the Committee for a Safe Halloween after a Houston mother of two thought of a plan employing "Punkin Money," or two cent and five cent coupons sold by grocery stores, redeemable at face value for toys or candy. People are being asked to buy one dollar sheets of the punkin money coupons instead of purchasing the trick-or-treat candy.

The J.J. O'Lantern logo, a copyrighted cartoon character, can be clipped from a local paper before Halloween to be prominently displayed in participating homes.

The local merchants association is recruiting smaller businesses and independents to participate in the plan to eliminate commercialism. Area stores are also donating merchandise to be distributed as prizes in participating punkin money homes.

Mrs. Miller termed the project "worthwhile" and said she feels the project "might be something for Quincy to consider."

Mrs. Miller sent a copy of her letter to the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association.

Stop smoking.

Give Heart Fund

After dark, reflective tape or light clothing should be worn, and a reliable flashlight should be carried. Children should not go into houses, or accept rides from strangers who offer to drive them home.

Care should be exercised when crossing streets, and trick-or-treaters should stay in their own neighborhood. No "treats" should be eaten until after parents have checked them, and any treats that are unwrapped or suspicious-looking should be refused.

Adults should also follow a few safety precautions for Halloween. A porch light should be on if you are "treating," and rear and side doors should be locked. Keep your car in a driveway, off the street, and keep pets inside your home or fenced in.

Report any unusual activity in your neighborhood to the Quincy Police Dept. at 479-1212, and if any serious emergency occurs call the police at 911.

20-Foot Christmas Tree To Be Planted At HN

A 20-foot live Christmas tree will be planted next to the Hough's Neck Fire Station as part of the community development program, announces Mayor Walter J. Hannon and Ward 1 Councillor

Leo J. Kelly.

John Koegler of the Forestry Department is making the arrangements for the planting of the tree which will be ready for the annual Christmas Tree lighting ceremonies.

Kelly indicated that many Houghs Neck residents have wanted a permanent community Christmas tree for many years. He said that local residents would participate in the tree's decoration.

Estimated cost of the tree is $500.

Brett Urges Foot

Patrolman For Wollaston Area

Rep. Joseph E. Brett has urged the assignment of a foot patrolman in the Billings Rd.-West Elm Ave. area to deter disruptions in the neighborhood.

In a letter to City Councilor Warren Powers, Brett said residents in the Billings Rd.-West Elm Ave. neighborhood complained to him about "lack of sufficient police protection" there.

Urging the addition of a foot patrolman instead of another police car, Brett said:

"Patrol cars are fine and serve a useful purpose but they do not fulfill the needs of an area as does a 'cop-on-the-beat'. The patrolmen in the cars just drive through occasionally and do not get to know intimately the nature of the neighborhoods."

Improvements At Quincy Registry Reported

The Quincy Registry of Motor Vehicles office recently released a progress report outlining steps taken to improve customer service at the Quincy office.

The improvements came as a result of an early summer meeting with registry officials and representatives of Quincy's business community who together mapped out ways to provide better customer service at the Quincy Registry.

Registrar Robert A. Panora issued a report to the nine-member Chamber of Commerce task force studying improvements at the Quincy office. Highlights of improvements now in effect at the registry include:

- Opening of the office promptly at 8:45 a.m. with all employees at their respective stations.

- Channeling of incoming phone calls by a receptionist to the proper parties.

- Elimination of office congestion and cross traffic by removing license renewals from the counter and conducting the program in the former learners' permit waiting room and examination room.

- Improved customer parking conditions by having registry employees park in the VFW lot adjacent to the Quincy office.

- Addition of one typewriter to be used in the license renewal program.

- Revision of certain registration renewal procedures, making only one stop at the number plate renewal window necessary to complete RMV-2 and RMV-3 forms.

Panora noted learners' permit examinations will now be conducted at the Naval Reserve Center on Sea St. He said arrangements have been made with the commanding officer to occupy the space and use heat, light and facilities at no cost to the Commonwealth.

In addition, all driver test examinations are now being administered at the Quincy Armory. Panora said additional examination points will be opened at the Hingham and Weymouth Armories if needed.

Panora reported installation of a directory - telling which customer windows processed which applications - proved ineffective. Panora said customers did not bother to read the directory instructions.

Panora said, too, the department has decided installation of a proposed toll-free information center at the Boston office is not feasible at this time. Ten hours of the service per month would cost $95, Panora reported.

Members of the Chamber task force include chairman Paul MacElhiney of Duncan MacKellar Insurance; Nelford Platter of Burgin Platter Insurance; George Reardon of President Chevrolet Inc.; Leo Darr of Quincy Motor Co.; David Leitch of Burgin Platter Insurance; Frank Foley of Foley Chrysler-Plymouth; Nils Johnson of R. D. Chase & Co., Inc.; George Riley of Riley and Rielly Insurance; and Bill Woods of Woods South Shore Auto School, Inc.

Also attending the progress-report meeting was Walter Marquis, manager of the Quincy Registry office.

The Chamber and the Registry will soon conduct a morning workshop for insurance agent employees on fuller completion of registry of motor vehicle forms 1, 2 and 3 to help reduce the workload of registry employees, shorten lines and improve local service.

Insurance agents have been provided express service for the processing of bulk applications.

Panora noted negotiations are still continuing with the city to relocate the dog pound from behind the registry office.

PAUL'S A DIFFERENT KIND OF 'POL'

PAUL HAROLD isn't your run-of-the-mill candidate. He works all the time, whether he's running for office or not.

He worked to get seawalls repaired when he wasn't running.

He worked to expand senior citizens hot lunches when he wasn't running.

He worked for more open space when he wasn't running.

He worked for an MDC substation when he wasn't running

Now, PAUL HAROLD is running.

He remebered you . . . we hope you'll remember him, Nov. 4

PAUL HAROLD . . . 5th on the ballot, but first to work for the people.

Abigail Adams In National Geographic Feature

Quincy's Abigail Adams is featured in a major bicentennial article in the current month's National Geographic magazine.

"It was two years in preparation," said John R. Graham, Quincy Heritage executive director.

"Lonnelle Aikman, the author, visited Quincy June 17, 1974 to visit the cairn on Penn's Hill on the anniversary of Abigail's pilgrimage up the hill with her young son, John Quincy, to watch the battle of Charlestown."

Called "Patriots in Petticoats", the article features Abigail Adams' life in Quincy with President John Adams.

Other women honored in the article are Mercy Warren of Plymouth, the legendary "Molly Pitcher", as well as many other colonial women.

"We've been watching for the article for many months," Graham said. "Once again, Quincy's immense role in the American Revolution has been portrayed splendidly for the nation."

Norman Rogers SOS President

Norman W. Rogers, U.S. Coast Guard [Ret.] of Hull, formerly of Quincy, was elected president of SOS [Save Our Shores, Inc.] at the annual meeting at Savin Hill Yacht Club, Boston.

Rogers, before retiring, was in charge of the Point Allerton Coast Guard Station, Hull, and also the now retired Boston Light Ship.

Other officers elected include: Frederick Sterritt, vice president, Mrs. Ralph C. Sprague, treasurer, Mrs. Nelson R. Saphir, secretary and Charles E. Mason III, clerk.

Gilbert Bliss, director of recreation in the Office of Environmental Management was guest speaker. He outlined the progress made in his department in opening the Boston Harbor Islands to the public.

It was the SOS organization which brought to the public the urgency for protecting the islands and waterways of the harbor at the time the World's Fair threatened to take over the harbor for development.

SOS was the first organized group of citizens to promote the conservation, preservation and restoration of the waterways, foreshores and islands in beautiful Boston Harbor. SOS was the first group to promote the preservation of historic interests, promote water-oriented recreation and utilizing the water surface for inter-island and inter-city transportation.

WHAT'S WRONG WITH THE EXISTING ZONING ORDINANCE?

Very little. What zoning should do, when used intelligently, is to provide a place for every kind of land use needed for a community. A well-balanced, zoned community will contain uses that are incompatible with others, but will cause them to be located separately to avoid conflicts.

Before enactment of the present Zoning Ordinance, the Planning Board and the City Council spent over two years studying local conditions to achieve a common goal: high standards and tight regulations for the sound development of Quincy - based on the community's TOTAL wants and needs.

Question No. 2 represents a reasonable modification of the existing Ordinance. It recognizes the countless hours spent by your elected officials and professional staff. Question No. 3 on the other hand, is a major departure from the Zoning Ordinance. It places a counter-productive restriction on land use in commercial/industrial zones and removes the Planning Board and your elected officials from the decision-making process.

WHAT ABOUT DOWNTOWN QUINCY?

Downtown Quincy and other commercial/industrial areas depend on SENSIBLE zoning for revitalization, investment, income, and jobs. Local planners and business leaders agree that the downtown area needs the option of high-rise construction in order to prosper and survive.

WOULD PASSAGE OF EITHER QUESTION NO. 2 OR NO. 3 PREVENT A HIGH RISE "IN MY BACKYARD"?

There are already ample restrictions under the Zoning Ordinance to protect private residences from high-rise construction. Strict height limits already exist for Residential Zones A, B & C. Neither Question No. 2 nor No. 3 would change these.

HOW WOULD QUESTION NO. 2 AFFECT OUR SENIOR CITIZENS?

With the rapid increase in property and construction costs, high-rise construction is about the only means left to provide low-income housing for our senior citizens.

PROGRESS:

The availability of skilled labor, and the reasonable and common sense approach to height restriction, are most important to the progress of our City.

PROGRESS IS - JOBS [Construction and Permanent].

PROGRESS IS - NEW TAX BASE [New taxes coming in].

PROGRESS IS - REPLACING OLD BUILDINGS WITH NEW ONES.

PROGRESS IS - POSITIVE ACTION!

PROGRESS IS - VITAL!!!

Unique Meeting Thursday

Judge Kramer, Businessmen Get Together To Help Cut Crime

Judge Albert Kramer, presiding justice of Quincy District Court, will meet with businessmen and women tonight (Thursday) to introduce a series of proposed projects and court reforms to decrease crime and improve the court system.

Co-sponsored by the court and Quincy-South Shore area businessmen, the meeting will be a businessman's "Day In Court," providing an opportunity to express concerns about shoplifting, the passing of bad checks, lawsuits and vandalism.

Both the South Shore Chamber of Commerce and the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association (QCBPA) helped to send out some 500 invitations for the 7:30 p.m. meeting to be held in Quincy District Court.

Hailing the scheduled meeting as an unprecedented one, Judge Kramer said the meeting signals a new "partnership" between the court and the community.

Programs to be introduced and discussed include:

- The "Earn It 100 Club" in which first offenders would work at area businesses, earning money to pay for property damages inflicted.

- Driving safety workshops for juveniles and young adults involved with speeding and driving to endanger offenses.

Political Advertisement

- Specific scheduling of cases affecting a certain business to facilitate prosecution or recovery of damages.

- Speedier sentencing for those convicted of serious crimes.

Urging maximum attendance at today's meeting, Kramer said: "If there is a theme to this conference it is 'A Better

Political Advertisement

Way' - a better way to run our courts, to deal with crime, to rehabilitate offenders and to protect the community.

"And that 'better way' cannot be accomplished by the court alone, not by the business community alone, but by a partnership between the two. This court must become a community court to be effective."

A Non-Lawyer Ready To Conduct The Business Of Ward 2

I'm going to tell it like it is, folks. As I have stated many times before, as dedicated as lawyers may be, they practically have a monopoly on elective offices in all phases of government. It's time the rest of us in other professions and occupations insist on a larger voice in government.

My qualifications:
Bryant and Stratton Business School
25 years in sales-management
Former motel owner and manager
Currently serving as Business Manager for the Thomas Crane Public Library
U.S. Air Force veteran

Issues:
MBTA - against construction of station in South Quincy... new station should be in South Braintree.
Against construction of buildings exceeding 10 stories in Quincy.
Will give police 100% support...crime and vandalism in Quincy must be stopped.
Busing - an unworkable idea...I'm against busing in or out of Quincy.
Daniel Webster Elementary and Quincy Point Junior High - these schools are the biggest eyesores in the neighborhood and should be upgraded immediately. The unbelievable play area for children consists of home-made looking stumps, benches and blocks with protruding nails and splintery surfaces that should be removed immediately for appearance and safety's sake.

In closing, I want to assure the Quincy City employees that if I am serving on the Quincy City Council, I will insist that you be treated with respect and dignity, even during labor negotiations.

Monument Marking First Jewish Synagogue To Be Dedicated Sunday

A monument commemorating the site of the first Jewish synagogue in Quincy will be dedicated Sunday, Nov. 2 at noon in front of the Lincoln-Hancock Community School, South Quincy.

Mayor Walter J. Hannon, Cantor Morris Semirgan of Temple Beth El, Rabbi Jacob Mann of Beth Israel and Rabbi David Jacobs will speak at the ceremony.

A seal of the City of Quincy, a Quincy Heritage seal, and a short history of the synagogue will appear on the monument, as well as the verse, "Happy are they who dwell in your house.", Psalms 84, Joseph B. Grossman assisted in the designing of the monument.

The original congregation, Ahavatah Achim, gathered in 1890 and was incorporated in 1899. The 10 original signers of the synagogue's charter were: Henry Litchman, Philip Finklestein, Samuel Cohen, Louis Grossman, Louis Berman, Hely Birger, Jacob Berman, David Kaufman, Morris Lichtman and Yoseff Cohen.

How long is Carol's hair?

By RICK ROBERTS
Copley News Service

Q. Does Carol Burnett have long hair or short hair? Also, where can I write to get a picture of her? — L.Z., Massillon, Ohio

A. Length (of hair) is in the eyes of the beholder. By today's standards, it would probably be considered medium length, ending a few inches above her shoulders. You can write to her in care of CBS, Television City, 7800 Beverly Blvd., Los Angeles, Calif.

Q. Who was the man who played the starring role in the old television western, "The Range Rider"? Was he in any other television series or movies? — M.A., Washington, Pa.

A. Jock Mahoney starred in the western after beginning in Hollywood as a stunt man. He made several other guest appearances on a variety of shows, particularly the Loretta Young Show. Mahoney appeared in several movies, mostly westerns and war films, as well as in two Tarzan adventures.

Listen and Dance to the sound of 8 BIG BANDS IN ONE NIGHT

The Weymouth Rotary Club
Proudly Presents its

11th Annual Big Band Night

JOHN. SAVINI AND HIS 15 PIECE BAND

8 Big Bands in One Night. The Glittering, glamorous, unforgettable era of the "Big Bands" comes to life again on the night of November 1st. at the Surf in Nantasket! On that evening, the Weymouth Rotary Club presents the John Savini Band... comprised of 15 men playing for an evening of dancing to "pop" tunes and original arrangements of a number of the great bands of the Thirties and Forties. Such numbers as "You Made Me Love You", "Song of India", "In The Mood", "Begin The Beguine", "Two O'clock Jump", "Satin Doll", "Take the A Train" and "I've got My Love To Keep Me warm" are played exactly as the original band played them.

The Savini Band is comprised of many musicians who were members of the big bands. During the past nine years, such men as Lou Colambo, Dick Johnson, Leon Merriam, Ted Casher, Al Anthony, "Tak" Takvarian, "Kaz" Kasbrosky, Charlie Wells, Mike Lalli, Arnold MacKenzie, John LaPorta, Bob Shurtleff, have appeared with the band. This is your chance to reminisce about the nights at the Totem Pole, The Raymor-Playmore, Glen Island Casino, Frank Dole's Meadowbrook and the Aragon-Trianon.

North Wins 7th Meet, Quincy Edged By Rindge

North Quincy's cross country team, defeated only by unbeaten Brockton in its opening meet, is rolling merrily along with a 6-1 Suburban League record and overall 7-1 mark.

The Raiders loom as a solid threat in Saturday's annual state coaches meet over the Franklin Park course.

Last week Lou Tozzi's Raiders, sparked as usual by Bart Petracca, unbeaten in dual meet competition, defeated Waltham, 20-35.

Following Petracca, who covered the 2.3-mile Waltham course in 12:19, were Mark Morin, third; Bob and Marty Levenson, tied for fourth; Jim Gavigan, seventh, and Ken O'Brien, ninth.

North's girls also won, 24-35, with Debbie Coutts second; Maureen Tracey, fourth; Mary Horrigan, fifth; Judy Malloy, sixth; Michelle Seltzer, seventh, and Debbie Farren, eighth.

Joe Catalano's Quincy harriers, who had been in a hot streak, suffered another close defeat, 27-28, to Rindge Tech. It was the third loss for the Presidents by one or two points. Quincy is 4-3 in the league and 5-3 overall.

Quincy's sensational sophomore, John Saville, was defeated for only the second time by four seconds as Rindge's Roberto Cooper won in 12:37. Bob Thorne was third and Kevin O'Brien, fourth.

Quincy's girls won their fifth straight meet after two losses, rolling over Browne and Nichols, 18-37.

The Quincy and North boys' and girls' teams will face each other next Tuesday in the final league meet for each. The meets will be run over the Quincy course which begins and ends at Adams Field.

Reagan Rolls High 3 As Little Loop Opens

The Quincy Bowling Little Loop opened its 22nd season last Saturday at Wollaston Boulevard Bowladrome with Rep. Joseph Brett rolling the first ball. Brett has sponsored a team in the league for 20 years.

Mike Regan, captain of Granite Lodge 1451, AFL-CIO, rolled the high three of 329 in a 4-0 win over Atlantic Fuel Oil.

Wollaston Bowladrome swept four points from Hal Davis Club with Capt. Mike Saruda leading the way with a 283. The team had the high three of 1306.

Hutchinson Oil dropped three points to Local 513 but had a team high single of 448. Hutchinson's Ken Kustka had a string of 122.

The James McIntyre Club's 4-0 win over Dick Morrissey Club was paced by Capt. Paul Anastas' 122 single.

Other opening day results: George F. Bryan VFW Post 4, Hennessy Plumbing Supply 0; Quincy Elks 3, Montclair Men's Club 1, and Atty. George G. Burke Club 3, Rep. Brett Club 1.

North 28, Newton 0Raiders Host Brookline In Battle Of 'Undefeated'

The unbeaten North Quincy football team seems to jump from the frying pan into the fire every week but it makes no difference to Dave Burke's Raiders, who continue perfect and at the top of Division One in Eastern Mass.

Back on Oct. 11 North met undefeated Everett in what was labeled "The Game of the Week" and walloped the Crimson Tide, 25-6. North's next game with Weymouth South was postponed to Nov. 22 by rain.

Last Saturday North Quincy went to Newton to play the undefeated Tigers and turned what was expected to be a close one into a 28-0 rout. Newton had been right behind North in the Division One standings.

This Saturday it will be more of the same. Brookline, boasting a 5-0 record as does North Quincy, invades Veterans Memorial Stadium for a 1:30 Suburban League "biggie."

Brookline, with an outstanding defense, as North also has, should test North Quincy's explosive offense. Brookline has polished off Boston Tech, 20-0; Weymouth North, 21-0; Waltham, 14-7; Weymouth South, 14-0, and last week Brockton, 12-6.

"I was very pleased with our showing at Newton," Burke, North's first year coach said. "I was hoping for a back-to-back performance as we had against Everett and I certainly did get it. We moved the ball very well and the defense was just superb again. But, we can't afford to rest on our laurels, because Brookline is one of the best and we will have to give another outstanding two-way performance. Brookline is big and has a tremendous defense which has given up just 13 points."

North's defense has been great in every game but never better than last week. Newton was held to 32 yards gained overall [no pass completions] and never entered North Quincy territory.

"The defense was just amazing," enthused assistant Ken McPhee. "We never gave them a chance. Jack Hatfield had two more pass interceptions and just missed another. The linebackers, John Desmond, Frank Strazzula and John McKenna were just great and Jimmy Cooney, filling in at end, did a fine job."

Also singled out for their defensive efforts were Steve Bell, Ed McElaney, who also punted well and was four for four in extra point kicks; John Ryan, Pete Hemphill, Alf McHugh and Paul McGuigan. "The entire defensive unit was brilliant," assistant Dick Meyer said.

While Newton was held to 32 yards, North ground out 228 yards on the ground and a lot more through the air. Brian Doherty again went over 100 yards [121] and scored his seventh and eighth touchdowns.

"Doherty and Matty Constantino complemented each other, first one carrying and the other blocking, then the other way around," said offensive coach Tom Fitzgerald. "Mike Adams ran well again and George Wallace made a fine run to set up our final touchdown. The second backfield was in there for most of the final period and did well."

"Mike Holleran called an excellent game and threw two touchdown passes. In the offensive line Harry Knudsen, Bruce Hall, Paul Santoro, Cooper Jordan, Dick Marre and Mike Kelley were all outstanding. Everyone did his part in the line."

"They held us pretty well in the first half but we made a few adjustments and they couldn't top us in the second half."

North scored its first touchdown in the second period on Constantino's 15-yard run. McElaney converted.

In the third period North took over on its 12, relentlessly drove 88 yards, eating up the clock and retaining possession for most of the period and the only pass during the drive was to Doherty for a score. McElaney again kicked the point.

In the final period Doherty raced 34 yards for his second touchdown and in the final minutes, following Wallace's fine run, Holleran passed to Jordan for 10 yards and the final TD. McElaney, who is 11 for 11 for the year, converted after each. Ted Sadowski's North sophomores also remained undefeated [4-0-0] with a comeback 20-6 win over Weymouth South.

WJDA To Broadcast North-Brookline Game

Due to the importance of the game, station WJDA Saturday will do the play-by-play of the North Quincy-Brookline game, pitting two undefeated teams, at Veterans Memorial Stadium. Game time is 1:30 p.m.

The station had previously planned to do the Quincy at Weymouth North game, but, with North Quincy leading the Eastern Mass. Division One teams and Brookline right behind, it was decided to make the shift.

The station will bring in reports of the Quincy-Weymouth North game as well as Weymouth South at Abp. Williams and Wellesley at Braintree.

Morrisette Champs To Be Honored

The Morrisette Legion baseball team, Northeast regional champion, will be honored at the annual banquet Saturday, Nov. 1, at 7:30 p.m. at the post home.

The Morrisette team, this past season first won its 19th Zone 6 championship with a playoff win over Weymouth. The team went on to sweep to its first state title unbeaten, then won the Northeast regionals with a 5-1 record against the champions of the other New England states and New York.

Morrisette was eliminated in two straight close games in the Legion World Series in Rapid City, South Dakota.

Sharper Presidents Gear For Weymouth North

By TOM SULLIVAN

Quincy football coach Hank Conroy made several changes in his lineup last Saturday and, although they didn't pay off with a win, the Presidents looked sharper and things could look better the rest of the season.

Saturday Quincy goes to Legion Field in Weymouth to meet winless Weymouth North in a 1:30 p.m. Suburban League game.

Quincy, with a 2-3 record, should stand a good chance of evening its mark against a team which played to a scoreless tie with Braintree and lost to Brookline, 21-0; North Quincy, 30-7; Newton, 13-12; Brockton, 6-0; and Waltham, 33-0.

Last week the Presidents bowed to Malden's Greater Boston League powerhouse [5-0], 21-8, at Veterans Memorial Stadium with the Hawks scoring all their points in the second period. Quincy outplayed the visitors throughout the second half and finally scored in the final minutes of the game.

A bright spot for Quincy was Kevin Donovan, who had previously seen limited defensive service but was moved to wide receiver and turned in an outstanding game.

Quarterback Mark Buchanan completed seven of 17 passes for 97 yards with one interception, and four of them were caught by Donovan. He also caught one out of bounds and had another apparent reception only to lose the ball when hit hard.

"I also started sophomore Lenny Picot at fullback today in an effort to put more zip into our running game. I shifted Paul Vespaziani to halfback and he ran very well [he gained 100 yards and scored the touchdown]. I am going to go more with the younger players, looking forward to the future. With the season half over I might as well see what they can do."

A fumble ended a serious Quincy threat early on the Malden 13 and the Presidents seemed to lose their impetus after that. And twice Malden blocked punts, one resulting in a TD as a Malden player fell on the ball in the end zone.

"We had a couple of breakdowns, which hurt, but I thought we were much better than the score indicates," Conroy said. "The boys looked especially good in the second half."

The Quincy coach praised Wayne Gardner for his play at offensive guard and Steve Infascelli at tight end and also had good words for Mike Carloni, Paul Ferris and John Riggs on defense.

PAUL VESPAZIANI was moved from fullback to halfback for last week's Quincy game with Malden and gained 100 yards and scored the only touchdown. Here he is tackled after a sizeable gain. [Quincy Sun Photo by Steve Liss]

● St. Ann's Hockey

Keohane's, Tailors, Razors In Wins

St. Ann's Hockey League opened its season last week with six games played at Shea Rink. In the Pee Wee division Keohane's defeated JDA, 3-1, with John Keller scoring twice and Mike Walsh one. Gregg Trenholm and Jim McCadden had assists. JDA's goal was scored by John Hurley unassisted.

Art Tailors blanked Dunkin Donuts of North Quincy, 5-0, with Peter Quinn and Andrew MacDonald having two goals each and Steve MacDonald the other, his unassisted. Andrew MacDonald and Quinn also had assists. Goalie Jay Hidalgo earned the shutout.

Razor's Edge topped Dairy Queen, 5-3. Neil Beagle scored two unassisted goals, Tom Barron one unassisted and Mike Bridgeman and John O'Leary the others. Scott Price had two Dairy Queen goals and Steve Nazarro one. Nazzarro and Price also had assists. Steve Hogan was in goal for the first time for DQ. In the Bantam Division Crestview and Lydon and Russell played to a 4-4 tie. Mike Angelo had two Crestview goals and Ron Hidalgo and Gregg Kelly one apiece. John Page, Kevin Kelly, Jim Keller, Mike Capone and Jim Canavan had assists. Mike Bellotti was in goal. For Lydon and Russel Kevin O'Connell, John Cavanaugh, Gary Trenholm and Stephen Olson had the goals with assists for Olson, Trenholm and Cavanaugh. Bob Jordan was in goal.

Plaza Olds and Bike 'n' Blade also tied, 3-3. Dom Falcetta, Tom McNamara and Brian Downing scored for Plaza with assists for Rick Carroll and Jim Meehan. Paul Redmond was in goal. For Bike 'n' Blade Ed Novack, Steve Mullen and Steve Burke had the goals with assists for Jim Orlando, Mullen and Burke. Mark Kintogas was the goalie.

Blackwood nipped N. Quincy K. of C., 2-1, on goals by Ken Olson and Craig Newton, both unassisted. Karl Olson was in goal. Dennis Rush scored for K. of C. and John Cronin assisted. In goal was Brian Condon.

Uncle Sam and MONY have a great idea for people with no pension plan.

Recently enacted U.S. Government legislation has made possible generous tax benefits for people with no pension plan.

Under the Pension Reform Act, you can contribute annually up to 15% of your earnings—not to exceed $1500—to a pension plan. You can deduct the entire amount from your taxable income for the year and pay no current income taxes on it whatsoever. In fact, you pay no taxes on it until retirement when, most likely, you will be earning less and in a far lower tax bracket. What's more, the money contributed draws interest and increases rapidly in your retirement fund. And you pay no taxes on the interest, either, until retirement.

Through MONY, I have long specialized in pension plans. If you are not participating in a pension plan, I can show you how to get one of your own quickly and easily—while you save on taxes. Just fill in the coupon below.

Quincy Salvation Army Corps To Celebrate 80th Anniversary

The Quincy Temple Corps of the Salvation Army will celebrate its 80th anniversary Saturday with a reunion dinner and musical festival.

Though the international organization of The Salvation Army is 107 years old, the Quincy Temple Corps was launched 80 years ago by Quincy citizens of Swedish descent. To honor the ethnic origins of the Quincy Temple Corps, the dinner and festival will carry a Scandinavian flair.

Some 170 people have been invited to attend the event which will begin at 5 p.m. at Quincy's Salvation Army headquarters, 6 Baxter St.

Five Corps groups will be performing at the Musical Festival: Quincy Temple Band and Quincy Temple Songsters, both under the direction of Bandmaster David Galbraith; Quincy Women's Chorus under the direction of Alton Brown; Quincy Men's Chorus under the direction of Mrs. Nancy Banfield; and the Quincy Timbrelists under the direction of Miss Lorraine Brown.

Head table guests will include Massachusetts Divisional Commander Brigadier and Mrs. Maro Smith, Major and Mrs. William Hulteen, former Quincy Temple Corps officers, Capt. and Mrs. Geoffrey Banfield, Quincy Temple Corps officers, and Brigadier Caleb Ronander, professional violinist who has performed before the Salvation Army general in London.

City officials have also been invited to the celebration.

World Hunger Topic Nov. 7 For United Church Women

Mrs. Kay Doherty of Braintree will discuss "World Hunger" at the World Community Day observance of Church Women United in Quincy Nov. 7 at Adams Shore United Methodist Church, 175 Albabost Rd., Quincy.

Her talk at 1:45 p.m. will follow a 12:30 p.m. self-denial luncheon. Admission may be paid at the door.

Proceeds will be given to Mrs. Doherty for the North Bolivar County Farm Cooperative in Mississippi, a project for which she has worked for several years. For her concern, Mrs. Doherty received the 1975 New England United Methodist Award for Excellence in Social Justice Actions.

The offering during the worship service will go into an Intercontinental Mission Fund which enables Church Women United commitments toward world hunger and other needs. Clothing and blanket certificates for Church World Service will be collected, and additional certificates may be obtained at the door.

Mrs. Gunnar Skoog, the day's chairman will be assisted by Mrs. George Stephen, CWU President; Mrs. Frank Bartlett of Wollaston Baptist Church, hostess; and Miss Marion Reinhardt of Bethany Congregational Church, treasurer for the day. Rev. M. Alicia Corea of Houghs Neck Congregational Church will be organist; Mr. Harold Sparks and Mrs. Ralph Coombs, ushers.

Deaths

IN MEMORIAM

In Loving Memory of
Carole Horkun Gaedtke

1974 October 27 1975
We never thought when we awoke that morning the sorrow the day would bring.
The blow was sudden, the shock severe to part with one we loved so dear.
We did not know the pain you felt or hear your final sigh. We only knew you went away and never said good bye. We miss your loving smile and gentle face.
No one could ever fill your place in all our hearts. If we had our life to give, we'd give it to you and more, to hear your voice and see your smile and greet us at the door. But all we can do is to remember you, pray for you and keep on thinking of you.
Sadly missed but never forgotten, love,
Mother, children, relatives and friends.

Mark Three Milestones

Rev., Mrs. John Banks Honored By Over 400 Friends

Rev. and Mrs. John D. Banks of Bethany Congregational Church were honored Sunday by over 400 parishioners, friends and well-wishers who joined the couple in celebrating three special anniversaries.

This year not only marks Mr. Bank's 21st year at Bethany, but also the 35th anniversary of his ordination and the couple's 35th wedding anniversary.

Rev. Banks was ordained June 30, 1940, married Aug. 3, 1940 and came to Bethany Sept. 15, 1954.

The surprise party for the couple was held in the church's social hall.

Clarence Edwards, chairman of the reception committee which planned the event, welcomed all guests and Miss Louise Forsyth acted as mistress of ceremonies.

Miss Eileen McCarthy composed three skits depicting the versatility of Rev. Banks as printer, tour guide and beekeeper. Edward A. Bohlken produced the skits and Winslow Bettinson narrated them.

Robert Eng portrayed "the printer" in the skit, while Thelma Dougenik acted as the secretary.

In the tour guide skit, David Carr played the role of Rev. Banks with Philip Sprague as bus driver. Passengers on the bus were William Banks, Agnes Berry, Arlene and Herschel Billingsley, Eleanor Brown, Helen Dooner, Melba Dukeshire, Edith Gibson, Muriel Goudey, Charlene Judge, Myra Kelly, Clara and Jean Ann MacLean, Eileen McCarthy, Marion Nilsen, Marion Reinhardt, Avis and George Roberts, Clayton and Gladys Simpson and Madeline Woods.

Robert Ross portrayed Rev. Banks in the beekeeper skit with Richard Phillips playing "super bee".

Howard and Richard Phillips shared the duties of stage manager with Edward Fenby assisting.

John Krasinski was in charge of lighting and Jean Eisenstadt of the bee hive.

Rev. Arthur Curtis served as projectionist and managed the audio system and Clayton Simpson was in charge of taping.

Heslip E. Sutherland, senior layman and former church moderator, presented the couple with a cut glass bowl. Mrs. Banks also received a gold charm bracelet and Mr. Banks, a gold watch.

Dr. Donald C. MacLeod, piper for Dame Flora MacLeod, the 28th chief of clan MacLeod, and Peter Henderson, piper major for the clan MacGregor Band, both entertained on the bagpipes.

Mrs. Lois I. Brandes and Mrs. Jean Bettinson performed vocal solos accompanied by Lambert Brandes.

Other music was played by Mrs. Edith Ryder, Mrs. Helen Krasinski, Peter Krasinski and Gene Ryder.

Taking part in tributes to the couple were Mayor Walter J. Hannon, Senator-City Council President Arthur H. Tobin, Rep. Thomas F. Brownell, City Councilor John Lydon, Rev. Bedros Baharian, chairman of the Quincy Planning Board and executive director of 1000 Southern Artery; School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon; Kenneth Hills, past president of the Quincy Kiwanis Club; Carl Widman, senior warden, Rural Lodge, A.F. and A.M.; Robert Imper of the Scots Charitable Society of which Rev. Banks is the current president; Mrs. Anna Robison, president of the Quincy Education Association and Miss Ruth Haggerty, vice-president of Delta Kappa Gamma Society, Nu Chapter.

Church moderator Alfred M. Toy read a congratulatory letter from President Gerald Ford.

Women of the church donated refreshments for the celebration. Mrs. Arthur L. Pearson served as hostess.

Mrs. Donald E. Kent was in charge of decorations.

Other members of the reception committee included

Mary Lou Giaman, Muriel J. Goudey, Mrs. John C. Murphy, George Roberts, Clayton E. Simpson, Eileen McCarthy, Donna Zanolli, Edward A. Bohlken, Louise B. Forsyth and Alfred Toy and George Roberts.

Serving as pourers were Mrs. Donald Kent, Mary Lou Giaman, Mrs. Robert McLain, Mrs. George Roberts, Mrs. Clayton Simpson and Muriel Goudey.

Mrs. Donald Kent headed the decorations committee, assisted by Mrs. Arthur Curtis, Donna Zanolli and Eugene Ryder.

Assisting in the kitchen were Mrs. Kinya Mikami, Mrs. Alfred Toy, Mrs. Carson Tsao and the young people of the church.

Clarence Edwards and George Roberts were in charge of photography.

ASTONISHING!

This is a word we most often hear from customers whose carpets we are cleaning. The results have to be seen to be believed - and they are achieved with the safe, gentle, completely thorough

DEEP STEAM EXTRACTION METHOD.

Multi jets of steam are ejected deep down to the carpet backing, stirring up embedded soil, which is immediately vacuumed up by our powerful extraction process. Your carpet is left truly clean, with no soil-attracting soap residue, no wear from scrubbing, no matting from heavy brushes. The pile is lifted, the backing and the surface are really clean and your carpet is, in effect, rejuvenated.

Harold, Raymondi, Toland, Kennedy Winners

Hannon By 134 -- Recount Looms

By RON IACOBUCCI

Voters gave Mayor Walter J. Hannon a third term by a slim 134 vote margin over challenger Joseph LaRaia in one of the closest mayoral fights in the history of Quincy, Tuesday.

LaRaia indicated he will ask for a recount.

A record 34,374 voters - 71.3% - of Quincy's 48,232 registered voters turned out. Hannon received 17,060 votes to LaRaia's 16,926 with 388 blanks.

In other highlights, Paul D. Harold easily won the city council at-large seat vacated by LaRaia, Daniel Raymondi took the open Ward 2 council seat and Mrs. Patricia Toland and Christopher Kennedy won the two vacant school committee seats.

The ballots were customarily locked up by city officials. However, Police Chief Francis Finn took further precautions by impounding the ballot boxes, placing them under police protection pending a recount. LaRaia has 10 days to apply for a recount. According to LaRaia, a recount is "within the realm of possibility."

Amid speculation, confusion and alleged irregularity charges at city hall early Wednesday morning, another factor further complicates recount proceedings. The next scheduled election is two weeks away. The special State Representative primary election is Tuesday, Nov. 18 and the ballot boxes that have been impounded will be needed in 11 precincts for that election.

Quincy voters elected two new councillors and two new school committeemen. In the councillor at-large race, Council President Arthur Tobin topped the ballot with 20,453 votes. In a surprise display of strength Paul Harold went from fourth place in the preliminary election to an impressive second place in the final with 19,125 votes only 1,328 behind Tobin. Harold was followed by incumbent John Quinn, re-elected to a record 10th term with 17,187 votes. Just missing a position on the city council was Harold Davis with 16,779 votes only 408 behind Quinn.

Sabina Stenberg was fifth with 5,375 votes and William Delahunt, who had withdrawn from the at-large race, but could not remove his name from the ballot, received 4,696 votes.

Write-in candidate Helen McDonnell got 396 votes.

The other new council face will be that of Raymondi who topped the ballot in Ward 2 with 4,037 votes, defeating Robert Martinson with 1,934 votes.

In other ward council races: Ward 1 Councillor Leo Kelly won an easy re-election bid, defeating Edward Meade by a 4,036 to 1,467 vote margin.

Ward 3 Councillor John Lydon swept to re-election

WALTER HANNON
Mayor

victory defeating Emery Fontaine by a 4,372 to 1,384 vote margin.

Ward 4 incumbent James Sheets was re-elected unopposed. He received 4,726 votes with 859 blanks.

Ward 5 Councillor Warren Powers defeated Marilyn Hanabury 3,623 to 1,056 votes.

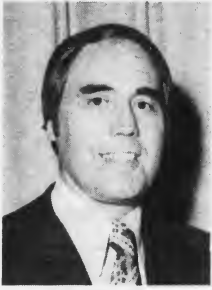

The only surprise in the ward races was in Ward 6, where incumbent Dennis Harrington had to fight off a hard challenge by Walter Hickey. The final tally was Harrington 2,521, Hickey 2,388, a difference of only 133 votes. A recount is possible.

Incumbent Francis McCauley paced the school committee ticket with 18,103 votes, winning his bid for re-election. There will be two new faces on the school committee, they belong to Mrs. Toland who finished a strong second with 17,084 votes and Kennedy winning in his second bid for the school committee post with 14,785 votes. Francis Bellotti finished fourth with 12,548, followed by J. Thomas Mullany, 11,300 votes and Marie MacIntyre 8,762.

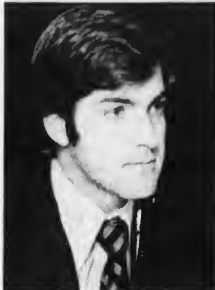

Voters made decisions on three referendum questions. Question No. 1, the granting of beano license was approved; 25,113 voted Yes and 6,269 voted No.

Question No. 2 that would limit the maximum number of stories of future building to eight was defeated: 15,179 to 13,487.

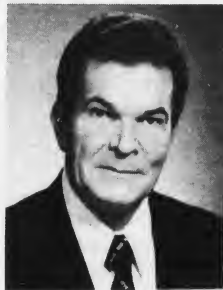

Question No. 3 that would immediately limit the maximum height of future buildings to 10 stories was approved 18,393 to 10,257.

Marines' 200th Birthday

William R. Caddy Detachment

To Hold Bicentennial Ball Monday

The William R. Caddy Detachment of the Marine Corps League will hold a Bicentennial Ball Monday, Nov. 10 to celebrate the 200th anniversary of the U.S. Marine Corps.

The event will start at 6:30 p.m. at Morrisette Legion Post, 55 Miller St., West Quincy with a cocktail hour.

A six-course Italian dinner, catered by Frank Basile of South Braintree, will be served at 7:30.

A formal cake-cutting ceremony conducted by marines and former marines will highlight the dinner.

The special Bicentennial cake is a creation of Montilio's of Quincy.

Following dinner, Detachment officers will be installed. They are: Thomas C. Pennor of Stoughton, commandant; Joseph J. Callahan of Quincy, senior vice-commandant; Phillip Daley of Quincy, junior vice-commandant; Arthur Cherry of Weymouth, adjutant; Robert Wuschke of South Boston, paymaster; Stanley Poole of Plymouth, judge advocate; Wayne Gauthier of Quincy, chaplain; Thomas Hamman of Quincy, sergeant-at-arms; Joseph Callahan of Quincy, executive committee chairman.

David J. Dunderdale of Dorchester, Albert Parker of Braintree, Americo Speranza of Quincy, Frank Desmond of Quincy, and Robert Flaherty of Quincy, trustees; Frank Desmond, veterans administration voluntary service officer; Paul Norton of Milton, Americanism chairman; James R. McIntyre, legislative officer; and Francis Wright of South Boston, public relations officer.

State Commandant Leo P. Cardarelli of Quincy, chairman of the Bicentennial Ball committee, will serve as installing officer. Anthony Melnick of Watertown will act as the installing sergeant-at-arms. Also serving with Cardarelli on the planning committee are Pennor, Callahan, Speranza, Wuschke and Desmond.

Main speaker for the evening will be past state commandant Harold F. Welsh of Watertown.

The state department's color guard from the Shutt Detachment in Watertown will also take part in the ceremonies.

The Mel Scott Band will provide dancing music throughout the evening until 1 a.m.

In honor of the event, the Massachusetts legislature passed a resolve declaring President John Adams as "Father of the U.S. Marine Corps."

According to the Corps, Adams ordered the establishment of two battalions of the Continental Marines in April 1775. The continental Congress enacted the order Nov. 10, 1775 although Adams did not sign the measure into law until July 11, 1798, the Corps relates, thus formally founding the U.S. Marine Corps.

Instructional Materials Exhibit At Broad Meadows

Quincy and South Shore area educators and parents are invited to attend the sixth annual Individualized Instructional Materials Exhibit sponsored by the Quincy Public Schools, Tuesday, Nov. 18.

More than 100 publishers from throughout the country will display materials geared toward individualization, self-instruction and multi-learning styles.

The event, expected to be one of the largest materials exhibits on the South Shore, will take place at Broad Meadows Junior High School, 50 Calvin Rd., Merrymount, from 11:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Educators will be able to review newer instructional texts, software, and audio-visual materials. Teachers will also be able to exchange ideas, see product demonstrations and acquire a variety of sample items for their schools.

Allen Goldfarb is chairing the organizational committee, assisted by George Burke and Vincent Quagga.

Quincy Pays Tribute To Native Son John Adams

GOVERNOR Michael S. Dukakis, keynote speaker at last Thursday's traditional wreath-laying ceremony to honor the 240th birthday of President John Adams, greets Quincy residents gathered inside the "Church of Presidents".

Today's Problems 'Pale' To Those Of Adams' Day Says Dukakis

By MARK McCAIN

Governor Michael S. Dukakis, keynote speaker at ceremonies honoring the 240th birthday of President John Adams said today's problems "pale" when compared to those of his day.

"Our own problems pale by comparison to those our forefathers struggled with during the birth of our nation," said Gov. Dukakis.

Blistery 35 degree weather and chilling rain forced the ceremony planned for the steps of the United First Parish Church to inside the church last Thursday.

"This is standard Navy weather," Rear Admiral Thomas E. Morris, USNR, commanding officer of the Bicentennial reserve readiness command, who presented the presidential wreath to Mayor Walter J. Hannon on behalf of President Gerald Ford. "But don't hold it against us," he added.

Admiral Morris paid tribute to Adams who early recognized the need for a U.S. Navy.

While John Adams' cousin Samuel was a "firebrand", said Dukakis, he characterized John as another type of essential person: thoughtful and scholarly, a person who would think carefully and then respond.

"That was John Adams' role during that very, very important period of our history," said Dukakis.

Many politicians, said Dukakis, seem to lack a historical perspective - believing nothing can be more difficult than the "crisis of the moment". By reflecting on the dilemmas faced by people such as Adams and his wife, he said, we can be more appreciative of earlier, and often more crucial, crises than we now face.

Persons at the ceremonies were offered a chance to realistically see some of the problems of Adams and his wife.

Lauren Fitzhugh and Cathryn Venti of Curtain Call Theatre, as John and Abigail Adams, gave a gusty and enlightening interpretation of a dialogue derived directly from letters written between the couple while Adams was attending the First Continental Congress in 1774.

During the ceremonies, five members of the Quincy High School Air Force Junior ROTC stood resolutely at the front of the church, providing a color guard for the ceremonies.

While the audience stood in prayer in the church's pine pews, Fr. Joseph Downey, pastor of St. Joseph's Church, offered a prayer of dedication. Lead by two ROTC members, the ceremony's dignitaries then proceeded to the tomb of John Adams in the basement of the church where the presidential wreath was laid.

The ceremonies opened with patriotic music by organist Gay Sullivan, and the Quincy High School Band, under the direction of Michael Cahill.

A welcome to the ceremonies honoring the second president was given by John R. Graham, executive director of Quincy Heritage.

Following the ceremonies guests were invited to a luncheon at The Three Seasons Restaurant at the Quincy Vocational Technical High School. The luncheon was financed by the Quincy Savings Bank.

CHILDREN Career education early

By DR. WILLARD
ABRAHAM

Q. How soon should a child begin to learn about jobs and careers so that he will someday make a wise choice? Our youngster is in a preschool, and this is one of the points they stress there.

A. I think it's too early even to bring up the subject, but they suggest that parents talk about their work and even drop by the preschool once in a while to talk about it. They've scheduled some visits to where the parents work too.

Q. It all seems premature to me.

A. Not necessarily, not if this is just one among many emphases in the preschool.

Sound early childhood programs help broaden the experiences of young children in many directions, and the career education idea is just one of them.

Most children really do want to know what their parents do during those long hours of absence, and enjoy visiting them at their work and being visited by them at school. It needn't add up to a weighty plan of job information (in fact, it shouldn't), but merely provide one more way to inform them about their world.

An early start that is adapted to their limited ability to understand is often worthwhile.

Q. If our daughter were younger (she's 11) I wouldn't be so concerned. She's afraid of dogs, all dogs, and there is no reason I know of for this fear. She's never been bitten or scared by one.

A. Talking to her about it does no good because she will just shake her head and look down.

A. If she has other fears that are as ill-founded as this one seems to be, you may need some special professional help. But if this is the only fear she appears to have, a two-fold approach may be helpful: Not bringing up the subject—and at a later date, considering with her the possibility of a puppy of her own to take care of and love. If she does agree to the latter idea, you'll have to be careful regarding the dog's size and temperament.

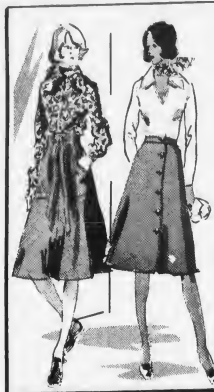

Today's Women

Skirts Suit The Season

If there's one thing fashion is, it's unpredictable! And it's this very quality that gives a new season a sense of excitement—a freshness. Take, for example, the pants craze a few years ago. It created a fashion revolution. Pants were worn to work, to restaurants, to parties. Women enjoyed their new freedom—and only the girl watchers sighed with regret at the loss of the leggy look. Then, just as everyone thought that pants had "settled in" word got around that the skirt was making a comeback.

And indeed it has! Women today are discovering a new, a different kind of freedom, legs are coming into their own, and the feeling is feminine.

Naturally, how to dress the leg becomes very important again.

In the 'comfort' category, most women are aware of the joys of wearing pantyhose—the smooth, unfettered feeling that's almost like a second skin, but selecting the correct size is important. Consider height and weight in selecting the right size. The perfect fit not only enhances the leg but insures greater comfort.

Now, what about color this season? The autumn hues express the mood of the season—earthy, warm, rich colors that can dramatize any wardrobe.

Grape is the trend-setter in the berry and plum family. Green is making fashion news in a variety of tonalities—loden, olive branch and tarnished brass. The earthtones of rusty nail and loam are exactly right for the loose skirt, country-girl feeling.

As for texture, there are more distinctive patterns than ever before to go with the loose as well as the slim look. There's the heathered rib texture that's ideal for the streamlined dress; while, the perfect mate to a full skirt is a subtle, finewale texture. Then there's deep-toned opaque pantyhose that more and more women are wearing for fashion excitement. This is especially appealing to women with very thin legs because it adds a dimension so welcome to the slim contour.

Don't overlook the appeal of knee highs this season. Comfortable, easy to wear, they have a fashion look all their own. Try them under the lean pantsuit in a comfortable sheer or one of a number of smart menswear patterns for just the right ankle accent. For the loose pantsuit, fashion suggests knee highs in bold checks, squares and ribs.

Whatever the mood, well-dressed legs will be stepping out in a variety of patterns and colors this season.

It's easy to go ga-ga when fabric is on sale, but don't plunge before you have checked the following:

- Even on sale, is the fabric worth the price?
- Is the fabric something I'll use (before it rots)?
- Do I know how much yardage I'll need (any left over erases what you might save)?
- Do I have a specific pattern for it in mind?

"Hello! Here's a Quick Stitch of my own. When top-stitching I use a double thread on top and a larger needle and stitch length. Even works on single spindle machines. A bobbin and spool can be put 'piggy back' on the spindle. This has been a big help, especially on men's leisure jackets." — Mrs. Bernie Wüeverding, Earlring, Iowa

POINT BLANK

Give nature some help

By JOHN C. MOON
Copley News Service

Dear John:
Why is life so hard?
It seems that the harder I work, the harder I am expected to work.

What's a guy to do? Even though I live clean, I fear I will have a nervous breakdown.

The boss doesn't seem to care. He just wants more work out of me.

Worried about Health
Dear Worried:

Die.
Death is mother nature's way of telling you that you had better slow down.

But if you want to try an alternative, just help mother nature a bit by not living so clean.

At home, you can slow your pace by having a beer or two each evening. They will help mother nature put you to sleep on the couch or in front of TV after dinner.

Then, when you are rested up, you can go to bed and sleep the good sleep.

At work, stick a pipe or cigarette in your mouth. No one can keep up a blistering pace with a fog or pipe in his pass.

Notice that pipesuckers seem to be slowpaced, methodical, never sweat and go home seemingly rested each evening.

Tobacco and alcohol are the working man's best friends. Bosses often are not.

And don't let the clean livers about you discourage your smoking and boozing habits.

Those uptight individuals, instead of smoking or drinking, will die off earlier than you from equally worse habits of biting nails, developing tics, grimaces, ill tempers and high blood pressure.

Dear John:
This letter is from girls everywhere.

We are sick and tired of boys making smart remarks at us. Very seldom are they (the remarks) nice.

Anyway, we are sick of it. Is there any way of stopping this?

Sick and Tired
Dear Sick:
You sound like a very young girl.

When you grow up to be a lady, let's hope you will be treated like one.

However, you must realize that little boys don't know how to make love.

They show their love in strange ways — by jabbing pencils at you, making off-color remarks, kicking you, hitting you and doing all kinds of crazy things to attract your attention.

As I said, they don't know how to make love. But they ARE making love — small boy fashion.

And you, small girl that you are, don't know how to make love, either.

Otherwise, you soon would have the feisty boys sneaking kisses, instead of hitting, kicking, pinching, etc.

Dear John:
Why aren't funny papers funny any more?

Not so Funny
Dear Not so Funny:

They are. You are just getting too dogged old to read and enjoy them.

Rhythmical letters are sign of literary ability

By DOROTHY
ST. JOHN JACKSON
Certified Master
Graphoanalyst

Dear Dorothy:

I have a friend who is talented and popular. She is doing things with her life. I have nothing to offer and it really hurts to just tag along. What's wrong with me?

A. P.

Dear A. P.:

You are talented only when you recognize your aptitudes and are willing to pay the price in effort and in visualizing accomplishment.

But wishing won't make it so seen in the t crossings above the stem part of the letter. Maybe circumstances have kept you from developing your abilities so you feel you have nothing to offer. Let me assure you that, through the strokes of your writing, your potential is there. Your problem is to discover it and get it out in the open. The Greek e's, the figure 8 g's, the delta d, all backed up by your rhythmical strokes, are your sure signs of literary ability. The pen lifts between letters add the interpretation and the enrichment to your work.

You are throbbing with dormant talent. Don't let others tell you that you can't do what you, inwardly, want to do and can do if you try. You are easily influenced by others, seen in the soft rounded s. Don't let those, who only think they know, warn you of how long it will take and how many things can happen to keep you from getting anywhere.

You have a built-in talent that has to be "kneaded." You can do with it what you will if you will it!

GREASE GUN HAZARD

Garage mechanics and those employed in jobs where it is necessary to use high-pressure grease or paint guns should be on the alert. According to a recent report in the Journal of the American Medical Association, these high-pressure guns emit a fine spray at 600-7,000 pounds per square inch - as powerful as a rifle shot - which can drive paint or grease through the skin, where it spreads internally along the limbs. In 30 cases of grease-gun injuries, 12 resulted in amputation, and of 23 paint-gun accidents, 10 required amputation.

The initial wound is often painless because it happens so fast. The result is that people continue to work, although within a few hours the pain becomes intense, and the affected limb becomes severely swollen, numb, and the affected skin takes on a mottled appearance.

This is a surgical emergency. All grease and paint must be removed. There should be no delay. Immediate medical treatment is necessary to get the offending substance out of the body as quickly as possible.

Wollaston Mothers Club Plans 'Yesteryear' Fashion Show

The Bowling Committee of the Wollaston Mothers' Club will sponsor a "Yesteryear's Fun and Fashions" show Wednesday, Nov. 12, at the Sons of Italy Social Center, Quarry St., Quincy.

The evening will begin with cocktails at 6:30, with dinner at 7, and the show at 8 p.m.

Mrs. John Kelly is chairman. Mrs. John Markonish, Mrs. William Tyler, Mrs. John Johnson, Mrs. Corinne Connery, and Mrs. William Stanton will be hostesses who will be wearing gowns from the collection during the evening to greet guests.

The program was started in 1960 by the women of Christ Church in Hyde Park and has grown continually through the years. About 100 gowns and accessories from the year 1860 to 1930 will be shown. This will be a nostalgic adventure because they not only show the ways of dress from yesteryear, but the way of life in music, song, humor and change.

Participating in the show are: Phyllis Gray, Judy Roche, Debbie Seaward, Ellen Seaward, Priscilla Seaward, Ruth Kelly, Noreen Peardon, Lynne Marshall, Selena Greenlaw, Elma Larson, Judy Aitcheson, Barbara Gordon, Susan Gray, Barbara Henderson, Violet McGrath, Alice Long, Marcia Lenz, Doris Campbell, Mildred Spear, Gladys Gross, Ann Gordon McDermott, Margaret Murphy, who is 96 years old, Signe Malmquist, Irene Queen, Ann Noseworthy, Lucy Newton, Jo Parker, Kathleen Harcourt, Arden Jones, Virginia Pataillot, Rose Coll Sally Turner, Olga Malmquist, Mabel Buchanan.

Alan Long, the one man in the show will play the guitar. June Waterhouse is business director and commentator and Annmarie Clifford is artistic director.

An added attraction will be a movie about Quincy's history, "Gifts to the Nation".

Tickets may be obtained from Mrs. William Tyler. Guests are welcome. There will be prizes awarded during the evening.

Business Community, Quincy Court Partners In Unique Program

'Earn-It': A Better Way To Handle Young Offenders

SOME OF THE more than 100 Quincy-South Shore area businessmen who attended unique session at Quincy District Court listen attentively as Judge Albert Kramer outlines his Earn-It Program for young offenders, who would work off, at local businesses, the cost of vandalism or thefts. Forty businesses indicated they would sponsor the unusual program and 34 others said they would assist on a committee to work with the court.

"THERE IS A better way to deal with young offenders and protect the community", stresses Judge Albert Kramer, presiding justice of Quincy District Court and architect of the "Earn It Program". "There is a better way and that is not to give but to help the young offender earn a second chance."

Quincy Sun Photos By Steve Liss

WILLIAM E. KELLEY, president South Shore Chamber of Commerce and Hancock Bank, urges businessmen to "become a partner in this better way", as he welcomes them to the unusual meeting. Seated, from left, are Michael Williams, committee chairman; Special Justice Lewis Whitman, Presiding Justice Albert Kramer and Norfolk County Dist. Atty. William Delahunt.

CASES SHOULD BE scheduled not just with concern for defendants but for the convenience of the complainants and victims as well, says Judge Albert Kramer. He plans to set up a schedule whereby a business would have a group of cases such as shoplifting and bad checks scheduled together for a certain time period rather than at random.

QUESTIONS ON THE minds of business community members were answered during the two and a half-hour session. Here John Hedlund of Quincy gets off one.

"I BELIEVE IN this program," says Norfolk County Dist. Atty. William Delahunt. "I hope we will be able to expand it throughout Norfolk County." Seated to his right are Judge Albert Kramer, and Special Justice Lewis Whitman.

Walter Hannon: The Man

[Note: This column was written before this week's election results were known and, of course, appears here after the election. It thus has no influence on the election results].

By HENRY BOSWORTH

Walter Hannon, the mayor, has had his share of critics the past four years.

But what mayor in Quincy's history hasn't? If you are old enough to look back, Charles Ross, Thomas Burgin, Amelio Della Chiesa and James McIntyre had their critics too. When you have to say "No", someone isn't going to like you, and whatever you do, there is always someone to second guess you.

Hannon draws a lot of his criticism because of, ironically, a quality. He is candid—maybe overly so. Ask him a question and you get a direct answer—sometimes with his foot in his mouth.

He still fires from the hip as he did when he was Ward 5 councillor. And he who fires from the hip can expect fire in return. More so if he happens to be the mayor of a city of nearly 90,000 residents.

But this column is not so much about Walter Hannon, the mayor, as Walter Hannon, the man. Not too many people really know the latter.

Perhaps this little story may give them an insight.

The Sun received a telephone tip late the night of the Sept. 22 preliminary election. The caller said that Mayor Hannon had a police guard outside his home and seemed quite perturbed about it.

He gave the impression he thought Hannon was "grandstanding it". "The other candidates don't have a police detail—why should he?", the caller asked.

We would check it out, he was told. Later that morning, a reliable source informed us the police detail was there because Hannon's children had received a vile threat.

Hannon was then asked about it. He frankly admitted there was a police guard posted outside his home and that his children had been threatened.

He even furnished the details. From the sound of it, the one who made the threats must have crawled out from under a rock.

Hannon, after confirming the tip, asked that The Sun not use the story. In fact he came as close to pleading as he ever has.

Around that same time, President Ford had a gun pulled on him and Gov. Michael Dukakis had been threatened by a telephone caller at Broad Meadows Junior High School, here. It was, we thought, a legitimate newsworthy that should be told.

"I don't care if you use it after the final election," Hannon said. "But if you use it now, it could hurt Joe LaRaia.

"There could be some people who would blame the LaRaia camp. It wouldn't be fair to Joe. If Joe knew of anyone making such a threat as that, he'd belt him. If you use the story, it just won't be fair to him."

So we didn't use the story then. But now it has no effect on Tuesday's election. And we thought it should be told.

ALWAYS INTERESTING to see how many write-in votes there are in an election and for whom. Did you know that in the city's preliminary election, Red Sox rookie star Jim Rice who lives in West Quincy, got a write-in for mayor.

QUINCY'S gift to the theater, Ruth Gordon, marked her 79th birthday Oct. 30. Hard to believe. She has more get-up-and-go than many 35-year-olds. And she looks as good in a mini-skirt as Mary Tyler Moore.

PUTTING A POLITICAL bumper sticker on your car sometimes can help you, too. Take Mrs. Alba Vissa of Brook Rd, South Quincy, for example. She was driving along the Maine Turnpike in the rain when her car broke down. Along came a man who stopped and got her car going.

He stopped, he said, because he spotted the bumper sticker of School Committeeman Francis McCauley on her car. He said he knew McCauley but drove off before Mrs. Vissa had the opportunity to get his name.

IF YOU GOT to the South Shore Music Circus in Cohasset this past summer, you might be interested in these off-stage tidbits via the publicity department:

Between shows, Andy Williams relaxed sipping his favorite beverage—Taittanger Blanc de Blanc champagne. Costs only $23.50 per bottle...The Cohasset management was quite happy over the fact that Patrice Munsel arrived with only her husband. She left at home her pet boa constrictor.

Larry Hooper, the deep-voiced pianist-singer with the Lawrence Welk troupe, walked along the beach as often as he could. Hooper underwent open heart surgery twice in one week four years ago. As part of his physical therapy he walks as much as 13 miles a day.

SUDDEN THOUGHT: If television gives the o.k. for nudity, I'll bet Cher will be the first one on stage. She's three-quarters of the way there now. And why do scrawny females try to show the most?

SOUND ADVICE via Jack Silverstein, the North Quincy druggist: "Don't send your children to church. Take them."

'Bicentennial Pathway'

First Freedom Park Bids To Be Opened On Nov. 18

Natural Resources Commissioner Richard J. Koch, announces that bids will be opened for the first phase of development of Freedom Park, Nov. 18.

Plans call for creation of a "Bicentennial Pathway" between the Adams Academy and the Adams National Historical Site. In addition, the park will provide a natural, scenic, green belt area for people to enjoy their leisure time.

The first phase of development will see the installation of a meandering pathway, trees, shrubs and benches.

Instrumental in making the first phase possible said Koch, were Senator Arthur H. Tobin, and Reps. Thomas Brownell and Joseph Brett, who worked with the Massachusetts Bicentennial Commission in order to obtain two $15,000 grants for the project.

Quincy's recently passed bond issue, which was sponsored by Mayor Walter Hannon, will account for $50,000 of the first phase bringing the total amount of funds to $80,000. Bids for this first phase are expected to run between $70,000 and $80,000.

"I am very pleased with the progress we have made toward creating a new historical park in Quincy," said Mayor Hannon. "The work that has gone into this project by the Freedom Park Association and city officials represents the kind of co-operation important to the successful functioning of our City.

According to V. Michael Weinmayr Associates, Architects, who developed the plans and specifications, work on the park will begin on the Dimmock St. end and work northerly. The first phase is expected to be completed by May 15, 1976.

General Membership Meeting Thursday

Bernard Reisberg Elected President Quincy Center Business Association

Bernard Reisberg of Bernie's Modern Formal Shop has been elected president of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association [QCBPA].

Former vice-president of the association, Reisberg succeeds David Leitch of Burgin-Platner Co., Inc.

Jack Cosseboom of Milton's was elected association vice-president, Henry W. Bosworth of The Quincy Sun was re-elected secretary and John Kelly of Sawyer's Campus Shop was elected treasurer, succeeding Jason Feldman.

Sixteen QCBPA members were recently elected to serve on the organization's new board of directors. They are:

Mark Bertman of Roger's Jewelry; Henry W. Bosworth, of The Quincy Sun; Pierre Boulanger of Sears Roebuck Co.; Phil Chase of Cummings; Robert Colman of Colman's Sporting Goods; Burt Cooke of Tag's Sleep and Lounge Shop; Jack Cosseboom of Milton's; Remo DeNicola of South Shore Television and Appliance; Kenneth Fallon Jr. of WJDA; Jason Feldman of Jason's Luggage and Music Shop; Ted Johnson of Granite City Hardware; John Kelly of Sawyer's Campus Shop; Jack Kerrigan of Baskin-Robbins Ice Cream Store; David Leitch of Burgin Platner Co., Inc.; Bernard Reisberg of Bernie's Modern Formal Shop; and George White of the Patriot Ledger.

The QCBPA will hold a general membership breakfast today [Thursday] at 8 a.m. at Quincy Legion Post, 2 Mechanic St., Quincy.

A continental breakfast will be served and members will have the opportunity to meet the association's new officers and board of directors and to discuss current and future plans of the organization.

Reisberg said the Association plans to hold a breakfast meeting on the second Thursday of each month.

Public Relations Seminar For City Department Heads Nov. 12

A public relations seminar for city of Quincy department heads is scheduled for Wednesday, Nov. 12, at the Quincy Savings Bank, 1200 Hancock St., Quincy Center.

The four hour session starting at 8:30 a.m. has been planned by the city's Office of Communications, according to John R. Graham.

Sessions will include a "What's News in Quincy?" panel with Quincy Sun publisher-editor Henry Bosworth and WJDA news editor Herb Fontaine. The local newsmen will talk with the city personnel about the identification of stories which can be of interest to Quincy residents.

Edward Querzoli, managing editor of The Patriot Ledger will conduct a session of how to write news releases.

New England Telephone service advisor Elaine Skara will give suggestions for improving telephone etiquette.

The Office of Communications will provide each department head with copies of a booklet on "The ABC's of Public Relations." The booklet is designed to help employees become more aware of their role in public relations.

"Over a period of many months, Mayor Hannon has asked us to work with the various city departments in discovering ways to better serve the public," said Graham. "This seminar is the second one this year and we hope to continue the program over a period of time."

The program was developed by Graham, Gordon MacPhee, and Brian Buckley, who serve both as the Quincy Heritage staff and the Office of Communications.

'Gifts To The Nation' Viewed By 2,365 So Far

The new $25,000 Bicentennial slide show of Quincy, "Gift to the Nation," will be shown by the Quincy Citizens Association during their Wednesday, Nov. 5 meeting at the Montclair Men's Club.

The visual historical account of Quincy will be presented by Quincy Heritage, and all QCA Members and friends are invited to attend.

Also at the meeting a report will be given by the Height-Limit Committee on the outcome of the Nov. 4 election — Question 3, limiting buildings to 10 floors.

Quincy's Yesterdays

November 6-12, 1959 - 16 Years Ago This Week

4 New Faces In City Council

By PAUL HAROLD

Four new city councilors were elected in last week's elections, including George McDonald, Ward 4, as well as three young men, 27-years old who never held public office before, Joseph LaRaia, Ward 2; James McCormack, Ward 3 and George Burke, Ward 5.

Re-elected to the council were Charles Shea, Ward 1; William Ellis, Ward 6 and David McIntosh, Carl Anderson, and John Quinn at-large. [Joseph Brett missed re-election at-large by 422 votes].

QUINCY REPUBLICANS TO HONOR SALTONSTALL

The Quincy Republican Club made plans to honor Senator Leverett Saltonstall at a dinner in the President's Room of Howard Johnson's Restaurant, Quincy Sq.

Chairman Frank Jones was assisted by Harold Nannis.

Republican county chairmen, ward chairmen and presidents of Republican Women's Clubs were invited to the dinner. It was expected that Congressman Laurence Curtis and Governor's Councillor Augustus Means would also attend.

VANE ST. PARKING TO OPEN

Lewis Dotes, president of the North Quincy Board of Trade announced that the 66-car Vane St. parking lot would be dedicated later this week. The dedication will mark the opening of "Norfolk Downs Days" with a sales and free parking promotion.

SCHOOLS CHANGE MENU FROM CRANBERRIES TO APPLESAUCE

North Quincy High School and Atlantic Junior High School switched their menus from cranberries to applesauce this week, in response to reports from Secretary of Welfare Arthur Fleming, that cranberries might contain cancer-producing elements.

Miss Agnes Berry, dietitian for the two schools said she removed cranberries to keep everybody happy. "At a time like this people can become alarmed; we'll give them applesauce," she said.

HOSPITAL DEFICIT DOUBLES

At this week's City Council meeting, it was learned that the hospital's deficit for this year would be $600,000, double that of last year. The loss to the city would equal $3.50 on the tax rate.

Walter Smith, business agent for the hospital said the deficit was due in part to salary increases and the fact that collections were not as good as last year.

$25 Savings Bond Prize

Young Ideas Theme 'You're A Very Special Person'

"You're a very Special Person" is the subject of this week's issue of "Young Ideas", sponsored by Howdy Beef 'n Burger, 520 Southern Artery, Quincy.

"Young Ideas", the four-page pull-out newspaper especially for elementary school children, appears on Pages 15, 16, 17, 18 of this week's Quincy Sun.

Guest editors for this week's issue are children in Miss Ilda DiMascio's sixth grade at Beechwood Knoll School, Wollaston.

The class explores how each child is a very special person by means of puzzles, self-portraits, problem-solving, drawings, interviews with younger children and quotes about how they feel and how they relate to one another.

See if you can "Guess What I Am". Solve the four fantasy essays from our mailbag. [Don't peek at the answers until you have given it a good try!]

There is also a contest. See if you can design a Bicentennial character for Howdy. His name is Howdy Doodle - which is, of course, a play on Yankee Doodle. Then see if you can finish the jingle in your own words:

Howdy Doodle went to town,
A-ridin etc.....
.....
Winner of the contest will receive a $25 Bond from Howdy Beef 'n Burger. Entries are limited to elementary school children. Deadline for entering is Nov. 20.

And don't forget that Thursday, Nov. 6 is the deadline for submitting entries for the Halloween word scramble contest, which appeared in the Oct. 23 "Young Ideas" issue and was reprinted in the Oct. 30 Quincy Sun.

Winner will receive a Thanksgiving decorated ice cream cake from Baskin-Robbins, 1434 Hancock St., Quincy Sq. Twenty-five other children will receive free ice cream cone prizes from Baskin-Robbins.

LIVING TODAY

'Tribute to My Father'

By DR. WILLIAM F. KNOX

The call came from Carl, my brother at 10:00 p.m. Dad had died at nine. Dad would have been 91 if he had lived to October 12. He didn't quite make it. He didn't want to make it. He had greater goals... "He had finished his course" as the minister said, "He had fought a good fight... Now was laid up for him a crown of righteousness which God the righteous judge will give him." I wouldn't ask him back, even if I could. But I miss him. I feel lonely from time to time. Just knowing he was always there gave stability to me. I always knew I was loved. I still know it. But being human, it's different now.

I learned so much from him... to like people... how to work... how to be responsible... how to be a head of the family... how to love a woman. I learned from watching my father love my mother. I remember the affection he showed her... the devotion... the courtesy and respect... the helping her in little ways... And Dad expected that we show her this same respect. We did. There was to be no smoking in the family car when we took it on dates, because "your mother rides in this car". He was of the old school, overprotective of mother, but his kind devotion and love made this acceptable.

He was a busy pastor... but his family came first. He spent time with his family... camping trips... fishing and swimming in the creeks of Kansas... helping us build a tennis court... gardens... raising chickens... milking cows... all at the little suburban home in Lawrence, Kansas. It was a varied... and wholesome life... growing experiences... happy days.

As I picked up the book of my good friend, Dr. Martin Grossack, entitled... "You Are Not Alone", I turned again to his chapter on Problems of Adjustment. He wrote... "It is natural to be sad for a period of time [on the death of one close to you]. However, prolonged grief implies irrational self-pity. Grief is more bearable when it is communicated and not kept within the person."

He's right about that. So... in these days I'm grieving rationally... and enjoying and sharing with friends the memories of this great father. There'll be no university named after him... no marble monument in Washington or Topeka. But in the lives of his two sons and others close to him... and the hundreds of people to whom he ministered, C. J. Knox will never die.

FOR YOUR COMMENTS: Write Dr. Knox at 320 Washington St., Norwell, MA. 02061. For private counseling, group therapy, call 659-7595 or 326-5990. For his new book "People Are For Loving" send $2.00 to Norwell.

Question Of Week

What Is Sunday Law?

A caller to the Voter Information Phone of the League of Women Voters recently asked what the "Sunday Law" is.

The volunteer operator replied that it is the popular name for the Common Day of Rest Law, which prohibits doing business or working on certain legal holidays, and specifies the penalties for disobedience. It also provides for the issuance of one-day permits to perform "necessary work", and for exemptions from the general prohibition.

The list of specific exceptions can be obtained from Sections 6 and 14 of Chapter 136 of the General Laws of the Commonwealth, or from your local police department or licensing authority.

This question is one of many now being received by the League of Women Voters Voter Information Phone. Individuals with questions on government may call the VPhone Monday through Friday between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. The number in the Boston area is 357-5880. Outside the Boston metropolitan area call toll-free 1-800-882-1649.

HISTORIC MOMENTS

COFFEE SHORTAGE

A shortage of coffee in the United States set off a wave of price rises and hoarding which reached its peak Oct. 26, 1949.

ROOSEVELT BORN

Theodore Roosevelt, 26th president of the United States, was born in New York City on Oct. 27, 1858.

SALARY CEILING

The Office of Economic Stabilization on Oct. 27, 1942, issued a regulation limiting individual salaries to a high of $25,000 a year.

STATUE DEDICATED

President Grover Cleveland on Oct. 28, 1886, dedicated the Statue of Liberty in New York Harbor.

MARKET COLLAPSES

Prices on the New York Stock Exchange virtually collapsed Oct. 29, 1929, wiping out millions of traders.

PHONY INVASION

Orson Welles caused near-panic Oct. 30, 1938, with the broadcast of a simulated newscast of an invasion from Mars.

Butter-Baked Washington Russets

Here's a glamorized version of roast potatoes, featuring Washington State Russets. The "Golden Baked Russet Potatoes" are baked with butter as they bake, they coated with bread crumbs and Parmesan cheese when almost done. The result is a tasty potato that is tender and moist on the inside and crisp and savory on the outside.

Washington State Russets are the favored all-purpose potato. When baked, they become fluffy and moist. When fried, they are crisp and tender, and when boiled, they retain their flavor and shape.

Golden Baked Russet Potatoes

- | | |
|-------------------------------------|-------------------------------------|
| 4 medium Washington Russet potatoes | 1 tablespoon packaged bread crumbs |
| 1/2 cup butter, melted | 1 tablespoon grated Parmesan cheese |
| 1/4 teaspoon onion salt | |
| 1/4 teaspoon salt | |

Peel potatoes. Slice each crosswise every 1/4 inch, cutting to within 1/2 inch of the bottom. Place in buttered baking dish. Drizzle with half of butter; sprinkle with salt. Bake at 425° for 30 minutes. Sprinkle with crumbs and remaining butter. Bake 20 minutes longer. Sprinkle with cheese and bake 10 minutes or until tender, basting with butter in dish. Makes 4 servings.

Say 'Stuffing, Please...'

The abundance of fowl and the seasonal foods are treats to be savored at this year's holiday tables. And the traditional stuffing is a delicious combination of apples, raisins, Minute rice, and seasonings. Serve it as a complement to your entree or roast it inside the bird.

Apple Raisin Stuffing

- | | |
|-----------------------------------|--|
| 1/2 cup chopped onion | 1 1/2 cups packaged enriched pre-cooked rice |
| 2 tablespoons butter or margarine | 1 cup diced peeled tart apples |
| 1 1/2 cups water | 1 cup raisins or chopped prunes |
| 1 1/2 teaspoons salt | |
| 1/4 teaspoon pepper | |
| 1/4 teaspoon poultry seasoning | |

Sauté onion in butter until tender but not browned. Add water and seasonings. Bring to a boil. Stir in rice, apples, and raisins. Cover, remove from heat, and let stand 5 minutes. Fluff lightly with a fork. Spoon stuffing into poultry. Do not pack tightly. Roast at once. Or, serve with poultry as a side-dish. Makes 4 cups or enough stuffing for 3 or 4 Cornish game hens, a small duck or chicken, or to stuff pork chops. For large duck, goose, chicken, or turkey, double or triple the recipe.

'Heritage Room' At Lincoln School A Salvage Delight

By MARY ANN DUGGAN

The Maintenance Department of the Quincy Public Schools has transformed a former Lincoln School classroom into a vibrant "Heritage Room", combining wood, bricks, beams and lights salvaged from a host of Quincy schools.

Though the room is indeed a patchwork of building materials, an adept maintenance crew has disguised the room's mongrel breed with professional paneling, painting and carpentry. Some 18 members of the maintenance crew collaborated on the project over a 16-month period, working on a time-available basis. Director of Plant Facilities John M. Brown said:

"Almost every man in the maintenance department - electricians, painters and carpenters - worked up there at one time or another - whether for four hours or for a week. "Heritage Room" was a total effort by the maintenance department."

Walter Lunsman, director of arts and humanities, designed "Heritage Room" and Frank Leporini, director of career education, turned design sketches into reality, deciding where to procure materials to be used in the room's reconstruction.

Designated as a special conference area, "Heritage Room" will provide a relaxed, historic and sentimental atmosphere for the meetings of school principals and administrators, special committees, educational development teams and curriculum coordinators. The school's educational planning team christened "Heritage Room" with its first September meeting of the academic year.

The paneled walls of the corner room - once a fifth grade class - combine lumber from the old Hancock School, from sections of treated floorboard in the Lincoln School and from the attic at the Willard School. Carpenters sanded down the wood, exposing the beauty of its original grain.

Peeling away a wall covering, workers exposed three original school windows once blocked by a building addition at the turn of the century. Transformed into display cases, these windows exhibit memorabilia from various schools including an 1873 Quincy High School diploma, an old and blackened inkwell filler, a school bell from Central Junior High School, the key dedicating Quincy Veterans' Memorial Stadium and presented to then-mayor Thomas S. Burgin Sept. 25, 1938, a bound book recording the hand-written minutes of Coddington School PTA meetings during the 1905-06 school year and a grammar school baseball league trophy last won by the Willard School in 1925.

Paneling inserted behind the display windows came from wood in the Willard School attic. A service bar, recessed into one wall, sports decorative spindles from the Hancock School and supportive columns - cut in half lengthwise - which used to flank the third-floor stage in the Quincy School.

Decorative doorknobs from the Hancock School will grace rough-hewn doors and students from Quincy Vocational Technical School will build end tables in-laid with iron grillwork from air ducts in the room.

Maintenance crew members transformed the original hard-wood floor of the fifth-grade Lincoln School classroom into eight hollowed ceiling beams which stretch the length of the room.

Hanging from the ceiling on long, linked chains are old-fashioned white globe lamps which evoke nostalgic school-day memories. Electricians also installed additional modern lighting to complement the old.

Thirty black Captain's chairs lining two walls of the room represent every school within the Quincy system, each bearing the gold-inscribed name of one Quincy school and the date it opened.

Paintings on loan from the South Shore Art Association decorate the walls and window-length drapes in peacock blue brighten the entire room. Matching wall-to-wall carpeting completes the decor.

School Supt. Dr. Lawrence Creedon perhaps best described "Heritage Room" when he said: "It's a really recycled room!"

Elect HERB REPPUCCI

STATE REPRESENTATIVE 4th NORFOLK DISTRICT
TUESDAY NOVEMBER 18 DEMOCRAT, VETERAN

(X) Crime

A great percentage of our crime is committed at the MBTA Station. HERB is opposed to the fourth MBTA Station, making another haven for the car thief, the mugger, hand bag snatcher and hold-up artists. HERB also insists an investigation should be made for people who are being ripped off without a weapon by a few business and professional and those that mislead in false advertisement.

(X) Full Time Representation

I pledge to you the people of the Fourth Norfolk District, to be a FULL TIME REPRESENTATIVE and if I am elected, at my own expense, I will try to rent any empty store or office space in our district; and establish a Fourth Norfolk Community Center, where legitimate problems will get fast action. I promise you the best representation this district ever had.

(X) Holding Two Electoral Offices

HERB is strictly against any man holding two elected offices and a position depending on three jobs for his livelihood, expecting to serve the people who elect him. HERB is strongly opposed to any practicing attorney whose law practice will keep him from the people who place trust in him. HERB is against any appointee by our governor who could use this man as a tool for his benefit.

I ask you for the privilege to finish this term as your State Representative that I fought hard and honest for in 1974.

Vote Herb Reppucci

Michael Reppucci

You Know Where He Stands

HERB REPPUCCI ran a respectful second to District Attorney William Delahunt in the 1974 election for State Representative.

In 1974 HERB REPPUCCI spoke loud and clear about the crime in our streets. Our mayor then began a campaign against crime, curbing it from the 38% increase to a lower rate. Many of our citizens are still afraid to walk our streets. Could this be because criminals are no longer afraid of our courts? Have they not come to expect leniency from too many overly liberal judges?

In 1974 HERB spoke for better laws or better judges. My successor then showed an interest in the over burden work load at the Quincy Court and attempted to obtain another judge. This was never accomplished. HERB REPPUCCI will insist having another judge who will be strong enough to punish a hardened or habitual criminal. HERB does not approve of our Quincy Court being an employment agency for the criminal.

In 1974 HERB was in favor of Capitol Punishment for the hard core killer. Today HERB feels the same.

In 1974 HERB strongly opposed Forced Busing and with an eleventh hour flyer, proved his honesty to forever fight against forced busing anywhere in this Commonwealth.

Brownell Heads Committee To Improve QDC Workload

Rep. Thomas F. Brownell [D-Quincy], has been appointed chairman of the special legislative committee investigating the physical and budgetary adequacy of Quincy District Court.

Rep. Robert A. Cerasoli [D-Quincy], has also been named as a member of the five-man commission.

The committee will hold a public hearing Friday, Nov. 21 at noon in Quincy District Court. Justice Franklin N. Flashner, chief justice of the district court system, and Norfolk District Atty. William D. Delahunt will testify on the caseload and other problems confronting the Quincy Court.

Both Flashner and Delahunt will give their views on re-drawing the jurisdictional boundary lines and other suggestions designed to alleviate the court's current workload.

Other members of the commission are Reps. Robert B. Ambler of Weymouth, Alfred Almeida of Plymouth and Alan Danovitch of Norwood.

Neil Cox Fund Reaches $503 Mark

A total of $503 has been raised for the Neil J. Cox Scholarship Fund recently founded in memory of 22-year-old Neil J. Cox.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. William Cox of 89 Cummings Ave., North Quincy, Cox died Oct. 8 in a severe automobile crash in Quincy. He was a student at Quincy Junior College at the time of his death. He was a graduate of North Quincy High School.

Mrs. Cox is president of the Quincy Education Secretaries Association.

The Cox family has extended a note of thanks to all relatives and friends who shared their sorrow and have contributed to the fund.

A 4 p.m. month's Mind Mass will be celebrated Saturday for Cox in St. Ann's Upper Church. Contributions to the fund can be sent to:

MDC Awards Contract For Steel Work At Nut Island

Senator Arthur H. Tobin and Rep. Thomas F. Brownell announce the MDC has awarded a contract for the replacement of eroded steel at its Nut Island sewage treatment plant, Houghs Neck.

The $124,625 contract to Bonaroso Construction Corporation of Winthrop, calls for the removal and replacement of 63 tons of eroded structural steel located inside the plant's sedimentation tanks. The contract also includes plans for drilling foundations, grouting concrete and other related work. According to the MDC plant operations will not be interrupted during the planned 12-month work period.

Tobin and Brownell also disclosed the MDC has given preliminary approval to its Sewerage Division for the repair of its Sewage Digester at Nut Island. The Digester manufactures methane gas which is a primary source of fuel for the plant's diesel generating units. The MDC is expected to release this project for bids in late December.

Hugo Saluti Installed Morrisette Post Commander

Yes, John Kenney. You are a very special person. There is no one exactly like you. There never has been. And there never will be. You have your own looks, thoughts, feelings, likes, dislikes, fears, joys, frustrations, problems. You are a very special person.

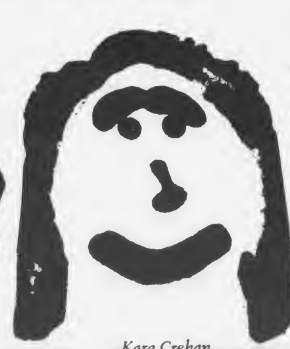

Young Ideas visited Miss DiMascio's sixth grade at Beechwood Knoll School and we explored the many ways in which each of us is a very special person. The class wrote essays on what makes them happy, what makes them sad, what makes them afraid and what makes them mad. We talked about the many things we are to different people. For instance, Brian Carpenter said, he was-a help to his mother, a worker to his father, a devil to his sister, a slave to his brother and a good kid to his best friend. Leah Klingenstein and Nancy McCarthy tell us what it's like to be friends. Brenda Jellow scrambled the letters of her favorite things. Pam Jellow and Tracia Farulla tell us about their many moods in a word hunt. And four of our "staff" tell us what world problem they would like to solve. We hope you enjoy this issue of Young Ideas. Because YOU are a very special person.

If I Could Solve Any Problem in the

I would like to stop the fighting in Ireland. Every day I hear on the radio that lots of people are getting killed there. They are just fighting over a piece of land but it's not worth people getting killed for. If I were in charge I would send over Henry Kissinger and have him help them compromise. That means each side gives in a little.

David Roden

I would like to end all forest fires. I would put a show on TV and tell people to be careful of matches in forests. I was in a forest fire once. Actually it was a field on fire with trees around it. I rolled down a hill and ran to my mother. Then I pulled the alarm. I was so small I had to stand on a box.

Kara Crehan

We would like to solve the gas crisis. We would only allow one car per family. We would ask everybody to use the smallest kind of car. We are not going to ask for a ride if we can use our bikes or walk. And we think it would be a good idea to invent a machine which could dig deeper into the earth to get out more oil.

Steven Grinszstein and Scott Poulter

I would like to solve the problem with the oil. I would like to try and make America's oil crisis go away. We need oil. It's a big problem. But I'd like to solve it.

Diane's Book Review

Can you imagine what it would feel like to be a child that nobody wanted? Well Helen Dora knew, so she started by adopting one child, whom she loved so much, then another and another until she had twelve. She tells about it in her book, The Family Nobody Wanted. She loved, and wanted each no matter their color.

Helen and Carl, her husband, went through some very trying, sad and struggling times. She also tells of many joyous ones. Helen had many people against her, but she never gave up. She was a very special kind of person.

Let's Make Peanut Butter Fudge

David Roden's favorite recipe is peanut butter fudge. Here it is. David also drew a picture of him stirring his fudge.

You'll need:

- 2/3 cup milk
- 1 tablespoon butter
- 2 tablespoons cocoa
- 2/3 teaspoon vanilla
- 3 tablespoons peanut butter
- 3 tablespoons marshmallow

Directions:

- * Bring sugar, milk, butter and cocoa to a boil.
 - * Boil about twelve minutes and remove from heat.
 - * Add vanilla, peanut butter and marshmallow.
 - * Refrigerate in square or round pan until hard.
- Then eat to your heart's content!

What Makes You Happy? What Makes You Sad?

Child in the Classroom

Interview

Feelings are a very important part of that special person who is you. We talked about feelings with our guest editors, the sixth grade at Beechwood Knoll School. Two girls asked if they could interview children in the first grade to find out how the feelings of sixth graders and first graders differ.

Lorraine Roche, 11, interviewed Janice Keating, 6. Janice, I am happy when it's a holiday or a special vacation. When are you happy?

I am happy when it's a cold morning and I have warm covers. I am sad when my mother or father are sad or when something bad happens. Are you ever sad?

No. I am angry when I can't do something I want to do. Are you ever angry?

Only when I have to eat peas!

I am afraid when I'm all alone in my house and I watch a scary movie. Are you ever afraid?

Sometimes when I go to bed. But I don't know why. I think it's because I have nightmares.

Mary Beth Golden, 11, interviewed Maureen Gralton, 6. Maureen, I am kind to my next door neighbors because they are old. When are you kind?

I am kind to my friend Caroline because she lets me play with her dolls.

I am happy when it's my birthday or someone else's because I like giving presents away. When are you happy?

When I watch baseball games on television. If the Red Sox win.

I am sad when someone in my family is sick or cries. Are you ever sad?

I'm never sad.

I'm angry if a person calls me names or anyone in my family names. When are you angry?

When I have to watch the news. It's always the same stuff. And I really hate the weather.

Design Howdy Doodle Win A $25 Bond

Howdy Beef Burger wants you to stir up your imagination and design a Bicentennial symbol for them, and write a jingle. See if you can design a figure called Howdy Doodle. Then see if you can finish this jingle in your own words:

Howdy Doodle went to town

A-ridin' on a

Winning symbol and jingle will receive a $25 bond.

Any child in the sixth grade or under is eligible. Just draw Howdy Doodle -- any size, using as much color as you want. Finish the jingle. Make sure you put your name, address, telephone, age, school and grade. [Have Mom or Dad check your entry]. And send to:

Friendship Is . . .

Leah Kligenstein [left] and Nancy McCarthy are friends. We asked Leah and Nancy what special things make them friends.

Leah: Well, Nancy has a good sense of humor. She makes me laugh. Sometimes I feel kind of sad and things upset me. But Nancy knows how to make a joke out of it.

Nancy: Leah's my friend because I like her. And we like the same things. We both like to do cheers. And eat pizza. And we like to read books about people, especially biographies.

Leah: I have no sisters but Nancy is a little like having one.

Nancy: But we're different in a lot of ways. I'm always losing things -- like my key. I have to tie that around my neck. But Leah's very organized.

I'm a Special Person

Artwork by Susan Kelleher, 11

I'm a special person as everybody knows.

I may not be a ballplayer or even be in shows.

I may not be a soccer player or even a brick layer.

But I'm a special person as everybody knows.

I'll grow up to be someone maybe, I hope a writer.

As my skills get better my future will look brighter.

For I'm a special person as everybody knows.

Guess What I Am

Boy am I mad. Those guys are murder. Well, how would you like it if someone was knocking you around with a paddle? Let me tell you it hurts. I get dizzy, get headaches and I always get sick to my stomach. One of these days I'm going to bounce right off this table and bounce away forever.

Now where am I? It looks like a cave. Oh, no! Look at all these big white rocks falling! They're going to crush me!

I'm going to be killed alive! Now I'm all soft and mushy. I'm sticky and gooey. After about three hours of being chewed up. I got thrown on the ground! I can't move, I'm stuck here forever....

Lee Remick's 'Jenny' Draws Critic Raves

By ROBERT J. DONOVAN

Reports have it that DANNY KAYE is interested in buying a major league baseball team... Turn down an award? That's what KATHERINE HEPBURN did when the American Film Institute was considering her for their Life's Achievement Award. Her reason? She didn't want to become involved in the hoopla involved in the awards banquet. Kate's a bit of a recluse... ANGIE DICKINSON, star of "Police Woman", has been chosen by the U.S. Marine Corps Reserve as national chairwoman for its annual Toys For Tots Christmas Campaign... LIZA MINNELLI's new film, "Carmella", has been re-titled "A Matter of Time" thanks to JOHN KANDER and FRED EBB who wrote a song by that name for Liza to sing in the film... England is taking the CBS series "Good Times" and transporting it overseas. The new comedy series, to be called "The Fosters" will be the first all-black television series to be seen by the British... BETTE DAVIS will soon be back on the wide screen in "Burnt Offerings", which will co-star KAREN BLACK and OLIVER REED... In compliance with the will of the late JACK BENNY, two of his violins were presented to the Los Angeles Philharmonic by the late star's widow. The two violins, a Stradivarius and a Pressenda, have a combined value of $100,000... EDDIE FOY III is currently coordinating the search for an unknown actress to play the lead role in the projected NBC series, "Nancy Drew"... THE MUPPETS will be starring in their own CBS series next fall. Each half-hour episode of the variety show will be hosted by Kermit the Frog. The Muppets wish all their fans to know that they will still continue their chores on "Sesame Street" as well... In a review, Variety, the show business "Bible", has called LEE REMICK's "Jenny" [seen locally on Channel 2] "the finest all-around British product ever seen in this country"... Universal Pictures says there hasn't been a really good pirate film made in more than 30 years. So they're making one. Budgeted at almost $9 million, "Blarney Cock" will star ROBERT SHAW, JAMES EARL JONES, PETER BOYLE, GENEVIEVE BUJOLD and BEAU BRIDGES... Pre-production plans have already begun on a four-hour 1976 special titled, "The First Fifty Years - NBC Radio and Television"... RED AUERBACK, president and general manager of the Boston Celtics, is joining CBS-TV Sports and will host halftime features during NBA Basketball games beginning in January... Popular humor columnist, ERMA BOMBEC, read in hundreds of newspapers across the country, will now help to wake up America in person on ABC's "Good Morning, America"... And while on "Good Morning, America", NANCY DUSHAULT, seen a few seasons ago on "The New Dick Van Dyke Show", has also been signed by the early morning show... How does JOAN RIVERS fight the tendency to pile on pounds? By eating Carnation Diet Bars. "I eat one three times a day," she says. "Before every big meal"... SHAKESPEARE may turn over in his grave when the new rock version of "Hamlet", called "Rockabye Hamlet", opens in New York after the first of the year. GOWER CHAMPION will choreograph the production... With many of the new television shows coming under the cancellation ax and many of the older shows shifting time slots, viewers may soon find "All In The Family" moving back to its old home on Saturday nights... Thanksgiving evening will mark a tribute to GEORGE and IRA GERSHWIN by way of the CBS special "Our Love Is Here To Stay"... STEVE LAWRENCE and EDYIE GORME will host with GENE KELLY guesting. By a coincidence, Ira Gershwin will celebrate his 79th birthday on December 6, just one week after the telecast... JANE FONDA is more than displeased about the rumors that she is planning to star in a feature film about Patty Hearst. She calls the tall tales "a deliberate glut of rumormongering"... NORMAN LEAR's half-hour comedy soap opera series "Mary Hartman, Mary Hartman" was turned down by all three networks. Not one to quit, Lear is now pushing the show through syndication... LESLIE NIELSEN has been set to host and narrate the winter and summer Olympics for the Canadian Television Network... MARIE and JIMMY OSMOND are breaking into the acting profession, but their faces won't even be seen. Their voices, along with those of BURL IVES and PAUL LYNDE, will be heard in the animated feature "Hugo The Hippo".

He protests program time change

By RICK ROBERTS
Copley News Service

HOLLYWOOD — The TV Mailbag:

Q. Why do television stations insist on changing the days and times of shows? Every year, it's the same thing. You just get used to one time and then it's changed. Where can I write in protest?

— K.P.M., Camden, N.J.
A. This question, asked nearly as often as why a favorite series is canceled, is one of the most difficult to get a straight answer for.

Network programmers often take a strong show, such as "All in the Family," and move it into a time period where it will help other shows before and after it. These other shows are usually new productions for which the network is trying to gain an audience.

Also, they may put a popular show from one network against another network's strong show to compete for the audience.

Your best bet is to write to the networks with your complaint, though it is doubtful there will be any change in this policy.

TV MAILBAG

Q. What can you tell me about Bill Hayes' background, such as is he really a singer? Also, is he related to Susan Seashort Hayes, with whom he appears on "Days of Our Lives"? — G.M., Waterford, Mich.

A. Hayes, who plays Doug Williams on the show, is a professional singer, having appeared in Broadway productions and on television. He has a gold record for the song, "The Ballad of Davy Crockett."

He was born in Chicago and is a graduate of De Pauw University. Hayes has also received a master's degree from Northwestern.

Hayes and Susan Seashort were married last year. Both were nominated last year for Emmy awards in the best acting category in a daytime series.

Q. What was the name of the television series Tony Curtis was in a couple of years ago with a British actor? It was about two millionaires in Europe. — J.P., Huntington Park, Calif.

A. The show was called "The Persuaders." Curtis starred in it with Roger Moore.

Q. What happened to Trapper John of "M-A-S-H"? — K.Y., Jefferson City, Mo.

A. Wayne Rogers left the show after he got into a salary dispute with the show's producers.

Chamber Backs Elimination Of 'Blue Laws' On Certain Holidays

The South Shore Chamber of Commerce has voted to support elimination of "Blue Laws" on certain holidays but to oppose elimination of the present Sunday "Blue Laws".

Speaking before the Government Regulations Committee meeting recently in Gardner Auditorium, Ronald F. Frazier manager of public affairs for the chamber, urged elimination of "Blue Laws" on

Martin Luther King Day, Washington's Birthday, Patriot's Day, Columbus Day and Veteran's Day.

Frazier said elimination of holiday "Blue Laws" benefits the state in terms of tax revenues and the merchant in terms of added sales and profit.

Frazier said the chamber's stand on the holiday and Sunday "Blue Laws" resulted from interviews with individual member firms, merchant associations and business councils on the South Shore.

Those interviewed cited the following reasons for retaining Sunday "Blue Laws":

- Lack of any substantial increase in business.

- Increase in overhead costs - including possible double-time pay, added heating and air-conditioning costs - which would all help to drive merchandise prices higher and drive customers to bordering states to buy.

Retailers also expressed opposition to a local option concept, stating a competitor's opening on Sunday would automatically force another merchant's opening, regardless of that merchant's preference.

Frazier said many merchants continually expressed concern that elimination of Sunday "Blue Laws" would destroy the traditional "day of rest" when people have an opportunity to break away from the "hustle bustle" of a work week to spend time with family members.

South Shore retailers polled favor action to help border communities in the state. But all agree the elimination of Sunday Blue Laws state-wide "is not an acceptable answer" to the problem.

Hancock Group Reports Decrease In Share Earnings

The Hancock Group, Inc., Quincy-based parent company of Hancock Bank and Trust, reports a 15 per cent decrease in per share earnings for the first nine months of 1975 compared to the same period a year ago.

According to President William E. Kelley net income dropped to $583,788.00 or $2.08 per share from $684,824.00 or $2.44 for the first three quarters of 1974.

Kelley said that net income for the third quarter of 1975 was $182,809. compared to $251,787. for the same quarter last year. There were no security transactions during the past quarter.

Hancock Bank maintains 15 offices throughout Norfolk County.

Howard Johnson Reports Record Third Quarter

Howard Johnson Company had record sales and earnings for the third quarter of 1975, announces Howard B. Johnson, chairman of the board and president.

Sales and revenues in the third quarter ended Oct. 3, were $126,664,000 compared with $116,545,000 in the similar period of 1974, an increase of nine per cent.

Net income in the third quarter of 1975 totaled $9,739,000, up 11 per cent from $8,771,000 in the comparable period of 1974. Earnings per share were 45 cents in the current quarter versus 40 cents per share in the third quarter of 1974.

Sales and revenues in the first nine months of 1975 increased 13 per cent to $323,596,000 from $286,257,000 in 1974.

Net income for the nine month period totaled $20,265,000, up 47 per cent from $13,740,000 in 1974. Earnings per share increased in 1975 to $.93 from $.63 in the first nine months of last year.

"Our objective for 1975 to restore net earnings to the record level of $22 million set in 1973 will almost certainly be achieved," Johnson said. "As things stand now, we should complete our 50th anniversary year with the best sales and earnings ever in the history of the company."

New Student Leadership

Congress To Meet Thursday

School officials announce the formation of a Quincy Student Leadership Congress [QSLC] to give students a clearer understanding of how decisions are made about their school programs.

School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon will hold his first session with the QSLC from 8 a.m. to noon today [Thursday] at the Parker School, 148 Billings Rd., North Quincy.

About 100 students from the city's three high schools and Quincy Junior College will attend.

"Every effort will be made to include elected student leaders in the decision-making process of the school system," Dr. Creedon said.

"In addition, it is our intent to have the student leaders become knowledgeable about our Student Centered Learning System [SCLS] and carry its message back to their classmates," Dr. Creedon noted.

The QSLC would eventually expand to include all of the elected leaders of student groups in all of the city's 30 schools, Dr. Creedon suggested.

Squantum PTO To View

'Gifts To The Nation'

The Squantum Parent Teacher Organization will hold its first meeting Thursday, Nov. 13, showing "Gifts to the Nation," Quincy's first film dramatizing the city's history.

The meeting will begin at 8 p.m. and all are welcome to attend.

During the meeting, new officers will be introduced. They are: Mary Collins, president; Donald Reinhart, vice president; Barbara Bishop, recording secretary; Sally Erickson, corresponding secretary; and Thomas Gannon, treasurer.

The Squantum PTO will soon launch a membership drive. Plans for the year include a March 20 dance to be held at the North Quincy Knights of Columbus Hall.

Parker School Council

To Meet Thursday Night

The Parker School Parent Teachers Advisory Council will meet tonight [Thursday] at 7:30 in the school Media Center, Billings Rd., North Quincy.

All parents of children in the school are invited to attend this meeting.

Nov. 20-22 Performances

ENC Student Council

To Present Musical Comedy '1776'

The Eastern Nazarene College Student Council will present the musical-comedy "1776" Nov. 20-22 in the E.S. Mann Student Center Auditorium.

The award-winning play deals with the writing of the Declaration of Independence and includes many historical characters such as Benjamin Franklin, John Adams, John Hancock and Thomas Jefferson.

Greg Niblett of Quincy, Student Body president and senior at Eastern Nazarene, will portray John Hancock and Bayse Reedy, an Eastern Nazarene graduate also from Quincy, will play the role of John Adams.

Rhonda Winderl, speech and drama teacher at Weymouth North High School, will direct the play and Lawrence Yerdon, executive director of the Quincy Historical Society, will serve as technical director.

The orchestra for the musical will be directed by Robert Howard of Wollaston, chairman of the College's music department.

The play will be performed at 8 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 20 through Saturday, Nov. 22. A Saturday matinee will be performed at 1 p.m.

Tickets may be obtained by calling the student office at 773-6350, Ext. 366 or 349. Tickets will be available at the door.

DIRECTORS of "1776", the play to be performed by the Eastern Nazarene College Student Council, confer with a cast member on a scene from the musical comedy. From left, Rhonda Winderl, play director; Lawrence Yerdon, technical director; and Greg Niblett, portraying John Hancock in the play.

Runners-up in the competition are Russell L. Norman and Anthony F. Poole.

Cetlin's winning composition consists of a "Bicentennial Minute" and a commentary discussing the relevance of this "minute for today and for America's future." He also scored high on a current events test.

The selection committee included Miss Alicia Johnson, 1977 class president; Paul S. Stanton, sponsor, North Quincy High School Student Council; Carl R. Deyeso, director of Language Arts and Social Studies, Quincy School Department; and Mrs. Mary Collins, secretary, North Quincy High School Newsletter Committee.

Cetlin will now compete with other high school winners to become one of the two state representatives to the national competition. Two winners from each state and the District of Columbia will receive a scholarship of $1,000 and an all expense paid trip to Williamsburg, Virginia from January 16-19, 1976.

Grand prize winner receives a $10,000 scholarship and will have his "Bicentennial Minute" presented on the CBS television network.

Fleischer; Quincy Snap 16-Year Brockton Jinx

THIS IS THE play setting up the touchdown which gave Quincy's football team a prized 7-0 win over Brockton back in 1941, Quincy's first win over Brockton since 1945. Glenn Fleischer, 133-pound Quincy back, is shown returning a punt to Brockton's three, from where he scored to give Quincy a 7-0 win.

By TOM SULLIVAN

It was Sept. 20, 1941, and Munroe MacLean took his Quincy High football squad to Eldon Keith Field in Brockton to face the Shoe City team which hadn't lost to Quincy in 16 years.

The last time Quincy had defeated Brockton was 1925 when the legendary Nate Nichols kicked a field goal to turn the trick.

For three and a half period on this Saturday afternoon 34 years ago the rivals' defenses had staged a great battle and late in the game it was still scoreless.

Then, Glenn [Shorty] Fleischer, a 133-pounder, returned a Brockton punt 31-yards to the Brockton three and on the next play scored. Craig Capaccioli added the point.

Quincy held Brockton and, when it regained possession, Fleischer ran out the clock and Quincy had a cherished 7-0 victory.

Quincy outplayed Brockton for most of the game with a backfield of current Quincy coach Hank Conroy at quarterback, Capaccioli, Fleischer and Al Monaco halfbacks and Dick Maloney and Al Paolucci fullback.

But a bulk of the credit had to go to the Quincy line which throttled the vaunted Brockton offense. Brockton had only one first down, 63 yards rushing and failed to complete a pass.

In that line were Leo Papile, now an MDC police detective, and John Mattson, ends; Art Craig, Jim Mollica and Dick Holbrook, tackles; Sam McHoul, Walter Pece, Armado Salvucci and Al Oliverio, guards, and Jim Papile, center.

In the final game that year Fleischer had a big day in a 34-0 breeze over North Quincy. He scored two touchdowns, gained 146 yards rushing and added 149 yards on punt returns, including one for a touchdown.

Conroy, quarterback and punter on the 1941 squad, moved to halfback in 1942 and was one of the heroes as Quincy ended a 30-game unbeaten streak by Harry Arlanson's Weymouth team.

Fleischer, incidentally, married a Quincy cheerleader, Frances Burns, and they now live in Florida.

Presidents Ready For Strong Brockton

Quincy's football team finally put it all together last Saturday and Coach Hank Conroy's Presidents will have to do it again Saturday when they host strong Brockton in a 1:30 p.m. Suburban League game at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

Quincy, hampered by a sputtering offense, had staggered to a 2-3 record but last week it combined a strong defense with its best attack to roll over Weymouth North, 28-0, in a league game at Weymouth.

Although Brockton, usually a league powerhouse, has been defeated three times this year (a 4-3 record), it has another explosive team which can prove a spoiler in league play.

The Boxers walloped Natick, 35-0, in its opener; romped over Durfee, 40-0; was bombed by Vestal, N.Y., 37-8; was shocked by Newton North, 19-0; lost to Brookline, 12-6; edged Weymouth North, 6-0, and last week breezed over Leominster, 34-14.

"They are strong again with an explosive offense and a strong defensive team," Conroy said. "They beat us pretty well last year and I know we are going to be in for a tough afternoon."

Conroy singled out quarterback Mark Buchanan as the difference last week.

"We've been trying to get Mark to run from his quarterback spot but it wasn't until this game he got his confidence and did a great job. He gained 120 yards rushing and this enabled us to open up our passing attack a little bit. And the defense was outstanding as Weymouth never got beyond our 40. Bob Murray, who kicked all four extra points, got off some booming kickoffs which kept Weymouth in poor field position."

Others hailed for their work on offense were Paul Vespaziani, who returned to fullback; Paul Ramponi and Tony Cedrone in the backfield and end Kevin Donovan, who is developing into a stellar pass receiver.

"The offensive line was also outstanding," Conroy continued. "We inverted our tackles, moving them inside and moving our guards outside and it paid off as Bob Nolan, Steve Silva, Bob Varrasso and Steve Coleman, coming back off an injury, did their jobs well."

Defensive coach John Skladany couldn't say enough about the defense.

"The whole defensive unit was just great," he enthused. "Mike Carloni, Bill Pospie, Paul Ferris, John Riggs, Larry Calley, Sal Coscia, Rich Hockings, Frank McNeil and the secondary of Pat Gibbons, Frank Guest and Tony DiRocco were especially outstanding."

Quincy took an early lead as Buchanan ran 15 yards for a first period touchdown and Murray converted.

In the second period Buchanan threw long to Donovan for the second score, the play covering 50 yards, and again Murray kicked the point.

The Presidents made it 21-0 in the third period when Vespaziani scored from the one and Murray converted. In the final period Cedrone plunged across from the one and Murray completed his 4 for 4 day in conversions.

Quincy had a net gain of 212 yards rushing, added 80 through the air on four for 10 and clicked off 18 first downs. Weymouth had only 21 yards rushing, nine yards on one pass completion and five first downs.

North 9, Brookline 6

Raiders In Another 'Must' At Waltham

By TOM SULLIVAN

Throughout North Quincy's 43-year football history, one thing noticeably lacking in its attack was a field goal kicker.

This weakness has been remedied this year and last Saturday it paid off with the undefeated Raiders' biggest win of the year.

In the Division One "Game of the Week," a battle of the unbeaten, North and Brookline went into a tie-breaker after ending 6-6 after the regulation four periods.

After Brookline had failed in its attempt to score from North's 10, junior Ed McElaney, on fourth down, kicked a 20-yard field goal to give North a 9-6 win as the large North crowd went crazy.

McElaney, who earlier had a 29-yarder nullified because of penalty for taking too much time, and just missed a 40-yarder on the final play in regulation time, had kicked a field goal earlier in the season and, until he missed converting after North's touchdown last week, had 11 for 11 in extra points.

The soccer-style kicker will be a key North weapon the rest of the year and his foot might come in handy again Saturday when North, now 6-0-0 and leading Division One by a comfortable margin, goes to Waltham to meet the once-beaten Hawks, regarded by many as the best team in the Suburban League.

Waltham, beaten only by Brookline, 14-7, in a game in which it had a wide edge in statistics, has beaten Norwood, 20-14; Quincy, 34-6; Arlington, 7-0; Somerville, 28-0, and Lowell, 28-14.

"We just don't have an easy game," Coach Dave Burke, emotionally drained after the Brookline win, said. "Brookline was the third undefeated team in a row we defeated and Waltham is every bit as strong as any of them. And, following Waltham, we have Brockton, always a powerhouse.

"My big job this week will be to keep the players up and try to prevent a letdown after such a great win. This was one of the most exciting games I ever was connected with. We knew they were one of the top defensive teams on our schedule but our defense was just as strong. It was a terrific game to win and a tough one for them to lose."

When McElaney tried for his 40-yard field goal on the last play of the fourth period, he was barefooted, much to the surprise of many.

"I can't explain why, but I get more distance when barefooted," he said. "When I kick one 20 yards or shorter, I keep my shoe on but take it off for the longer ones. Kicking this one today has to be one of my biggest thrills."

McElaney played soccer in his three years of junior high school but changed over to football last year when he played for the undefeated sophomore team. He uses the soccer-style kick which is so popular these days.

"You have to call this truly a 'team win,'" Burke said. "Their big defensive line is the best we've faced, and they gave our offensive line a busy day. You just have to give the entire offensive unit credit."

North had to operate without ace Brian Doherty from midway in the third period, but Mike Adams had his best day.

Before he suffered a hip injury, Doherty gained 53 yards, giving him 608 yards in six games. The coaches naturally hope he will be ready Saturday, as he will be needed against Waltham. Adams gained 56 yards and scored the only touchdown on a 20-yard run.

"Mike Holleran called a fine game and Adams did a tremendous job," offensive coach Tom Fitzgerald said.

"Matty Constantino played another solid game, doing some great blocking."

Although all the coaches agreed it was a team win, defensive coaches Ken McPhee and Dick Meyers singled out cornermen Dick Kennedy and John Collins, linebackers Frank Strazzula and John Desmond, tackles John Ryan and Alf McHugh, middle guard Steve Bell, halfbacks Paul McGuigan and McElaney and safety Jack Hatfield, all of whom were outstanding.

The defense came into its own in the second half. Brookline gained 66 yards in the first half but only 31 in the second half when it had only one first down. Brookline failed to hit on any of its five passes.

All of the North special teams also came in for high praise from the coaches.

North Quincy drove 93 yards in 15 plays for its touchdown which came on the third play of the second period. A 22-yard pass from Doherty on a halfback option play to Cooper Jordan and another 10-yarder from Holleran to Jordan sparked the drive. Adams went 20 yards around right end for the touchdown. With the wind a factor, McElaney missed his first conversion kick of the year.

Brookline came right back and marched 61 yards in 10 plays to tie it, big Bill Ceria scoring from the two. A bad pass from center foiled the kick attempt.

Late in the third period McElaney hit on his 29-yard field goal kick but a penalty nullified it.

McGuigan fell on a fumbled McElaney punt on Brookline's 40 late in the game but Brookline held. With time running out, North got another chance as Brookline was forced to punt. With 35 seconds left Holleran passed to Constantino for 27 yards to Brookline's 33 and on the final play of the period the barefooted McElaney's kick fell just short, setting up the tie-breaker.

North won the toss, but, with its defense hot, decided to let Brookline have the first chance. Under the rules, each team is given four downs to score from the other team's 10. If neither scores, the game ends in a tie. On Brookline's second play, Ryan hit the ball carrier hard and he fumbled, Hatfield recovering for the Raiders.

Three running plays gained four and then McElaney kicked his game-winning field goal.

North had a net of 166 yards rushing to 95 for Brookline. The Raiders added 68 yards passing on four for 10, while Brookline was blanked. North also had 13 first downs to six for Brookline.

North Sets Win Record, Quincy Bows To Brockton

North Quincy's cross-country team finished its most successful season ever Tuesday when it met its Quincy rivals, and most of the interest centered around North's sensational Bart Petracca and Quincy's outstanding sophomore, John Saville.

Going into Tuesday's finale Lou Tozzi's Raiders had set a new record for the school with 11 wins in a row after losing their season's opener to Brockton, which has been unbeaten for three years.

Last week North, without Petracca, blanked Cambridge Latin, 15-46. The Raiders' Ken O'Brien was the winner, followed by Marty Levenson, Bob Levenson, Mike Morin and Jim Gavigan, finishing hand in hand in second place. Jerry Keyes was eighth, Peter Maloney ninth and Dave Abbott 10th.

Earlier in the week North had defeated Boston Latin, Boston English and Boston Tech. The team is 7-1 in the Suburban League, right behind Brockton [8-0].

Although defeated by Brockton last week, Joe Catalano's Quincy harriers turned in one of their better efforts, losing by only a 25-30 score.

Quincy, 5-4 on the season and 4-4 in the league, had suffered its other three losses by one point, one point and two points.

Saville provided the big news of the meet as he not only won but set a new Brockton course record by 18 seconds. The Presidents' Bob Thorne was second and also broke the course record. Kevin O'Brien was ninth.

Last Saturday both teams entered the state coaches meet over the Franklin Park course but Petracca and Morin of North had to miss the meet due to college entrance exams. The Raiders' Marty Levenson was 16th, Gavigan 18th and Bob Levenson 20th in the junior-senior class, all winning medals.

Quincy's Saville was fourth in the sophomore division and Thorne finished eighth in the junior-senior division.

Raiderettes Win, First Ladies Lose

The North Quincy girls' cross country team last week defeated Cambridge Latin, 24-32, to give it a 3-4 Suburban League record.

Debbie Coutts finished second, Maureen Tracey fourth, Mary Horrigan fifth, Judy Malloy sixth, Michele Seltzer seventh and Debbie Farran tenth.

The Quincy girls lost to undefeated Brockton, 21-34, to drop their record to 4-3. The First Ladies had won four straight meets.

Quincy's Tina Francario was the winner, while Ellen Caramanica was fourth, Paula Constat fifth, Dottie Irvine sixth and Laura Noenickx ninth.

Tuesday the Quincy and North girls finished their regular season with their annual meet.

'Homecoming Queen' To Be Crowned At Abp. Williams Game

Four Quincy girls number among the six Archbishop Williams High School seniors competing for the Homecoming queen title this weekend.

Mary Kay Albanese, Maureen Ross and Kathy Shea, all of Quincy, Linda Dunphy of North Quincy and Jody Hewett and Laura Najjar, both of Braintree will be presented Saturday at the Homecoming Dance in the school gymnasium.

The girls will be judged according to poise, carriage, scholastic achievement, extra-curricular activities and all-around participation in school life.

The queen will be crowned Sunday when the Archbishop Williams football team meets St. John's Prep. A parade will leave the school at 1 p.m., heading for the school's football stadium.

The homecoming queen will be crowned during half-time activities. A local drum and bugle corps will also perform.

Broad Meadows Girls Sweep A-N, Sterling

Last year the Broad Meadows Junior High Girls' junior varsity won the city championship and the team is again rolling along unbeaten after topping Central, 21-8, and Atlantic-North, 26-10, last week. The jayvees are 6-0.

Against Central Co-Capt. Laura Riley had 11 points and Linda Brennan six. The defense was outstanding.

Against Atlantic-North Co-Capt. Susan Callahan scored eight points, Donna DePietro four and Joanne Paetti two. Brennan excelled on defense.

Corinne Mitchell's BM varsity defeated Atlantic-North, 16-10, but suffered its second defeat, bowing to Central, 20-10. Both losses have been to Central.

In the Atlantic-North game Nancy Campbell had 13 points. Lorraine Denver and Peggy Rugg had clutch points and Carol Caramanica was the defensive spark.

The defense of Lynne Powers, Linda Deady and Campbell kept Central to a two-point lead in the first half. Nancy Smith's 10 points led Central's defending league champions.

● YMCA Basketball

Hot Shots Meet Roxbury For Title

The Palmer Hot Shots of Quincy will meet the Roxbury Crusaders Saturday at 7 p.m. at Quincy YMCA for the championship of the YMCA Businessmen's Basketball League.

The Hotshots, unbeaten regular season champs with an 11-0 record, entered the playoff finals with a 71-58 win over C+C Nets last Saturday.

The Nets had a 32-27 lead at half time but the third period told the story as the Hot Shots outscored the Nets, 24-10. While Key Boyd, former NBA player, did the bulk of the scoring, Ron Bradley and Gene DeLoatch sparked on defense and Hector Blondet and Jack Osgood dominated the boards.

Kevin Gibson did a brilliant job for the Nets in the first half, scoring 13 points and holding Boyd scoreless. Al Wolfe had 10 points for the Nets.

For the Hot Shots Boyd's 18 points were high, Bradley had 16, Blondet 12 and Rich Sprague 10.

The Crusaders qualified for the finals with a low-scoring 46-40 win over the Roxbury Counts.

Red Barons Defeat Quincy In Girls Hockey

The Red Barons posted their first victory in the Quincy Girls Hockey League by nipping Team Quincy, 2-1, and Squantum Mobile and Tiffany fought to a scoreless tie as the goalies had their night at the Youth Arena.

Joan Lewis put Team Quincy ahead in the first period but Sherry Craig tied it in the final minutes of the period. Kristin O'Gara scored the game winner unassisted in the second period. Nancy MacDonald had an assist on Craig's goal.

In the previous set of games Tiffany had defeated Red Barons, 3-0, and Team Quincy and Squantum Mobile played to a 1-1 tie.

Joan Lally and Craig each had a goal and an assist for Tiffany, Susan Dacey had the other goal and Nancy Ball had an assist.

Janet Colclough scored for Squantum with Sheila Connolly assisting, while Karen Cullen had the Team Quincy goal and Laure Barba had an assist.

Midget A's Continue Hot Streak

The Midget A team continues to be red hot and in its latest outing the team, coached by Dick Reinhardt, Dennis Bertoni and Bill Monahan, crushing Randolph, 13-0, at Charles River to remain undefeated in the South Shore Conference.

Brian Bertoni had the hat trick, Mark Paolucci, Tom Cahill, Jack Campbell and Jim Shea had two goals each and Matt Schaefer and John Norton one apiece. Don Perdios had three assists, Cahill had three, Schaefer two, Norton two, Bertoni two and Shea, John Fitzgerald, Jim Fitzpatrick, Campbell and Dave Peters one apiece. Goalies Ron Bereszniewicz and Jeff Nord combined for the shutout. The Midgets bombarded Randolph's helpless goalie with 3 shots.

The Midget A's also romped over Canton, 8-1, with Bertoni having the hat trick, Cahill two goals and Fitzpatrick, Shea and Campbell one each. Bertoni, Cahill and Schaefer had two assists apiece and Campbell and Perdios one each. Bereszniewicz and Nord again shared the duties in goal.

Bertoni had 10 points and Cahill nine in the two games.

Saturday Deadline To Enter

YMCA Church Basketball League

South Shore churches wishing to enter teams in the South Shore YMCA Church School Basketball League (boys and girls divisions) for the 1975-76 season, must submit entry blanks to the Quincy YMCA on or before Saturday. Late entries will not be accepted.

Entry blanks can be obtained from the main desk of the Y. The $10 team fee and the $5 player registration fees, must accompany the entry blanks.

Birth certificates must also be turned in for players whose birth dates are not on record with the league advisory boards. The league playing season will start on Saturday, Dec. 6.

The Senior Girls division, however, won't open its season until Jan. 3 and entries for this league are not due before Dec. 6.

Any questions concerning the league should be directed to Director Bill Johnson or YMCA Coordinator Seymour Sutcliffe.

FIRST ONE IN

You should learn to vary your serve

By ED COLLINS
Copley News Service

Most everyone agrees the strategic objective of the serve is to make the opponent play a backhand. This often becomes such a superficial goal that many players forget to try anything else.

Clever players, however, derive great joy from sending an occasional, sneaky "slice" serve wide to the forehand. This often catches the receiver off balance, setting up a weak return.

To learn the "slice" serve you must first make sure you are using the proper service grip. Your palm should rest on the top right bevel of the handle, halfway between the forehand and backhand grips.

As you first learn the slice serve, it may be easier if you toss the ball farther to your right than usual. On your first few attempts toss the ball a foot or more to the right. Contact the side of the ball, imparting sidespin. This is easier if you visualize the ball as a clock. Hit the ball at 2:35.

Properly executed, the ball should hook to your left, bouncing away from your opponent. Practice until you can control its direction.

You'll discover the slice serve is most effective on the deuce court. Its wide bounce sends your opponent reaching off the court. If all goes right, you'll have an open court and a chance for a winner.

Sometimes the slice serve is suicidal. If you don't hit it correctly, you give your opponent an easy shot to his strength. It's like throwing a curve ball that doesn't break. This is bound to happen occasionally. Don't fret. Not every shot can be a winner. Even though you may lose a few points this way, the fact that you are a threat going to your opponent's forehand will make your serve to the backhand more effective.

You'll see. ...

North In Tourney, Quincy Disappointed

The North Quincy soccer team, finishing second in the Suburban League for the second year in a row, is making its second appearance in the state tournament this week and two of its players in particular carry impressive credentials.

Lou Ioanilli's Raiders finished one point behind Brockton in the League, Brockton having 30 points with a 13-1-4 record and North with 29 points (14-3-1). A year ago the Raiders were 14-2-2.

Ioanilli expected his team to open tournament play yesterday (Wednesday) but at this writing the site and opponent were unknown.

North's Peter Donovan finished with 17 goals and was among the league's top scorers, while goalie Tony Alessi had eight shutouts, among the tops in the league.

North blanked Quincy, 3-0, last Friday in the season's finale as Donovan scored twice and Ed Coutts once, while Alessi was making 10 saves.

Ron Martin's Quincy booters finished with a disappointing

5-9-3 record.

In its previous game North had qualified for the tourney by tying Rindge Tech, 1-1, on Kevin O'Neil's goal, but in its previous game it lost to Newton, 2-0, thus killing its hopes for its first league championship.

In earlier games North had edged Waltham, 2-1; romped over Weymouth South, 5-0; topped Weymouth North, 2-0, and nipped Brookline, 1-0.

North's junior varsity team, coached by Dick O'Brien, also had a banner season, finishing up with a 13-3-2 record.

This Is How New Tie-Breaker Rule Works

Football fans have been asking for an explanation of the tie-breaker rule which last week enabled North Quincy to defeat unbeaten Brookline for its biggest win of the season.

Under the rule, each coach must agree before the game to playing the tie-breaker. They must submit their desire in writing to the referee.

Each team is given four downs to score from the other team's 10-yard line. If neither scores, the game ends in a tie.

Usually the team winning the toss will choose to take the ball first. However, with an outstanding field goal kicker in Ed McElaney, North gave Brookline the first chance. Brookline failed to do anything and North won on McElaney's field goal. North coaches explained that they felt their defense was at its peak and if North did score first on a field goal, Brookline would have the chance to come back and win with a touchdown.

Incidentally, no announcement had been made before the game that the tie-breaker would be used and many fans left Veterans Memorial Stadium after the regulation four periods thinking the game had ended 6-6 and missed the exciting finish.

Bantam A's Win, 6-2 Drop 1st

The Bantam A team defeated Weymouth, 6-2, but suffered its first loss of the season, 8-1, to Worcester.

In the Weymouth game Bobby Hayes had the hat trick and Johnny Mullin, Eddie Kane and Kevin McGrath had a goal apiece. Mark Messina had two assists and Hayes, Kane, Scott Richardson, Billy Deitsch, Bryan McGilvray, Mike Furey and Leo

Doyle one each.

Bobby Molloy had the only goal against Worcester and Hayes assisted.

The A's had previously defeated the B team, 6-2, and had nipped Waltham, 2-1.

Raiders Present Game Ball To Frazier

The North Quincy football players presented the game ball to former coach Ralph Frazier last Saturday following their great 9-6 overtime win over Brookline.

"This was a fine gesture on the boys' part and I certainly appreciate it," said Frazier.

Addressing the players, Ralph added, "Just keep following the coach's (Dave Burke) instructions and you can go all the way this year."

This Is THE YEAR For North

This is the most successful fall sports season in North Quincy's history.

The football team is 6-0-0 and leading Division One in Eastern Mass.

The soccer team finished 14-3-1 and second in the Suburban League by just one point and is in the state tournament for the second year in a row.

The cross country team is 11-1, a new record for the school, and has won 11 in a row after an opening day loss to Brockton, which has been unbeaten for three years.

Troop 194 Girl Scouts Quincy Sun Tour

Girl Scouts of Troop 194, Houghs Neck, visited The Quincy Sun recently to view first hand the workings of a newspaper.

The 25 youngsters, students at Atherton Hough and Great Hill Schools, were:

Stephanie Petz, Holly Morris, Kathy Colligan, Tracy Aguiar, Dawn Higgins, Jennifer McCauley, Karla Robertson, Linda Burgess, Barbara Vejovds, Sandra McInnis, Joanne Crombie, Bridget Morrell, Cheryl

Chapman, Michelle Abboud, Michele Beven, Maria Burke, Janice McMillen, Cindy Morrell, Peggy Selby, Maureen Bythrow, Margaret Cullen, Rosemary Cullen, Kathy Stapleton, Susan Beven and Susan Moody.

Mrs. Pat Morrell, troop leader, Mrs. A. Beven, Mrs. Francis X. McCauley, and Mrs. Nancy Chapman accompanied the girls on the tour.

The girls first visited the editorial and advertising departments on the street-floor of the office. They then toured the lower level of the office where they saw news headlines being set by a Compugraphic 7200 photo typesetting machine.

They also saw a newsstory being set on an IBM computer system. The girls saw newsstories pasted-up in the production department, where paste-up artists fixed the stories into proper position on paste-up boards.

Before leaving the office, each scout received a complimentary copy of The Quincy Sun.

Bicentennial Drawing At Heritage Visitors Center

A Bicentennial drawing will be held at the Quincy Heritage Visitors' Center during the week of Nov. 10-15.

"We want people to take a few minutes and see the city's official visitors' center," said John R. Graham, Quincy Heritage executive director. "Thousands of people have come to our location in the Quincy Center MBTA Station."

The drawing is open to everyone. "There's no need to make a purchase. Just drop in and fill out a card."

Featured in the drawing will be a numbered "City of Presidents" Wedgwood plate, an electric clock bearing the seal of the city of Quincy, a sterling silver John Quincy Adams signet ring, an Adams cocktail decanter set, and a set of four coffee mugs with the city seal.

Registration for the drawing is from Nov. 10 to Nov. 15. "The winners do not need to be present at the time of the drawing," said Graham.

Volunteers Staff Senior Telephone Service

Speedy Senior Service, an information and referral service for older people, has trained senior volunteers who are ready to take calls from older people with questions or problems.

The volunteers, under the direction of Loretta Ardini and Trixie Phelan, Service coordinators, have been trained to assess the needs of the caller and help him find the proper solution. They have access to an extensive resource file containing information in areas such as SSI [Supplemental security income], Social Security, Housing, Transportation, Health services and Recreation opportunities.

Volunteers will be answering phones Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Anyone with a question is encouraged to call the Service at 471-3601. Seniors are welcome to visit the Speedy Senior Service offices at 1354 Hancock St., Room 306 in Quincy Square. The service is sponsored by the South Shore RSVP in conjunction with the Quincy Council on Aging.

Hedges Keynote Speaker

Several Thousand To March In Veterans Day Parade Nov. 11

U.S. Air Force Rt. Brigadier General Charles W. Hedges, former Norfolk County sheriff, will be the keynote speaker during Veterans' Day ceremonies to be held next Tuesday on the grounds of Adams Academy.

Several thousand marchers are expected to step out from the Charles Ross Parkway to participate in the annual Veterans' Day Parade honoring Quincy veterans of all wars.

Sponsored by the Quincy Veterans Council, the parade will begin at 10:30 a.m., proceeding down School and Hancock Sts. to Adams Academy.

Council Commander Thomas F. Hurlebaus will be chief marshal and Joseph McDonough, senior vice-commander and Kenneth Taft, junior vice-commander, will serve as his aides.

Also heading the parade roster will be aides de camp Walter Johnson, finance officer; William Ash, chaplain; Roger Whitcomb, public relations officer; James Lynch, historian; and Lawrence Carnali, graves officer.

The lead detachment of the three-division parade will also include Adjutant Arthur G. McLean, Hedges, Mayor Walter J. Hannon, Parade Chairman John Gillis and staff, national, state and city officials and the 215th Army Band, M.N.G.

Rev. Frank Bauer, pastor of the Wollaston Lutheran Church, will deliver the invocation with Rev. John McMahon, pastor of St. Mary's church, leading the Veterans Day prayer. Rabbi Jacob Mann of the Congregation Beth Israel will offer benediction.

Following wreath-laying ceremonies, taps and the national anthem will be played by the 215th Army Band, M.N.G.

The volley will be fired by the William R. Caddy Detachment of the Marine Corps League.

Both Mayor Hannon and City Clerk John Gillis will address the gathering.

Also marching in the parade will be the North Quincy High School Band, the Quincy High School Band, World War I veterans, Gold Star Mothers, Randolph Amvet Lancers, Randolph Amvet Brigadiers, the Renegade Junior and Senior Drum and Bugle Corps, the Sir Thomas More Squires Drum and Bugle Corps.

Veterans organizations marching in the parade will include George F. Bryan VFW Post and Auxiliary, Robert I. Nickerson Legion Post and Auxiliary, Quincy Legion Post and Auxiliary, Cyril P. Morrisette Legion Post and Auxiliary, Wollaston Legion Post and Auxiliary, Houghs Neck Legion Post and Auxiliary, Quincy Cavanagh Chapter 79 of the Disabled American Veterans, Quincy Memorial Post 7 Amvets, World War I Barracks 458 of Quincy, William R. Caddy Detachment of the Marine Corps League and Jewish War Veterans, Quincy Post 193.

Assisting Chairman Gillis in the planning of the parade are Allen Kofman, co-chairman, Lawrence Butler, Thomas McDonald and Paul O'Neill, all past Council commanders.

Past Commander Thomas McDonald will be officer of the day, Thomas Hanrahan, sergeant-at-arms, and Ralph Paull, assistant sergeant-at-arms.

Irving Isaacson, judge advocate of the Council, and Richard Koch of Quincy Post 7, Amvets, will serve as aides to invited guests.

The following parade staff members will also be marching in the parade: Frederick Dwelley, commander of Quincy Post 95; Hugo Saluti, commander of Morrisette Legion Post; Merwin Seymour, commander of the Wollaston Post; William Morrill, commander of the Houghs Neck Post; Earl C. Montgomery, commander of the Nickerson Post; Albert Blake, commander of the George F. Bryan VFW Post; John J. Bryan, commander of the Quincy Barracks 458; Bernard Pokat, commander of Quincy Post 193 of Jewish War Veterans; Thomas Pennor, commander of the William R. Caddy Detachment of the Marine Corps League; Kenneth B. Taft, commander of Chapter 79 of Disabled American Veterans; Roger Whitcomb, commander of Quincy Memorial Post 7, Amvets; and Thomas F. Hurlebaus, commander of the Quincy Veterans Council.

'City of Patriots' Commemorative Plates Available

"The City of Patriots" commemorative plates have arrived from England at the Quincy Heritage Visitors' Center in the Quincy Center MBTA Station.

Each of the plates is individually numbered and have been created in the world famous Wedgwood pink color.

Designed by the Wedgwood artists in London, the plates depict John Hancock and his wife, Dorothy Quincy. In addition, four famous historic sites are featured in the center of the plates including the Dorothy Quincy House, Quincy City Hall, the Adams Academy and the Thomas Crane Public Library.

The "City of Patriots" plate is the companion to the "City of Presidents" plate which was also created by Wedgwood craftsmen for Quincy Heritage. The "Presidents" plate is the well-known Wedgwood blue with drawings of Presidents John Adams and John Quincy Adams Adams Mansion and the Josiah Quincy home.

The price of plates 1 through 100 is $25 while those numbered 101 to 1200 are $17.75 each. Each plate is boxed ready for mailing.

5 Democrats Seek Nomination

Special Primary Nov. 18 For State Representative

Nearly 14,000 Quincy voters will be eligible to cast a ballot in the Nov. 18 state primary to fill the vacant Fourth Norfolk District representative's seat.

City Clerk John Gillis sees "a less than 30 percent voter turnout."

Facing off in the election will be Democrats Thomas Dougherty of 87 Shawmut St., West Quincy; Atty. Joseph F. Killion of 137 Grandview Ave., Wollaston; Herbert Repucci of 62 Shirley St., West Quincy; James A. Sheets of 926 Furnace Brook Parkway; and John M. Tehan of 43 Town Hill St., West Quincy.

No Republicans filed nomination papers for the race but a blank ballot will be available for write-in and sticker candidates.

In addition, a blank American party ballot will be printed, allowing Hose Higuera of 64

Town Hill St., West Quincy - whose name cannot legally appear on a primary ballot - to conduct a sticker campaign instead.

The representative's seat was vacated by the appointment of William D. Delahunt as Norfolk County District Attorney.

One of the five Democratic candidates will then face the three Independent candidates or any sticker candidates in the Dec. 16 state final.

The Independent candidates are Santa C. Fareri of 7 Welgate Circle; Marilyn Hanabury of 2 Old Colony Ave.; and Ward 3 Councilor John J. Lydon of 468 Beale St., Wollaston.

Higuera, a former Democrat who changed his political affiliation to the American Party Oct. 30, cannot, under law, run for a political office as an American Party candidate until

Await LaRaia Filing

Mayoral Recount Not Before Nov. 22

By MARY ANN DUGGAN

The mayoral election recount apparently will be delayed until at least Nov. 22 according to City Clerk John Gillis.

Gillis said Joseph LaRaia, who lost by a narrow 134-vote margin, had not filed as of Tuesday, making it virtually impossible to set up the recount process for this Saturday as originally hoped for.

"Mr. LaRaia has not yet filed his papers and I cannot notify the election workers and set the recount date until he does," Gillis said.

"The earliest we could have the recount would be Nov. 22. But it may be even after that because of the Nov. 18 special primary election for state representative in the Fourth Norfolk District."

LaRaia, whose workers are collecting 10 signatures in each of the 39 precincts instead of only the required 10 in each of the six wards to cover themselves, said he will file by Friday's deadline.

Mayor Walter J. Hannon meanwhile said he also plans to file for a recount to ensure the tabulation takes place city-wide and to counter the possibility LaRaia could request a recount in only those precincts where he feels he could have an advantage.

Walter J. Hickey, who trailed incumbent Dennis Harrington in the Ward 6 city councillor race by a 133 vote margin, filed for a recount Friday. Gillis said a separate recount will have to take place in Hickey's case, costing the city another $2,000 on top of the $2,000 for the mayoral recount.

A third recount is also possible in the at-large race in which Harold Davis placed

Financial Statements Filed

Hannon Spent $38,985, LaRaia $28,392 In Race

At election's end, Mayor Walter J. Hannon not only raised more contributions than any other candidate, he also spent more than any other.

Candidate reports listing campaign contributions for the Nov. 4 final election, combined with similar reports for the Sept. 23 preliminary, show Hannon raised a total of $35,077 in contributions and accrued $38,985 in expenditures.

Reports filed by mayoralty contender Joseph LaRaia show the city councillor raised a total of $30,173.95 during his bid for office and accrued $28,392.95 in expenses.

Campaign financial statements disclosed before the Sept. 23 preliminary election indicated LaRaia had raised the greatest amount of contributions [$25,243.95], while Hannon had spent the most [$26,490.18].

Total contributions and expenditures for the other candidates in the Nov. 4 are as follows:

Arthur H. Tobin, councillor at-large: $2,150 raised, $1,414.04 spent.

Atty. Paul D. Harold, councillor at-large: $7,315.14 raised, $5,212.43 spent.

John J. Quinn, councillor at-large: $1,920 raised, $1,448.31 spent.

Harold Davis, councillor at-large: $9,687.58 raised, $7,043.81 spent.

Sabina Stenberg, councillor at-large: Final campaign statement is being corrected. Figures as of the preliminary showed $165 raised and $1,781.27 spent.

Leo J. Kelly, Ward 1: $375 raised, $478.18 spent.

Edward W. Meade, Ward 1: $1,382 raised, $1,305.30 spent.

Daniel G. Raymondi, Ward 2: $3,948 raised, $2,535.94 spent.

Robert H. Martinson, Ward 2: $454 raised, $309.97 spent.

John J. Lydon Jr., Ward 3: $275 raised, $275 spent.

Emery C. Fontaine Jr., Ward 3: $258 raised, $284 spent.

James A. Sheets, Ward 4: $900.50 raised, $818.62 spent.

Warren A. Powers, Ward 5: $430 raised, $180 spent.

43 Local Students In 'Who's Who'

Forty-three students from Quincy have been selected for the ninth annual edition of "Who's Who Among American High School Students".

"Who's Who," published by Educational Communications, Inc., Northbrook, Ill., is the largest high school recognition program in the country. Students are nominated for the volume by high school principals and guidance counselors, national youth groups and churches, or by the publishing company based upon students' performance in scholarship or award contests.

Final selection is determined on the basis of criteria which include high achievement in academics and leadership in school activities, athletics and community service.

Quincy students selected for this year's volume are:

Lawrence A. Gray, Christin A. Raux, Matthew D. Allen, Deborah A. McFetridge, George E. Barbaro, Daniel Blaney, Douglas G. Brown, John J. Costa, James M. Ferris, Philip Girard, Eileen M. Judge, George A. Keches, Edward M. Masley, Joseph F. McConville.

Michael B. McHugh, Maryellen E. Nagle, Paul T. Nigro, William J. Shine, Donna Touma, Nina M. Valante, Diane M. Peters, Denise M. Volea, Elizabeth A. Scheele, Joseph C. Peters, Jeanne M. Stokinger, Gerald Dyer.

Dale A. Bertazzoni, Russell L. Borman, Dana Cetlin, Maryann Dunn, Janet M. Flynn, Russell D. Hodgkins, John J. Kasianowicz, Robert B. MacIntosh, Nancy Mason, Jane E. McGilvray, Ernestine E. Montilio, Gary S. Nankin, Lucy M. Poole, Jon T. Swanson, Nancy M. Turynowicz, Ann M. Wetherby, Jill M. McCleery.

2 Men, 3 Women Appointed To Auxiliary Police Department

Quincy Civil Defense announces the appointment of five new members to the Auxiliary Police Department.

They are:

Francis Brushingham, Mary Lee Fay, Donna Marie Becker, Barbara Lawrence and Jerry Marchetelli, all of Quincy.

After swearing in ceremonies, the new members will complete 20 weeks of Academy training, which includes Traffic Control, Arrest and Basic Police procedures.

They must also complete one year of fire arms handling and training, and must qualify on the firing range before a fire arms permit is issued to them.

According to Civil Defense Director, Thomas R. Lyons, the Auxiliary Police Department is on vandalism patrol three nights a week covering parks, and city schools.

They also work closely with the Quincy Police Department under Lt. William Murphy on the Neighborhood Watch Program.

The members of the auxiliary police are all volunteers and contribute more than 15,000 man hours per year to the City of Quincy.

Animal Protection Group

To Discuss Quincy Dog Pound

Animal Protection and Welfare, Inc. [APAW] will meet Monday, Nov. 17 to discuss alternate proposals to the planned relocation of the Quincy City Dog Pound in the city disposal area.

The meeting will begin at 7 p.m. at the Adams Shore Branch of the Thomas Crane Public Library, Sea St.

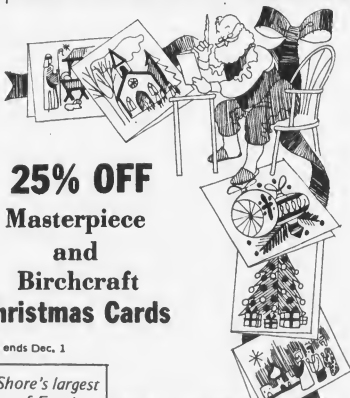

APAW plans to present what it calls "a better suited site" for the dog pound facilities.

Santa Arrives Nov. 29Nearly 50 Bands, Floats In Christmas Festival Parade Nov. 30

Nearly 50 festive floats and marching bands will be featured in the Sunday, Nov. 30 annual Christmas Festival Parade sponsored by the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association, [QCBPA].

The parade, carrying this year the theme "A Christmas Wish", will begin at 1 p.m. on Beale St., Wollaston, winding along Hancock St. towards Quincy Sq. and ending at Franklin and School Sts.

A highlight of the parade will be an appearance of Cowboy Dick Clark, riding his palomino Cimarron. "Leapin' Lena", a favorite in past parades, will also be participating.

The parade will also feature the appearance of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery and the Boston College Band.

The Christmas Festival season will begin two days before the parade with the traditional turning-on of Christmas lights Friday, Nov. 28 in McIntyre Mall. A 6:30 p.m. community sing-along will precede the 7:30 p.m. lighting ceremony.

Santa Claus and Walt Disney characters will greet youngsters, giving out striped candy canes.

Santa Claus will make his official helicopter arrival in Quincy Saturday, Nov. 29, landing on the roof of the parking garage in the Ross Parking area. A Quincy Fire Department ladder truck will then carry Santa throughout the downtown shopping area.

Once again, participants in the float competition will be vying for prize monies donated by various business organizations. One thousand dollars will be awarded to the best overall float chosen from the youth or adult category. The grand-prize winner will also receive the Rev. Thomas Tierney Trophy. A $500 first prize and trophy, a $250 second prize and a $150 third prize will be awarded in both youth and adult categories.

Organizations scheduled to enter the float competition to date include the South Shore Campfire Girls, Supporters of Survival, Inc., St. John's CYO, Milton Rainbow Girls, Koch Club, Southwest Community Center, North Quincy High School Band, South Shore Cerebral Palsy, Head Start, Curtain Call Theatre, North Quincy Knights of Columbus, Quincy Heritage, Meadow Street Float, Animal Protection and Welfare, Quincy Lodge of Elks, Boston Gas, Granite City Hardware, the Quincy Park and Recreation Board, Naval Sea Cadets, Sir Thomas More Drum and Bugle, and St. Joseph's CYO.

Entries in the adult and youth categories must comply with "A Christmas Wish" theme to be eligible for prize money.

A third category - commercial float - will be judged according to a bicentennial theme.

Float Chairman Richard Venna said judging of the entries will be based on adherence to theme, originality, use of materials and color, overall appearance, movement and sound.

Judges will be stationed in the parking lot in Wollaston prior to the parade and at the reviewing stand along the parade route.

High school bands which will be marching in the Christmas Festival parade include those from Walpole, Abington, Norwell, Somerville, Dartmouth, Milton, Norwood, Tewksbury, North Quincy, Quincy, Weymouth South, Weymouth North, Scituate, Holbrook and Westwood.

Other organizations marching in the parade will include Quincy High School Alumni, the 215th Army Band, Sir Thomas More Drum and Bugle, Salvation Army, Taleb Grotto, Silver Lake, Norman Prince and the Weymouth Boy Scouts.

A Santa's mailbox will be placed in front of Sears and Roebuck, Child World, W. T. Grant and McIntyre Mall Monday, Dec. 1.

Bethany Congregational Church is this year's host in the Nativity Pageant to take place Sunday, Dec. 14 from 11:45 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. The Christ Child will be placed in a crib and a community sing-along will be held.

Christmas Festival Awards Night will conclude the season's activities. The mid-January meeting will be held at Peter's Landing on Southern Artery.

In case of inclement weather, the Christmas Festival Parade will be held Sunday, Dec. 7. Notification of any postponement will be made at 8 a.m. the day of the parade over radio station WJDA and other area radio stations.

OUR CHILDREN

Not all kids benefit from piano lessons

By DR. WILLARD ABRAHAM

Q. Our daughter has taken piano lessons for four years (she's now 12), and it's a drag for her and for us. She's really a good kid and never complains about the lessons or practicing, but she doesn't show any enthusiasm either. For example, she never practices without being reminded, and then she puts in only the exact time that is absolutely necessary.

I don't like subjecting her to what is probably drudgery for her, but I don't want to stop suddenly.

What do you suggest?

A. The alternatives are pretty clear — a different teacher, a different musical instrument, lessons of another type (ballet or acrobatics, for example), or forget the whole thing.

Piano lessons and practicing that have no enthusiasm at all connected with them really can be dull stuff, and forcing a child to go through them isn't pleasant for anyone involved.

Some people think that piano study is a worthwhile discipline all for its own sake, but I don't agree unless there's at least some enjoyment connected with it.

So why not give a little thought to the four alternatives suggested above? Any one of them could result in a child who ends up loving music more than one who is forced to stick with it in a dreary night-after-night involvement.

Q. Please, please help me convince my husband that we should never leave our 2-year-old alone even when she is asleep. He ridicules me for worrying when we're visiting neighbors for a few minutes or out to the grocery store.

I think of all the bad things that can happen to a young child alone, and it makes me miserable.

Am I making too much of a thing over this situation?

A. Young children should not be left alone, and I don't have to list for you what can take place while you're gone. You already know.

Let him do the visiting or shopping by himself — or get a baby sitter. Try not to let him bully you into doing what your common sense tells you can be dangerous.

Q. If a 3-year-old can read, do you think that's something to be concerned about? What I mean is, will he face problems in school if they think they have to start him all over again?

By that time he probably will be reading books that children much older can read.

After all, I can't (and don't want to) keep him from doing it!

A. No, and I wouldn't try. In fact, you might even stimulate this activity by reading to him, having fun with his reading TV commercials, and carefully selecting children's books for him that are so plentifully available these days.

Fun rooms can be exciting

By BARBARA HARTUNG
Copley News Service

Q. We are converting our garage into a party room for our three children who are constantly eating, entertaining friends, playing the guitar and drums. We need a practical room with easy-care furnishings that are flexible. Would you please give us some ideas on how to go about creating a room that will be right for the children but which we adults will enjoy using, too? — W.B.

A. Active, fun rooms as you are planning are one of the most exciting rooms in the house. I do, however, sympathize with your needs for practicality and functional design. You might find that built-in seating along one or two walls of the room would work well. You might do simple striped canvas or sailcloth banquettes.

Maybe you and the children would like a serving bar and some bar chairs color coordinated with the striped fabric on the banquettes. Or a large serving cart on wheels might be just as practical. Some plastic cubes for snack tables probably would be practical and attractive.

Also, why not invest in a pair of good-looking folding tables with perhaps natural butcher block plastic laminated tops that would be attractive enough for your dinner parties and practical for the children's activities. Some bean bag chairs made out of vinyl or the striped canvas might please the younger set, too.

For the floor I would imagine an off-white vinyl would be a good choice if you are planning lots of color in this room. Casual laminated window shades, Roman shades in the stripe fabric or woven blinds would be attractive at the windows.

GARAGE CONVERSION — Built-in banquettes line one wall and a portion of the corner of this room which could be borrowed for a garage conversion. Bar with high bar chairs and the folding table give the room instant party qualities, yet are functional for many uses.

Q. We have just inherited my parents' most elegant Chinese rug in blues and golds. We need to recover our Chippendale sofa and two chairs, so we thought this would be a good time to start all over again. I have to buy a new coffee table, and I don't know what kind to choose, so I will not detract from the beautiful symmetry of the rug. What colors would you choose for the sofa and chairs? Besides blues and golds, I have some treasured pieces in rose and green. Should I use solids on the furniture or prints? If a print, what kind? — T.Y.P.

A. My first advice to you is to seek the professional advice of an interior designer who can help you select exactly what you want. You will avoid making costly mistakes and be more assured of having the room you picture in your mind.

Many stores today are offering interior design services or you may hire a designer simply on a fee basis for his or her advice. You can, too, go to an independent designer and have that person select the fabrics for your furniture and draperies and order them through the designer. Do consider one of the three because your rug can be greatly enhanced by the proper setting.

My guess would be that solid fabrics in variations of the blues and golds of your rug on your furniture would detract less from the pattern of the rug which you want to spotlight. Don't use a coffee table on your rug if you think it would spoil the look. Instead buy a nest of tables to use sofa-side and place around for guests when needed.

Your Horoscope Guide

By GINA

For The Week Of Nov. 16 to 22

ARIES: (March 21 to Apr. 19 — Also Aries Ascendant) — Excessive enthusiasm and over-optimism could spoil part of your promise for increased salary. Attend carefully to detail and work routine. Guard children against mishap. In-laws could be troublesome.

TAURUS: (Apr. 20 to May 20 — Also Taurus Ascendant) — Take time out from your busy schedule to meditate on your personal life. You can be somewhat indulgent with children now and give much pleasure. Curb tendency to be suspicious of your loved ones.

GEMINI: (May 21 to June 20 — Also Gemini Ascendant) — A message from an old flame could lift your spirits and lead to a personal discovery about your emotional needs. Don't force issues now — let things work out in their own time. Patiently look to the future.

CANCER: (June 21 to July 22 — Also Cancer Ascendant) — If work is dull and boring, try not to show it. Call on your initiative and aggressiveness to put the spark into routine. New friends bring much pleasure in social life and your evenings are very exciting.

LEO: (July 23 to Aug. 22 — Also Leo Ascendant) — Your business and social life both sparkle now and romance is gratifying. Week end jaunts are favored. Be careful to treat everyone with warmth and affection. Handle competition in career very carefully.

VIRGO: (Aug. 23 to Sept. 22 — Also Virgo Ascendant) — Guard against excessive pride and self-righteousness. Get in touch with your feelings of sympathy and compassion. Guard health so that time lost from work does not threaten your financial security.

LIBRA: (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22 — Also Libra Ascendant) — You can find ways to increase your finances by concentrating on how to fill the needs of others. Be sure you are offering quality and service with dependable performance and you have many "takers."

SCORPIO: (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21 — Also Scorpio Ascendant) — Single Scorpios may select this time to marry. Your partner's conservatism is a good balance to your daring. Listen to other's opinions and stay somewhat in the background. Career comes into perspective.

SAGITTARIUS: (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21 — Also Sagittarius Ascendant) — Make an effort to work cooperatively with others. You are building security for the long term. Give time to community and civic efforts if you can. An old friend from the past could reappear.

CAPRICORN: (Dec. 22 to Jan. 19 — Also Capricorn Ascendant) — Difficult working conditions should ease up a little. Pay attention to health matters, and see a doctor if symptoms arise. Take the time to appear briefly at social functions, and don't worry so much about money.

AQUARIUS: (Jan. 20 to Feb. 18 — Also Aquarius Ascendant) — Your energy is high and you can deal with changing conditions very easily. Problems around the home environment are provoking, but don't let them detract from your work performance. Be good natured.

PISCES: (Feb. 19 to March 20 — Also Pisces Ascendant) — Slow down and get some rest this week. Attend to telephone and mail communications. A choice in career direction should be made on the basis of the environment of the work. Take your time in reaching a decision.

RIGHTS 'N' WRONGS Wife can end verbal abuse

By RIV TOBIN
Copley News Service

Dear Mrs. Tobin:

What do you think of a woman who puts up with unbelievable verbal abuse from her husband? I've never seen him hit her but he sure is cruel with his mouth.

Just Listening

Dear Just:

I think she must get some satisfaction out of his abuse because there are legal ways she can escape.

Dear Mrs. Tobin:

How soon after I've been an over-night houseguest should I write a bread-and-butter letter?

Goodtime Bessie

Dear Bessie:

Your b-and-b should be in the mail within two days of your arrival home. If you are unable to write promptly your hostess should receive an apology along with the reason for your delay.

Dear Mrs. Tobin:

Does an ex-ambassador keep his title?

M.A.F.

Dear M.A.F.:

No, but the honor usually follows him and he is introduced as, "James R. Jones, former ambassador to Happyland."

Dear Mrs. Tobin:

After being a widower for three years I remarried last month. My daughters are 8 and 10. They call my wife Rose and we would like to have them call her Mother. Who should tell them?

Daddy-O

Dear Daddy-O:

No one should tell. The word "Mother" will come naturally when the children feel secure in their new family situation. When you speak of your wife in front of the children, refer to her as Mother, not Rose. Present a loving, caring family unit and the word "Mother" will follow.

Dear Mrs. Tobin:

We were invited for dinner at a neighbor's house. We thanked the host and hostess when we left. I saw her at a PTA meeting the next day and told her again what a good time we had and how delicious her dinner was. Is it necessary to write her a thank-you note?

S. Bonns

Dear S. Bonns:

No. You have said all that is necessary. No need to overdo a good thing.

Dear Mrs. Tobin:

Can blue-eyed parents have a brown-eyed child?

Need to Know

Dear Need:

In one word, yes.

Long upswing endings show need for attention

By DOROTHY
ST. JOHN JACKSON

Dear Dorothy:

I met a man two weeks ago and it was love at first sight. Maybe he will bring me some fulfillment. I feel that I'm reaching for something in my life and I think it is marriage. What do you think from what you see in my handwriting?

G.H.

Dear G.H.:

Right now, it's only the thought of being in love that makes you feel all tingly. It's a warm and friendly handshake ... or an arm around your waist ... that makes you want to melt.

Much unfulfilled need for attention is obvious in the long upswing endings on words. So much have you been deprived in this area of your development that now your longing for affection is intense, seen in the backswing of the same strokes.

You have a personable, generous personality, and try very hard to extend yourself into the lives of others to give and share, seen in the evaluation of your slant with a combination of strokes, but you need and hope for a whole lot more. Too much feedback for what you do is never too much for what you need.

You have to realize that one of your most important personality requirements is missing. Any man would be hard-pressed to understand this nagging need.

It may take some time, but provides the necessary steps to emotional maturity. It is then, only, that you can be adequately prepared for marriage.

Pretty Poison

It may be hard to believe, but there are many plants that grow in a peaceful meadow, along a quiet river, or in your own backyard that can be labeled as poison, just as one labels a bottle of ammonia or a container of furniture polish.

Included in the more than 700 species of plants in the United States and Canada that are known to cause death or illness are some of nature's most delicate creations: the oleander bush, the lily of the valley, and the rhododendron.

Each year an estimated 12,000 children ingest these plants and others like them. A Seattle study revealed that 10 percent of 100 child poisoning cases observed were of youngsters who had eaten toxic plants.

In your garden, for example, even the foliage of potatoes and tomatoes contain alkaloid poisons that can, when swallowed, create nervous disorder and stomach upset.

It is essential that children and adults understand the dangers in ingesting plants which are not cultivated for eating, or only certain parts of which are safe to eat.

30 IS ABOUT THE RIGHT AGE TO THINK ABOUT RETIREMENT.

With inflation the way it is, anyone planning to live out his retirement comfortably on Social Security is only kidding himself.

It takes a long time to prepare for your retirement. Starting at age 30 is certainly none too soon.

South Shore Retirement Accounts.

Recently, an act of Congress made it possible for you to set up your own retirement program if you're not already covered by a plan.

At South Shore this means that you can set aside up to $1500 or 15% of your salary (whichever is less) in a special tax-exempt Retirement Account.

This money is tax free from federal taxation so long as it stays in the account. (That could amount to several hundred dollars a year.)

And since when you draw on your retirement fund you will most likely be in a lower tax bracket, this will result in even further tax savings.

The only caution is that since this fund is intended for retirement, it must be used that way. If you withdraw any money before age 59½ the federal law insists that there be a penalty.

$248,160
when you retire.

Let's say you set up a retirement account at South Shore National at age 30 and at the beginning of each year you deposit $1500 in your retirement account.

At the end of the thirty-fifth year you will have contributed $52,500, taken tax benefits amounting to $13,125 and due to interest earnings, accumulated $248,160 by the time you retire at age 65.

If you contributed $1500 at the beginning of each year for 35 years, here's how your fund will be computed.
Annual contribution	$1,500
Total tax saving per year (25% tax bracket)	$375
Total contributed at age 65	$52,500
Interest earnings at 7.25%	$195,660
YOUR TOTAL RETIREMENT FUND	$248,160

It's amazing how it all adds up.

The convenience of Multistatement.

If you wish, your Retirement Account at South Shore National can be still another part of Multistatement. Multistatement automatically entitles you to such services as free checking, NOW Accounts, automatic transfer of funds and a discount on personal loans. It's a most convenient way to handle your banking.

Sooner or later you are going to retire. Why not do it as comfortably as you possibly can?

Start planning now with a Retirement Account from South Shore National... and live happily ever after.

Will your retirement party be something to celebrate?

The Election: Recount And Blackeye

Any candidate who comes within 134 votes of winning the mayor's office—the most prestigious political post in the city of Quincy—certainly is entitled to a recount.

If he did not ask for one he would not be fair to himself, to those who worked for him and those who voted for him.

But it is unfortunate that charges of irregularities had to be leveled casting suspicion in general on an entire city and specifically on poll workers, the vast majority of whom take pride in their accuracy and include Democrats and Republicans.

The Boston press saw an inference that someone might have "stolen" an election in Quincy and jumped on it.

In the Boston press, a murder, rape or the slightest hint of scandal in the suburbs is a much juicier newstory than when it happens in The Hub or any other big city.

The fact that the close loser, Joseph LaRaia and his advisers decided to post an around-the-clock guard to watch Quincy police as they watched the locked ballot boxes in a locked safe around-the-clock, hung a black cloud of suspicion over the city. It was an indictment of a good, honest police department regardless of how you slice it.

To lose a mayoral race by such a close margin after months of hard work and campaigning would be a gigantic disappointment to any candidate and his followers. And a highly emotional experience.

The LaRaia camp has charged that in several precincts the votes changed from the time they were counted there and announced at City Hall.

That could well be so. But it is nothing unusual. In every election preliminary figures obtained by candidates' campaign workers at the voting places are considered "unofficial" until the number of votes cast and the number credited to each candidate is proven out - and possible mistakes corrected. The vote announced at City Hall is the official vote—not the one campaign workers pick up at the precincts.

Human mistakes can be made counting votes. They have been made in every election. But that doesn't necessarily give foundation for suspicion and charges.

"We have to be very suspicious of the way the election was handled," Mr. LaRaia was quoted as saying shortly after the final official results were known.

Frankly, we would be very surprised—and disappointed in the City of Quincy—if real irregularities occurred deliberately affecting the outcome of the election. Quincy, we think is still a pretty clean community and no one has stolen an election here, yet.

City Clerk John Gillis is an honest man. His staff is honest, and we feel that the poll workers are honest and aren't about to try to steal an election for any candidate, incumbent or challenger. They, like anyone else can make human errors and could have done so in this election. But not steal an election.

The fact is that Mayor Walter Hannon's camp actually thought they were going to win by at least 2,000 votes and the LaRaia forces thought they would win by about the same margin.

So if each thought that, why would either play around with the election results which the word "irregularities" implies?

If Mr. LaRaia has evidence of any deliberate irregularities, he owes it to the city to produce the evidence so that proper measures can be taken. But if he cannot document them, then we think he owes the city an apology. The word "irregularities" is getting too easy to toss around.

It is unfortunate that the recount was not sought without casting suspicion. If there is something wrong, the recount should show it.

It is also unfortunate that Mr. Hannon and Mr. LaRaia are now engaged in sniping at one another. The campaign itself didn't get that heated up. But they now have the gloves off and anything seems to go.

One thing we cannot understand in this post-election controversy is Mr. LaRaia trying to tie Mr. Hannon to former President Nixon.

Whether Mr. Hannon was or was not a coordinator for Nixon has nothing to do with a Quincy city election. It is like saying that everyone who voted for Nixon is guilty of Watergate. There must have been some people who voted for the former President who also voted for Mr. Hannon or Mr. LaRaia last week. Does that tarnish their votes?

Mr. Hannon meanwhile, could do a better job at keeping his cool. Granted it is an emotional experience for him, too, but name calling does not go with the office of mayor.

The recount will decide whether Mr. Hannon's election is upheld or whether Mr. LaRaia is really the winner. That's what recounts are for.

It was one of the closest mayoral races in the city's history. That's a healthy sign. It means that no one owns the city.

Mr. LaRaia, who was the underdog, deserves credit for making it such a close race. If the recount upholds Mr. Hannon's election, it should make him a better mayor the next two years. He certainly was not given a mandate at the polls. He would have to face the fact that the 34,386 voters who went to the polls were virtually split as to who they wanted as their chief executive.

He was almost No. 2. He would have to work harder.

But unfortunately that cloud of suspicion will hang over the city for sometime whether the charges of irregularities are proven or not.

The recount will show whether Mr. Hannon or Mr. LaRaia is the real winner.

But, Quincy still comes out of it with a blackeye.

LETTER BOX

Comments On Hannon Article

Editor, Quincy Sun:

It was interesting to read your Quincy Sun editorial description [Nov. 6] of the mayor as a man.

Six years ago, when he was nearly defeated as Ward 5 councillor, it seemed to several of us, at the precinct level, that he was but an important cog in a well-oiled political machine. Later it appeared patly convenient that Quincy should have a Republican mayor, coinciding with the party affiliation of our governor and president.

I remember that Adolf Hitler, too, had that special quality of being candid. His projections for The Third Reich in "Mein Kampf" may resemble those of "Quincy Tomorrow" and The Hilgenhurst Report, but that is purely coincidental. There was no doubt as to the boss in Nazi Germany.

Perhaps, if the mayor personally paid for the Quincy Heritage staff and stuff, as well as for his new Office of Communications, the public would not be so sick of the "Gifts" it is being served.

Popularity is a strangely fleeting phenomenon. With less identity confusion, there just might have been greater plurality in both instances. But, who knows? I'm mindful of the old adage: "The more things change, the more they stay the same."

Those 388 Mayoral Blanks

By HENRY BOSWORTH

Post-election question: Wonder what those 388 voters who cast blanks in the mayoral contest are thinking these days?

They could have elected Joseph LaRaia mayor or given Mayor Walter Hannon a more comfortable margin.

If 135 of them had voted for LaRaia and the others still cast blanks, he would have won by one vote. [Subject to a recount.]

If 261 of them had voted for LaRaia and 127 for Hannon, the pair would have tied.

If 262 of them had voted for LaRaia and 126 for Hannon, LaRaia would have won by one vote.

If LaRaia had gotten all of the blanks, he would have won by 254 votes.

If Hannon had received all of the blanks, he would have won by 522 votes.

If Hannon had gotten 227 of the blanks and LaRaia had received 161, Hannon would have won by a 200 vote margin which would have made it much more comfortable.

Regardless of the math combinations, the 388 could have made a big difference.

THE 134-VOTE margin in the mayoral race surprised just about everyone. Hannon supporters thought their man would win by at least 2,000. LaRaia followers thought he would take it by 1,500 to 2,000.

BUT AS WE look back on it, The Sun called the shot in its Oct. 30 issue—the final issue before the election with this headline: "Mayoral Race Close—Hannon Given Edge."

THE BIGGEST SURPRISE in the election outside of the closeness of the mayoral race, was the vote-getting strength of Paul Harold, making his third bid for office.

Harold polled 19,125 votes for councillor at-large-only 1,328 behind perennial powerhouse Arthur Tobin who topped the entire ballot with 20,453 votes. Harold, in nailing down the No. 2 spot in the three-seat at-large race, finished 1,938 ahead of John Quinn, the "dean" of the council who was re-elected to a record 10th term.

Going into the campaign home stretch most observers saw a close battle between Harold and Harold Davis and gave the latter the edge. Davis finished fourth—408 votes behind Quinn and 2,346 behind Harold.

SPEAKING OF HAROLD, his campaign workers took up a collection for him at a victory party election night. They gave him $50 to buy a new gray suit, to replace the one he wore out during the campaign. Harold, however, presented the $50 to the Quincy Citizens Association to start a scholarship fund in honor of Rep. Joseph Brett.

WHICH REMINDS ME, Harold and Tom Mullaney, unsuccessful candidate for school committee, were among the "good sports" at the reception the other night for Marilyn Hanabury, candidate for state representative in the Fourth Norfolk District. Harold and Mullaney joined the chorus line in the entertainment part of the program, rolling up their trousers and donning garters.

TIRED OF YOUR job? Well, take a look at this anonymous observation passed along by Francis McNally, staff manager at John Hancock Insurance Co's Quincy Office:

"Be thankful for the troubles of your job. They provide about half of your income. If it weren't for the things that go wrong, the difficult people you have to deal with and the problems and unpleasantness of your working day, someone could be found to handle your job for half of what you're being paid."

AND THIS OBSERVATION from the Quincy Kiwanis Club newsletter: "Try to live within your income—it's easier than living without one."

Recount Shows Coolidge Tops Dever Here

By PAUL HAROLD

Upon re-checking the votes of last week's election, City Clerk Hattianay Thomas announced that Arthur Coolidge defeated Paul Dever for Governor by 82 votes in Quincy.

A re-check of the returns showed a 500-vote mistake. Mrs. Thomas said the mistake probably resulted when blank votes were being transferred. Ballots were impounded because Fred Ayer, candidate for Attorney General was considering a recount.

DOUGHBOY STATUE RE-DEDICATED

The Doughboy Statue, Quincy's World War I monument was re-dedicated this week at its new location on the lawn of the Adams Academy.

The bronze statue was designed by Quincy veteran Bruce Wilder Saville. It originally stood in front of the Coddington School.

Unveiling the statue at the re-dedication was Mrs. Victoria Morrisette of West Quincy, mother of Cyril Morrisette, the first Quincy boy killed in the war and for whom Morrisette Legion Post was named. Charles Ross, president of the City Council made the dedication address.

CORNERSTONE LAID AT WOLLASTON LUTHERAN

The cornerstone was laid for the new $80,000 addition to the Wollaston Lutheran Church at Hancock St. and Ellington Rd.

The cornerstone was actually the original stone laid in 1934 with the date 1950 added. When finished, the addition would furnish a superstructure above the basement church building. On hand for the ceremony were members of the building committee: Rudolph Sittinger, chairman, Robert Just, Lawrence Ordway, Gunnar Munick, Alfred Finger and pastor Rev. Elmer Kettner.

SQUANTUM WOMEN URGED TO FIGHT POLLUTION OF BAY

Mrs. William Voight, president of the Squantum Women's Club, urged members to attend the public hearings on pollution of Quincy Bay in the State House.

"Pollution is such a vital problem to the people of Squantum that residents should make a special effort to attend the hearings," she said.

"Years ago the sewerage at Moon Island was dumped into the water only on the turn of the outgoing tide. Today with added accumulation, dumping occurs about every two hours with the result that the shore and waters of the bay are a disgrace."

SNUG HARBOR BUILDING SOUGHT FOR COMMUNITY CENTER

Members of the Snug Harbor Improvement Association petitioned Frederick Roche, chairman of the state housing board, for use of the Sailors' Snug Harbor building for a community center. The association proposed to maintain the building at its own expense, with no cost to the housing authority.

The Quincy Housing Authority meanwhile was considering the possible use of the building as an administration and maintenance headquarters.

BIDS TO BE MADE FOR FENNO ST. FILLING

Public Works Commissioner Charles Herbert announced the city will advertise for bids to pump sand and gravel from Quincy Bay to fill the site for the new Fenno St. school. Herbert said if the bids were too high, truck-hauled fill would be used instead. It was estimated that the level of the Fenno St. site had to be raised eight feet.

BUILDING A REGIONAL ECONOMY

Think Well, Speak Well, Do Well

By ERIC SWIDER

The other day I found a pre-Great Society training manual for Chamber of Commerce executives that started me laughing and then thinking seriously about its message.

It was written in the hey-day of back-slapping, tub-thumping organization management and suggested a step-by-step way to put together a slide show and script that talked about the positive aspects of life and business in Anytown, USA.

The slide show is to end with these four slides... 1. Think Well. 2. Speak Well. 3. Do Well. 4. For Anytown, USA.

My first feeling after reading the whole thing through was to use the book as the starter for my next fire. Then it occurred to me that maybe the message it delivered was something we've basically forgotten and should start anew - as Chamber of Commerce types, concerned citizens and just people - to consider and reconsider.

For years we've concentrated on what's wrong with our society, our community, our lives and have attempted to write programs and legislation to make them better. The sure thing about asking What's Wrong is that you, I and everybody else can come up with a list a mile long. When you ask What's Right, well maybe that's a little bit harder.

I recall my brief stay in Ohio and the positive Buckeye mentality. A few days there and you had been told by almost everyone you met that Ohio was a fantastic place to live, "we are the Real Americans," "isn't this beautiful country," etc. Jim "Profit is not a dirty word in Ohio", Rhodes was the governor and the only negative comments out of his lips were about somebody else's State. As I recall, almost everyone was constantly reinforcing their imagery of Ohio and pretty soon, I was a Buckeye and damn proud of it.

Now, I'm a Bay Stater, and I do what everyone else does—complain. You name it, and I complain about it, and so do you. Our Governor complains, our Legislators complain, our business leaders complain, and what about? The price of living, the price of being poor, the price of being rich, the price of being sick, the price of dying, the price of commuting, the price of having no place to commute to.

Maybe, as the best advertising campaign that's come down the pike this year suggests, it's time we put price and pride back together.

The next time that somebody calls it Taxachusetts, we should lay them flat.

The next time somebody moans about the Southeast Expressway, we should tell them about the MBTA and the commuter boat and shut them off.

The next time somebody says they can't find a job, we should hand them the "Help Wanted" ads.

The next time somebody says there's nothing to do, we should give them a copy of this newspaper, where there are lists of at least a dozen free things to do this week.

As I look around me - at Quincy, Braintree, Weymouth, Hingham, Cohasset, Scituate, Rockland, Hanover, Norwell, Rockland, Randolph, Holbrook, Canton, Milton, Marshfield, Duxbury, etc. and compare them with Columbus, Springfield and Piqua, Ohio, I all of a sudden realize that we are our own worst enemies. The most beautiful turf on the face of this earth is where you and I live, and we and our leadership at all levels have become so befuddled in trying to make it better by asking what's wrong with it, that we've failed to really take pride in what's right with it.

Can a person from Tiffin, Ohio ever regularly enjoy a walk along a desolate ocean beach, the historical sites where the people who made liberty possible did their thing, or the culture and dynamics of Boston? No, but then, do we? Are we too busy reading our area's obituary in the Boston Globe or being sensationalized with crisis on the tube?

Think well, speak well, do well for good old....., may be corny as hell, but just saying it—already I feel better.

[Eric Swider is Executive Vice-President of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce]

LIVING TODAY

A Romantic Marriage With Realism

By DR. WILLIAM F. KNOX

Dream your dreams ... wish on your stars ... carry your lucky charm ... but all the time keep the facts before you ... be realistic. Are you one of those persons who buys the Game ticket every week? Good luck to you. But all the time keep working ... be realistic. MONEY is a very down to earth fact of life. Not many people get it without working for it. Since it is a fact of life, and you can't get along very well without some, don't treat lightly your opportunities of earning money. In our times of economic distress we need to be very realistic about money.

Be realistic about your MARRIAGE RELATIONSHIP. It is very easy to stick ones head in the sand and not realize that your marriage is either the most precious possession you have ... or your ball and chain around your leg. When you are realistic, you know which it is ... whether it is a relationship which is enhancing your growth as a person ... or whether it is a relationship which is laying on you so heavily that you can't grow. Marriage should be a means of greater blockage to your future. Be realistic about your marriage. If it's helped to make you grow as a person ... make possible the meeting of your needs as a person ... enhance your relationship with other people, encourage you to use your talents and improve them in their use, then you have a marriage which you should cherish ... nurture ... and protect at all costs. Being happily married is still the ideal status. Being unhappily married carries the seeds of self-destruction. Only the masochist continues to let a relationship destroy him/her. Know what's really happening to you.

But why not put together into a meaningful life the dreams and the facts? Do we have to choose one or the other ... can't there be a combination of both your dreams and realism?

I think we can. Recognize that every GREAT thing that happens began in the human mind. The Constitution of the United States ... the Brooklyn bridge ... your marriage. The idea is born in the mind ... and is lived out. Therefore, it is necessary that there be the dreams ... the goals ... the plans. And this a big shortcoming in most marriages ... lack of a plan and goals for the marriage, as it moves from one stage to the next.

It is possible to maintain a romantic relationship in the marriage if both recognize their common goals and allow for the need for each to be free persons. My friends, Mr. and Mrs. Allen, married 60 years ... now in their 80's, call each other "sweetheart" ... "darling" ... as he lays a laprobe over her arthritic knees. The dreams of their early years had changed ... and now in their last stage of life, having been through all the other difficult stages, their love sustains even when the arthritis cripples the knees.

Old School Desks, Chairs To Be Sold

Combination desks and chairs from the Quincy Public Schools will be offered for sale by the Purchasing Department Saturday, Nov. 15 and 22, at the Squantum School.

The used desks will be sold at the rear of the school, located on Huckins Ave., Squantum, between the hours of 9 and 11 a.m.

The desk combinations are being sold as they become available under the school system's five-year program to replace all student furniture over 40 years old.

According to Purchasing Agent, Richard Buckley, these items are easily refinished and serve a variety of useful purposes.

Honorable Thomas W. McGee Speaker's Room
State House
Boston, Mass.
Dear Mr. Speaker:
It is my contention that the duties and responsibilities have increased heavily during the past few critical years.
Because of this, I have long advocated that our State Representatives should be elected as FULL TIME representatives of the people they will represent, unencumbered by other occupations or duties.
Since I am now a candidate for State Representative of the Fourth Norfolk District in this years special election, I hereby pledge to you sir, that I will serve my constituency as a FULL TIME State Representative, in an aggressive and responsible manner at all times.
Most Respectfully yours,
Herbert Reppucci

Special Primary For State Representative

he has been a member of that party for one year.

But Higuera says - and state election officials confirm - he needs only 10 per cent of the registered American Party voters in the Fourth Norfolk District to land a place on the final ballot.

According to Asst. City Clerk Thomas Burke, Higuera is the only registered member of the American Party in the Fourth Norfolk District. He will need, then, only one vote - his own - to assure himself a place on that final election ballot.

The Fourth Norfolk District encompasses West Quincy, Wollaston Hill, parts of Wollaston on the Albion Rd side and parts of Montclair.

Voters in 11 Quincy precincts will be eligible to cast ballots in the state primary. Since this is a STATE, not a city, election, the STATE designation of ward and precinct apply. The Fourth Norfolk District wards and precincts are as follows: Ward 4, Precincts 1, 2, 3 and 4; Ward 5, Precincts 1, 2, 3, 6, 7 and 8; Ward 6, Precinct 8.

State and city polling designations in the Fourth Norfolk District are the same with the following five exceptions:

Ward 5, Precinct 2 in the state election is Ward 3, Precinct 5 in the city election.

Ward 5, Precinct 6 in the state election is Ward 3, Precinct 4 in the city election.

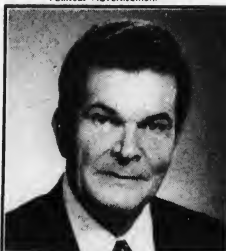

Ward 5, Precinct 7 in the state election is Ward 5, Precinct 2 in the city election.

Ward 5, Precinct 8 in the state election is Ward 3, Precinct 3 in the city election.

Ward 6, Precinct 8 in the state election is Ward 3, Precinct 6 in the city election.

Mayoral Recount Not Before Nov. 22

fourth, trailing John J. Quinn by 408 votes.

Davis told The Quincy Sun he is "90 per cent sure" he will file for a recount. According to Gillis, that tabulation - at a large recount - could take place at the same time as the mayoral recount, a city-wide vote.

Although law requires an unsuccessful challenger to obtain 10 signatures in each ward to file for a recount, Robert McCarthy, LaRaia's press secretary, said the city councillor is compiling 10 signatures in each precinct as a safeguard. Obtaining these added signatures has apparently caused the delay in LaRaia's filing for a recount.

Mayor Hannon, dejected and weary after an election he labelled "the rottenest I've been in," said charges of alleged "irregularities" at the election polls has cast "a cloud of suspicion over the city." Never referring to his challenger by name, Hannon said:

"I had a recount with Bill Delahunt in a Ward 5 council race and nobody knew about it. Leo Kelly and Dennis Harrington had recounts two years ago and they never charged fraud or deceit. He [LaRaia] puts - as he has before - a whole cloud of suspicion over the city."

LaRaia, reached early Tuesday morning for comment after repeated messages and unreturned phone calls Monday, would only answer "No comment" to all Quincy Sun questions.

But McCarthy said the LaRaia camp is not issuing any accusation at this point. Though acknowledging LaRaia supporters are cataloging reports of alleged "irregularities" at the polls, McCarthy said supporters plan to investigate the reports to substantiate or refute them. He told The Quincy Sun:

"We're not trying to place blame on anyone. We don't know whether these irregularities occurred for a fact. Some charges are hearsay - which doesn't do any good - some could be intentional, some accidental...It's really all in the hands of the attorneys."

Gillis, who ordered the ballot boxes impounded for 30 days on election evening, requested a police department investigation of all irregularities alleged by the LaRaia camp.

Lt. David Rowell, heading the probe, told The Sun he contacted LaRaia headquarters to obtain information on the alleged wrongdoings at the polls but has received as yet no report from the LaRaia camp.

Rowell is also investigating allegations made by Hannon that beer was sold without a permit at an Oct. 12 party held by two Quincy police officers at the Fore River Club House. Hannon contends the party was a reception for LaRaia but LaRaia denies any connection with the party, saying he merely "dropped in" on the party.

Rowell said the investigation into the party is not yet complete.

Since the wee morning hours of election night, the impounded ballot boxes, locked in a sealed safe in City Hall, have been under the surveillance of a round-the-clock Quincy police guard. LaRaia supporters are also stationed by the safe as observers, rotating on four hour shifts.

Hannon, declining an invitation by Police Chief Francis X. Finn to post his own observers at the safe, said he has "complete faith" in the police department.

McCarthy insists the LaRaia observers are not "guarding the police" but "ensuring the security of the ballots", since Finn is recorded in October financial reports filed with the city election department as contributing $50 to the Hannon campaign. McCarthy said:

"Chief Finn is a financial contributor of the mayor. Chief Finn sets policy for the police department. We have our representative there to ensure the security of the ballots. We're not questioning by any means the integrity of the police or the personnel but we feel more comfortable having our own representative there, knowing that Chief Finn is a contributor to the Hannon campaign and is therefore not an impartial party."

Commenting on the tenor of the entire election campaign, Hannon, appearing disheartened and disillusioned, called the campaign "the rottenest I've been in," He said:

"I could have gotten down in the gutter with him [LaRaia] but I refused to...All your instincts are telling you to fight back but you're the mayor. There's a certain amount of dignity involved and I just refused to get in the gutter with him."

Obviously disappointed with his slim victory among the voters of Quincy, Hannon said:

"If you take no stand, if you do nothing, that is the avenue to political success. I've said it before and I'll say it again: I don't get paid $25,000 to straddle the fence. I'll never do that...Seventeen thousand people voted for me but 16,900 didn't. It's disillusioning."

In filing for his recount, Hickey said he is not charging any "irregularities" at the polls. Urged by supporters to request a recount, Hickey said:

"I put a lot of effort into the election and I feel I owe it to the people who supported me to seek a recount. I don't want to go through my whole life wondering...I don't know whether the recount will turn the election around...Who knows, it may get worse. But if I can pick up 70 votes, I'll be the winner."

Davis, though not optimistic a recount will change the outcome of the election, said he wanted "to satisfy myself and my supporters" and confirmed he will "probably" file for a recount.

"I'm 90 per cent sure I'll file," he said.

Since the ballot boxes will be impounded until early December, Gillis said the city will borrow ballot boxes from Braintree and Randolph to conduct the Nov. 18 special state primary to elect a Fourth Norfolk District representative.

Gillis said there will be no cost to borrow the ballot boxes.

SSIAC To Meet Nov. 20

The South Shore Inter Agency Council (SSIAC) will hold its second quarterly meeting Thursday, Nov. 20 at 3 p.m. in the Adams Room of the Quincy Savings Bank, 1200 Hancock St., Quincy Center.

Gene Sirotni, Brockton-New Bedford Regional Coordinator of the Department of Public Welfare's Purchase of Services Unit, will speak on the new federally-funded Title XX program.

Sirotni will review the development of the Title XX program while specifying what funds are available and how human service agencies can tap into them. Sirotni will also comment on the pros and cons of Title XX in relation to what it did and did not do. There will be ample time for discussion of the issues and questions from the floor.

The South Shore Inter Agency Council was founded in 1964 to provide members with an opportunity to become better acquainted with each other, to provide assistance in the resolution of mutual problems, to outline the needs of the community, and to improve the available local and regional resources of the area.

Persons interested in Inter-Agency Council membership and in attending the meeting of November 20 should contact John Allen at 471-1600.

COMMUNITY SERVICE AWARDS -- Representatives of the Quincy news media received community service awards from the Quincy Lions Club at a recent luncheon meeting. U.S. Bicentennial Calendar Available At Heritage Visitors Center

The nation's comprehensive calendar of Bicentennial events is now available at the Quincy Heritage Visitors' Center in the Quincy Center MBTA station.

Published by the American Revolution Bicentennial Administration in Washington, D.C., the calendar lists special observances and programs throughout the United States.

"If people plan to visit other parts of the country, we encourage them to take a look at the country's official Bicentennial calendar," said John R. Graham, Quincy Heritage executive director.

Each Bicentennial community is only provided one copy of the calendar which was produced by computer from data gathered from individual communities across the country.

John Bohan Marine Recruit Grad

Marine Private John F. Bohan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph M. Bohan of 200 Taffrail

Events are listed by date which Graham said makes it much easier for people to use the calendar. "If people are going on vacation, they can see what's happening while they are in a particular area," he said.

Several Bicentennial events which will take place in Quincy are listed in the calendar.

Road, Germantown, has graduated from recruit training at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot, Parris Island, S.C.

MONEY TALKS

What are we doing to beat inflation?

By Philip J. Lawrence, President
Colonial Federal Savings
And Loan Association
of Quincy, Holbrook and Wareham
8 - 6 Weekdays 8 - 7:30 Thursdays

After reading our columns for some time, one of our acquaintances asked how we proposed to beat inflation. While he did not use the words, we got the impression he was saying, "All right, wise guy, what would YOU do?"

From a family point of view, beating inflation means husbanding our resources, living within our means, making the most of what we've got.

First of all, this means saving some of the money we earn. Saving is not unpatriotic. It never was. Saving did not cause inflation. Overspending did. If to preserve our capitalistic economy it becomes necessary for every family to spend itself into indebtedness, we are on the short road to fascism or national socialism.

Secondly, it means cutting out some of the fatty portions of the family budget. Food accounts for at least one-fifth of the average family expenditures. We are told that almost half of supermarket purchases are made on impulse; that is, they were not considered as necessities when the shopper ventured out to provide for the family's meals. A shopping list of necessities rigidly adhered to would help to cut down on needless food consumption—much of which may not be especially healthful, anyway.

Watching for bargains, measuring quantity against price [using a pocket calculator if necessary], recognizing brand differences in terms of quality and "watering", saving aluminum and plastic wraps for reuse, putting the kids' lunches into saved bread and other packagings—these are just some of the ways of tackling food expenditures, combating inflation by having cheaper money go further. A portion of the garden now in grass or flowers could help to provide table vegetables.

Other household ways of trimming the "fat" include making do with what the family has rather than replacing it. It seems that children these days have been educated by television to become bored with the old and to clamor for the new. Look at the rust spots on the car; let's get a new one. Why can't we have a refug that makes its own ice cubes? Let's get a color TV with a big screen.

It doesn't take much dexterity or intelligence to acquire a do-it-yourself approach to home maintenance and repair. A home owner soon discovers he is much more assiduous in caulking and scraping than a painter who was hired to do the job. The increasing sales of sewing machines indicate homemakers are finding that repairs prolong the life of clothes and that making one's own is not only economical but creative as well.

These are some of the ways a family fights inflation. We ask ourselves how we—and the nation—ever got seduced by the notion that there was another way of doing it.

Hobby Show Planned Nov. 21

At Atlantic Memorial Congregational

The second annual Hobby Show will be held at Memorial Congregational Church, 65 Newbury Ave., North Quincy, Friday, Nov. 21 at 7 p.m., featuring more than 25 exhibitors. Mrs. Lucy Toohy will show a large collection of dolls, as will Mrs. Margaret Rae. Mrs. Richard Gilliland will present a display of postcards - then and now. Mrs. Doris Oberg will display a wide variety of articles handcrafted with needles and items with a grape design. She will also have photographs on exhibit.

Rev. Douglas MacIntosh will exhibit many Eskimo articles sent by his son, Alex, who is teaching Eskimos in the North. Mrs. MacIntosh will have numerous items pertaining to birds on her table. There will be a large collection of paper weights shown by Mrs. Arthur Whitehead. Mrs. John Kennedy will exhibit Tobey jugs and tiles. Mrs. Ralph Smith is showing a collection of shoes.

For those interested in china, there will be displays of cups and saucers by Mrs. Stanley Henderson, sugars and creamers by Barbara DeWolfe, and an exhibit of Wedgwood by Mrs. Josephine Paronich.

Miss Carolyn Marks will exhibit her stamp collection and rope work. Two very young exhibitors will be Sian and Dawn Graham, showing their collection of hankies and scarves.

There will also be working hobbies, including chair caning by Walter Martin, cake decorating by Mrs. Spencer Graham, Bicentennial models by Raymond Thayer, a ham radio operated by Irving Grant, leather work by Thomas H. Williamson, and patchwork by Mrs. Doris Ryder. A continuous travel slide presentation on Scotland will be shown by Ena Fredette.

Door prizes will be drawn during the evening. Refreshments will be available.

Pressure Still On As Raiders Host Brockton

By TOM SULLIVAN

If North Quincy's football team makes the Division One Super Bowl next month and wins its first Suburban League title, a great deal of the credit will go to the Raiders' cool junior place kicker, Ed McLaney.

Unbeaten North [7-0-0 and enjoying a big lead in Division One] knocked off two of its closest contenders the last two weeks and in each case McLaney won for the Raiders with field goals in overtime.

Two weeks ago his 20-yarder defeated previously unbeaten Brookline, 9-6, on North's final play in the tie-breaker.

Last Saturday North invaded Waltham's Leary Field to meet the once-beaten Hawks, rated by many as the strongest club in the Suburban League. This time McLaney kicked an 18-yarder on the Raiders' fourth down for a 17-14 win.

North's seventh straight win was its biggest of the year for two reasons, the game was in Waltham and North played without its ace ball carrier, Brian Doherty, who had gained 608 yards in the six previous games. North also had to come from behind twice. A hip pointer kept Doherty on the sidelines, but he is expected back Saturday when North hosts Brockton in a 1:30 game at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

Although Brockton is only 5-3 on the season, it won its last two, 34-14, over Lominster and 14-13 over Quincy last week, and is capable of exploding on any given day.

"I can't take many more of these games," said a delighted Coach Dave Burke. "These kids are fantastic, they just won't be beaten. They gave up two touchdowns on passes in the first half but the secondary tightened up in the last two periods and the defense was outstanding, as usual."

"But our offensive line, which hasn't received the recognition it deserves, was terrific, as it has been all year long. It is out-weighted by plenty in every game but it keeps opening up the holes for our backs."

Burke hailed the entire offensive line. Cooper Jordan, Paul Santoro, Rich Marre, Bruce Hall, Mike Nee, Harry Knudsen and Mike Kelly. "Our backs couldn't be doing what they are if these boys weren't doing their job up front," Burke said.

With Doherty out of action, Burke used Jack Hatfield on offense for the first time and he and George Wallace alternated in Doherty's spot and ran well. Matty Constantino ran more than usual and gained 79 yards as North picked up 172 yards on the ground.

"I can't say enough for McLaney," Burke continued. "He's cool as a cucumber and has a lot of confidence in himself. And we coaches are just as confident. And, remember, he does a great job on defense as well." Also a standout punter, he got off kicks of 62 and 55 yards at Waltham.

JUNIOR ED McLANEY is fast becoming a legend at North Quincy High. Last Saturday he gave the Raiders an overtime win with a field goal for the second week in a row. Here he is shown kicking barefooted as he does on attempts from 20 yards or more. However, both his game-winning field goals were kicked with his shoe on.

"Hatfield and Wallace did a good job and Constantino and Mike Adams were tremendous," offensive backfield coach Tom Fitzgerald said. "Mike Holleran had a sub-par first half but came back strong and did a beautiful job directing an 80-yard march for our second touchdown."

Defensive coach Dick Meyer had kind words for the entire defense, citing ends Jim Cooney, Pete Hemphill and Mark Wentzell, tackles John Ryan and Alf McHugh, line backers John Desmond, Frank Strazulla and John McKenna, cornermen Rich Kennedy, John Collins and Constantino, who filled in there, and safety men Hatfield, McLaney and Paul McGuigan.

Waltham took a 7-0 lead with a touchdown pass in the opening period but North came back early in the second period when Jordan made a sensational leaping catch of a pass for the touchdown and McLaney kicked the point. An outstanding scooping catch of a pass by Kelly set up the 15-yard scoring pass. Waltham scored on another pass for a 14-7 halftime lead. Both Waltham passes were from Ray Russo to Mike Gaudet and Gaudet kicked both points. Holleran's touchdown pass was his sixth of the year and it was Jordan's fifth touchdown reception.

Holleran directed an 80-yard march which started late in the third period and culminated early in the final quarter with a 10-yard run by Adams. McLaney again kicked the tying point, giving him 13 for 14 in conversion kicks. A long touchdown pass to Kelly was nullified by an offside penalty. Waltham won the toss in the tie breaker and elected to take the first crack from North's 10. On fourth down Gaudet tried a field goal but it was short and Hatfield returned it 100 plus yards for what the North coaches said should have been a touchdown. The officials, apparently confused, decided it was no touchdown after a conference and the Raiders got their chance.

North lost four yards but Constantino raced 13 yards to the one and on fourth down McLaney kicked his third field goal of the year.

Nicoll Resigns As ENC Soccer Coach

Neil Nicoll, head soccer coach at Eastern Nazarene College for the past four years, resigned following the conclusion of the 1975 season.

Nicoll's four-year ENC record was 31 wins, 17 losses and five ties. The Crusaders play in the Colonial Soccer Conference with Southeastern Mass. University, Gordon College, Barrington College and Nasson College.

Nicoll's teams have participated in three post-season tournaments including District 32 of the NAIA in 1973.

Nicoll has accepted the position of executive director of the YMCAs of Prince George County, Washington, D.C. He will assume his new position Dec. 8. He currently is director of the Dorchester YMCA.

Nicoll is a graduate of Braintree High School. His undergraduate degree was earned at Eastern Nazarene and a Masters Degree was earned from Springfield College. He is married to the former Anita Shoff and they have a daughter, Kimberly.

Raiderette Swimmers Defeat First Ladies, 94-77

North Quincy High School has a new city champion this week.

It is the girls' swimming team which, in the first meet ever between the rival schools, defeated Quincy, 94-77.

This is the first year for girls' swimming in the two schools and a good crowd watched the meet. Pre-meet ceremonies were held at the Lincoln Hancock natatorium with city officials and others in attendance.

The meet was close with many interesting events and Quincy, coached by Elaine Murphy, held the lead through the first four events before the Raiderettes, coached by Bill Walker, took the lead by dominating the diving and they led the rest of the way.

Quincy's winners were the 200-yard medley relay team of Sue Murphy, Terri Finnegan, Sheila Burke and Kathy Ryan; Burke in the 200-yard freestyle and 100-yard backstroke. Tricia Kussman in the 200-yard individual medley and 100-yard butterfly, Finnegan in the 100-yard breaststroke and the 400-yard free relay team of Jayne Collins, Ryan, Kussman and Finnegan.

North Quincy winners were Jeanine Rich in the 50-yard freestyle, Judy Rich in the diving, Maureen Santry in the 100-yard freestyle and Linda Walker in the 500-yard freestyle.

Finishing second, for North were the 200-yard medley relay team of Barbara Toland, Kathy O'Hara, Jeanine Rich and Pam Henry; Santry in the 200-yard freestyle, Walker in the 200-yard individual medley, Janice O'Toole in the 50-yard freestyle, Donna Walsh in the 100-yard butterfly; Betsy Johnson, 500-yard freestyle, Bernadette Feeney, 100-yard backstroke, Jody Rich, 100-yard breaststroke, and the 400-yard free relay team of Lee Gullage, Betsy Johnson, Santry and Linda Wilkens.

Second place finishers for Quincy were Murphy, diving and Ryan, 100-yard freestyle.

North's third place finishers were the 200-yard medley relay team of Feeney, Jody Rich, Walsh and Gullage; Johnson, 200-yard freestyle; Ingrid Page, diving; O'Toole, 100-yard backstroke; Burke, 100-yard breaststroke and the 400-yard free relay team of Burke, Lorraine Conroy, Linda Caruso and O'Toole.

Quincy's third places were taken by Jane Morrison, 200-yard individual medley and 500-yard freestyle; Collins, 100-yard freestyle and Gail Morrison, 50-yard freestyle.

Joseph A. Yeskewicz was the referee, Ross Thompson and Jack Sullivan judges and William Wentworth scorer.

Raiderettes Drop 2 Matches In Volleyball

The North Quincy girls' volleyball team dropped matches to Brookline and Cambridge Latin last week but played well and showed marked improvement despite the losses.

Outstanding for the Raiderettes against Brookline were Co-Capt. Elaine Shea and Nancy Willard, while Marcia Crowell, Marion Rideout, Jeanne Doherty and Marie Duggan played well.

In the Cambridge Latin match Debbie Durkin came off the bench to spark a rally which almost pulled out an upset win.

The North girls will cross the city to Quincy Vo-Tech gym Friday to meet the First Ladies.

Hard Luck Presidents Meet Brookline

Quincy's football team has lost some heartbreakers in the past but the Presidents seldom have dropped a tougher game than they did last Saturday to Brockton.

Coach Hank Conroy's big job this week is to bring them back "up" for Saturday's meeting with once-beaten Brookline at Brookline's field. The Suburban League game will start at 1:30 P.M.

Quincy, giving an outstanding defensive performance, had a big win over Brockton in its grasp last week at Veterans Memorial Stadium only to have the Boxers bounce back with two last period touchdowns to pull out a 14-13 league decision.

Quincy's defense was working overtime as the Presidents again had trouble mustering a drive and, as a result, the defense seemed to always be on the field.

Except for two touchdown runs, Brockton's top runner, Phil Johnson, was contained well by the Quincy defense. Quincy held the Boxers to a net gain of 35 yards on the ground in the first half and Brockton had 41 yards passing, 34 on one pass on which the receiver grabbed the ball out of a Quincy's defender's hands.

Quincy's defense continued to shine in the last two periods but a fumble and pass interception late in the game spoiled its efforts and led the winning Brockton touchdown.

The defense was just great but again we couldn't muster a consistent drive," a disappointed Conroy said. "When we did get rolling, we fumbled the ball away. The fumble near the end and an additional 15-yard penalty [a personal foul call on a Quincy player], really hurt us."

"The entire defensive club did a terrific job and it was a real team effort all the way on defense. But John Riggs and Mike Carloni came up with some particularly good hits and Pat Gibbons was outstanding on pass defense. When we messed up on our second conversion attempt, that really hurt us, also," Mike Murray came up with two key fumble recoveries.

On offense Conroy cited Paul Vespaziani, who scored both touchdowns, one on a 57-yard run. He also hailed the play of Kevin Donovan at end.

Neither team passed well as Quincy's Mark Buchanan hit on only two of 10 for 51 yards and had three intercepted. Brockton had only three for 19 for 47 yards.

Quincy's defense proved at the start it was on its game and the Presidents got a big break midway in the first period when a bad pass from center on a fourth down punt situation gave them the ball on Brockton's one-yard line. On the second play Vespaziani scored and Murray kicked the point.

That score held up for the half as Quincy continually dug in and held the visitors.

Brockton kicked off in the second half and on the third play Vespaziani broke through the middle, shook off several tacklers and went 57 yards to make it 13-0. A bad pass from center prevented Murray from kicking what would have been a BIG point.

Quincy took the 13-0 lead into the final period but Johnson returned a Lenny Picot punt [the sophomore did some excellent punting] from his 45 to Quincy's 35. Two plays later Johnson finally broke loose and raced 31 yards for the touchdown and Mike Damiano kicked the point.

When Donovan caught a pass for 42 yards, tipped into his hands by a Brockton defender, to Brockton's 43, things looked bright but the Presidents fumbled on the second play, the Boxers recovering.

The 15-yard personal foul penalty moved Brockton to the Quincy 42 and a spectacular diving catch of a pass by Danny Colombo, son of the coach, gave Brockton the ball on Quincy's 16. Two plays later Johnson scored the tying touchdown from the 14 and Damiano kicked the winning point.

Quincy's last chance went out the window when Johnson intercepted a pass and returned it to his 38 and the Boxers ran out the clock.

Quincy Symphony To Offer Season Tickets

Andrew Walsh, president of the Quincy Symphony Orchestra, announces that for the first time in several years season tickets will be offered to the general public for the 1975-76 season.

A new approach will be used in the form of discount prices for the series of four concerts to be performed.

The orchestra will present the Nutcracker Ballet Suite, featuring the Metropolitan Civic Ballet Company of Newton Dec. 13-14; the Mid-Winter Concert Feb. 11; Youth Performs Concert April 7, and the Quincy Pops May 20.

All performances will take place at North Quincy High School with the exception of the Quincy Pops which will be held at the Bryan VFW Post, Broad St., Quincy.

The price for season tickets, per person, for the series of four concerts is $8.50 for adults and $6 for senior citizens, students and children under 12.

Tickets may be purchased by sending a check to: Quincy Symphony Orchestra, c/o Lance McLaughlin, Business Manager, 146 Washington St., Quincy, Mass. 02169.
